Previous agencies may release assessment information and home studies to the new agency regarding the family. Licenses issued by the new agency shall be considered new licenses and shall conform to these standards. It is the responsibility of the new agency to review the information provided by the previous agencies. This review shall be documented by the new agency. Some information must be released to persons outside the agency. IV-D staff will exercise caution in releasing information on a Title IV-D case. Information should be released only after the identity of the requestor and the right to receive the information is clearly established. They are not entitled to receive information that relates to the state's legal strategy or is otherwise protected by federal and state laws.

(2) Information may be released per the operational requirements of the program, subject to federal and state laws on confidentiality. Other agencies/requesters include, but are not limited to: district courts, credit reporting agencies, tax intercept programs, financial institutions, other Title IV agencies, medicaid agencies, authorized government agents (both federal and state authorized government agents must present adequate identification and permission from the individual concerned unless otherwise authorized to receive information), the federal office of child support enforcement and other state governmental bodies that are responsible for issuing licenses or holding money that is collectible by the Title IV-D agency.

(4) Third party requests - The Title IV-D agency will not honor a request for information from a third party without a notarized release from either the custodial party or non-custodial party that specifies the information to be released. A third party may not obtain information pursuant to an authorized release unless the party consenting to the release is entitled to receive the information. The information provided will be in accordance with authorized releases according to federal and state law. The Title IV-D agency reserves the right to provide the requested information directly to either the custodial party or non-custodial party rather than the third party requestor or to redact personal or confidential information, as appropriate. The IV-D agency shall provide services to anyone who has filed a proper application for services.

A. Services to residents and non-residents: Services will be made available to residents of other states on the same terms as to residents of the state of New Mexico. The IV-D agency shall not be required to provide services when neither party resides in the state of New Mexico and the state is not actively seeking reimbursement of public assistance paid. There is no citizenship requirement as a pre-condition for Title IV-D services.

B. Provision of services for recipients of other benefit programs: Federal regulations also require the IV-D agency to provide services equally to intrastate and interstate cases, including IV-D, IV-E, medicaid only, and non-IV-A cases. Information detailing the services offered by the IV-D agency, the responsibilities of the custodial party, the IV-D agency's fee schedule, and requirements to cooperate must be provided to all recipients of IV-A and medicaid benefits within five days of referral to the IV-D agency. The IV-A agency provides this information to all applicants/recipients of IV-A and medicaid benefits when the IV-A case is opened.

C. Provision of services when all dependents are emancipated:

(1) Intrastate cases: The IV-D agency will not accept an application or re-open a closed case for the establishment or enforcement of a support order when all dependents are emancipated. The existence of a public assistance benefit history does not obligate the IV-D agency to pursue or re-open a case when the dependents are emancipated.

(2) Interstate cases: The IV-D agency will not establish paternity or an order of support after all dependents are emancipated. The IV-D agency will, however, enforce an existing order of support when all dependents are emancipated in accordance with Section 40-6A-101 et seq. NMSA 1978.

When a family needs support from a non-custodial parent and is approved for IV-A, IV-E foster care, non-IV-E medicaid, or medicaid benefits, a referral is made to the IV-D regional office. The medicaid only recipient, who has assigned support rights and whose cooperation is required, must receive medical support services but can decline receipt of all other IV-D services. In addition, post-IV-A recipients will continue to receive IV-D services until they inform the division that they no longer desire these services.

C. Non-IV-A applicants: Non-IV-A families can apply for program services through the completion of a non-IV-A application for services.

D. Non-resident applicant: A non-resident applicant who applies for services through the IV-D agency in their state of residence is eligible for assistance from the New Mexico IV-D program under applicable laws, so long as the other party resides in the state of New Mexico.

(9) keeping the IV-D agency informed of changes in contact information; and

(10) providing all requested information to the IV-D agency in a timely manner.

If there is an assignment of support rights pursuant to Section 27-2-28 NMSA 1978, the IV-D agency will request a sanction or disqualification of a member of a public assistance benefit group for noncompliance with IV-D agency cooperation requirements. The IV-D agency will notify the appropriate agency of compliance if the custodial party resolves the issue of noncompliance with the IV-D agency.

The amount established for child support (with medical support) under child support award guidelines can help provide financially for the child. Medical support in the form of private health insurance can help provide for the medical needs of the child. Pursuant to federal law, the IV-D agency is required to make determinations related to custodial party cooperation in locating absent and alleged parents, establishing parentage, and establishing and enforcing support obligations in Title IV-A cases.

8.50.105.14 GOOD CAUSE FOR REFUSAL TO COOPERATE:

(3) the applicant/recipient is currently being assisted by a public or licensed private social agency to resolve the issue of whether to keep the child or relinquish the child for adoption, and the discussions have not gone on for more than three months.

C. Any person requesting a good cause exemption to a public assistance benefit requirement to cooperate, must fill out a request for a good cause exemption on a form provided by the IV-D agency and provide any documentation requested by the IV-D agency. The request for a good cause exemption will be reviewed by the IV-D agency and the requestor will be informed of the decision in writing. The requestor's failure to complete the form or provide the requested documentation will result in an automatic denial of the request.

8.50.107.8 DETERMINATION OF PARENTAGE:

A determination of parentage is necessary for the establishment of child support. The Title IV-D agency extends full faith and credit to a determination of parentage made by another jurisdiction, whether established through voluntary acknowledgment or through administrative or judicial process. Alleged fathers may initiate parentage actions through the Title IV-D agency. The Title IV-D agency may petition a court of competent jurisdiction to establish parentage so long as the dependent child is still under the age of majority.

A. Federal time-frames and requirements for establishment of parentage. The IV-D agency shall establish an order for support or complete service of process necessary to commence proceedings to establish a support order and, if necessary, parentage (or document unsuccessful attempts to serve process) within 90 calendar days of locating the alleged father or non-custodial parent. (45 CFR Section 303.4(d)).

B. The Title IV-D agency is not required to establish parentage or pursue genetic testing in any case involving incest or rape, or in any case in which legal proceedings for adoption are pending, or if, in the opinion of the IV-D agency, it would not be in the best interests of the child.

C. The Title IV-D agency may identify and use laboratories that perform, at reasonable cost, legally and medically acceptable genetic tests that tend to identify the biological parent or exclude the alleged biological parent. The IV-D agency may make available a list of such laboratories to appropriate courts and law enforcement officials, and to the public upon request.

D. The Title IV-D agency may seek entry of a default order by the court or administrative authority in a parentage case according to state law and rules of procedure regarding default orders.

E. The Title IV-D agency may seek to establish maternity in compliance with the New Mexico Uniform Parentage Act, as appropriate.

F. The IV-D agency will not initiate an action to rescind or disestablish parentage.

G. If a child in a Title IV-D case has an acknowledged, presumed, or an adjudicated father as defined within the New Mexico Uniform Parentage Act, then parentage has been determined and the Title IV-D agency will pursue the establishment of support on behalf of or against the parent, as appropriate.

8.50.107.9 PARENTAGE INVOLVING MINOR FATHERS AND MOTHERS:

If the biological parent is under the age of emancipation, and is not otherwise emancipated by law, the Title IV-D agency will take measures to establish parentage and support, as appropriate. If a biological parent is a minor, their parent, legal guardian, or attorney who has entered an appearance on behalf of the minor biological parent may be present at all meetings or discussions between the minor biological parent and the representatives of the Title IV-D agency. The Title IV-D agency will seek to establish parentage. If the alleged minor non-custodial parent is employed, the Title IV-D agency will pursue guideline support. Any order or stipulation will include a requirement that the minor non- custodial parent will notify the Title IV-D agency of their employment and educational status on a regular basis. In uncontested cases, the Title IV-D agency may seek the concurrence of the minor biological parent's parent(s), legal guardian, or attorney. In contested cases, the minor biological parent(s) may request the court to appoint a guardian ad litem. Any legal notices or pleading prepared following the appointment of the guardian ad litem will be sent in accordance with the rules of civil procedure.

8.50.107.10 DETERMINATION OF PARENTAGE THROUGH VOLUNTARY ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF PATERNITY:

State and federal laws provide for voluntary acknowledgment of paternity after the birth of a child. A man is determined to be the natural father of a child if he and the mother acknowledge parentage by filing a written acknowledgment with the vital statistics bureau of the public health division of the department of health, in accordance with the requirements of Article 3 of the New Mexico Uniform Parentage Act.

8.50.107.11 LONG ARM STATUTE CASES:

A. The Title IV-D agency will use the long arm statute as appropriate to exercise jurisdiction over a non-custodial parent residing in another state pursuant to Section 40-6A-201 et seq., NMSA 1978.

B. Genetic testing may be used in long arm statute cases in the establishment of parentage. New Mexico shall advance the costs associated with the testing in cases wherein the state initiated long arm statute actions. The Title IV-D agency shall seek reimbursement for the advancement of the costs pursuant to the genetic testing section below.

[8.50.107.11 NMAC - Rp 8.50.107.11 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.50.107.12 GENETIC TESTING:

A. The Title IV-D agency provides genetic testing services, as appropriate. The Title IV-D agency will not provide genetic testing services when parentage is presumed by law or has already been adjudicated unless ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction to do so. The Title IV-D agency will seek the admission into evidence, for purposes of establishing parentage, the results of a genetic test that are performed by a laboratory contracted with the Title IV-D agency to provide this specific service, unless the results are otherwise stipulated to by the parties. Any party to a Title IV-D case may seek genetic testing outside of the Title IV-D agency, at their own expense, and obtain a genetic test and report in compliance with Sections 40-11A-503 to 504 et seq., NMSA 1978. The Title IV-D agency will not present or introduce into evidence the results of a genetic test report obtained through a laboratory not contracted with the Title IV-D agency.

B. The Title IV-D agency may charge any individual who is not a recipient of state aid for the cost of genetic testing in accordance with the fee schedule in 8.50.125 NMAC. The Title IV-D agency may advance the cost of the fee if the IV-D agency is a party in a pending court case and is providing full services. If the Title IV-D agency is not a party in a pending court case and is not providing full services, the Title IV-D agency may require payment of the fee from any or all parties prior to scheduling the genetic testing. If a party paying any or all of the genetic testing fee wants reimbursement from the other party, they must seek a court order against that party.

C. The Title IV-D agency will charge a father for genetic testing when parentage is already presumed by law or has already been adjudicated, regardless of the results of the paternity test. The Title IV-D agency will charge an alleged father for genetic testing when parentage is not presumed by law or adjudicated and the results of the test show the alleged father to be the biological father. The Title IV-D agency will charge the mother for genetic testing when parentage is not presumed by law or adjudicated and the results of the test show the alleged father not to be the biological father.

8.50.107.13 JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS IN PARENTAGE CASES:

The judgment or order of the court determining the existence or nonexistence of the parent and child relationship is determinative for all purposes. The IV-D agency will seek the following orders, as appropriate:

A. an order adjudicating parentage in accordance with the New Mexico Uniform Parentage Act, and

B. after parentage has been adjudicated, the establishment of child and medical support for the minor child(ren).

8.50.108.7 DEFINITIONS:

The following definition applies to this part. "Self-support reserve" means the support calculation ensures the payer parent has sufficient income to maintain a minimum standard of living. The self-support reserve is $1,200 per month for one person which is slightly higher than one hundred percent of the federal poverty guideline. Additional definitions may be found under the general provisions at 8.50.100.7 NMAC.

[8.50.108.7 NMAC - N, 1/1/2024]

8.50.108.8 ESTABLISHMENT OF SUPPORT ORDER:

If parentage has been legally established, and there is no support order in existence, the IV-D agency will pursue the establishment of a support order, as appropriate, pursuant to the requirements under 45 CFR §303.4(b)(1-4). All support orders obtained by the IV-D agency shall include a provision requiring the parties to keep the IV-D agency informed of their current addresses and, if the party is a parent, to also provide the name and address of their current employer, whether the parent has access to medical insurance coverage at reasonable cost, including health care coverage through a public entity and, if so, the medical insurance policy information.

A. Immediate income withholding: The IV-D agency will request an income withholding provision in accordance with the Support Enforcement Act, Section 40-4A-1 et seq., NMSA 1978. The IV-D agency will not agree to an exception to wage withholding, but will honor any court or administrative order that waives or excepts wage withholding. All payments on Title IV-D cases, whether paid through income withholding, direct withdrawal, or direct payment by the non-custodial parent shall be paid through the IV-D agency. If the custodial party obtains an order in a IV-D case for direct payments to them, the IV-D agency will begin non-cooperation procedures in active IV-A cases and close cases with no public assistance history.

B. Persons and agencies the IV-D agency will assist to establish a support order:

(1) parent;

(2) legal guardian by court or administrative order;

(3) legal custodian by court or administrative order;

(4) IV-B or IV-E agency;

(5) another IV-D agency, state, U.S. territory or country pursuant to the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act, Section 40-6A-101 et seq., NMSA 1978, or reciprocal international agreements.

C. Public assistance: If a dependent child receives public assistance, the IV-D agency will pursue a support order against the non-custodial parent, unless the IV-D agency determines that the case involves rape, incest, or it would not be in the best interest of the child(ren). If neither parent has custody of the child, the IV-D agency will pursue a support order against both parents. If the custodian of the child(ren) receiving public assistance does not have legal standing to pursue support, the IV-D agency will seek to establish a support order solely in favor of the state as reimbursement for public assistance benefits expended on behalf of the child(ren) in accordance with the child support guidelines.

8.50.108.9 CHILD SUPPORT AWARD GUIDELINES:

The IV-D agency uses income information provided to the agency by the parties or other sources to apply the child support guidelines in Section 40-4-11.1., NMSA 1978 and the basic child support schedule now incorporated here as Appendix 1. If exact income information is unavailable, or if a party's earnings history is below minimum wage, the IV-D agency may seek to impute income to a party, provided that the amount of support is established based on consideration of the required factors under 45 CFR §302.56(a-c). Many low wage jobs offer less than 40 hours per week, so local labor market data shall be considered when imputing income. A request for retroactive support by the IV-D agency will only be for the minimal period in accordance with New Mexico law. The custodial party may seek a longer retroactive period in accordance with the law and is solely responsible for providing all documentation, presenting all evidence, and making all arguments at any hearing or during negotiations in support for the additional time period. The amount of retroactive support requested by the IV-D agency on behalf of the state or for a custodial party will be in accordance with the child support guidelines established pursuant to 45 CFR Section302.56(f-h), or as otherwise stipulated to by the parties. Incarceration may not be treated as voluntary unemployment when a support order is being established, 45 CFR §302.56 (c)(3). Any deviations from the guidelines will contain a statement of the reason for deviation and shall be in accordance with Section 40-4-11.2 NMSA 1978.

[8.50.108.9 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.108.9 NMAC, 1/1/2024]

8.50.108.10 BASIC CHILD SUPPORT SCHEDULE AND THE SELF-SUPPORT RESERVE:

A. In any action to establish or modify child support, the child support guidelines schedule as set forth in this section shall be applied to determine the child support due and shall be a rebuttable presumption for the amount of such child support. The basic child support schedule is reviewed quadrennially by the child support guideline commission pursuant to Section 40-4-11.3 NMSA.

B. Effective January 1, 2024, the basic child support schedule incorporates a self-support reserve (SSR). The SSR is demonstrated in the shaded area of the basic child support schedule and provides that if the payer parent's income and number of children fall into the shaded area, only the payer-parent's income is considered in the child support calculation. As a result, the payer-parent is one hundred percent responsible for SSR adjusted child support obligation from the schedule. This ensures that the SSR is effective at considering basic subsistence needs of the payer-parent who has a limited ability to pay, even if the other parent has significantly more income and their combined income is above the SSR adjusted area of the schedule. Support calculation using the SSR method is reliant on using a worksheet A only and should not take into consideration childcare cost, medical expenses to include insurance premiums, and other appropriate expenses that are otherwise considered by the child support guidelines pursuant to Subparagraph (b) of Paragraph (2) of Subsection M of Section 40-4-11.1 NMSA, 1978.

C. For shared responsibility arrangements, the basic child support obligation shall be calculated using the basic child support schedule, worksheet B and instructions contained in Subsection M of Section 40-4-11 NMSA 1978. Support calculations using worksheet B are not subject to the SSR method.

8.50.108.11 DEFAULT JUDGMENT:

[8.50.108.11 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.108.10 NMAC, 1/1/2024]

8.50.108.12 MODIFICATION OF CHILD SUPPORT ORDERS:

Either party may request the IV-D agency to provide the service of seeking the modification of a support order. Applicable fees will be charged to the requesting party in compliance with 8.50.125.10 NMAC. The IV-D agency may seek a modification if the non-custodial parent will be incarcerated for more than 180 calendar days. The IV-D agency will not review a support order for modification without request by a party, unless the custodial party is currently receiving public assistance. In accordance with federal and state laws, a modification of a support order is retroactive only to the time period that a petition or motion was filed with a court and was pending a decision.

[8.50.108.12 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.108.12 NMAC, 1/1/2024]

8.50.108.13 REVIEW AND ADJUSTMENT OF SUPPORT ORDERS:

The IV-D agency conducts a review for modification of support orders in the IV-D caseload three years from the effective date of the last support order. At the time of review, if the case is actively receiving public assistance, the IV-D agency must pursue a modification either upward or downward if its review indicates that there will be at least a twenty percent change from the current obligation of support. The review is conducted based on information provided by the parties and other sources that report income. Both parties are sent notice at the time of review to request current information from them regarding income, childcare costs, medical expenses to include insurance premiums, and any other appropriate expenses that are considered by the child support guidelines. Both parties are notified of the result of the review conducted by the IV-D agency. If the IV-D agency chooses not to pursue a modification, any party may independently pursue their own request for a modification of a support order. The state may initiate a review of an order, without a specific request for review, if information is received by the IV-D agency that the non-custodial parent will be incarcerated for more than 180 calendar days, pursuant to the conditions specified in 45 CFR §303.8(b)(2), (7), and (c). Under 45 CFR §302.56 (c)(3), incarceration may not be treated as voluntary unemployment when a support order is being modified.

8.50.108.14 PROVISION OF SERVICES TO IV-B AND IV-E PROGRAMS:

Upon request for services from the state IV-B or IV-E program, the IV-D agency will review its caseload to determine if there is an active IV-D case. The IV-D agency will send a letter to both the custodial party and non-custodial parent(s) notifying them that the IV-B or IV-E agency has requested services due to the minor child(ren) being in state custody. If there is a current order of support in place, the IV-D agency will review the case for appropriate legal action. If there is not a current support order in place, the IV-D agency will work with the IV-B or IV-E agency to obtain a mutually agreed upon support order between the IV-B or IV-E agency and the IV-D agency.

Section 604 of the Fair Credit Reporting Act (15 U.S.C. 1681b) authorizes the release of information contained in a non-custodial parent's credit report to the New Mexico IV-D agency. The information obtained from the consumer reporting agency is to be used solely for the purpose of establishing or modifying an order of support.

8.50.109.7 DEFINITIONS:

The following definitions apply to this part. Additional definitions may be found under child support enforcement program general provisions at 8.50.100.7 NMAC.

A. "Cash medical support" means an amount ordered to be paid toward medical costs for minor child(ren) not covered by insurance.

B. "Health care coverage" means health insurance coverage, generally associated with a medical, dental or vision plan of benefits, whether it be an employment-related or other group health plan, a health maintenance organization, a non-profit health plan, coverage provided by a public entity (medicaid), or any other type of health care coverage under which medical, vison or dental services are provided, regardless of service delivery mechanism. Any health care plan coverage of a minor child shall, at a minimum, meet the standards of minimum health care protection as defined in the New Mexico Insurance Code, Section 59A-23B NMSA 1978.

C. "Medical support" means cash medical support, health care coverage, dental insurance, vision insurance, or a percentage split between the custodial party and the non-custodial parent for uncovered medical bills for the minor child(ren).

D. "National medical support notice" or "notice" means a qualified notice pursuant to a court order sent to an employer stating that an employee's children must be covered by the employment-related health care insurance plan if it is available and at a reasonable cost.

8.50.109.8 ESTABLISHMENT OF MEDICAL SUPPORT:

All orders obtained by the IV-D agency must include a provision for medical support for the minor child(ren). For the purposes of the IV-D program reporting, medical support includes any one of the following: private health insurance, public health care coverage (health, dental, or vision), provided by a public entity (medicaid), coverage through Indian health services (IHS), the defense enrollment eligibility reporting services (DEERS), cash medical support, or a percentage split of uncovered medical expenses for the minor child(ren). Determination of a reasonable cash medical support obligation is pursuant to 45 CFR § 303.31(a)(3). If the child(ren) are covered by IHS, the IV-D agency will request that private care coverage or health care coverage provided by a public entity (medicaid) be provided by either or both parties, when available. If the non-custodial parent provides health care coverage and changes employment, and the new employer provides health care coverage, the IV-D agency must transfer notice of the provision to the new employer. The IV-D agency must request the inclusion of a medical support provision even when employment-related or other group health care coverage is not available or when the child(ren) cannot be added at the time the order is entered. Health care coverage provided by a public entity meets the standards required under the Mandatory Medical Support Act and either party can be deemed a medical support obligor if they meet eligibility requirements for health care coverage through a public entity (medicaid). The cost of health care coverage is calculated by determining the amount charged to the medical support obligor for adding the minor child(ren) to the existing coverage, or the difference between individual and family coverage. The reasonableness of the cost of the health care coverage is if the cost to the party responsible for providing medical support does not exceed five percent of their gross income pursuant to 45 CFR §303.31(a)(b). The IV-D agency may request the provision of health care coverage by either or both the custodial party and the non-custodial parent and that the parties should be responsible for any uncovered medical expenses in proportion to their incomes on the current child support worksheet. If the court does not enter an order for medical support, the IV-D case record must specify that a provision for medical support was requested but was not issued, in accordance with 45 CFR §303.31(b)(1-4).

[8.50.109.8 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.109.8 NMAC 1/1/2024]

8.50.109.9 TIME FRAMES AND REQUIREMENTS:

For all referral cases, within 90 calendar days of locating a non-custodial parent or of establishing parentage, a support order must be established or service of process must be completed to establish a support order. If service of process cannot be completed, then the case record must reflect unsuccessful attempts to serve process. If the court dismisses a petition for support order without prejudice, the office must, at the time of dismissal, examine the reasons for dismissal and determine when it could be appropriate to seek a support order in the future and seek a support order at that time.

[8.50.109.9 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.109.9 NMAC 1/1/2024]

8.50.109.10 AVAILABILITY OF MEDICAL CARE COVERAGE:

Medical support will be addressed in actions to establish, enforce, or modify a support order for the minor child(ren). All support orders obtained or modified by the IV-D agency will include a provision requiring either or both custodial party and the non-custodial parent to promptly inform the IV-D agency of the name and address of their current employer(s), whether either the custodial party or the non-custodial parent has access to health care coverage and, if so, the health care coverage policy information.

A. The non-custodial parent may be required to provide immediate health, dental, or vision care coverage for the minor child(ren) if health care coverage is not available to the custodial party at a more reasonable cost than to the non-custodial parent for coverage of the minor child(ren); and it is available to the non-custodial parent through an employment-related or other group health insurance plan, regardless of service delivery mechanism, which may be a labor organization, union, non-profit organization or professional association.

B. If medical care coverage is not available to the non-custodial parent through an employment-related or other group health care coverage plan, and health care coverage is not being provided by the custodial party, the non-custodial parent may be required to provide immediate health insurance coverage for the minor child(ren) when it becomes available through an employment-related or other group health insurance plan.

C. Either the custodial party or the non-custodial parent may be deemed to be a medical support obligor based on the availability of health care coverage through a public entity when either party meets eligibility requirements.

D. Failure by a non-custodial parent to provide medical support for the minor child(ren), and to provide information concerning health care coverage, will subject the non-custodial parent to legal proceedings requiring the non-custodial parent to show cause as to why the non-custodial parent should not be held in contempt of court for failure to fulfill the requirements of the court order. This will be true even if medical support is the only area in which the non-custodial parent is not in compliance with the terms of the order.

8.50.109.11 PROVIDING CUSTODIAL PARTIES WITH HEALTH CARE COVERAGE INFORMATION:

If the non-custodial parent is responsible for providing health care coverage, the IV-D agency will provide the custodial party with available health care coverage plan information when the non-custodial parent secures coverage for the minor child(ren). This includes any information available to the IV-D agency about the health care coverage plan that would permit a claim to be filed or services to be provided. In cases enforced by the national medical support notice, the health care coverage plan shall provide this information to the custodial party and the IV-D agency, as outlined on the notice.

8.50.109.12 MONITORING AND ENFORCING COVERAGE:

In all cases in which there is a court order with no medical support ordered, the case will be reviewed pursuant to the IV-D agency's plan for automatic review of all IV-D cases every three years. Even if no other modification is expected, the IV-D agency must seek modification to include medical support, except in non-IV-A non-medicaid cases where the custodial party has not consented to the IV-D agency obtaining medical support. All remedies available for the collection and enforcement of child support apply to medical support. In cases where the non-custodial parent is required to provide health care coverage through an employment-related or other group health care coverage plan pursuant to a support order, the IV-D agency shall use, where appropriate, the national medical support notice to enforce the provisions of health care coverage for the minor child(ren).

A. The IV-D agency must use the notice, when appropriate, to notify employers of the provision for health care coverage of the minor child(ren). The IV-D agency must transfer the notice to the employer within two business days after the date of entry of an employee who is an obligor in an IV-D case in the state directory of new hires.

B. Employers must transfer the notice to the appropriate group health care coverage plan for which the minor child(ren) are eligible within 20 business days after the date of the notice.

C. Employers must withhold any obligation of the employee for employee contributions necessary for coverage of the minor child(ren) and send any amount withheld directly to the health care coverage plan. Employees may contest the withholding based on a mistake of fact. If the employee contests such withholding, the employer must proceed with withholding until such time as the employer receives notice from the IV-D agency that the contest is resolved.

D. Upon receipt of the national medical support notice, the employer shall enroll the medical support obligor's minor child(ren) in a qualified health care coverage plan as eligible dependents. Except as specifically outlined on the notice, the health care coverage plan shall not be required to provide benefits or eligibility for such benefits in addition to those provided under the terms of the plan immediately before receipt of the notice.

E. If the medical support obligor is enrolled in a qualified health care coverage plan, the minor child(ren) shall be enrolled in the same health care coverage plan in which the medical support obligor is enrolled. If the medical support obligor is not enrolled in a qualified health care coverage plan, the premiums charged for enrollment of the minor child(ren) only shall be the same as would be charged for enrollment of the medical support obligor only. If the medical support obligor is not enrolled in a qualified health care coverage plan and there is more than one health care coverage plan option available for enrollment of the minor child(ren), the employer shall notify the IV-D agency and the IV-D agency, in consultation with the custodial party, will select a qualified health care coverage plan option. If the custodial party does not notify the IV-D agency of the selected qualified health care coverage plan option within the timeframe required by the IV-D agency, the minor child(ren) shall be enrolled in the qualified health care coverage plan's default option, which is defined as the least costly health care coverage plan that conforms with the minimum health care protection as defined in the New Mexico Insurance Code, Section 59A-23B-1 et seq NMSA 1978.

F. The health care coverage plan must notify the IV-D agency of the status of health care coverage for the minor child(ren), as outlined on the notice, within 40 business days after the date of the notice. The plan shall also promptly notify the custodial party of the plan coverage and effective date, as outlined on the notice.

G. Employers must notify the IV-D agency promptly whenever the medical support obligor's employment is terminated, in the same manner as is required for income withholding cases.

H. The IV-D agency must promptly notify the employer when there is no longer a current order for medical support in effect for which the IV-D agency is responsible.

I. In instances in which a minor child is covered through a public entity, the medical support obligor is required to maintain the recertification of the health care coverage as long as the medical support obligor meets eligibility requirements.

This amount should be in addition to and not in lieu of the non-custodial parent's obligation to pay a percentage of unreimbursed medical expenses. Either the custodial party or the non-custodial parent may request the court to order the provision of cash medical support. The IV-D agency will enforce a provision for cash medical support established or modified by any party so long as the support order designates a specific dollar amount to be paid in regular, equal installments (i.e., monthly, bi-weekly, weekly). If the order does not designate a specific dollar amount for medical support purposes, the IV-D agency is not required to collect the money.

A. Automated referral process: The Title IV-D agency provides a certified list of all obligors who meet the referral criteria to various state licensing boards. The licensing boards report back to the Title IV-D agency what action the board has taken in connection with the Parental Responsibility Act. The Title IV-D automated system will refer cases that meet the following criteria:

(1) the obligor is delinquent 30 days or more in payment of court ordered support;

(2) a notice has been sent to the obligor's last address of record with the Title IV-D agency notifying the obligor of the impending license suspension/revocation;

F. Responsibilities of the obligor: The obligor must supply a valid mailing address for the processing of the certificate of compliance. A. The Title IV-D agency is required by federal and state law to report periodically to consumer reporting agencies the name of any obligor who is delinquent in the payment of support and the amount of the overdue support. (2) in cases where an appeal is made, after a determination by the administrative law judge that finds that the information is accurate and

(3) the information is reported only to an entity that has furnished satisfactory to the state that the entity is a legitimate consumer reporting agency.

B. 8.50.112.10 FULL COLLECTION SERVICES BY THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY:

Cases may be referred for full collection services after reasonable efforts have been made to collect the support through available mechanisms and these efforts have failed. When referring a case for full collection services by the Secretary of the Treasury, the Title IV-D agency shall comply with the provisions of 45 CFR § 303.71. [8.50.112.10 NMAC - N, 1/1/2022]

8.50.112.11 COLLECTION OF PAST DUE SUPPORT BY FEDERAL TAX REFUND OFFSET:

Federal tax refund offset is utilized to pay support arrearages, including child support, medical support, and spousal support. Cases meeting specific criteria are referred to the U.S. department of treasury's financial management service.

A. Criteria for federal income tax offset: A Title IV-D case may be referred for federal income tax offset, regardless of whether the child(ren) are emancipated, so long as there is a child support delinquency or arrearage. Title IV-D cases having spousal support delinquencies or arrearages will not be referred for federal income tax offset unless there is an ongoing child support obligation, delinquency, or arrearage. Title IV-D cases that are solely for processing payments will not be referred. Only Title IV-D cases that meet at least one of the criteria in 45 CFR § 303.72(a) are to be referred for federal income tax offset.

B. Periodic updates on referred obligors are sent by the Title IV-D agency to the treasury department. Those updates may result in modifications up or down on the balance due or deletions from the referral.

C. Joint return: The U. S. internal revenue service (IRS) will offset a refund from a joint income tax return to pay a past due support obligation if either tax filer is certified as being legally responsible for providing support. Complaints, questions, and forms

(i.e., injured spouse claim and allocation) concerning joint refund cases can only be addressed by the IRS. If the obligor's spouse is not liable for the support debt, the IRS will issue a pro rata refund to the spouse (upon the filing of an IRS injured spouse claim and allocation form by the obligor's spouse) and the Title IV-D agency will be required to reimburse the IRS in the amount of the pro rata refund. The federal government will advise the Title IV-D agency of any adjustments to Title IV-D collections. The injured spouse may also agree to voluntarily release the claim of his or her portion of the joint refund to have it applied towards the child support obligation. This will result in an immediate distribution of the refund amount to the Title IV-D case. An injured spouse may request the release form from the Title IV-D agency, or may provide a notarized letter authorizing the release. The notarized letter shall set forth the injured spouse's name, the name of the obligor, and the obligor's CSED case number(s).

D. Bankruptcy cases: The Title IV-D agency will review the non-custodial party's bankruptcy case to determine what action, if any, the Title IV-D agency should take.

E. Notification of federal income tax offset:

(1) Written advance notice is sent to inform an obligor that the amount of his or her past due support will be referred to the secretary of the U.S. treasury for collection by federal tax refund offset and that any amounts collected will be applied towards the obligor's child support obligation. The notice shall be sent to the obligor's last address of record with the Title IV-D agency and shall inform the obligor:

(a) of the right to contest the department's determination that past due support is owed;

(b) of the right to contest the amount of past due support;

(c) of the right to request an administrative review;

(d) of the procedures and time frame for requesting an administrative review;

(e) notice will be provided to any individual who filed a joint return with the obligor, advising of the process for requesting the obligor's share of the refund; and

(f) that the U.S. treasury will notify the obligor's spouse at the time of offset regarding steps to take to protect the share of the refund that may be payable to that spouse.

(2) At the time the offset occurs, the secretary of the U.S. treasury will notify the obligor that the offset has been made.

F. Contesting referral for federal offset: The obligor has 30 days from the date of mailing of the notification of a referral for federal tax intercept to notify the Title IV-D agency that he or she contests the referral. The notification issued by the Title IV-D agency provides the obligor with the address and telephone number to request a hearing to contest the referral.

(1) Upon receipt of an appeal request from the obligor, a notice is generated by the administrative law judge and sent to the obligor and the Title IV-D agency.

(2) The notice shall set forth the time and place of the administrative hearing. The hearing is conducted in accordance with 8.50.130 NMAC.

(3) If the appeal request concerns a joint tax refund that has not yet been intercepted, the obligor is informed that the secretary of the U.S. treasury will notify the obligor's spouse at the time of offset regarding steps to take to secure his or her proper share of the refund.

(4) If the appeal concerns a joint tax refund which has already been offset, the obligor will be referred to the secretary of the U.S. treasury to address the refund due to the obligor's spouse.

(5) If the hearing decision results in a deletion or decrease in the amount referred for offset, the federal office of child support enforcement will be notified.

(6) If an amount which has already been offset is found to have exceeded the amount of past due support owed, steps to refund the excess amount to the obligor will be promptly taken.

G. Interstate cases: The following applies to the New Mexico Title IV-D agency when it is the state that submits a case for federal income tax offset. The obligor shall request an administrative review be conducted by the New Mexico Title IV-D agency. If the underlying order upon which the referral for federal income tax offset is based has not been issued by a New Mexico district court, within 10 days of the receipt of the obligor's request for administrative review, the New Mexico Title IV-D agency must notify the Title IV-D agency in the state that referred the case to New Mexico of the obligor's request for administrative review. Within 45 days of receipt of the request for administrative review from the New Mexico Title IV-D agency, the Title IV-D agency in the state that referred the case to New Mexico should:

(1) Send notice to all appropriate parties setting forth the time and place of the administrative review; and

(2) Conduct the review and render a decision. If the administrative review conducted by the Title IV-D agency in the other state results in a reduction or elimination of the amount referred for offset, the Title IV-D agency that conducted the administrative review should inform the New Mexico Title IV-D agency and the OCSE of the decision. The New Mexico Title IV-D agency shall be bound by the determination of the Title IV-D agency in the state that conducted the review.

H. Distribution of collections from federal income tax offset: Single filer federal tax refund offsets will be placed on hold for 30 days and joint filer federal tax refund offsets will be split in half and the obligor's portion will be placed on hold for 30 days and the injured spouse's portion will be placed on hold for six months. Past-due support amounts collected as a result of the federal income tax refund offset shall be distributed pursuant to 8.50.125.12 NMAC after the appropriate holds have elapsed. The obligor shall receive full credit for the entire amount of tax intercept that is applied to his or her case(s), including fees. Distribution of tax intercept money for obligors with multiple Title IV-D cases shall be in accordance with federal and state laws. If an offset is made to satisfy non-TANF past due support from a refund based upon a joint return, the Title IV-D agency may delay distribution until notified that the injured spouse's proper share of the refund has been paid or for a period not to exceed six months from notification of offset, whichever is shorter.

I. Fees: A non-TANF custodial party who has applied for Title IV-D services is assessed fees for the federal income tax refund. The fees are deducted from the tax refund when it is intercepted but are credited to the obligor's support payment.

8.50.112.12 COLLECTION OF PAST DUE SUPPORT BY NEW MEXICO TAXATION AND REVENUE DEPARTMENT BY STATE TAX REFUND OFFSET:

New Mexico law allows for the interception (offset) of an obligor's tax refund to pay child support.

A. Criteria for state income tax offset: Cases submitted for tax refund offset to the New Mexico taxation and revenue department (TRD) must meet federal tax refund offset criteria. In interstate cases, if New Mexico is the responding state, obligors are referred to TRD only, not to IRS.

B. Pre-offset notices/final notices: Within 10 days after receiving notification of an offset from TRD, the Title IV-D agency will send a notice to the obligor at his or her last known address of record with the Title IV-D agency. The notice will include:

(1) a statement that an offset will be made and that the Title IV-D agency intends to apply the amount of the offset against a claimed debt;

(2) the amount of the debt asserted;

(3) the name, address, and telephone number of the Title IV-D agency to request a hearing;

(4) the amount of refund to be offset against the debt asserted;

(5) a statement that the obligor has 30 days from the date indicated on the notice to contest the offset and request a hearing; and

(6) a statement that failure of the obligor to request a hearing within 30 days will be deemed a waiver of the opportunity to contest the offset.

C. If the refund against which a debt is intended to be offset results from a joint return, within 10 days after receiving the notification from TRD, the Title IV-D agency will send a notice to the obligor's spouse (injured spouse) as identified on the return, to the obligor's last known address of record with the Title IV-D agency. The notice to the injured spouse will contain the following information:

(1) a statement that an offset may be made and the Title IV-D agency intends to apply the amount of the offset against a claimed debt;

(2) the total amount of the refund and the amount of each claimed debt;

(3) the name, address, and telephone number of the Title IV-D agency;

(4) a statement that no debt is claimed against the injured spouse and that the he or she may be entitled to receive all or part of the refund, regardless of the claimed debt against the obligor;

(5) a statement that to assert a claim to all or part of the refund, the injured spouse must notify the Title IV-D agency within 30 days from the date indicated on the notice of the injured spouse's intention to seek his or her portion of the refund; and

(6) a statement that failure of the injured spouse to notify the Title IV-D agency regarding his or her claim to all or part of the refund within 30 days may be deemed a waiver of any claim.

D. Upon the transfer of money from TRD to the Title IV-D account, the Title IV-D agency will notify the obligor of the final determination of the offset. The notice includes:

(1) the amount of the TRD refund to which the obligor was entitled prior to intercept;

(2) the offset amount and balance, if any, of the debt still due; and

(3) the amount of refund in excess of the debt due and owed to the obligor, if any.

E. Contesting referral for state tax offset: The appeal procedures are the same as for federal tax refund offset with some exceptions.

(1) When the injured spouse contacts the Title IV-D agency within the time required, no tax intercept hearing is held. Upon verification, the injured spouse's portion will be refunded as soon as the TRD money is posted to the case, and the obligor will not be given credit for the injured spouse's portion of the payment that is refunded.

(2) If the obligor's spouse files "married, but separated" the state taxation and revenue department does not honor this filing status for offset purposes and will offset the obligor's spouse's refund. In this instance, the injured spouse may contact the Title IV-D agency. Upon notification, the Title IV-D tax intercept unit will contact TRD to obtain verification and, upon obtaining verification, the Title IV-D agency will refund the spouse's portion of the offset to the injured spouse.

(3) If the injured spouse determines that he or she is entitled to more than one-half of the offset, he or she must notify the Title IV-D agency within 30 days of the date of mailing of the notice of offset that he or she wants an administrative hearing regarding the claim to a larger portion of the offset.

F. Distribution of collections from state income tax offset: State income tax offset collections will be placed on hold for 30 days. After the 30 day hold, the state income tax offset monies will be applied as a regular payment and distributed as outlined in 8.50.125.11 NMAC. The obligor shall receive full credit for the entire amount of tax intercept that is applied to his or her case(s) including fees. Distribution of tax intercept money for obligors with multiple Title IV-D cases shall be in accordance with federal and state laws. If an offset is made to satisfy non-TANF past due support from a refund based upon a joint return, the Title IV-D agency may delay distribution of the injured spouse's share until notified that the refund has been paid because of the injured spouse signed a release, or for a period not to exceed six months from notification of offset, whichever is shorter.

8.50.112.13 DENIAL OF PASSPORTS FOR NONPAYMENT OF CHILD SUPPORT:

A. Referral for passport denial: The Title IV-D agency submits the names of obligors who owe support arrears in excess of $2,500 for inclusion in the OCSE database which is then sent to the U.S. department of state. The U. S. department of state denies passports to individuals whose name appears on the certified OCSE database of the OSCE as owing more than $2,500 in arrears. Once the department of state identifies a passport applicant as owing money for child support, the applicant will be notified by letter that the issuance or renewal of the passport has been denied, pending satisfactory payment of money owed to the Title IV-D agency. After the applicant makes satisfactory payment arrangements with the Title IV-D agency, the IV-D agency shall request that OCSE remove the applicant's name from its database. The Title IV-D agency makes every effort in its negotiations to obtain a lump sum payment sufficient to satisfy the entire delinquency and arrears balances, including accrued interest.

B. Contesting referral for passport denial: The obligor has 30 days from the date of the notification of a referral for passport denial to notify the Title IV-D agency that he or she contests the referral. The notification sent to the obligor provides the address and telephone number for the obligor to contact the Title IV-D agency to request a hearing to appeal the referral.

(1) Upon receipt of an appeal request from the obligor, a notice is generated by the administrative law judge and sent to the obligor and the Title IV-D agency.

(2) The notice shall set forth the time and place of the administrative hearing. The hearing is conducted in accordance with 8.50.130 NMAC.

(3) If the case is a non-IV-A case, the Title IV-D agency shall send a copy of the notice to the custodial party.

8.50.112.14 LOTTERY:

The Title IV-D agency and the lottery commission work cooperatively to intercept lottery winnings for debts collected by the Title IV-D agency.

A. State law authorizes the Title IV-D agency to place a lien on lottery winnings owed by delinquent child support obligors. Lists of delinquent obligors are provided by the Title IV-D agency to the lottery commission who then compares the list with lottery winners claiming prizes of more than $600. The lottery commission then notifies the Title IV-D agency of any matches. The Title IV-D agency must provide the lottery commission with verification of the support lien within five business days. The verification of the support lien will include a notice of administrative lien requesting the lottery commission retain the funds for 90 days or until such time the administrative process is completed, so long as the process is completed within 90 days. If no delinquency exists, the notification will be a release of lien.

B. If the lottery winner is verified by the Title IV-D agency as owing a debt collected by the agency, the Title IV-D agency has 90 days to initiate an administrative action against the winner. The Title IV-D agency will notify the winner by mailing a copy of the notice of administrative lien to the obligor at the last known address of record with the Title IV-D agency via registered mail. The notice of administrative lien will notify the obligor that he or she has 15 days from the date of the notice to contest or appeal the administrative lien. The notification sent to the obligor provides the address and telephone number for the obligor to contact the Title IV-D agency to request a hearing to appeal the referral. If the obligor does not contest the notice of administrative lien within the required timeframe, a notice for release of funds to the Title IV-D agency is mailed to the lottery commission instructing it to forward the lottery winnings to the Title IV-D agency. If the obligor contests the notice of administrative lien and timely requests a hearing, an administrative hearing will be conducted in accordance with 8.50.130 NMAC.

C. If an administrative seizure proceeding is not initiated with the 90-day period, the Lottery Commission shall release the prize payment to the winner. Section 6-24-22 et seq., NMSA 1978.

8.50.112.15 GAMING:

The Title IV-D agency and the gaming board work cooperatively to intercept racetrack and/or gaming machine payouts for debts collected by the Title IV-D agency.

A. State law authorizes the Title IV-D agency to place a lien on delinquent obligor's gaming machine payouts. Lists of delinquent obligors are provided by the Title IV-D agency to the gaming control board on a monthly basis. The racetrack licensees research the names of winners of $1,200 or more per payout against the list provided to the gaming control board by the Title IV-D agency. The racetrack licensee then notifies the Title IV-D agency of any matches. The Title IV-D agency must notify the racetrack licensee within seven business days (excluding weekends and state holidays) and provide verification of the support lien. If no delinquency exists, the Title IV-D agency will notify the racetrack licensee with a release of lien. If a delinquency exits, the verification of the support lien shall include a notice of administrative lien requesting the racetrack licensee to retain the gaming machine payout for 90 days or until such time as the administrative process is completed, so long as the process is completed within 90 days.

B. If the gaming machine winner is an obligor verified by the Title IV-D agency as owing a debt to or collected by the Title IV-D agency, the Title IV-D agency has 90 days to complete an administrative action against the winner, unless the winner agrees to an extension of the time or the administrative law judge extends the time. The Title IV-D agency shall notify the winner by mailing a copy of the notice of administrative lien to the obligor at the last known address of record with the Title IV-D agency via registered mail. The notice of administrative lien shall notify the obligor that obligor has 15 days from the date of the receipt of the notice to contest or appeal the administrative lien. The notification sent to the obligor provides the address and telephone number to contact the Title IV-D agency to request an appeal. If the obligor does not contest the notice of administrative lien within the required timeframe, a notice for release of funds is mailed to the racetrack licensee within five business days after the expiration of the obligor's deadline to request a timely hearing, instructing the racetrack licensee to forward the gaming machine payout to the Title IV-D agency. If the obligor contests the notice of administrative lien and timely requests a hearing, an administrative hearing will be conducted in accordance with 8.50.130 NMAC. The Title IV-D agency shall notify the racetrack licensee within five business days of the ruling of any hearing held in accordance with this section.

Monetary amounts due from, or payable by, the United States or the District of Columbia for employment (including any agency, subdivision, or instrumentality thereof) to any individual, including members of the armed forces of the United States, will be subject, in like manner and to the same extent as if the United States or the District of Columbia were a private person, to withholding in accordance with state law, and to any other legal process brought by the IV-D agency to enforce the legal obligation of the individual to provide child support, medical support, or spousal support. (42 USC 659).

In addition, in the event a member of the uniformed services who owes a duty of support accrues a delinquency equal to two (2) months' obligation or more, a notice of said delinquency may be issued by the IV-D agency to the designated official in the appropriate uniformed service. A copy of the notice of delinquency shall also be provided to the service member. The issuance of said notice will compel the creation of an allotment to satisfy the service member's obligation. The amount of the allotment will be the amount necessary to comply with the order which, if the order so provides, may include arrearages as well as amounts for current support; however, the amount of the allotment, together with any other amounts withheld for support from the wages of the member, as a percentage of his or her pay from the uniformed service, will not exceed the limits prescribed in sections 1673(b) and (c) of Title 15, Chapter 41, Subchapter II of the United States Code. A. The IV-D agency has in effect procedures for the payment of support through the IV-D agency upon the request of either the non-custodial party or the custodial party, regardless of whether arrearages exist or withholding procedures have been instituted. The IV-D agency is designated to administer the state's withholding system. The IV-D agency monitors all amounts paid and the dates of payments and records them on an individual payment record. As a condition of receiving IV-D services and cooperating with the IV-D agency, recipients must submit to the IV-D agency child support received directly from the non-custodial party. If the recipient of title XIX (medicaid) services elects to receive medical support services only, the recipient of title XIX (medicaid) services may keep child support payments received directly from the payor.

B. All support payments disbursed by the IV-D agency shall be through electronic funds transfer (EFT). The custodial party must elect to receive the payments via direct deposit or a pre-paid debit card authorized by the IV-D agency. If a custodial party receiving support payments fails to choose either option at the time of application or when requested by the IV-D agency, they will automatically be enrolled in the IV-D authorized pre-paid debit card program and will be sent a fee schedule. Exceptions to disbursements via EFT may be granted for exceptional circumstances. Those wishing to request an exemption should request an "EFT exemption form" from the IV-D agency. The form must be fully completed to include an explanation of the exceptional circumstances requiring an exemption from EFT. The IV-D agency will respond in writing either granting or denying the request for an exemption.

Once the percentage for the fee is deducted, the balance of the distribution is sent to the custodial party. Title IV-A, Title IV-E and medicaid-only (Title XIX) recipients are not charged any fees. Federal regulations will not allow cost recovery on these cases. A listing of any applicable fees will be given to all customers.

8.50.125.11 DISTRIBUTION OF COLLECTIONS (EXCEPT FOR FEDERAL INCOME TAX REFUND OFFSETS):

Specific terms used in this section are derived from 42 USC 657 and 45 CFR 300 through 303.

A. In accordance with federal regulations, for purposes of distribution in a IV-D case, amounts collected, except for amounts collected through federal income tax refund offset, must be distributed as follows:

(1) monthly payment ordered for current ongoing support;

(2) monthly payment ordered for judgment on arrears;

(3) current support delinquency;

(4) past due support delinquency;

(5) in each of the categories above, the payment is prioritized in the following order: child support, medical support, spousal support; any payment that is insufficient to meet the entire obligation will be applied in the order stated above.

B. The requirement to apply collections first to satisfy the current support obligation is critical in all IV-D cases to ensure that payment records are consistent in interstate cases, regardless of whether the amount applied to current support is paid to the family (as in a former assistance case) or retained by the state to recover unreimbursed assistance in a current assistance case.

C. Current assistance cases: The state will (not exceeding the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance paid to the family):

(1) pay to the federal government the federal share of the amount collected that is applied to assigned support;

(2) retain the state share of the amount collected that is applied to assigned support; and

(3) reduce the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance by the total amount collected that is applied to assigned support and disbursed under Paragraphs (1) and (2) of Subsection, C of 8.50.125.11 NMAC and distribute collections exceeding the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance to the family in excess of Paragraphs (1) and (2) of Subsection, C of 8.50.125.11 NMAC to satisfy never assigned support, unassigned support and conditionally assigned support.

D. The order in which collections are applied to satisfy assigned and unassigned arrearages in current assistance cases differ by state.

(1) For collections made prior to January 23, 2023, the state of New Mexico has selected the following option:

(b) additional collections will be applied to temporarily assigned arrearages or conditionally assigned arrearages;

(c) additional collections will be applied to permanently assigned arrearages and

(d) additional collections will be applied to never assigned arrearages, unassigned pre-assistance arrearages and unassigned during assistance arrearages.

(b) second, distribute any amount above the current monthly support obligation to arrearages owed to the family or assigned to the state; the federal statute does not specify the order in which collections are applied to satisfy arrearages; the state must have procedures that specify the order in which assigned arrearages will be satisfied; if the state distributes any amount to assigned arrearages, the state must pay to the federal government the federal share of the amount so collected; the state must retain the state share of the amount so collected, with one exception; the state may retain or pay to the family the state share of collections applied to arrearages that accrued while the family was receiving assistance after October 1, 1996.

(2) For collections made on or after October 1, 1998, or earlier at state option, the state shall:

(d) distribute any amount above amounts distributed in Subparagraphs (a), (b) and (c) of this section to satisfy permanently-assigned arrearages; the state must pay the federal government the federal share of the amount collected that is applied to assigned support; the state must retain the state share of the amount so collected with one exception; the state may retain or pay to the family the state and federal share of collections applied to arrearages that accrued while the family was receiving assistance after October 1, 1996;

(e) reduce the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance by the total amount distributed under subparagraph (d), distribute collections exceeding the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance to satisfy unassigned during-assistance arrearages and pay those amounts to the family.

(3) For collections made effective on or after January 23, 2023 (other than through federal Income tax refund offset), the state shall:

(a) distribute the amount collected to satisfy the current monthly support obligation and pay that amount to the family;

(b) distribute any amount above the current monthly support obligation to satisfy never-assigned arrearages and pay that amount to the family;

(c) distribute any amount above amounts distributed in Subparagraphs (a) and (b) of Paragraph (3) of Subsection E of 8.50.125.11 NMAC to satisfy unassigned pre-assistance arrearages and pay that amount to the family;

(d) distribute any amount above amounts distributed in Subparagraphs (a), (b) and (c) of Paragraph (3) of Subsection E of 8.50.125.11 NMAC to satisfy unassigned during assistance arrearages and pay those amounts to the family;

(e) distribute any amount above amounts distributed in Subparagraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) of Paragraph (3) of Subsection E of 8.50.125.11 NMAC to satisfy conditionally-assigned arrearages and pay that amount to the family; the state must pay the federal government the federal share of the amount collected that is applied to assigned support; the state must retain the state share of the amount so collected with one exception; the state may retain or pay to the family the state and federal share of collections applied to conditionally assigned arrearages; and

(f) distribute any amount above amounts distributed in Subparagraphs (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e) of Paragraph (3) of Subsection E of 8.50.125.11 NMAC to satisfy permanently-assigned arrearages and reduce the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance by the total amount distributed under Subparagraph (e) and (f) of this Paragraph; the state must pay the federal government the federal share of the amount collected that is applied to assigned support;; the state must retain the state share of the amount so collected with one exception; the state may retain or pay to the family the state and federal share of collections applied to permanently assigned arrearages;

F. Never-assistance cases: All support collections in never-assistance cases must be paid (less any applicable fees) to the family.

G. Collected funds will be distributed to the resident parent, legal guardian, caretaker relative having custody of or responsibility for the child or children, judicially-appointed conservator with a legal and fiduciary duty to the custodial parent and the child, or alternate caretaker designated in a record by the custodial parent. An alternate caretaker is a nonrelative caretaker who is designated in a record by the custodial parent to take care of the children for a temporary time period.

H. When the non-custodial parent has multiple cases with the IV-D agency, payments received from the non-custodial parent through wage withholding shall be distributed among all active cases on a pro-rata basis determined by the total amount of all monthly support obligations. Payments received through administrative enforcement mechanisms shall be distributed among multiple cases on a pro-rata split based on the total amount of arrearages owed at the time of the referral for administrative enforcement, except for reinstatement of license(s). Payments received for the reinstatement of licenses will be applied to the specific case(s) rather than split among multiple cases. Any other direct payments made by the non-custodial parent will be divided among all active cases involving the non-custodial parent.

8.50.125.12 DISTRIBUTION OF COLLECTIONS THROUGH FEDERAL INCOME TAX REFUND OFFSET:

Any amount of support collected through federal income tax refund offset may be retained by the state to the extent support arrearages have been assigned to the state up to the amount necessary to reimburse the state for cumulative amounts paid to the family as assistance by the state. The state will pay to the federal government the federal share of the amounts so retained. To the extent the amount collected exceeds the amount required to be retained, the state will pay the excess to the family.

A. Current assistance cases: Support collections through federal income tax refund offsets in current assistance cases are retained by the state up to the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance paid to the family. Collections over and above the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance are paid to the family. The order in which collections are applied to satisfy assigned and unassigned arrearages in current assistance cases differ by state.

8.50.125.13 CURRENT ASSISTANCE PASS THROUGH PAYMENTS:

At the discretion of the New Mexico legislature, the IV-D agency may disburse an amount based on budget availability (refer to NMSA § 27-2B-7 and disregard for child support payments in 8.102.520.9 NMAC for allowable amount), to the IV-A service recipient from collections on current support. Under no circumstances is a current or former IV-A recipient entitled to receive said amount as part of the arrearages owed to them. The disbursement to the custodial party, up to the maximum amount, shall only be made if the recipient is currently receiving TANF and the IV-D agency collects a payment from the non-custodial party. If the non-custodial party pays less than the maximum amount allowed to pass through, the custodial party shall only receive the amount of the payment collected. Neither the IV-D agency nor the IV-A agency will pay the difference to the custodial party between the maximum pass through amount and the amount paid by the non-custodial party. If the custodial party has more than one IV-D case, they will only receive the lower of the amount of the maximum disregard or the current monthly collection received on all cases. A pass through payment is in addition to, not in lieu of, the monthly TANF payment.

8.50.125.16 CHILD LEVEL ACCOUNTING:

An application for public assistance by any person constitutes an assignment by operation of law of any support rights the person is entitled to from any other person, whether the support rights are owed to the applicant or to any family member for whom the applicant is applying for or receiving assistance. Therefore, in current or former assistance cases, the IV-D agency may not use child-level accounting by splitting or pro-rating the family grant amount on a per-child basis when the child is (or was) included in the family unit and must continue to apply collections to the cumulative amount of unreimbursed assistance balances based on the total monthly family grant amount.

[8.50.125.16 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.125.15 NMAC, 9/1/2022]

8.50.125.17 CHILD SUPPORT RECEIVED DIRECTLY FROM PAYORS:

As a condition of receiving IV-D services, all recipients must submit to the IV-D agency all court ordered, voluntary agreement and voluntary contribution child support directly received from the non-custodial party. Failure to cooperate with this requirement may constitute cause for closing the IV-D case for non-cooperation. If the recipient of IV-D services elects to receive medical support services only, the recipient of IV-D services may keep child support payments received directly from the payor.

[8.50.125.17 NMAC - Rp, 8.50.125.16 NMAC, 9/1/2022]

8.50.125.18 CHILD SUPPORT COLLECTED FOR MEDICAID REFERRALS:

A medicaid only recipient, for whom an assignment of support rights is in effect, must receive medical support services but may choose to receive full services. If the recipient elects to receive full services, the recipient is required to turn over all child support received, to be distributed in accordance with federal and state regulations. If the recipient elects to receive only medical support services, the recipient may keep child support payments received directly from the payor.

8.50.125.19 CHILD SUPPORT CASE SERVICES:

The IV-D agency provides two types of case services: full service and payment processing only.

A. Full services cases: Recipients of IV-A services are automatically enrolled for full services and recipients of title XIX may elect to receive full services for all support or solely for medical support. Full services cases include all services listed below as specific services may not be selected. Applicants not receiving any type of public assistance may also request full services that include:

(1) establishment of paternity;

(2) establishment of a child support order, medical support order, or both;

(3) enforcement of child support orders, spousal support orders (so long as there is a current order for child support), and medical support orders;

(4) administrative enforcement of orders, including but not limited to referrals for tax intercepts, passport denial, license revocation, and financial institution data match;

(5) issuance of wage withholding against a non-custodial party's earnings/wages for support obligations; and

(6) modification of child support orders, if appropriate.

B. Payment processing only cases: A custodial party currently receiving full services from the IV-D agency or opening a new case with the IV-D agency may elect to receive payment processing only services so long as they are not currently receiving public assistance (Title IV-A or Title XIX) and does not have an outstanding balance of arrears owed to the state for prior public assistance. Payment processing only services are charged an annual fee as stated in section 10, above. In order to receive payment processing only services, the applicant for services must produce a valid court order (either issued by or registered by a court in New Mexico) for a support obligation that contains an income withholding provision or a copy of an income withholding order indicating that payments are to be sent to the IV-D agency.

(1) The IV-D agency is not responsible for:

(a) establishing, modifying, or enforcing the support obligation;

(b) establishing, modifying, enforcing, sending, or terminating the income withholding order;

(c) calculating or determining the appropriate amount of support, payment toward arrears, delinquencies, and arrearages;

(d) appearing in court for any issues involving the establishment, modification, enforcement or termination of the support obligations.

(2) The IV-D agency will provide either the custodial party or the non-custodial party a printout of the payments received by the IV-D agency after receiving a written request.

(3) The IV-D agency may terminate the payment processing only services if no payments are received for a period of two months.

8.50.125.20 ISSUANCE OF REPLACEMENT WARRANTS:

If a custodial party or non-custodial parent claims that a warrant issued to them has not been received, a replacement warrant shall be issued only if the original warrant has not been redeemed or at the discretion of the IV-D agency. If the IV-D agency determines that a replacement warrant will be issued, any warrants that were fraudulently redeemed shall be reported by the intended recipient to the proper authorities as a pre-condition for the issuance of a replacement warrant. An unredeemed warrant is subject to the undistributed collections process, see 8.50.132 NMAC. The IV-D agency will replace a warrant that it can confirm was not redeemed and has not escheated to the IV-D agency through the undistributed collections process. If the IV-D agency is unable to confirm that a warrant has been redeemed due to the length of time that has passed since the warrant was issued, the IV-D agency will deny the request for a replacement warrant.

The further purpose of the program is to increase family income through family employment and child support and by viewing financial assistance as a support service to enable and assist parents to participate in employment.

(2) The program accomplishes this purpose by providing cash assistance, medical assistance, and work program services, including education, job training, and transportation to assist recipients in obtaining and keeping employment that is sufficient to sustain their families thereby ensuring the dignity of those who receive assistance and strengthening families and the families' support for their children.

(3) Legal basis: The New Mexico Works Act assigns responsibility for administration of the New Mexico works program to the health care authority. This includes field and central office staff, representatives of the child support services division (CSSD) and medical assistance division (MAD), and private firms or other agencies under contract with the HCA that perform work or provide services related to public assistance programs. Although employees may receive a subpoena to testify in such a court proceeding, a subpoena is not needed if the court proceeding relates to the public assistance programs administered by the HCA. To the extent possible, attorneys responsible for a case, or other persons helping in preparing the case for court action, will notify the HCA, or other custodian of a case record, in advance and in writing, of the need for court testimony, whether the record should be brought, and of the time, date and place of hearing. If there is not enough time before the hearing to provide written notice, a phone call that the HCA logs in the narrative section of the case record, is sufficient. If it is not clear whether a court proceeding relates to the public assistance programs administered by the HCA, the local county office may contact the OGC or the appropriate division director's office for help.

(2) Non- program related court cases: Any person or attorney seeking confidential information from a case record for a non-program related court case should direct a properly issued subpoena to the appropriate local county office with a copy also sent to the HCA's OGC. The HCA will seek to preserve the confidentiality of the case record unless the release of the information is expressly authorized by federal and state laws and regulations or is otherwise ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction.

ISD must schedule all interviews as promptly as possible to ensure eligible households receive an opportunity to participate within 30 days after the application is filed. ISD will send an appointment letter for an interview that includes contact information for ISD, date, time and place of the appointment. ISD must notify each household that misses its interview appointment that it missed the scheduled interview and that the household is responsible for rescheduling a missed interview. 8.100.110.11 PROCESSING APPLICATIONS:

A. Cash Assistance (CA)/SNAP combined cases: To facilitate participation in SNAP, the Food Stamp Act requires that individuals applying for CA be able to apply for SNAP benefits at the same time.

(1) Application: A household applying jointly for CA and SNAP is required to file only one application on a form prescribed by ISD. The application contains the information necessary to complete the application process whether it was submitted by paper format or electronically online. If it is unclear to ISD whether the applicant intends to apply for SNAP, ISD will ask the applicant during the CA interview or other contact may be made with the applicant. An application for SNAP will be processed in accordance with time standards and procedures set forth in federal and state laws and regulations governing SNAP, including expedited processing provisions.

(2) Single interview: Whenever possible, a single interview will be held with an applicant who applies jointly for CA and SNAP benefits.

(3) Categorical eligibility: A SNAP household that meets criteria set forth in 8.139.420.8 NMAC is categorically eligible. If a household does not meet SNAP eligibility criteria, but is potentially categorically eligible, ISD must postpone denying the SNAP application until the 30th day.

(4) Application processing: Shall be processed in accordance with 7 C.F.R 273.2 j(1)(iv). As a result of differences in CA and SNAP application processing procedures and timeliness standards, eligibility for SNAP benefits may be determined prior to CA eligibility determination. Action on a SNAP application may be postponed until categorical eligibility is established to afford the household any benefits of this provision. However, SNAP approval may not exceed the applicable SNAP expedited or regular application processing timeliness standards.

(5) Application is denied: If a CA application is denied, an applicant is not required to file a new SNAP application. SNAP eligibility will be determined on the basis of the original application filed jointly for CA and SNAP, as well as any other documentation and information obtained in the course of the CA determination that is relevant to SNAP eligibility and benefit amount. A SNAP application may not be denied based on a CA denial reason, but must be based on the SNAP eligibility criteria.

(6) Denial retrieval: A SNAP application that is denied on the 30th day must be readily retrievable for another 30 days, in case the household is later determined eligible for CA or supplemental security income (SSI) benefits. When this occurs, ISD will use the original SNAP application, update any information and approve the SNAP case with prorated benefits as of the date of CA or SSI approval or payment effective date, whichever is later. A second interview is not necessary, however, the applicant or authorized representative should initial all changes and sign and date the verification of the changes.

B. Reporting changes: All participants in public assistance programs administered by the HCA are required to report any changed circumstances that relate to their eligibility for assistance or level of benefits. Each participant is provided with a list of the specific information they are required to report and the reporting time limits. When a change is reported, ISD must ensure that adjustments are made in the client's eligibility status or allotment for those months that the reported change is in effect, in accordance with each program's chapter on this topic.

(1) Notice: Whenever a client's benefits are altered as a result of changes, or whenever a certification period is shortened to reflect changes in the household's circumstances, the client is notified of the action by ISD in accordance with the notice requirements found in 8.100.180.10 NMAC and 8.100.180.11 NMAC. If the certification period is shortened, the household's certification period may not end any earlier than the second month following the month ISD determines the certification period should end. This allows adequate time to send a notice of expiration and for the household to timely reapply. If CA benefits are terminated, but the household is still eligible for SNAP benefits, members of the household must be informed about SNAP employment & training and ABAWD requirements, if applicable.

(2) CA reduction or termination within SNAP certification period: Whenever a reported change results in the reduction or termination of a client's CA benefits within the SNAP certification period, action will be taken to determine how the change affects the client's SNAP eligibility and benefit levels.

(a) Sufficient information: When there is sufficient information to determine how the change affects SNAP eligibility and benefit levels, the following actions will be taken:

(i) Reduction/termination of SNAP benefits: A change that reduces or terminates SNAP, CA or both benefits will generate a notice of adverse action for each category of assistance that is sent to the household and authorized representative. The notice(s) of adverse action will inform the household of its fair hearing rights and method for requesting continuation of benefits.

(ii) Increase in SNAP benefits: If the reduction/termination of CA benefits results in the increase of SNAP benefits, the increase in SNAP benefits occurs after the CA notice period expires and the CA grant is actually reduced or terminated.

(b) Insufficient information: Whenever there is insufficient information to determine how the CA change affects the client's SNAP eligibility and benefit level, the following actions shall be taken:

(i) CA notice of adverse action required: Where a CA notice of adverse action has been sent and the client requests a fair hearing and CA benefits are continued pending the appeal, the household's SNAP benefits will be continued on the same basis. However, the household must recertify for SNAP benefits if the SNAP certification period expires before the fair hearing process is completed.

(ii) CA notice of adverse action not required: If a CA notice of adverse action is not required, or the client decides not to request a fair hearing and continuation of CA benefits, the household must be notified that its certification period will expire at the end of the month following the month the notice of expiration is sent, and that it must reapply if it wishes to continue to participate in the SNAP. The notice of expiration will also explain to the household that the certification period is expiring because of changes in its circumstances that may affect its SNAP eligibility and benefit level.

(3) Certification periods: ISD will assign CA and SNAP certification periods that expire at the same time. In no event are CA and SNAP benefits to be continued beyond the end of a certification period.

(4) Recertification: Households in which all members are contained in a single CA grant or in a single general assistance (GA) grant will have their SNAP interviews for recertification, to the extent possible, at the same time they are redetermined for CA.

(5) Reopened cases: If the CA and SNAP cases are closed or the SNAP certification expires, and the former recipient reapplies for one or both programs for the month following closure or expiration, benefits are prorated from the date of application for SNAP. If reapplication is made for CA or SNAP or both, following a break of one full month or more, SNAP and CA benefits for the month of application will be determined prospectively under beginning month provisions.

C. Other processing standards:

(1) SSI Households: Households in which all members are applying for SSI benefits are handled in the same manner as CA households with respect to the postponement of SNAP approval or denial and the retrieval of denied SNAP applications.

(a) Since ISD cannot monitor the progress of the SSI application, and if the SNAP application is denied on the 30th day, the household must be advised to reapply for SNAP when it has been notified of SSI approval.

(b) SSI households are also entitled to apply for SNAP and be recertified at the social security administration (SSA) offices. SSA will accept the application and forward the completed application, transmittal form, and any available verification to the designated local ISD field office. When SSA accepts and refers the application, the household is not required to appear at a second office interview, although ISD may request additional verification or information needed to make an eligibility determination. Processing time limits begin when the SNAP application is registered at the SSA office.

(2) GA households: Households in which all members are applying for state administered GA are to be processed jointly for GA and SNAP benefits. However, since these households are not, nor will they become categorically eligible, the provisions to postpone approval or denial and to retrieve denied SNAP applications do not apply.

(3) Mixed households: Households in which some but not all of the household members are applying for NMW benefits will file separate applications for CA and SNAP benefits. Applications will be handled under the same processing provisions required for nonfinancial assistance households. However, if those not applying for CA benefits are recipients of SSI, the SNAP application would be jointly processed, because SSI recipients are already considered CA recipients.

(4) Application processing standards joint applications other than CA/SNAP: Each type of benefit applied for will be processed according to its specific procedures and timeliness standards. No benefit's processing will be delayed waiting for other benefit's requirements.

8.100.110.12 TIME LIMITATIONS:

A decision shall be made promptly on applications in accordance with the timeliness standards set forth in 8.100.130.11 NMAC. 8.100.130.8 PRINCIPLES OF ELIGIBILITY:

The income support division (ISD) is responsible for administering food, cash, energy, and medical assistance programs. These programs are funded through federal or state sources and provide assistance to individuals who meet certain eligibility factors. State and federal regulations determine eligibility factors for each program. ISD determines if an individual qualifies for a program, and ensures that eligible individuals receive the assistance as quickly as possible and, in any event, within the application time frames for the applicable program.

A. Proof of eligibility: Determining eligibility for assistance requires that certain verification regarding an applicant/recipient's circumstances be made available to ISD. This verification is retained in the case record or noted in the case narrative.

(1) Applicant/ recipient responsibility: The applicant/recipient is responsible to provide and obtain the verification necessary to determine eligibility.

(2) ISD responsibility: ISD is responsible for the following:

(a) to explain program participation requirements and the program specific eligibility factors to applicants/ recipients;

(b) to explain the information and documents that must be provided to establish eligibility under each eligibility factor for a specific program;

(c) to offer and provide assistance in obtaining verification of an eligibility factor when the applicant/recipient indicates that verification may be difficult or costly to obtain; difficulty in obtaining verification may arise as a result of such circumstances as an applicant/recipient's limited ability to read, speak or understand the English language, mental impairments, physical illness, disability, lack of funds, lack of transportation or lack of knowledge about how to obtain the information; assistance by ISD includes explaining written information orally in the applicant/ recipient's language, providing an interpreter, providing an address or telephone number of a person or agency, making telephone or written inquiries, allowing an applicant/ recipient to use the telephone, locating a document, instructing an applicant in obtaining a document, requesting a document on behalf of an applicant/recipient or contacting a collateral contact; the assistance offered and provided is based on the particular needs of the applicant and ISD's ability to address those needs;

(d) to inform applicants/recipients in writing of their responsibility to provide necessary verification.

(3) Incomplete information: When available information is inconclusive, incomplete or indefinite, ISD shall be responsible for explaining, in writing, what questions remain and how they can be resolved. The explanation must make it clear that eligibility cannot be established without the information or documents and that failure to provide them shall result in denial, reduction or termination of assistance.

(a) The applicant/recipient shall also be informed they may reapply at any time but that the information, documentation or actions may affect the reapplication. If the applicant/ recipient does not provide all of the verification needed, a decision shall be made to the extent possible, based on the existing verified information.

(b) For MAGI medicaid purposes, reasonable compatibility will be effectuated in accordance with 42 CFR 435.952.

(c) When assistance is denied, reduced, delayed or terminated due to failure to provide information or documents as requested, the case record must contain the explanation that such failure is the basis for the action. The client shall be informed in writing of the action.

B. Failure to provide verification: An applicant/recipient cannot be considered eligible for assistance until necessary verification is obtained. To the extent possible, ISD shall make eligibility determinations based on verified eligibility issues rather than failure to provide information.

C. Applicants/ recipients may submit documentary evidence in person, by mail, facsimile, or other electronic device or through an authorized representative.

[8.100.130.8 NMAC - Rp 8.100.130.8 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.100.130.9 METHODS OF VERIFICATION:

A. Verification to determine eligibility and benefit level is obtained through six methods. Not all methods will necessarily be used in each case. The six methods are outlined in Subsections B through G of this section as well as the circumstance in which they may be used.

B. Prior case data not subject to change: Verification of an eligibility factor not subject to change which previously has been verified is accepted. At the application interview, ISD shall advise the applicant/recipient of any eligibility factors which have previously been established through documents in ISD's possession and that are not subject to change. ISD shall not require further verification of any eligibility factors already established. Such factors include: U.S. citizenship, permanent residency, birth date, relationship, social security enumeration and deprivation due to the death of a parent.

C. Electronic data: Every applicant/recipient shall be informed that the information provided is subject to verification through federal, state, local and contracted data systems. ISD shall review the information received from the data source with the applicant/ recipient and not require additional verification of such information unless it is disputed by the applicant/ recipient, the information is otherwise questionable, or the information does not comply with specific benefit requirements. Questionable information is defined in 8.100.130.12 NMAC. Electronic data checks are automatically made and are not considered to be collateral contacts. The electronic data checked includes, but is not limited to:

(1) SSA and SSI information through the beneficiary data exchange (BENDEX) and the state data exchange (SDX) systems:

(a) the household shall be given an opportunity to verify the information from another source if the SDX or BENDEX information is contrary to the information provided by the household or is unavailable;

(b) eligibility and benefit level determination shall not be delayed past the application processing standards of 8.100.130.11 NMAC of this part if SDX or BENDEX data is unavailable;

(2) wage data and unemployment compensation benefits (UCB) through the interface with the New Mexico department of workforce solutions (NMDWS) - unemployment insurance database;

(3) interest, dividends, unearned income and self-employment wages through interfaces with the BENDEX wage data and internal revenue service (IRS) available through income and eligibility verification systems (IEVS):

(a) if the IEVS-obtained information is questionable, this information shall be considered unverified upon receipt and ISD shall take action to request verification of the information;

(b) except as noted in this paragraph, prior to taking action to terminate, deny or reduce benefits based on IEVS-obtained information, ISD shall request verification of the information;

(4) vehicle registration and driver's license information available from the New Mexico motor vehicle division; and

(5) child support payment information and absent parent information available from the child support services division.

(6) Restrictions: Information on earnings, benefits, resources and absent parents disclosed through government data systems shall be used only for the purpose of:

(a) verifying an applicant/recipient's eligibility;

(b) verifying the proper amount of benefits;

(c) investigating to determine whether recipients received benefits to which they were not entitled; and

(d) substantiating information which will be used in conducting criminal or civil prosecution based on receipt of benefits to which recipients were not entitled.

D. Documentary evidence: ISD shall use documentary evidence as the primary source of verification for all items except residency and household size. These items may be verified either through readily available documentary evidence, collateral contact or data from federal, state, local or contracted data sources, without a requirement being imposed that documentary evidence must be the primary source of verification. Documentary evidence consists of a written confirmation of a household's circumstances. Although documentary evidence shall be the primary source of verification, acceptable verification shall not be limited to any single type of document and may be obtained through the household or other source. Whenever documentary evidence cannot be obtained or is insufficient to make a determination of eligibility or benefit level, the eligibility worker may require collateral contacts or home visits. ISD is responsible for obtaining verification from acceptable collateral contacts. If a collateral contact is not available, a sworn statement shall be accepted from the household. ISD shall provide applicants/recipients with receipts for verification documents provided.

E. Collateral contacts: A collateral contact is an oral or written confirmation of a household's circumstances by a person outside the household. ISD shall document the reason for utilizing a collateral contact in the case file.

(1) A collateral contact can be used only when the applicant/recipient selects a collateral contact as the source of verification and:

(a) ISD cannot verify using a trusted electronic source;

(b) the applicant/recipient indicates difficulty in obtaining acceptable documentary evidence; or

(c) the documentary evidence provided by the applicant/recipient is inadequate or questionable.

(2) Selection of a collateral contact: The applicant/ recipient and ISD shall select a mutually agreed upon collateral contact. A collateral contact must have knowledge of the applicant/ recipient's circumstances and must be able to give accurate third party information.

(a) ISD may select a collateral contact only if the household fails to designate one or designates one who lacks knowledge of the applicant/ recipient's circumstances or cannot give accurate information. If the applicant/recipient does not agree to the collateral contact and does not designate an acceptable collateral contact, the application may, in appropriate circumstances, be denied for failure to verify.

(b) A collateral contact shall not be rejected solely based on the following criteria:

(i) they are related to the applicant/ recipient;

(ii) they are a recipient of public assistance; or

(iii) they do not have a telephone.

(3) Failure on the part of a collateral contact: ISD shall not deny or delay an eligibility decision solely because of failure of a collateral contact to provide information. ISD shall decide the applicant/recipient's eligibility and benefit amounts based on all readily available information.

F. Home visits: Home visits may be used as verification only when electronic data or documentary evidence is insufficient to make a firm determination of eligibility or benefit level, or cannot be obtained. Home visits shall be selected as a method of verification with the applicant/recipient's consent. ISD shall schedule the home visit with the applicant/recipient in advance during normal business hours. ISD shall document the reason for the home visit in the case record.

G. Sworn statements:

(1) If the applicant/recipient has an immediate need for assistance, ISD shall accept and, if necessary, assist the applicant/ recipient to identify necessary factors to be included in the statement, an applicant/recipient's sworn statement to verify one or more eligibility factors when there is:

(a) a reasonable explanation as to why electronic data documentary verification or a collateral contact is not readily available to establish the factors; and

(b) the applicant/recipient's statement does not contradict other credible information received by ISD; in such instances where the statement contradicts the other information, ISD may require additional verification within a reasonable time after approval and authorization of assistance: an applicant/recipient who objects to such an additional request for information shall have the right to request and receive a fair hearing.

(2) A sworn statement is defined as the applicant/ recipient's statement signed under penalty of perjury.

[8.100.130.9 NMAC - Rp 8.100.130.9 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.100.130.10 SELECTION OF VERIFICATION:

Verification shall be requested only when necessary to establish a specific eligibility factor or benefit amount for a program and is not available or acceptable from an electronic source, in accordance with other benefit requirements. The method of verification which is selected to establish eligibility on a factor is determined through discussion between ISD and the applicant/recipient.

A. Only necessary verification: ISD shall only request verification which is necessary to establish eligibility or benefit amounts for the assistance program(s) for which the applicant/recipient has applied.

B. Ready availability: The determination that verification is readily available will be made through discussion with the applicant/ recipient. A readily available document is one which can be obtained by the applicant/recipient within five working days and at no cost to the applicant/recipient.

C. Verification of a negative statement: Verification, other than by sworn statement, of a negative statement shall not be required unless the statement is or becomes questionable as defined in 8.100.130.12 NMAC and at least one specific method of verifying the statement is readily available. A negative statement is a statement by an applicant/recipient that something does not exist or did not occur. Negative statements may be discussed with the applicant/recipient depending on the applicant/recipient's circumstances.

D. Verifying more than one factor: To the extent possible, ISD shall use a document to establish more than one eligibility factor.

8.100.130.11 TIMEFRAME FOR PROVISION OF VERIFICATION:

An applicant/recipient is always allowed the complete time processing deadline for the program to provide necessary verification. The minimum amount of time allowed is specific to the program. This requirement pertains to requests for verification for initial applications as well as for verification for ongoing eligibility. Below are the time frames for provision of verification by type of assistance. ISD shall make an eligibility decision within three work days of the receipt of all necessary verification.

A. Food assistance and NMW/EWP cash assistance programs: The application disposition deadline for SNAP and cash assistance programs is 30 calendar days.

(1) Expedited (emergency) SNAP: If applicant is eligible for expedited SNAP processing, issue benefits no later than the sixth day following the date of application to be available to the applicant/recipient on the seventh day or the preceding work day if the sixth day falls on a weekend or holiday.

(2) Day 1: Calendar day following date of application.

(3) Approvals: If verification provided establishes eligibility and the 30th calendar day after the application is:

(a) Monday by the preceding Friday, the 27th day;

(b) Tuesday by the preceding Monday, the 29th day;

(c) Wednesday by the preceding Tuesday, the 29th day;

(d) Thursday by the preceding Wednesday, the 29th day;

(e) Friday by the preceding Thursday, the 29th day;

(f) Saturday by the preceding Friday, the 29th day;

(g) Sunday by the preceding Friday, the 28th day;

(h) Monday holiday by the preceding Friday, the 27th day;

(i) if necessary verification is not received by these deadlines but is received on or before the end of the processing period, approve on the day that full verification is provided.

(4) Need- based determination: ISD must make a need-based eligibility determination for SNAP within 30 days of the date of the application or by the preceding work day if the 30th day falls on a weekend or holiday, if all mandatory verification has been received, with the following specific provisions. If one or more household members have failed to turn in mandatory individual verification that is not required for all the mandatory members of a household, ISD will deny those members missing verification, and will determine eligibility for the remaining members.

(5) Procedural denials:

(a) Lack of verification: In cases where ISD was able to conduct an interview and request all necessary verification on the same day or any day before the 30th day after the application was filed, and no subsequent requests for verification have been made, ISD may deny the application on the 30th day. Following the day of application, if ISD provided assistance to the household in obtaining the verification in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(f)(5), but the household failed to provide the requested verification, ISD may deny the application on the 30th day after the application was filed.

(b) Missed interview: If the household failed to appear for a scheduled interview and made no subsequent contact with ISD to express interest in pursuing the application, the application shall be denied on the 30th day following the day of application. The household must file a new application if it wishes to participate in the program.

(6) Extension of time beyond the 30th day: If ISD does not determine a household's eligibility and provide an opportunity to participate within 30 days following the date the application was filed, ISD shall take action in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(h).

(a) Household caused: If by the 30th day ISD cannot take any further action due to the fault of the household, the household shall lose its entitlement to benefits for the month of application and a notice of denial shall be issued. The household will be given an additional 30 days to take the required action.

(i) If the household takes the required action within 60 days following the date of application, the case shall be reopened without requiring a new application. If the household is found eligible during the second 30 day period, benefits shall be provided only from the month following the month of application. The household is not entitled to benefits for the month of application when the delay was the fault of the household.

(ii) If the household is at fault for not completing the application process within 60 days following the date of initial application, ISD shall deny the application and require the household to file a new application if it wishes to participate.

(b) ISD caused:

(i) Whenever a delay in the initial 30 day period is the fault of ISD, immediate corrective action shall be taken. If the household is found to be eligible during the second 30 day period, the household shall be entitled to benefits retroactive to the date of application. If, however, the household is found to be ineligible, ISD shall deny the application.

(ii) If ISD is at fault for not completing the application process by the end of the second 30-day period, and the case is otherwise complete, ISD shall continue to process the original application until an eligibility determination is reached.

(iii) If ISD is at fault for not completing the application process by the end of the second 30-day period, but the case is not complete enough to reach an eligibility determination, ISD may continue to process the original application, If ISD was also at fault for the delay in the initial 30 days, the amount of benefits lost would be calculated from the month following the month of application.

B. Medical assistance: As per 42 CFR 435.912 (c)(3), the determination of eligibility for any medicaid applicant may not exceed:

(1) 90 days for applicants who apply for medicaid on the basis of disability; and

(2) 45 days for all other medicaid applicants.

C. The 45-day processing timeframe is the following:

(1) Day 1: The date of application is the first day.

(2) No later than day 44 by the preceding work day if day 44 falls on a weekend or holiday:

(a) if verification provided establishes eligibility or ineligibility; or

(b) if the day following day 44 is not a work day, then decision must be made earlier than day 44 to allow for mailing on or before the deadline.

(3) No later than day 45 by the next work day if day 45 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is not provided until day 42 through 44.

(4) Day 45 by the next work day if day 45 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is provided on day 45, or is not provided.

(5) After day 45:

(a) When an applicant/recipient requests one or more 10-day extensions of time to provide needed verification. An applicant/recipient is entitled to receive up to three 10-day extensions of time upon request.

(b) The eligibility decision must be made as soon as possible and within three work days of receipt of all necessary verification.

(c) HCA provides a reasonable opportunity period to individuals who have made a declaration of citizenship or satisfactory immigration status in accordance with 8.200.410.13 NMAC.

D. The 90-day processing timeframe is the following: An application for medicaid shall be processed no later than 90 days from the date the application is filed.

(1) No later than day 89: by the previous work day if day 89 falls on a weekend or holiday:

(a) if verification provided establishes eligibility or ineligibility; or

(b) if day following day 89 is not a work day, then decision must be made earlier than day 89 to allow for mailing on or before deadline.

(2) No later than day 90 by the next work day if day 90 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is not provided until day 87 through 89.

(3) Day 90 by the next work day if day 90 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is provided on day 90, or is not provided. The eligibility decision must be made as soon as possible and within three-work days of receipt of all necessary verification.

E. General assistance: An application for general assistance shall be processed no later than 90 days from the date the application is filed.

(1) No later than day 89: by the previous work day if day 89 falls on a weekend or holiday:

(a) if verification provided establishes eligibility or ineligibility; or

(b) if day following day 89 is not a work day, then decision must be made earlier than day 89 to allow for mailing on or before deadline.

(2) No later than day 90 by the next work day if day 90 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is not provided until day 87 through 89. The only exceptions are days with system maintenance activities and network outage or down time.

(3) Day 90 by the next work day if day 90 falls on a weekend or holiday, if needed verification is provided on day 90. The eligibility decision must be made as soon as possible and within three- work days of receipt of all necessary verification.

(4) If needed verification is not provided, case must be processed on day 90.

(5) Reconsideration: A reconsideration of a disability determination may be requested, verbally or in writing, by a client within 15 days of the date of the denial for not meeting conditions of disability. The reconsideration period shall not exceed 30 days from the date of denial. Disability will be evaluated based on additional medical evidence provided by the client during the reconsideration period. Should no request be made or the client does not provide additional medical evidence during the reconsideration period the denial shall remain and the client may reapply.

(6) Tracking the application processing time limit: The application processing time limit begins on the day after the signed application is received in the ISD county office.

(7) Delayed determination: If an eligibility determination is not made within the required application processing time limit, the applicant/recipient shall be notified in writing of the reason for the delay and that the applicant/ recipient has the right to request a fair hearing regarding ISD's failure to act within the time limits. Where applicable, NMAC subsections for specific programs detail how delays will be notified.

8.100.130.12 QUESTIONABLE INFORMATION/VERIFICATION:

A. To be considered questionable, incomplete or inadequate, the information or verification must be documented as one of the following:

(1) inconsistent with statements made by the applicant/recipient;

(2) inconsistent with other information on the application or previous applications;

(3) inconsistent with credible information received by ISD;

(4) questionable on its face.

B. Resolving questionable information: Upon receiving questionable, incomplete or inadequate verification needed to determine an applicant/recipient's eligibility or benefit amount, ISD shall promptly provide the applicant/ recipient a notice which shall include the following:

(1) advise the applicant/recipient of the receipt of the information;

(2) why it is questionable, incomplete or inadequate;

(3) the additional information that must be provided;

(4) the alternative methods of providing the information,

(6) that the applicant/recipient may discuss with ISD whether any other readily available verification is acceptable;

(7) that ISD is available to assist the applicant/ recipient if the information is not readily available; and

(8) that a failure to supply the needed information or contact ISD by the deadline may result in a delay, a denial of eligibility, a reduction in the amount of benefits or termination of benefits.

If the law enforcement agency does not indicate that it intends to enforce the felony warrant or arrest the individual for the probation or parole violation within 30 days of the date of ISD's request for information about the warrant, ISD shall determine that the individual is not a fleeing felon or a probation or parole violator and document the household's case file accordingly. If the law enforcement agency indicates that it does intend to enforce the felony warrant or arrest the individual for the probation or parole violation within 30 days of the date of ISD's request for information, ISD will postpone taking any action on the case until the 30-day period has expired. 8.100.180.13 FRAUD:

If the agency obtains facts indicating that FA or MA should be suspended, terminated or reduced because of probable fraud by the recipient which has been verified, if possible, by collateral sources, notice of the action being taken is mailed at least five days before the action is to become effective.

8.100.180.14 CONTINUATION OF BENEFITS:

If a fair hearing request is filed, benefits are continued, under the circumstances described below, until the fair hearing determination is completed.

A. Timely requests:

(1) Advance notice: If a household requests a fair hearing within the advance notice period provided by the advance adverse action notice, and its certification period has not expired, the household's participation in the program is continued on the same basis authorized immediately before the adverse action notice, unless the household specifically waives a continuation of benefits.

(2) All fair hearing request forms contain a space for a household to indicate whether or not continuation of benefits is requested. If the form does not positively indicate that the household has waived continuation of benefits, the ISS assumes that continuation of benefits is desired and the benefits are issued accordingly. Such benefits are continued until the end of the certification period or the resolution of the fair hearing, whichever is first.

B. Concurrent notice: If a benefit group requests a fair hearing within 13 days of issuance of a concurrent adverse action notice, and its certification period has not expired, cash assistance, food stamps and medicaid benefits are reinstated. Unless other intervening changes occur, assistance is not reduced or terminated, nor may the manner or form of payment be changed to a protective payment, during the period until the hearing decision is rendered, except as provided in regulations at 8.100.180.10 and 8.100.180.15.

(1) Additionally, receipt of continued benefits ends if a determination is made at the hearing that the sole issue is one of federal policy or law, or change in such policy or law, and not one of incorrect grant computation.

(2) If a later change affecting the client's grant occurs while the hearing decision is pending and the client does not request a hearing regarding the change, the payment which the client continues to receive during the hearing period is adjusted only by the amount required by the change.

(3) If assistance is to be continued, it is continued through the end of the month in which a decision on the hearing is reached.

(4) If hearing decisions are delayed, assistance is continued only if the delay is caused by HCA or if a delay of five days or less is requested by the client because of unusual circumstances beyond the client's control.

C. Late requests:

(1) If a hearing request is not made within the period provided by the adverse action notice, benefits are reduced or terminated as provided in the notice.

(2) If a client demonstrates that failure to make the request within the advance notice period was for good cause, benefits are reinstated to the previous level. The hearing unit supervisor decides if the failure was for good cause.

8.100.180.15 MASS CHANGES:

A. General: Certain changes initiated by the state or federal government may affect the entire caseload or significant portions of it. These changes include, but are not limited to, increases or decreases in eligibility or payment standards changes in excluded or deducted items or amounts. Mass changes affecting income include annual adjustments of Social Security, SSI, and other federal benefit programs, and any other changes in eligibility criteria based on legislative or regulatory actions.

B. Notice of mass changes: Adverse action notices are required for mass changes resulting from statutory or regulatory changes in eligibility or payment standards, benefit, changes in excluded or deducted items or amounts for purposes of eligibility or calculation of benefit levels. The HCA will either provide concurrent notice to affected households of the mass change no later than the date the household receives, or would have received, its benefit issuance, or the affected cases will be notified through the media, and posters in county offices.

C. Appeal rights: Notice of the change will include the recipient's right to appeal. A hearing is not available, and benefits are not continued, when automatic benefit adjustments are required by federal or state law unless the specific, express basis for the hearing request is incorrect benefit computation. If the recipient requests a fair hearing within the advance notice period, benefits will be continued at the former amount. If the appeal results in a decision that the reduction or closure was incorrect, the difference between what the recipient received pending the appeal decision and the amount that should have been received will be restored to the recipient.

If a client and the ISS disagree about the continuation of benefits, the client may request a fair hearing. Adverse action defined. "Adverse action" is action taken by HCA which adversely affects the amount of benefits a client receives. Such actions include holding mailing of assistance warrants, and suspension, reduction or termination of benefits.

The worker shall give advance notice to an applicant or recipient of any visit to the applicant's or recipient's home.

A. Verbal notice: The advance notice may be in the form of a verbal communication between the worker and the applicant or recipient. The time and date of the visit must be mutually agreeable and should, in most cases, be made at least one day in advance of the visit. The worker shall provide an explanation of the need for the visit to the applicant or recipient. The worker shall document the discussion in the case narrative and provide a justification if the period of advance notice is any less than one day.

B. Written notice: The home visit notice may be written. The written notice shall be mailed at least 10 days in advance of the intended visit. The notice shall indicate the time, date, and purpose of the visit. The notice shall request the applicant or recipient to confirm the appointment date with the worker. In the absence of a response from the applicant or recipient, the visit shall take place and the applicant or recipient is expected to be at home for the visit.

8.100.390.8 FORMS ANALYSIS, DESIGN, MANAGEMENT:

A. Official form defined: An official form is any form with the HCA logo and a number assigned in central office. An official form must include a statement as to the purpose of the form and instructions for completion, distribution, and retention of the form.

(1) All statements regarding participant rights and responsibilities which appear on forms must be exactly as they are in the policy manual.

(2) Forms used in ISD field offices will be indexed in the forms manual.

B. Forms covered by these procedures and forms not covered by these procedures: All forms used in ISD county offices and intended for public use are to be developed in accordance with these procedures. Forms intended for internal office use only may be developed by an office without using these procedures. Internal use forms are forms not sent out of the office and not used, received, or reviewed by program participants.

C. Sources for new and revised forms and pamphlets: New forms and pamphlets, and revisions to existing forms and pamphlets, may be proposed and developed by each division, as well as other HCA staff. In addition, the public information officer may also initiate new pamphlets and revisions to existing pamphlets in coordination with the appropriate program staff.

D. Assigning form numbers: Each division is responsible for developing its own forms numbering system. Numbering systems should appear in some reasonable order. It is recommended that this be done in the order in which forms are used in case processing. Sufficient space should be left between form numbers to allow for expansion of the system.

E. Responsibilities:

(1) Forms-program specific: The division, or program area responsible for the policy which is addressed by a form will have primary responsibility for the development and revision of the form. Each division will assign its own form numbers and maintain a log of its form numbers. A central log of all form numbers will also be kept by the graphics unit.

(2) ISD forms-program shared: Forms which are shared by more than one program and forms which do not involve any specific program will be assigned the suffix "ISD." The ISD form numbers log will be maintained by the ISD forms manager. The division or program area which proposes a new form or revision to an existing form will have primary responsibility for developing the new form or revising the existing form. The cost of producing the new or revised form will be prorated among the program areas which rely on the form. This proration will be based on caseload size.

(3) Forms-other sources: If the proposal for a new form or a revision comes from a field staff person or unit, the appropriate program, or division will review and approve the form prior to submission to the forms advisory team

(4) Pamphlets: Pamphlets should provide information and improve access to HCA programs. The most common purposes for the development of pamphlets are:

(a) HCA implements new programs;

(b) HCA makes significant policy changes; or

(c) auxiliary services are available.

(5) Responsibility for each pamphlet will reside with the which has primary responsibility for the policy issues addressed in the pamphlet. The unit which originates and develops the pamphlet will have responsibility for the distribution of the pamphlet within the HCA and elsewhere as required by the governing federal oversight agency. The public information officer will handle any other distribution of the pamphlet.

(6) All other situations: In the absence of clear responsibility, the forms advisory team will assign responsibility for the design and development of the new or revised form. The division forms manager is available for consultation on forms manual issues.

F. Forms review procedures: All proposed new forms will be typed or printed in draft for review. Drafts of revisions to existing forms will be submitted on copies of the existing forms with changes marked clearly in red. Once the draft of the form and its instructions are complete, it may be necessary for the draft and instructions to be submitted to various agencies for review. Not all forms will be reviewed. Some will be reviewed in all four areas below and some will receive no review in these areas.

(1) Literacy review: All applications and forms pertaining to the eligibility process must be reviewed for appropriate literacy level. This will be accomplished by the office which develops the new form or revises an existing form.

(2) Review by general counsel: Any form to be sent to or completed by HCA clients or applicants must be reviewed by the HCA Office of general counsel in order to assure compliance with current legal standards. All drafts of pamphlets and informational items for general distribution to the public must also be reviewed by the office of general counsel before being sent to the public information officer for final approval.

(3) Approval by the public information officer: Following review by the office of general counsel, all drafts of pamphlets and informational items for general distribution to the public will be sent to the public information officer for final approval (see PIO-033.1).

(4) Review by inspector general: Forms authorizing certain payment, e.g. client medical travel expense, may also require review by the office of the inspector general. This requirement may change periodically. Those developing or revising forms of this nature should first consult with the OIG. Forms requiring review in any of these areas must be returned for re-review if any changes are made.

G. Forms advisory team review: After the new or revised form has been given all necessary review, the form and its instructions will be forwarded to the ISD forms manager. The forms manager will acknowledge receipt of the form and notify the primary program of the date of the review by the forms advisory team. A member of the program staff should be present when the forms advisory team meets to review the new or revised form.

(1) For new and revised forms, the forms advisory team will consider:

(a) Does the form address a new policy or program change?

(b) Does the form address a significant policy change?

(c) Is a form necessary or would clear procedural instructions meet the needs of implementation?

(d) If the form is necessary, is it user friendly and time efficient, and will it enhance the accuracy rate of the HCA?

(2) For revised forms, the forms advisory team will also require that one of the following three conditions be met:

(a) the current form no longer addresses all policy issues;

(b) the revision will streamline the user's completion of the form; or

(c) the revision is necessary to comply with audit/accountability/program policy requirements.

(3) Once the form has been reviewed and approved by the forms advisory team, it will be returned to the originating staff for submission to the graphics unit for printing.

(1) quantity;

(2) dimensions;

(3) weight and type of paper;

(4) color of paper and inks;

(5) multiple copies;

(6) padding;

(7) stapling;

(8) drilling;

(9) stitching;

(10) wrapping;

(11) and any other special instructions.

B. The graphics unit will prepare a camera ready copy and contact the GSD state printing facility to obtain a price quote for the preparation of the procurement document. The graphics unit will return the price quote with the specifications to the originating staff who will prepare the procurement document. A copy of the camera ready will be reviewed, approved, and signed for by the originating staff. After approval and signature by the originating staff, the graphics unit will submit the camera ready to the GSD's state printing facility for printing. In some instances, camera readies may be copied at the HCA copy center. This decision will be made by the originating staff.

A. The department will correct the error by restoring benefits for an underpayment or establishing claims for an overpayment.

B. SNAP: The amount of the restoration or claim is determined by using the maximum SNAP benefit amount and applying the allowable deductions in place for a particular month, including any federal law placing a restriction on the use of deductions.

(a) agency error;

(b) SNAP administrative disqualification for IPV that is later reversed; or

(c) a regulation specifically requiring restoration of lost benefits.

(2) Unless there is a specific regulation authorizing benefit restoration for a longer period, SNAP benefits will be restored for not more than the twelve (12) months prior to whichever of the following occurred first:

(a) date the department receives a request for restoration from an eligibility determination group; or

(b) date the department is notified or otherwise discovers that a loss to an eligibility determination group has occurred; or

(c) If the judicial action is a review of the department's action, benefits will be restored for a period of not more than twelve (12) months from the first of the following dates:

(i) date the department receives a request for restoration;

(ii) if a request for restoration is not received, date the fair hearing action was initiated; but never more than one (1) year from the date the department is notified of, or discovers, the loss.

(3) Disqualification for SNAP IPV:

(a) For each month an eligibility determination group member is erroneously disqualified, not to exceed twelve (12) months, the amount to be restored is determined by comparing the SNAP benefit amount the eligibility determination group received with the amount the eligibility determination group would have received if the disqualified member had been allowed to participate.

(b) Participation in an administrative disqualification hearing in which the eligibility determination group is contesting the department's assertion of IPV is considered notification that the eligibility determination group is requesting restored SNAP benefits.

(1) SNAP: Regardless of whether an eligibility determination group is currently eligible or ineligible, the department shall restore lost benefits to an eligibility determination group by issuing an amount equal to the amount of benefits that were lost. The amount restored is issued in addition to the benefit amount a currently eligible eligibility determination group is entitled to receive.

(a) For each month affected by the loss, the department shall determine if the eligibility determination group was actually eligible.

(b) In cases where there is no information in the eligibility determination group's case record to document that the eligibility determination group was actually eligible, the department shall notify the eligibility determination group in writing of what information is necessary to determine eligibility for these months. For each month the eligibility determination group cannot provide the necessary information to demonstrate its eligibility, the eligibility determination group will be determined ineligible.

(2) Cash assistance programs: The department shall restore lost cash assistance benefits for eligibility determination groups who are currently eligible under the cash assistance program that the error occurred or would be eligible except for the error causing the underpayment.

(a) A restoration to a denied applicant or to a former participant who is not eligible at the time the error is discovered shall be corrected if the applicant is, or participant becomes, eligible at a later date.

(b) Before issuing a benefit correcting an underpayment, the department subtracts from the amount owed to the participant any outstanding claim against the participant in the cash assistance program that the error is being corrected.

(3) Medical assistance programs: The department shall restore months of eligibility for individuals who are currently eligible under the medical assistance program that the error occurred or would be eligible except for the error causing the ineligibility.

8.100.640.11 OVERPAYMENTS (CLAIMS AGAINST ELIGIBILITY DETERMINATION GROUPS):

The department shall take action to establish a claim against any eligibility determination group that received more benefits than it was entitled to receive, including LIHEAP benefits paid to a vendor on behalf of the eligibility determination group, whether or not the overpayment occurred because of an IHE, an AE, or an IPV.

A. Claim recovery:

(1) All adult eligibility determination group members will be jointly liable for any overpayment of benefits to the eligibility determination group.

(2) A claim will be established against any or all of the adult members of an eligibility determination group at the time an overpayment occurred.

(3) A claim will be established against any eligibility determination group that contains an adult member who was an adult member of another eligibility determination group that received more benefits than it was entitled to receive.

(4) The earned income deduction of twenty percent (20%) is not allowed when determining an overpayment due to the failure of an eligibility determination group to report earned income in a timely manner.

B. Types of claims for all programs:

(1) IHE claims:

(a) A claim will be handled as an IHE claim if the overpayment was caused by:

(i) the misunderstanding or unintended error on the part of the eligibility determination group; or

(ii) the misunderstanding or unintended error on the part of a categorically eligible eligibility determination group, provided that a claim can be calculated based on a change in the eligibility determination group's net income, eligibility determination group size, or both; or

(iii) a social security administration action, or failure to take action, resulting in an eligibility determination group becoming or continuing categorical eligibility, provided that a claim can be calculated based on a change in net income, eligibility determination group size, or both.

(b) Instances of IHE's that may result in a claim include, but are not limited to, the following:

(i) eligibility determination group unintentionally failed to provide the department with correct or complete information; or

(ii) eligibility determination group unintentionally failed to report changes in its circumstances; or

(iii) eligibility determination group unintentionally received benefits or received more benefits than it was entitled to receive pending a fair hearing decision because the eligibility determination group requested a continuation of benefits based on the mistaken belief it was entitled to them; or

(iv) eligibility determination group received benefits solely because of categorical eligibility, but was later determined ineligible for cash assistance; or

(v) social security administration took action or failed to take appropriate action, resulting in the eligibility determination group improperly receiving supplemental security income (SSI).

(2) Administrative or agency errors:

(a) A claim will be handled as an AE claim if the overpayment was caused by the department's action or failure to take action.

(b) In the case of a SNAP categorical eligibility, a claim will be handled as an AE if action by an agency of the state or local government resulted in the eligibility determination group's improper eligibility for cash assistance.

C. IPV claims established for SNAP:

(1) A claim will be handled as an IPV claim only if:

(a) an administrative disqualification hearing official or a court of appropriate jurisdiction has determined that an eligibility determination group member committed an IPV; or

(b) an individual is disqualified as a result of signing a waiver of disqualification hearing in a case referred for prosecution; or

(c) an individual has signed a disqualification consent agreement in a case of deferred adjudication; or

(d) an individual has signed a waiver of an administrative disqualification hearing in a case referred for disqualification.

(2) Before the determination of an IPV or the signing of either the waiver of right to a disqualification hearing or a disqualification consent agreement, the claim against an eligibility determination group is handled as an IHE claim.

D. Claims for medical assistance benefits: Upon a determination that the individual is not eligible for the category of assistance in which they were enrolled, the department shall determine if the individual is eligible for any category of assistance. If the individual is ineligible for any category, the department shall determine which months the individual was not eligible and forward the documentation to the medical assistance division for the determination of repayment of fee for service payments or the capitation payments made to the health maintenance organization on behalf of the individual for months the individual was not eligible for the category of assistance. The department will pursue the repayment of capitation amounts paid to the health maintenance organization for the months the individual was ineligible for any medical assistance programs and received medical services.

E. Development of information: When quality control review findings, or information reported or received indicate, that benefits may have been issued incorrectly; the department shall attempt to obtain and verify whether benefits were provided in error.

F. When claims are not established: Overpayment claims shall not be established for administrative or IHE's, if an over-issuance occurred because the department did not ensure that the following procedural requirements were fulfilled:

(1) an application form was signed; or

(2) appropriate work registration code was entered.

G. Claim establishment threshold: Claims for SNAP, cash assistance and LIHEAP will not be established when the cumulative amount of the claim is less than the establishment thresholds.

(1) Claims for all programs resulting from an administrative error will not be established if the cumulative claim is less than five hundred dollars ($500).

(2) Claims resulting from an IHE will not be established if the cumulative error is less than two hundred fifty dollars ($250).

(3) Claims resulting from fraud or an IPV will always be established for the full amount of the overpayment.

[8.100.640.11 NMAC - N, 09/30/2013]

8.100.640.12 CALCULATING THE AMOUNT OF THE ERROR (CALCULATING CLAIMS) :

A. SNAP:

(1) Calculating the claim for an IHE and AE: For each month that benefits have been over-issued to an eligibility determination group because of an IHE or AE, the department shall determine the correct benefit amount the eligibility determination group was entitled to receive.

(a) The total amount of the claim is calculated, based at a minimum, on the monthly overpayment amount which occurred during the twelve (12) months preceding the date the overpayment was discovered.

(b) The department shall calculate the amount of the claim back to the month the error occurred regardless of the length of time that elapsed until the error was discovered.

(c) The department shall not include in the calculation any overpayment amount that occurred in a month more than six (6) years before the date the overpayment was discovered.

(2) Calculating the claim for an IPV:

(a) For each month that benefits have been over-issued to an eligibility determination group because of an IPV, the department shall determine the correct amount of benefits the eligibility determination group was entitled to receive.

(b) The amount of the IPV claim will be calculated back to the month the IPV occurred, regardless of the length of time that elapsed until the determination of an IPV was made.

(c) The department may not include in the calculation any amount of the overpayment that occurred in a month more than six (6) years prior to the date the overpayment was discovered.

(d) If an eligibility determination group member is determined to have committed an IPV by intentionally failing to report a change in eligibility determination group circumstances, the first month affected by the failure to report will be the first month in which the change would have been effective if it had been timely reported.

(e) In no event shall the department determine as the first month that the change would have been effective any month later than two (2) months after the month that the change in eligibility determination group circumstances occurred.

(f) If an eligibility determination group received a larger benefit amount than it was entitled to receive, a claim will be established against the eligibility determination group equal to the difference between the benefit amount the eligibility determination group received and the amount the eligibility determination group should have received.

(g) Earned income deduction penalty: When determining the amount of benefits the eligibility determination group should have received, the twenty percent (20%) earned income deduction is not applied to that portion of earned income that the eligibility determination group intentionally failed to report. A claim must be recomputed if it was initially handled as an IHE claim.

(3) Offsetting the claim: Once the amount of the claim for IPV, IHE, and AE is established, the department may offset the amount of the claim against any benefit amount not yet restored to the eligibility determination group. Action must be taken to initiate collection of the remaining balance, if any.

B. Cash assistance programs:

(1) Claims for administrative and client caused errors: Claims are established when the department issues more than the eligibility determination group was eligible to receive due to an AE or if the eligibility determination group fails, either intentionally or unintentionally, to report correct information at application or while receiving benefits.

(a) For each month of eligibility, the grant determinations are made using the standard of need, case information and policy in effect for that month.

(b) The department shall recover all cash assistance overpayments, including overpayments resulting from an AE, and any assistance paid while pending a fair hearing decision.

(c) An historical change that results in a lower payment than was originally issued, results in an overpayment and the establishment of a claim if it exceeds the claims establishment thresholds listed in Subsection G of 8.100.640.11 NMAC.

(d) If a change occurs that makes the eligibility determination group eligible for a lower benefit payment for a month, the adult member(s) of the eligibility benefit group is responsible for paying the difference back to the department.

(e) If a change occurs that lowers the standard of need for which the eligibility determination group is eligible, the eligibility determination group shall be allowed the amount that they were eligible on the first day of the month.

(2) Overpayments to sponsored aliens:

(a) Aliens and sponsors are jointly liable for overpayments caused by failure of the sponsor to provide correct information, unless the sponsor is without fault or has good cause. "Without fault" or "good cause" exists when:

(i) the agency failed to request information from the sponsor; or

(ii) the sponsor can show that the sponsor provided all information available to the sponsor at the time the information was provided;

(iii) the alien provided incorrect information without the knowledge of the sponsor; or

(iv) the sponsor can show that the giving of incorrect information was not intentional on the part of the sponsor.

(b) If good cause is found to exist, the alien has sole responsibility for repayment.

(3) Developing substantiating information:

(a) Upon receiving indication that a possible error exists, the department shall investigate whether an erroneous payment has occurred. Pertinent information shall be requested from the participant. Because this information may be used to prosecute the participant for fraud, the participant shall not be required to provide such information; however, if the participant declines to provide information crucial to the determination of overpayment, the participant shall be ineligible for the period in question because of failure or refusal to provide information.

(b) The same standards shall be used in determining erroneous payments as are used to determine initial and ongoing eligibility and payment.

(c) The participant must be periodically reminded of the reporting responsibilities and must indicate, no less frequently than at every certification, that the participant understands these requirements. This requirement is met by the use of a department form that reminds participants at each certification of their reporting responsibilities. This form also serves as the participant's statement that the participant understands the reporting responsibilities. If it is determined that a participant may have difficulty understanding the reporting responsibilities because of language, literacy, or mental or emotional problems, the department shall supplement the written notice with an oral explanation. All such oral explanations must be documented in the case record.

(d) The participant shall become ineligible on a continuing basis if there is a continuing failure to provide information affecting the participant's current eligibility.

(4) Offsetting the claim: Once the amount of the claim for IPV, IHE and AE is established, any restoration the eligibility determination group is eligible to receive is reduced or offset by the amount of the claim. Action must be taken to initiate collection of the remaining balance, if any.

C. LIHEAP:

(1) A claim shall be established for LIHEAP benefits that have been overpaid regardless of the reason of the overpayment.

(2) The department may establish a claim that exceeds the claim establishment threshold, as identified in Subsection G of 8.100.640.11 NMAC, for LIHEAP benefits overpaid up to six (6) years prior to the date the overpayment occurred.

(3) Offsetting the claim: A benefit amount may be offset during the issuance process in order to recover a LIHEAP overpayment. The amount that is offset shall be conveyed to the restitutions bureau to be applied to the eligibility determination group's overpayment.

D. Claims involving reported changes: In cases involving reported changes, the department shall determine the first month the overpayment occurred.

(1) Inadvertent household error: If caused by an inadvertent error on the part of the eligibility determination group (failure to report a change in circumstances within the required time frames), the first month affected by the eligibility determination group's failure to report is the first month in which the change would have been effective if it had been reported timely. In no event will the department determine as the first month in which the change would have been effective any month later than two (2) months from the month in which the change in eligibility determination group's circumstances occurred.

(2) Agency error: If an eligibility determination group reported a change timely but the department did not act on the change within the required time frame, the change should have taken effect the first month following the reported change, if it had been acted upon within the time frame. In no event shall the department determine as the first month in which the change would have been effective any month later than two (2) months from the month in which the change in eligibility determination group circumstances occurred. If an adverse action notice was required but was not provided, the department shall assume for the purpose of calculating the claim that the maximum advance notice period would have expired without the eligibility determination group requesting a fair hearing.

8.100.640.13 RECOVERY (COLLECTION ACTION):

The department shall initiate collection action by sending the eligibility determination group an overpayment notice.

A. Adverse action notice: If the amount of the claim was not established by a fair hearing decision, the eligibility determination group will be provided with an adverse action notice. The adverse action notice is sent on all claims established after March 26, 1990 and on any preexisting claims if at any time after March 26, 1990 a follow-up demand letter is sent on the claim. A one-time adverse action notice that informs the eligibility determination group that it has ninety (90) days to appeal the amount of the claim will satisfy notice requirements.

B. Demand letter: Collection action is initiated by sending the eligibility determination group a demand letter. The demand letter informs the eligibility determination group of the claim amount, the reason for the claim, time period for which there is a claim, any offset that reduces the claim and how the eligibility determination group may pay the claim. The first demand letter to a participating eligibility determination group shall inform the eligibility determination group:

(1) that unless the eligibility determination group selects an acceptable method of payment and informs the department within the specified time limit, or timely requests a fair hearing and continued benefits, their SNAP benefit amount will be reduced;

(2) that benefit reduction will affect the eligibility determination group's monthly benefits, only if the department has not otherwise informed the eligibility determination group;

(3) that if the eligibility determination group timely selects an acceptable benefit reduction amount, the reduction will begin with the first benefit month that is issued after the selection;

(4) that if the eligibility determination group fails to make a timely selection or fails to request a fair hearing and continued benefits, the benefit reduction will be effective with the first benefit issued after timely notice of such selection or request for hearing is due to the department; and

(5) advise the eligibility determination group of any individual or organization that provides free legal representation.

C. Collection action:

(1) Initiating action: The department shall initiate collection action on all claims unless the claim is collected through an offset or one of the following conditions applies:

(a) the total amount of the claim is less than the established claims threshold outlined in Subsection G of 8.100.640.11 NMAC, and the claim cannot be recovered by reducing the eligibility determination group's SNAP benefit amount; or

(b) the department has documentation that establishes the eligibility determination group cannot be located.

(2) Postponing action: Collection action will be postponed on claims where an eligibility determination group is being referred for possible prosecution or for administrative disqualification, and the determination is made that collection action will prejudice the case.

(3) Collection action: Restitution bureau shall pursue collection as specified in 8.100.640.13 NMAC.

D. SNAP Intentional program violation (IPV):

(1) Initiating collection: If an eligibility determination group member is found to have committed an IPV or has signed either a waiver or a disqualification consent agreement, the department shall initiate collection action against the individual's eligibility determination group. Personal contact with the eligibility determination group is made, if possible. The department is required to initiate such collection unless:

(a) the eligibility determination group has repaid the overpayment already; or

(b) the department has documentation establishing that the eligibility determination group cannot be located; or

(c) the department determines that collection action will prejudice the case against an eligibility determination group member referred for prosecution.

(2) Partially paid claim: The department shall initiate collection action for an unpaid or partially paid claim, even if collection action was previously initiated while the claim was being handled as an IHE claim.

(3) In cases where an eligibility determination group member has been found guilty of misrepresentation or fraud by a court or has signed a disqualification consent agreement in a case referred for prosecution, the department shall request that the matter of restitution be brought before the court or be addressed in the agreement reached between the prosecutor and the accused individual.

(4) Changes in eligibility determination group composition:

(a) Collection action will be initiated by the restitution bureau against the eligibility determination group containing the member found to have committed an IPV.

(b) If a change in eligibility determination group composition occurs, collection action is pursued against any or all of the adult members of an eligibility determination group at the time an overpayment occurred.

(c) Collection action is pursued against any eligibility determination group which has a member who was an adult member of the eligibility determination group that received the overpayment.

E. Fraud exception: Notice of overpayment and administrative hearings rights shall not be given if the department has decided to pursue criminal prosecution for fraud. In such cases, the participant's notice of rights are limited to those afforded by state criminal statutes. No attempt shall be made by department staff to recover overpayments in such cases, nor shall any offers to refund the overpayment be accepted by the county office.

F. Recovery action:

(1) Overpayments of less than $1,000: Overpayments of less than one thousand dollars ($1,000) to currently eligible cases shall be immediately processed by the department for recoupment.

(2) Overpayments over $1,000: Overpayments of more than one thousand dollars ($1,000) to currently eligible cases shall be referred to the office of inspector general (OIG) for a fraud action decision.

(3) Response to referral:

(a) The department shall be notified by the OIG within thirty (30) days whether fraud action has or will be taken on an open case. If no fraud action is contemplated, the case shall be immediately processed for either recoupment or cash recovery.

(b) If a response is not received from the OIG within thirty (30) days of referral, the county will initiate recoupment from currently eligible cases.

G. Fraud referral:

(1) Fraud elements:

(a) By state statute, Section 30-16-6, NMSA 1978, fraud is the intentional misappropriation or taking of anything of value that belongs to another by means of fraudulent conduct, practices or representations.

(b) Fraud exists when:

(i) a person, by words or conduct, misrepresents facts to the department with the intention to deceive the department; and

(ii) because of the misrepresentation and the department's reliance upon it, the eligibility benefit group has obtained benefits from the department to which they were not entitled.

(2) Referral for investigation: If the department decides that fraud may exist, the case is referred to the OIG for further investigation or possible prosecution.

8.100.640.14 METHODS FOR COLLECTING OVERPAYMENTS:

A. Recoupment: The department shall retain the value of benefits collected to repay a claim against a participating eligibility determination group, whether or not the claim occurred because of an IHE, an AE, or an IPV. The eligibility determination group's monthly SNAP or cash assistance benefit amount will be reduced to recover any amount of a claim that was not repaid through a lump sum cash or SNAP benefit payment, unless a payment schedule has been negotiated with the eligibility determination group. Collection of a claim by the department may also be obtained through recoupment of unemployment compensation benefits, federal pay, income tax intercepts, or any other method established by the department.

(1) Recoupment from monthly benefit allotments: A claim may be recovered from an eligibility determination group currently participating in SNAP or cash assistance programs by reducing the eligibility determination group’s monthly benefit allotment.

(2) Recoupment amount: The amount of benefits that will be recovered each month through benefit reduction will be determined by one the following methods.

(a) SNAP IHE and AE: The amount of reduction will be ten percent (10%) of the eligibility determination group's monthly SNAP benefit amount, or ten dollars ($10) per month, or the agreed amount, whichever is greater.

(b) SNAP IPV: The SNAP benefit amount to be recovered will be twenty percent (20%) of the eligibility determination group's monthly SNAP benefit amount, or twenty dollars ($20) per month, or the agreed amount, whichever is greater.

(c) Cash assistance errors: The cash assistance benefit amount to be recouped is equal to fifteen percent (15%) of the eligibility determination group's payment standard.

(d) Recoupment is the last step in the calculation prior to determining the monthly benefit amount.

B. Cash payment methods:

(1) Lump sum cash:

(a) If the eligibility determination group asks to make a lump sum cash payment or is financially able to repay the claim at one time, the restitution bureau shall collect a lump sum cash payment.

(b) An eligibility determination group will not be required to liquidate all of its resources to make a lump sum payment.

(c) If an eligibility determination group is financially unable to pay the entire amount of the claim at one time and prefers to make a lump sum cash payment as partial payment of the claim, the department shall accept this method of payment.

(d) If an eligibility determination group chooses to make a lump sum payment of benefits from their EBT account as full or partial payment of the claim, the department shall accept this method of repayment, to include:

(i) SNAP benefits to repay a SNAP claim; or

(ii) cash benefits to repay a cash assistance claim or medical assistance claim; or

(iii) cash benefits to repay a SNAP claim.

(2) Installment payment schedules:

(a) The department shall negotiate a payment schedule with the eligibility determination group for repayment of any amounts of the claim not repaid through a lump sum payment.

(b) Payments will be accepted in regular installments.

(c) An eligibility determination group may use its SNAP or cash assistance benefits as full or partial payment of any installment repayment to include:

(i) SNAP benefits to repay a SNAP claim; or

(ii) cash benefits to repay a cash assistance claim or medical assistance claim; or

(iii) cash benefits to repay a SNAP claim.

(3) Repayment of SNAP overpayments:

(a) If an eligibility determination group is currently receiving benefits, and a payment schedule is negotiated for repayment of a claim, the negotiated amount to be repaid each month in installment payments may not be less than the amount that could be recovered through benefit reduction.

(b) The amount to be repaid each month through installment payments will remain unchanged regardless of subsequent changes in the eligibility determination group's monthly SNAP benefit amount.

(4) Repayment of cash assistance overpayments:

(a) Repayments are used to recover cash assistance overpayments from cases no longer receiving cash assistance or where recovery of an overpayment from an active cash assistance case cannot be liquidated within twenty (20) months by recoupment.

(b) The amount the department tries to recover monthly through repayment is based on the following schedule, or, if a court order for repayment exists, in accordance with the court order. If the level of payment sought would cause an extreme hardship on the participant, the restitution bureau may agree to accept a lesser amount. Arrangements for repayments are made by the restitution bureau in all cases, except those where the participant is willing to repay the entire overpayment in a single payment.

(c) Repayment schedule:

Overpayment Amount	Monthly Repayment Payment
$ 35 -$100	$ 5
$101 - $200	$10

$201 - $300	$15
$301 - $400	$20
$401 - $500	$25
$501 - $600	$30
$601 - $700	$35
$701 - $800	$40
$801 - $900	$45
$901 or more	$50

(5) Repayment of LIHEAP benefits:

(a) The eligibility determination group will have forty-five (45) days from the date of notification of the claim amount to repay the claim in full or make arrangements to make regular installments to repay the claim.

(b) The department will initiate collection action to recover the claim amount on day forty-five (45) if the eligibility determination group does not repay or make arrangements to repay the amount owed.

(6) Renegotiating payments: The restitution bureau, the eligibility determination group, or both, have the option to initiate renegotiation of the payment schedule if either or both believes that the eligibility determination group's economic circumstances have changed enough to warrant such action.

(7) Failure to pay: If an eligibility determination group fails to make a payment in accordance with the established repayment schedule, (either a lesser amount is paid, or no payment is made), the restitution bureau shall send the eligibility determination group a notice explaining that no payment or insufficient payment was received.

(a) The notice informs an eligibility determination group that renegotiation of the payment schedule may be discussed with the restitution bureau.

(b) The notice also informs an eligibility determination group that unless the overdue payments are made or the restitution bureau is contacted to discuss renegotiation of the payment schedule, the SNAP benefit amount of a currently participating eligibility determination group against which a claim has been established will be reduced without an adverse action notice.

(c) If the eligibility determination group responds to the notice, one of the following actions will be taken by the restitution bureau.

(i) If the eligibility determination group makes the overdue payments and wishes to continue making payments based on the previous schedule, the eligibility determination group is permitted to do so.

(ii) If the eligibility determination group requests renegotiation, and if the restitution bureau concurs, a new payment schedule will be negotiated.

(iii) If the eligibility determination group requests renegotiation of the amount of its repayment schedule, but the restitution bureau believes that the eligibility determination group's economic circumstances have not changed enough to justify the requested settlement, renegotiation will continue until a settlement can be reached.

(d) The restitution bureau has the option to invoke SNAP benefit reduction against a currently participating eligibility determination group for repayment of a claim if a settlement cannot be reached.

(e) If a currently participating eligibility determination group against which a claim has been established fails to respond to the notice, a benefit reduction will be initiated. If benefit reduction is initiated, no notice of adverse action will be required.

C. Other payment methods:

(1) Federal tax intercept: The department may offset an eligibility determination group’s federal income tax return following notification to the eligibility determination group, and apply the offset to the oldest established SNAP claim.

(2) Unemployment compensation benefit reduction: The department may offset the unemployment compensation benefits of an adult eligibility determination group member, following notification to the eligibility determination group, and apply the offset to the oldest established active SNAP claim.

(3) Federal pay: The department may offset an eligibility determination group member’s federal pay, following notification to the eligibility determination group, and apply the offset to the oldest established active SNAP claim.

(4) Any other means: The department may invoke collections by any other means available, including but not limited to, the use of private collection agencies, following notification to the eligibility determination group.

(5) State tax intercept: The department may offset a household's state income tax return following notification to the household, and apply the offset to the oldest established active cash claim.

[8.100.640.14 NMAC - N, 09/30/2013]

8.100.640.15 TERMINATING OVERPAYMENT CLAIMS:

A terminated claim is a claim in which all collection action has ceased. The department may terminate a claim for any of the reasons described in Subsections A through E of this section. SNAP, LIHEAP, TANF, AFDC, GA and refugee cash assistance and support services for participation in the SNAP and TANF work programs can be terminated.

A. Invalid claims: The overpayment is determined to be invalid based on an administrative hearing decision, a court decision or a department determination that the claim was established in error.

B. Death: All adult members responsible for repayment of the claim are deceased.

C. Cost effectiveness: The department has determined that the cost of further collection action is likely to exceed the amount that can be recovered because:

(1) the cumulative amount of all existing claims against the eligibility determination group equals twenty-five dollars ($25) or less; and

(2) a payment on the claim has not been received by the department in at least ninety (90) days.

D. Failure to locate: There is documentation establishing that the eligibility determination group cannot be located and the existing claim has been delinquent for at least six (6) years.

E. Inability to pay: There is written documentation establishing the eligibility determination group has filed for bankruptcy and the department is named as a creditor.

F. Reinstating a terminated claim: A terminated claim may be reinstated when a new collection method or a specific event substantially increases the likelihood of further collections.

G. Uncollectible claims:

(1) A claim may be determined uncollectible after being held in suspense for three (3) years.

(2) A suspended or terminated claim may be offset against any SNAP benefit amount to be restored.

H. Overpaid claims:

(1) If a household has overpaid a claim, the department shall reimburse any overpaid amounts as soon as possible after the overpayment becomes known.

(2) The household may be reimbursed by whatever method the department deems appropriate after considering the household's circumstances.

I. Compromising the claim:

(1) If the full or remaining amount of a claim cannot be liquidated in three (3) years, the restitution bureau may compromise the claim by reducing it to an amount that will allow the household to make restitution within three (3) years.

(2) A compromised claim will be offset by any benefit that has not yet been restored to the household.

(3) Claims caused by a SNAP IPV will not be compromised.

[8.100.640.15 NMAC - N, 09/30/2013]

8.100.640.16 WRITING OFF A CLAIM:

Writing off a claim means that the claim is no longer considered a receivable subject to any federal or state collection requirements such as the Treasury Offset Program at 31 CFR 285 or the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program at 7 CFR 273.18. A claim may be written off if the claim is at least six (6) years old and at least one of the provisions of Subsections A through E of 8.100.640.15 NMAC apply. Only SNAP, LIHEAP and NMW cash assistance claims may be written off.

[8.100.640.16 NMAC - N, 09/30/2013]

8.100.640.17 EBT ADJUSTMENTS:

EBT adjustment pertains to any EBT transaction resulting in a change to a client's cash or snap benefits. If a system error causes a customer to receive funds to which they were not entitled or causes their account to not be charged for an EBT transaction, an adjustment may be completed to reclaim the funds or settle the transaction.

A. Client-initiated adjustments: The department must act on all requests for adjustments made by client households within 90 calendar days of the error transaction.

(1) For SNAP the department has 10 business days from the date the household notifies it of the error to investigate and reach a decision on an adjustment and move funds into the client account.

(2) For cash the department has 20 business days from the date the household notifies it of the error to investigate and reach a decision on an adjustment and move funds into the client account.

(3) These timeframes also apply if the department or entity other than the household discovers a system error that requires a credit adjustment to the household. Business days are defined as calendar days other than Saturdays, Sundays, and federal holidays.

B. Retailer-initiated adjustments: The department must act upon all adjustments to debit a household's account no later than 10 business days from the date the error occurred, by placing a hold on the adjustment balance in the household's account. If there are insufficient benefits to cover the entire adjustment, a hold shall be placed on any remaining balance that exists, with the difference being subject to availability only in the next future month. The household shall be given adequate notice. The notice must be sent at the time the initial hold is attempted on the household's current month's remaining balance, clearly state the full adjustment amount, and advise the household that any amount still owed is subject to collection from the household's next future month's benefits.

(1) The household shall have 90 days from the date of the notice to request a fair hearing.

(2) Should the household dispute the adjustment and request a hearing within 10 days of the notice, a provisional credit must be made to the household's account by releasing the hold on the adjustment balance within 48 hours of the request by the household, pending resolution of the fair hearing. If no request for a hearing is made within 10 days of the notice, the hold is released on the adjustment balance, and this amount is credited to the retailer's account. If there are insufficient funds available in the current month to cover the full adjustment amount, the hold may be maintained and settled at one time after the next month's benefits become available.

8.100.640.18 DORMANT BENEFIT ACCOUNTS:

Stale benefit accounts are those SNAP and cash assistance accounts that have not been accessed for 90 days from the most recent date of withdrawal.

A. Offline accounts: If EBT accounts are not accessed for 90 days, the department may store such benefits in an offline account.

A request for postponement must be submitted not less than one business day prior to the scheduled fair hearing, unless otherwise allowed by the fair hearings bureau, and is subject to the following limitations:

(1) SNAP and LIHEAP cases: A postponement may not exceed 30 days and the time limit for action on the decision is extended for as many days as the fair hearing is postponed.

If the request for an expedited appeal is denied, the appeal request must be handled under the standard process and the appellant must be promptly informed of the denial, through electronic or oral notification, if possible. In all group hearings, the regulations governing individual hearings are followed. Each individual claimant is permitted to present the claimant's own case or to be represented by an authorized representative. If a group hearing is scheduled, any individual claimant may withdraw from the group hearing and request an individual hearing. The confidentiality of client records is to be maintained in accordance with federal and state laws and regulations.

E. Agency review conference (ARC): Except in matters involving NMHIX, the department and the claimant are encouraged to meet for an ARC before the scheduled fair hearing to discuss the department's action(s) that the claimant has appealed. The ARC is optional and does not delay or replace the fair hearing process. An ARC will be held within 10 calendar days from the date of the fair hearing request. If the claimant submits a hearing request to the field office, in person or by telephone, the ARC may, at the claimant's option, be conducted at that time. An appeal may not be dismissed by the department for failure of the claimant or authorized representative to appear at a scheduled ARC.

(1) The department shall send a written notice of the scheduled ARC to the claimant and authorized representative. The claimant may choose to receive the notice by mail or in electronic format.

(2) An ARC may be attended by all parties responsible for and affected by the adverse action taken by the department, including but not limited to, the ISD field office staff, the CSED, a NMW representative and the claimant or its authorized representative.

(3) The purpose of the ARC is to informally review the adverse action taken by the department and to determine whether the dispute can be resolved in accordance with federal and state law and regulation. The ARC is optional and shall in no way delay or replace the fair hearing process, unless the outcome of the ARC is the claimant withdrawing the fair hearing request.

(4) For cases in which the household appeals a denial of expedited SNAP service, the ARC shall be scheduled within two business days, unless the household requests that it be scheduled at a later date or does not wish to have an ARC.

(5) A household may request an ARC in order to discuss an adverse action taken by the department against the household, regardless of whether or not a fair hearing is requested.

F. Summary of evidence (SOE): An SOE shall be prepared by the department or NMHIX, if applicable, and submitted to the fair hearings bureau and the claimant and authorized representative no less than 10 calendar days prior to the date of the fair hearing. Unless the hearing request is withdrawn by the claimant or authorized representative, an SOE shall be prepared and submitted in accordance with this paragraph, regardless of the results of an ARC. (3) documentation in support of the department's adverse action, including any facts, information and department findings related to the fair hearing issue(s);

(4) applicable federal and state laws and regulations, internal department policy documents, and any additional supportive legal documentation; and

(5) results of the ARC, if completed at the time of submission of the SOE.

G. Availability of information: The department staff shall:

(1) allow the claimant and the authorized representative to examine the case record and provide the claimant and the authorized representative a copy of the SOE and any document, not specifically prohibited by federal and state laws and regulations, contained in the claimant's case record in order to prepare for the fair hearing in accordance with Subsection B of 8.100.970.8 NMAC; and

(d) Monthly: For income received monthly the participant benefit group must submit and ISD shall accept as verification income received from any consecutive past 30-day period that includes 60 days prior to the month the interim report form is due.

(e) Income received more frequently than weekly: For benefit groups with income received more frequently than weekly, exact income, rather than averaged and converted income shall be used to determine benefits. For income received more frequently than weekly the participant benefit group must submit and ISD shall accept as verification income received from any consecutive past 30-day period that includes 60 days prior to the month the interim report form is due.

(f) If a determination is made that the use of the pay data for the methods described in (a) through (e), above, does not give the most accurate estimate of monthly earnings due to unique circumstances; the caseworker shall use whatever method gives the most accurate estimate of earnings.

(g) Income received less frequently than monthly: The amount of monthly gross income that is received less frequently than monthly shall be determined by dividing the total income by the number of months the income is intended to cover. This includes, but is not limited to, income from sharecropping, farming, and self-employment. It also includes contract income and income for a tenured teacher who may not have a contract.

(3) Self-employment:

(a) Requirements for determination of self- employment income are set forth at Subsection E of 8.139.520.10 NMAC, and the verification standards for business and self-employment income are set forth at 8.100.130.25 NMAC.

(b) A benefit group assigned simplified reporting that has had self-employment income annualized by ISD shall be required to report changes in self-employment income only if the benefit group has filed a tax return subsequent to its last approval or recertification for NMW.

(c) A benefit group assigned simplified reporting that does not have the self-employment income annualized must report self-employment income on the interim report form. The income reported on the simplified report form will be calculated in the following manner.

(i) If a self-employment enterprise has been in existence for less than one year, the income from self-employment shall be averaged over the period of time the business has been in operation. The resulting monthly amount shall be projected for the duration of the certification period.

(ii) Seasonal income: Self-employment income that is intended to meet a benefit group's needs for only part of the year shall be averaged over the time the income is intended to cover.

(d) A benefit group required to report simplified self-employment income that fails to provide verification of an allowable deduction at the interim or during the month the interim report form is due shall not be allowed the deduction. ISD shall process the report if all other mandatory verification has been provided.

(4) Use of conversion factors: Whenever a full month's income is anticipated and is received on a weekly or biweekly basis, the income shall be converted to monthly amount as follows:

(a) income received on a weekly basis is averaged and multiplied by four;

(b) income received on a biweekly basis is averaged and multiplied by two;

(c) averaged income shall be rounded to the nearest whole dollar prior to application of the conversion factor; amounts resulting in $0.50 or more are rounded up; amounts resulting in $0.49 or lower are rounded down.

F. Time limits for submission and processing an interim report form:

(1) An interim report form shall be mailed to a benefit group in the month prior to the month the report is due.

(2) A benefit group assigned to simplified reporting shall be required to submit an interim report form by the tenth calendar day of the month the interim report form is due in order to receive uninterrupted benefits.

(3) The interim report form shall be reviewed for completeness within ten days of receipt.

(a) If the form is complete and all verifications are provided, ISD shall complete the processing of the form within 10 days of receipt.

(b) If the form is complete and all verifications are provided except for verification of an allowable deduction, the report shall be processed without the deduction. The household shall be:

(i) notified that verification is lacking; and

(ii) shall be given 10 days to provide verification of an allowable deduction;

(iii) a deduction that is verified within the month the interim report form is due shall be processed as part of the interim report;

(iv) a deduction that is verified in the month after the interim report form is due shall be processed as a change reported by the household;

(v) a deduction that does not have the required verification shall not be allowed until verification of the expense is provided.

(4) Incomplete interim report form is received:

(a) An interim report form that is not signed shall be returned to the household for a signature. The household:

(i) shall be notified that the form is incomplete;

(ii) what needs to be completed for the interim report form; and

(iii) shall be given 10 calendar days to provide the signed interim report form to be reviewed for completeness.

(b) An interim report form that is incomplete because required verification is not provided shall not be returned to the household. The household:

(i) shall be notified that the form is incomplete;

(ii) what information must be provided to complete the interim report form; and

(iii) shall be given 10 calendar days to provide the verification to process the interim report form.

(5) The benefit group must return the completed interim report form and all required verification within 10 calendar days to avoid a break in benefits. A benefit group that fails to submit an interim report form by the end of the month in which it is due, shall be issued a notice of case action.

G. Information requirements for the interim report form: The interim report form shall specify:

(1) the date by which a benefit group must submit the form for uninterrupted benefits;

(2) the consequences of submitting a late or incomplete form;

(3) that verification must be submitted with the interim report form;

(4) where to call for help in completing the form;

(5) the consequences of providing incorrect information; and

(6) notice of rights.

H. Requirement to report certain changes between reporting periods: A benefit group must report changes within 10 days of the date a change becomes known to the benefit group:

(1) a benefit group reports income in excess of eighty-five percent of federal poverty guidelines for size of the benefit group;

(2) a parent must report when a dependent child, age six years or older, drops out of school or has three unexcused absences from school within 14 days of occurrence;

(4) a mandatory child who has moved in or out of the home;

(5) a household member has passed away;

(6) a mandatory member has moved from New Mexico.

(7) unearned income in excess of the maximum monthly benefit for the size of the benefit group;

(8) changes in countable resources if the total of all countable resources for the benefit group exceed the $1,500 liquid or $2,000 non-liquid resource limit;

(9) in the absence of a written report, a 13-day notice of adverse action is required if the change will result in a reduction or termination of benefits.

I. Action on changes reported between reporting periods for benefit groups assigned to simplified reporting: In addition to changes that must be reported in accordance with Subsection H of 8.102.120.11 NMAC, ISD must act on changes in between interim report forms, if it would increase the household's benefits. ISD shall not act on changes that would result in a decrease in the household's benefits unless:

(1) The household has voluntarily requested that its case be closed;

(2) ISD has information about the household's circumstances considered verified upon receipt. Verified upon receipt is defined as:

(a) information is not questionable; and

(b) the provider of the information is the primary source of information;

(c) the trusted data sources must be pulling their own data not from third party information; or

(d) the recipient's attestation exactly matches the information received from a third party.

(3) A newborn shall be added to the benefit group effective the month following the month the report is received.

(4) The loss of earned income shall be considered for eligibility in the second month after the loss and ongoing until the next scheduled interim report or end of certification whichever is first, provided that:

(a) the loss of income was reported to the agency, and verified by the benefit group; and

(b) the loss of income was not due to voluntary quit.

(5) The loss of unearned income shall be considered for eligibility in the month after the loss and ongoing until the next scheduled interim report or end of certification whichever is first, provided that the loss of income was reported to the agency, and verified by the benefit group.

(6) A household member has been identified as a fleeing felon or probation violator in accordance with 8.102.410.15 NMAC.

J. Responsibilities on reported changes outside of the interim report: When a household reports a change, ISD shall take action to determine the household's eligibility or TANF benefit amount within 10 working days of the date the change is reported.

(1) Decreased or termination of benefits: For changes that result in a decrease or termination of household benefits, ISD shall act on the change as follows:

(a) if the household's benefit level decreases or the household becomes ineligible as a result of the change, ISD shall issue a notice of adverse action within 10 calendar days of the date the change was reported unless one of the exemptions to the notice of adverse action in 7 CFR 273.13 (a)(3) or (b) applies.

(b) when a notice of adverse action is used, the decrease in the benefit level shall be made effective no later than the allotment for the month following the month in which the notice of adverse action period has expired, provided a fair hearing and continuation of benefits have not been requested.

(c) when a notice of adverse action is not used due to one of the exemptions in 7 CFR 273.13 (a)(3) or (b), the decrease shall be made effective no later than the month following the change. Verification which is required by 7 CFR 273.2(f) must be obtained prior to recertification.

(2) Increased benefits: For changes that result in an increase of household benefits, ISD shall act on the change as follows:

(a) for changes which result in an increase in a household's benefits, other than changes described in Subparagraph (b) of this section, ISD shall make the change effective no later than the first allotment issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported to ISD.

(b) for changes which result in an increase in a household's benefits due to the addition of a new household member who is not a member of another certified household, or due to a decrease of $50 or more in the household's gross monthly income, ISD shall make the change effective not later than the first allotment issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported.

(i) in no event shall these changes take effect any later than the month following the month in which the change is reported.

(ii) if the change is reported after the last day to make changes and it is too late for ISD to adjust the following month's allotment, ISD shall issue a supplement or otherwise provide an opportunity for the household to obtain the increase in benefits by the 10th calendar day of the following month, or the household's normal issuance cycle in that month, whichever is later.

(3) No change in TANF benefit amount: When a reported change has no effect on the TANF benefit amount, ISD shall document the change in the case file and notify the household of the receipt of the report.

(4) Providing verification: The household shall be allowed 10 calendar days from the date a change is reported to provide verification, if necessary. If verification is provided at the time a change is reported or by the deadline date, the increase in benefits shall be effective in accordance with Subparagraph (a) and (b) of Paragraph (2) above. If the household fails to provide the verification by the deadline date, but does provide it at a later date, the increase shall be effective in the month following the month the verification is provided. If the household fails to provide necessary verification, its SNAP benefit amount shall revert to the original benefit amount.

K. Resolving unclear information:

(1) During the certification period, ISD may obtain information about changes in a household's circumstances from which ISD cannot readily determine the effect of the change on the household's benefit amount. The information may be received from a third party or from the household itself. ISD must pursue clarification and verification of household circumstances using the following procedure if unclear information received outside the periodic report is:

(a) information fewer than 60 days old relative to the current month of participation; and,

(b) if accurate, would have been required to be reported under simplified reporting rules, in accordance with 8.102.120.11 NMAC.

(c) ISD must pursue clarification and verification of household circumstances in accordance with the process outlined in Subsection B of 8.100.130.12 NMAC, for any unclear information that appears to present significantly conflicting information from that used by ISD, at the time of certification.

(2) Unclear information resulting from certain data matches:

(a) if the HCA receives match information from a trusted data source as described in 7 CFR 272.13 or 7 CFR 272.14, ISD shall send a notice in accordance with Subsection B of 8.100.130.12 NMAC in accordance with 7 CFR 272.13(b)(4) and 7 CFR 272.14 (c)(4). The notices must clearly explain what information is needed from the household and the consequences of failing to respond to the notice.

(b) if the household fails to respond to the notice or does respond but refuses to provide sufficient information to clarify its circumstances, ISD shall remove the individual and the individual's income from the household and adjust benefits accordingly. As appropriate, ISD shall issue a notice of adverse action.

L. Failure to report changes: If ISD discovers that the household failed to report a change as required, ISD shall evaluate the change to determine whether the household received benefits to which it was not entitled or if the household is entitled to an increased benefit amount.

(1) Decreased benefit amount: After verifying the change, ISD shall initiate a claim against the household for any month in which the household was over issued TANF benefits. The first month of the over issuance is the month following the month the adverse action notice time limit would have expired had the household timely reported the change. If the discovery is made within the certification period, the household is entitled to a notice of adverse action if its benefits will be reduced.

(2) Increased benefit amount: When a household fails to timely report a change which will result in an increased TANF benefit amount, the household is not entitled to a supplement for any month prior to and including the month in which the change was reported. The household is entitled to an increased benefit amount effective no later than the first benefit amount issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported.

M. Non-reporting sanctions: A benefit group assigned to simplified reporting shall be subject to a non-reporting sanction in accordance with regulations at 8.102.620.11 NMAC for failure to provide accurate change information on the interim report form or for failure to report by the tenth calendar day of the month following the month that household income exceeds eighty-five percent of federal poverty guidelines for the size of the benefit group.

8.102.400.14 NMW LIVING ARRANGEMENTS - REQUIREMENTS:

A. For a NMW benefit group to exist, a dependent child must be living in the home of a parent or specified relative as specified in 8.102.400.15 NMAC. The relative must be the primary caretaker for the child and must be within the fifth degree of relationship, as determined by New Mexico's Uniform Probate Practice Code (see Subsection A of 8.102.400.16 NMAC). To be considered as the caretaker, the specified relative in a NMW benefit group, the participant must be living, or considered to be living, in the home with the child.

B. A child or the caretaker relative may in certain situations be temporarily domiciled away from home, but nonetheless be considered as living at home. Such situations result when the parent or caretaker relative has decided to domicile the child elsewhere because of a specific need identified by the parent or caretaker relative and provided that the parent or caretaker relative remains responsible for providing care and support to the child and retains parental control over the child.

8.102.400.15 NMW LIVING IN THE HOME:

A. Basic requirements:

(1) To be eligible for inclusion in the NMW cash assistance benefit group, the dependent child must live with a parent or a specified relative acting as the head of household. A child lives with a participant when:

(a) the participant's home is the primary place of residence for the child, as evidenced by the child's customary physical presence in the home;

(b) the participant may or may not be the child's parent or caretaker;

(c) the caretaker is the person taking primary responsibility for the care of the child, the caretaker will be a parent, relative or it may be an unrelated adult; the caretaker may or may not be the head of household.

(2) The determination of whether a given participant functions as the parent or caretaker relative for NMW purposes shall be made by the client unless other information known to the caseworker clearly indicates otherwise.

B. Extended living in the home:

(1) Under the circumstances described in this section, a child may be physically absent from the home for periods of time, but, because of the nature of the absence and because the parent or caretaker relative continues to exercise parental control over and to provide care for the child during the time the child is physically away from the family's home, the child nonetheless remains a regular on-going member of the benefit group. Similarly, under certain circumstances, the caretaker could be physically absent from the home and still retain membership status as caretaker for purposes of eligibility.

(2) The circumstances where this occurs are:

(a) attending boarding schools or college and

(b) inpatient treatment in medicaid facilities; in order for either the child or the caretaker to retain living-in-the- home status, the person acting as the caretaker must retain responsibilities for providing care, support and supervision for the child which are appropriate to the child's specific living arrangements.

(3) In considering whether the caretaker retains care and support responsibilities for a child who is hospitalized or at school, issues which shall be reviewed include the degree to which the parent:

(a) provides financial support to the child from the cash assistance payment;

(b) continues to maintain living quarters for the child until the child reestablishes full-time physical presence in the home; and

(c) continues to make decisions regarding the care and control of the child(ren), including decisions about medical care and treatment, class scheduling, and other similar parental decisions;

(d) maintains contact with the child through regular visits or telephone calls.

(4) The determination whether living-in- the-home status is retained is fully discussed with the caretaker and carefully documented in the case record.

(a) Boarding school: A child or caretaker relative who is attending school away from home lives in the home if the caretaker relative retains primary responsibility for the child relative.

(b) Medicaid:

(i) Caretaker: A caretaker receiving treatment in a Title XIX facility remains a member of the benefit group of which the caretaker was a member at the time of hospitalization until the caretaker leaves the facility and returns to that home or some other. If the caretaker does not return to the home following hospitalization, the living-in-the-home requirement shall be reassessed.

(ii) Dependent children: For the purposes of the cash assistance program, a child hospitalized for care or treatment in a Title XIX (medicaid) facility retains living-in-the-home status, without regard to the length of hospitalization, provided that the caretaker continues to be the person with primary responsibility for control of the child and for meeting the child’s physical and emotional needs. This includes children receiving treatment in acute care hospitals, freestanding psychiatric hospitals and rehabilitation hospitals as well as residential treatment centers and group homes reimbursed by medicaid for psychosocial rehabilitation services. Medical assistance division institutional care staff may be contacted to verify New Mexico medicaid provider status of RTCs and group homes.

(5) For a child to retain living-in-the-home status while receiving rehabilitation services, including psychosocial treatment services, certain conditions must be met. Treatment of the child is the primary objective, but the program should be family-based with one objective being strengthening of family ties. Treatment plans must provide for a significant level of continuing authority, responsibility, and participation by the caretaker. In order for children receiving treatment in a Title XIX facility to be "living in the home", the caretaker must retain the authority to decide when the child should leave the facility, grant authority for provision of necessary treatment, and retain responsibility for provision of pocket money, clothing, etc.

(6) A significant issue in determining whether a child retains living-in- the-home status is the authority of the caretaker to control the child's treatment and duration of stay. Under the state's mental health code, a court order placing the child in a psychiatric facility must be issued. The court findings serve to make sure that the child needs such treatment. Such orders do not prevent the specified relative from removing the child from the facility. These orders must be differentiated from correctional commitments or sentences. A child receiving treatment in a Title XIX facility, or placed in other substitute care living arrangements by juvenile authorities as the result of a sentence or commitment by a judicial authority does not meet the definition of actually living in the home, as the caretaker no longer has significant control over the child.

(7) A child may qualify for extended living-in- the-home provisions under these conditions:

(a) the child must have been living in the home before hospitalization;

(b) the child must have been living in the home before attending boarding school or college.

C. Joint custody: A child who is in the joint custody of divorced parents who are living apart and who is actually spending equal amounts of time with both parents shall not be considered to be living with the caretaker. If the divorce decree specifies equal joint custody, but the child is actually spending more time with one parent than the other, the child would be determined to be living with the parent with whom the child spends the most time.

D. Absence from the home:

(1) A minor child may remain in the benefit group and remain eligible for benefits for up to 45 days following the date of departure or expected absence from the home. Such a child may not simultaneously be in another NMW or GA benefit group.

(2) A child shall be considered to have left the home, when the child is physically absent from the home and is under the care, control, custody, of himself, another relative or another adult, social services or correctional agency, or other agency of state, local, or tribal government.

E. Reporting departure of child from the home: Pursuant to Section 408 (a)(10)(C) of the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, the parent, relative, or caretaker of a minor child included in the NMW benefit group is ineligible to be included in the benefit group if the parent or relative or caretaker fails to report the absence from the home of a minor child who is a member of the benefit group. To be eligible, the adult must report the departure of the minor child by no later than five days after the adult becomes aware that the child is absent or will be absent in excess of the 45 days allowed under Subsection D of 8.102.400.15 NMAC. The adult shall remain ineligible for the number of months that the benefit group is sanctioned for non-reporting as provided for at 8.102.620.11 NMAC.

(3) Disputing quarters: If a participant or applicant disputes the SSA determination of quarters of coverage, the participant may not participate based on having 40 qualifying quarters until a determination is made that the participant or applicant can be credited with 40 qualifying quarters. (4) Federal means-tested benefit: After December 31, 1996, a quarter in which a non- citizen received any federal means- tested public benefit, as defined by the agency providing the benefit shall not be credited toward the 40-quarter total. A parent's or spouse's quarter is not creditable if the parent or spouse actually received any federal means-tested public benefit. (5) Inability to obtain INS documentation: If a benefit group indicates an inability to provide documentation of non-citizen status for any mandatory member of the benefit group, that member shall be considered an ineligible non- citizen. The caseworker shall not continue efforts to contact INS when the non-citizen does not provide any documentation from INS.

(1) HSD shall inform the local DHS office only when an official determination is made that any mandatory member of a benefit group who is applying for and receiving benefits is present in the U.S. in violation of the INA. (a) the non-citizens unlawful presence is a finding of fact or conclusion of law that is made by HSD as part of a formal determination about the individuals eligibility; and

(b) HSD's finding is supported by a determination by DHS or the executive office of immigration review (EOIR) that the non-citizen is unlawfully residing in the U.S. such as a final order of deportation.

(2) An non-citizen who resides in the US in violation of the INA shall be considered an ineligible benefit group member until there is a finding or conclusion of law through a formal determination process by the INS or EOIR.

(3) Illegal non- citizen status is considered reported when the caseworker enters relevant information about the non-citizen on the benefit group's computer file.

(4) A systematic alien verification for entitlements (SAVE) response showing no service record on an individual or an immigration status making the individual ineligible for a benefit is not a finding of fact or conclusion of law that the individual is not lawfully present.

L. Income and resources of ineligible non-citizens: All the resources and a prorated share of income of an ineligible non-citizen, or of a non-citizen whose status is unverified, shall be considered in determining eligibility and the cash assistance benefit amount for the remaining eligible benefit group members.

[8.102.410.10 NMAC - Rp 8.102.410.10 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.102.410.11 RESIDENCE:

A. To be eligible for inclusion in a benefit group, the individual must be living in New Mexico (NM) and demonstrate an intention to stay. At application, the residency determination shall be made prior to the date cash assistance is authorized. Once established, NM residency continues until the individual takes action to end it.

B. Residence shall not be considered to exist if the person is just passing through or is present in NM for purposes such as vacation, family visits, medical care, temporary employment, or other similar short- term stays where the person does not intend to remain. Residence shall not exist if an individual claims residence in another state.

C. Establishing residence: Residence in New Mexico shall be established by being present in the state on an ongoing basis and carrying out the types of activities associated with normal day-to-day living, such as occupying a house, enrolling a child in school, renting a post office box, obtaining a state driver's license, joining a church or other local organization, obtaining or seeking a job in the state, registering to vote in the state, etc.

D. Homeless persons: A homeless person must meet the residence requirement; however, their personal situations may prevent them from establishing the types of residence indicators listed above. As much information as possible shall be obtained

E. Assistance from another state: An individual receiving assistance from another state shall be considered a resident of that state, until that state is notified of the individual's intention to abandon residence. An individual who received TANF from another state shall be considered to be in receipt of concurrent assistance for that month, as set forth in 8.102.410.12 NMAC.

F. Temporary absence from the state:

This option allows for a parent in a domestic violence environment to be in a limited work participation status for the length of time certified by a trained domestic violence counselor. The certification shall indicate that the parent is in a domestic violence environment which makes them eligible for a limited work participation status.

(a) A participant's FVO limited work participation status shall be reviewed every six months and shall be determined by IRU based on the domestic violence counselor's certification.

(b) A participant who can continue to comply with work requirements as certified by a trained domestic violence counselor may be eligible for a limited work participation status for 24 weeks as described in 8.102.461.15 NMAC.

(9) A participant who is the sole provider of the care for an ill or incapacitated person. In order to meet this exception, the participant must show that the parent is the sole caretaker for a disabled person and must demonstrate that the participant cannot be out of the home for the number of hours necessary to meet standard work participation hours. The following apply to caretaker conditions in determining if the standard work participation rate applies or if a limited work participation rate will be granted:

(a) Only those care activities around which work program activities cannot be scheduled are taken into consideration.

(b) Food purchase and preparation activities, home maintenance chores, etc. are activities which may be scheduled and performed at time other than work program participation hours and are not taken into consideration when determining the standard work participation rate.

(c) A requirement to be on call for the medical emergencies of a medically fragile person is taken into consideration in determining the standard work participation rate for the participant.

(10) A participant may demonstrate good cause for the need for the limited work participation status. A good cause limited work participation status may exist and shall be determined by the HCA based on the participant's existing condition(s) to include any barriers identified during the NMW assessment process that impair an individual's ability to comply with the standard work participation rate or capacity to work.

B. Determinations in general: The NMW/TANF determination for a limited work participation status is made independently of and using differing standards from those used for determining OASDI or SSI eligibility, general assistance, workman's compensation, veteran's compensation or in Americans with Disability Act (ADA) determinations. Medical and social information (as appropriate) used by the HCA's reviewers may differ between determinations for each type of program, and a participant's condition may improve or worsen over time. As a result, a participant may be classified disabled by one program, but not by another. A disability determination made for another program or purpose is immaterial to the NMW/TANF limited work participation status determination. NMW/TANF determinations shall be made by applying NMW/TANF regulations and medical and non-medical information (as appropriate) known to the HCA. An applicant/ participant may have more than one condition to qualify for limited work participation status. The limited work participation rate and work activities will reflect accommodations for all identified and approved qualifying conditions.

C. Medical and non- medical based determinations:

(1) Medical conditions: The IRU shall review all documentation and make determinations for participants requesting a limited work participation status or hardship extension due to a medical condition. To be eligible for a limited work participation status from or for a hardship extension, based on a medical condition, the HCA must find:

(a) evidence of a physical or mental impairment(s) supported by medical documentation; and

(b) determine that the severity of the impairment(s), as supported by appropriate medical documentation is sufficient to significantly restrict the participant's capacity to fulfill the standard work participation rate or capacity to work; requests for limited work participation status or hardship extension must be supported by medical documentation, but may be supplemented by non-medical documentation provided by the applicant as requested by the IRU.

(2) Caretaker conditions: The IRU shall review all documentation and make determinations for participants requesting a limited work participation status or hardship extension due to caretaker conditions. To be eligible for a limited work participation status or for a hardship extension, as a caretaker, the HCA must find the participant is:

(a) the sole provider for an ill or incapacitated family member living in the home who does not attend school on a full time basis; and

(b) providing necessary care to the extent that otherwise precludes the participant's capacity to fulfill standard work participation rates or capacity to work.

(3) Non-medical conditions: The NMW service provider shall review documentation and make determinations regarding requests for limited work participation status for non-medical conditions. If a participant has a medical condition(s) in addition to non-medical conditions, the IRU shall review documentation and make determinations regarding requests for limited work participation status for medical and non-medical conditions. To be eligible for a limited work participation status from the NMW/TANF standard work participation rate based on conditions that are not medical in nature, the HCA must find the participant has one of the qualifications for a limited work participation status identified in Subsection A above.

D. Case development process: The caseworker shall be responsible for explaining hardship eligibility, work program requirements, standard work participation rates, and for referring all participants requesting a limited work participation status and hardship extensions to the IRU and NMW service provider, as appropriate. Participants must complete and return the requested information to request a limited work participation status within 30 days of the request.

(1) Limited work participation status requests for medical conditions: Requests for a limited work participation status based on a medical condition shall be sent to the IRU for determination and contain the following:

(a) a completed assessment that has been conducted by the NMW service provider within the six months prior to the date of the request for a change in status;

(b) a completed individual responsibility plan conducted by the NMW service provider;

(c) copies of relevant medical reports made within the last six months;

(d) a work participation agreement with the proposed activity(ies); and

(e) additional documents for evidence of other work related factors.

(2) Limited work participation status requests for non-medical conditions: The NMW service provider shall utilize the following documents to determine eligibility for the limited work participation status:

(a) a completed assessment that has been conducted by the NMW service provider within the six months prior to the date of the request for a change in status; and

(b) a completed individual responsibility plan conducted by the NMW service provider.

E. Provision of documentation: It shall be the responsibility of the participant requesting limited work participation status or hardship extension to provide recent (within the last six months) medical and non-medical information necessary to make a determination. Non-medical evidence will not be considered in the absence of medical documentation for requests based on medical conditions. A participant, who has not provided the necessary information as requested by the HCA, contractor or its designee to make a determination within 30 days of the request for the limited work participation status or hardship extension, shall be subject to meeting full participation requirements. Participants who fail to provide the requested documentation within 30 days of the request, but are also eligible for a limited work participation status on the basis of a non-medical condition, shall be referred to the NMW service provider to determine the limited work participation status based on the non- medical condition. The participant is not responsible for providing documentation produced by the HCA, its contractors, or its designee.

(1) Medical documents: Written paperwork must be submitted to verify the existence of physical, mental impairment(s) or both; as well as the extent of the caretaking needs. It is the responsibility of the participant to get all information to the IRU for review. Determinations are based on the written evidence provided in a timely manner to IRU.

(a) Source: Medical documents must be obtained from approved source(s), limited to: medical doctors, physician assistants, doctors of osteopathy or podiatry, ophthalmologists, psychiatrists or psychologists, state- licensed providers, and individuals that meet the minimum mental health professional qualifications set by their community mental health services employer.

(b) HCA assistance: The HCA, contractor or its designee shall offer assistance to the participant to include obtaining medical documents or other reasonable accommodations as requested by the participant. If the HCA is assisting the participant with obtaining documentation or other accommodation, the participant is still responsible for providing accurate and timely information.

(c) Timeliness of report: The participant shall provide medical records from the past six months. Medical documents over six months old from the date of the request for the limited work participation status or hardship extension may be useful to support a pattern of recurring impairment, but must be accompanied by current medical documents.

(d) Independent medical review: The HCA may request additional documentation in order to make a determination regarding a participant's request for limited work participation status. The IRU may request additional documentation in the form of an independent medical review of the participant's condition(s). If the participant is also a recipient of medicaid, the HCA may assist with a referral to a medicaid provider, as appropriate.

(2) Non- medical information: Non-medical information may not be used for medical condition determinations without the provision of medical documents. Non-medical information may be submitted to the IRU or the NMW service provider and will be considered if the source is public and private agencies, schools, participants and caregivers, social workers and employers, and other relevant and independent sources to assist in the determination of whether the barriers are of sufficient severity to restrict the participant's capacity to fulfill the standard work participation rate, or that the need to care for an individual are so great as to limit or exclude participation.

F. Case disposition:

(1) Medical based conditions: The IRU shall have sole responsibility for reviewing all medical documents. When making a determination regarding a participant's capacity to fulfill the standard work participation hours, the IRU will within 30 calendar days of receipt complete the following:

(a) conduct a thorough review of the documentary evidence;

(b) make a determination as to whether a medical condition or caretaking need is supported by the evidence provided by the participant;

(c) determine the anticipated duration of the impairment;

(d) adopt or propose participation activities based on the work participation agreement submitted with the participants request packet; and

(e) establish the reduced limited work participation hours if a limited work participation status or hardship extension of the 60 month time limit is granted.

(2) Non- medical based impairments: The NMW service provider shall review all non-medical information and make a determination that a participant is eligible for a limited work participation status. The determination shall identify one of the criteria qualifying for a limited work participation status. The NMW service provider shall identify the non-medical barrier and establish the participation activity(ies) and the limited work participation rate to be included in the approved work participation agreement. All of the non-medical information is considered in assessing the participant's capacity to fulfill the standard work participation rate. Case disposition shall include:

(a) a thorough review of documentary evidence;

(b) a determination as to whether the claim of a non-medical impairment is supported; and

(c) the anticipated duration of the impairment.

(3) Duration of condition(s): The duration of the condition shall be evaluated based on documentation provided and must be expected to last at least 30 days in order to grant a limited work participation status.

(4) Evaluation of medical report(s): Reports shall be reviewed by the IRU for completeness and detail sufficient to identify the caretaking needs, limiting effects of impairment(s), probable duration of the impairment(s), and capacity to perform work program participation standards.

(a) Anatomical and physiological reports shall be reviewed for a description of the medical history, clinical findings, laboratory findings, diagnosis, prescribed treatment and prognosis, and to identify the participant's ability to sit, stand, move, lift, carry, handle objects, hear, speak and travel.

(b) Psychological assessments shall be reviewed for a description of the participant's behavior, affect, orientation, capacity for appropriate decision-making, response to stress, cognitive function (awareness, memory and intellectual capacity), contact with reality and need for occupational, personal and social adjustment(s).

G. Notification: The HCA shall notify the participant regarding the disposition of their request for limited work participation status in compliance with the requirements of adequate notice and notice of adverse action, as applicable.

H. Re-evaluation of status: A participant's limited work participation status shall be re-evaluated on a periodic basis, as determined by the IRU or the NMW service provider, as appropriate. At the time of reevaluation, it shall be necessary to get an update of the medical or non-medical impairment, caretaking need, and any changes in other work-related factors. The IRU shall remain responsible for deciding whether a medical impairment or caretaking need still exists, and the date of the next re-evaluation for continued approval of limited work participation status. The NMW service provider shall remain responsible for deciding whether the non-medical impairment still exists and the date of the next evaluation for continued approval of limited work participation status.

I. Determining the limited work participation rate: after a participant is approved for limited work participation status either at the initial determination or re-evaluation, the IRU or NMW may prescribe conditional work program activities and requirements designed to assist the participant to help accommodate and eliminate barriers. The participant may be assigned to core, non-core and other activities which may include, but not be limited to, one of the contingencies below:

(1) follow treatment plans as prescribed by a physician or mental health provider;

(2) seek and utilize available community based resources;

(3) accept treatment as recommended by a physician or mental health provider;

(4) pursue a referral for DVR, or other available services;

(5) apply for SSI, if applicable; or

(6) any other activity specific to the participant's circumstance and conditions.

J. Transition of currently waived participants to the limited work participation status:

(1) Currently waived: Participants who are waived on or before the effective date of this regulation shall be evaluated for a limited work participation status at their next recertification for TANF benefits or at the next waiver review, whichever is earlier.

(2) Pending waiver determination: Participants who are pending a waiver determination on or before the effective date of this regulation shall be considered for a waiver of the work participation status. They will be determined for a limited work participation status at their next recertification for ongoing TANF benefits or at the next waiver review, whichever is earlier.

8.102.420.12 ASSESS CAPACITY FOR WORK:

A. General: A medical or mental health condition that precludes a participant's capacity to fulfill the standard work participation rate or capacity to work shall be determined by evaluating the extent of the impairment and other work-related factors. A participant is eligible for a limited work participation status if there is a determination of impairment or condition by the IRU or NMW service provider, as appropriate.

B. Capacity to perform NMW program participation standards: If the participant is determined by IRU or the NMW service provider to have an impairment, the other work-related factors shall be considered. Although a participant may be determined to have some type of impairment, the existence of impairment does not necessarily result in a finding that the participant is incapable of fulfilling the standard work participation hours. A determination that a participant is a caretaker does not necessarily result in a finding that the need to care for an incapacitated or ill household family member is so great as to limit or exclude participation. Many participants with impairments are able to work and thus are not considered to have a medical condition requiring the granting of a limited work participation status according to the standards set forth in the NMW program.

(1) Sedentary work: Sedentary work involves lifting no more than ten pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one that involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and sedentary standards are met.

(2) Light work: Light work involves lifting no more than twenty pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to ten pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little, a job is placed in this category if it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or if it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities

(3) Medium work: Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds.

(4) Heavy work: Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds.

(5) Very heavy work: Very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing 50 pounds or more.

C. Psychological impairment: If psychological impairment is being assessed, a participant's mental ability to function at one of the above-mentioned levels shall be evaluated in the following areas:

(1) Judgment: A participant's ability to exercise appropriate decision-making processes in a work situation consistent with the participant's abilities.

(2) Stress reaction: Participant's ability to handle stress consistent with the level of employment.

(3) Cognitive function: Participant's awareness, memory, intellectual capacity and other cognitive functions.

D. Capacity for gainful employment: A participant's verified employment status shall be taken into consideration in determining impairment based on the type, nature, and duration of employment. Impairment may still be determined where the participant is employed minimally or for rehabilitative purposes.

(1) Minimal employment: An individual who is minimally employed may still be considered impaired if the individual cannot reasonably be expected to be self-supporting by at least the standard of need for the size of the benefit group.

(2) Rehabilitative employment: Work made available to an individual through the interest or compassion of others, or to rehabilitate an individual (as in a sheltered workshop), but which would not ordinarily exist on the open labor market, shall not be considered employment in an impairment determination.

E. Other work-related factors: Impairments together with other work-related factors may be considered to establish the participant's capacity to perform basic work program participation standards and engage in gainful employment. While these factors may present an impediment to obtaining employment, they are problems which can be overcome through work program participation. Where such impediments exist, the participant shall be expected to participate in activities which will overcome these barriers. Other work-related factors include but are not limited to the following:

(1) Language barriers: A participant's ability to speak, read, and write English.

(2) Educational level:

(a) Illiteracy: Inability to read or write English. Illiterate individuals are considered suitable for the general labor work force.

(b) Marginal: Eight years of education or less. Marginally-educated individuals are considered suitable for the semi- skilled work force.

(c) Limited: Lack of a high school diploma or GED, but more than eight years of education. Individuals with limited education are considered suitable for the semi-skilled to skilled work force.

(d) High school, GED and above: Indicates an individual's ability to compete in all levels of the job market.

(e) Training program: Completion of training in a particular field of employment may offset limited education in some instances.

(3) Job experience: Experience in a job field can overcome a lack of education, training or both. Jobs held in the last ten years shall be considered. Work experience shall be evaluated based on the type of work previously performed, the length of employment, and the potential for transferring the experience to other types of employment. Inability to continue working in one's prior field of work does not constitute a disability. Job experience is classified in the following categories.

(a) General labor: Does not require the ability to read or write.

(b) Semi-skilled labor: Requires a minimal ability to read, write and do simple calculations.

(c) Skilled labor: Ability to do work in which the ability to read, write and do calculations of a complex nature is needed. Specialized training in the area is also considered.

(4) Appearance: An individual's appearance is generally not the sole reason for an impairment determination. On rare occasions, impairment is disfiguring and may interfere with employment.

(5) Age: Age may affect participants with impairments. The older an individual is, generally, the harder it is for the person to overcome or recover from impairment. A participant's age may be considered when determining the extent of impairment and the support needed to assist a participant.

F. WPA following IRU determination of limited work participation status: After the IRU or NMW service provider, as appropriate, makes a determination to either grant or deny a request for a limited work participation status, the participant must act in accordance with the paragraphs below to ensure they are in compliance.

(1) Limited work participation status granted and adoption of the WPA: Upon approval for the limited work participation status, the participant shall continue to continue to participate in the assigned core or non-core activities or contingencies identified on the WPA submitted to IRU for determination. The WPA shall be considered finalized and the participant shall follow the WPA until the next evaluation date determined by the IRU or NMW service provider.

(2) Limited work participation status granted and modification of the WPA: If the participant is approved for a limited work participation status, but the IRU did not accept the WPA, the participant and the NMW service provider shall meet no later than 15 days following date of the limited work participation status approval to modify the WPA in accordance with the determination of the IRU. The modification will take into consideration the participant's impairment(s) and provide a limited work participation rate and suggested core and non-core work activities.

(3) Limited work participation status denial: If the IRU or NMW service provider, as appropriate, denies the participant's request for limited work participation status, the participant is required to develop a WPA with the NMW service provider no later than 15 days following the date of denial by the IRU or the NMW service provider. Failure to develop a WPA may be considered non-compliance in accordance with 8.102.460 NMAC.

8.102.420.14 CHILD SUPPORT:

A. Assignment: By state statute, Subsection F of Section 27-2-28 NMSA 1978, any participant who signs an application automatically assigns the participant's child support rights to the HCA. The assignment shall be made with respect to the child for whom NMW is provided and shall be valid as long as the participant receives NMW payments on the child's behalf. The assignment shall also include any spousal support for which the applicant is or may become eligible.

B. Cooperation:

(1) The adult responsible for each child included in the benefit group must cooperate with the child support services division (CSSD) in obtaining child support for any dependent child included in the NMW benefit group. Failure to do so will result in payment sanctions. The adult shall be required to cooperate regardless of whether the adult is included in the benefit group.

(2) Failure to cooperate shall result in the personal ineligibility of the participant refusing to cooperate and in a payment sanction against the benefit group, as described in 8.102.620.10 NMAC.

(3) The determination as to whether the participant has cooperated with CSSD shall be made by CSSD based on CSSD requirements. The cooperation requirement may be partially or fully waived by CSSD upon demonstration of good cause by the specified relative as indicated in Subsection E of 8.102.420.14 NMAC.

(4) The caretaker relative must transmit to CSSD any child support, spousal or medical support payment which the caretaker relative receives directly.

C. Determining that cooperation exists: A caretaker relative who, on the application and certification forms, indicates a willingness to cooperate and who provides basic information determined by CSSD as necessary to establish and pursue support shall be considered to have met the cooperation requirement until such time as CSSD reports to the caseworker that the participant is failing to cooperate.

D. Action upon receiving notice of noncompliance: On notification by CSSD of failure to cooperate, the caseworker shall take immediate action to issue a conciliation notice or to impose a noncompliance sanction.

E. Good cause:

(1) In some situations, it is not in the best interests of the child or parent to pursue support or to require that the caretaker relative cooperate with CSSD in pursuing such support. Caretaker relatives therefore must be:

(a) notified that the requirement to cooperate may be waived;

(b) informed of the requirements involved in the waiver; and

(c) given an opportunity to request a waiver that would exempt them from the cooperation requirement.

(2) If a caretaker relative requests a waiver of the cooperation requirement, assistance shall not be delayed pending determination of good cause, nor may enforcement of support begin or continue while the waiver of the requirement is under consideration. An applicant who makes a waiver request shall not be included in the benefit group until the necessary corroborative information and documents are provided to ISD.

(3) Granting a good cause exemption: The decision whether to grant a good cause exemption shall be made according to the following methods.

(a) Domestic violence exemption: Exemption status shall be reviewed based on the following criteria.

(i) The New Mexico family violence option in the NM TANF state plan allows for exemption from cooperation with CSSD requirements due to a domestic violence environment. The ISD caseworker shall exempt a participant from cooperation requirements with CSSD where a trained domestic violence counselor has certified that cooperation would make it more difficult to escape the domestic violence or would unfairly penalize the participant in light of current experiences.

(ii) CSSD shall exempt a participant from cooperation requirements with CSSD when the participant has demonstrated by reliable medical, psychological or mental reports, court orders or police reports that they are subject to or at risk to domestic violence.

(iii) Upon approval of exemption the caseworker shall submit a memo regarding exemption status to CSSD and ISD central office.

(b) Other good cause exemptions: All other good cause exemptions, including but not limited to and exemption due to a domestic violence environment that is not certified by a trained domestic violence counselor, from cooperation with CSSD requirements shall be made by the director of the CSSD or designee.

(4) Notification:

(a) Approval: The caseworker shall send a written notice to the client whether the waiver has been granted and when it will be reviewed. The letter shall also tell the client whether CSSD has determined that support can be pursued without danger or risk to the client or child.

(b) Denial: If CSSD decides that good cause does not exist, the caseworker shall notify the client that the request has been denied and that the client is expected to cooperate fully in pursuing support, within 10 working days of the day the notice was issued. The notification shall also inform the client that a client has 60 days in which to request an administrative hearing, but that the client is expected to begin cooperating within 10 days after the date of the letter.

To be eligible on the condition of need, the value of all countable personal and real property, belonging to, or considered as belonging to or considered available to the benefit group shall not exceed the liquid and non-liquid resource limits. Resources are evaluated based upon their equity value.

A. Liquid resources: Liquid resources are those properties in the form of cash or other financial instruments which are easily convertible to cash and include but are not limited to: savings accounts, checking accounts, stocks, bonds, mutual fund shares, promissory notes, mortgages, cash value of insurance policies, and similar properties. [8.102.510.8 NMAC - Rp 8.102.510.8 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.102.510.9 COUNTABLE RESOURCES:

A. Real property non-liquid:

(1) Real property means land and the structures and improvements affixed to it.

(2) The value of real property owned by or considered available to the benefit group, except as exempted in Subsection A of 8.102.510.10 NMAC, shall be considered in determining whether non-liquid resources exceed $2,000.

B. Personal property (liquid or non-liquid): The value of personal property other than that exempted in Subsection B of 8.102.510.10 NMAC, belonging to, considered as belonging to, or available to the benefit group, is considered in determining whether the value of property exceeds the resource limits. Personal property is all property other than real property, and includes such possessions as bank accounts, cash (other than the current month's income), motor vehicles, livestock, tools, equipment, and rights to receive money, such as stocks, bonds, contract rights and insurance policies, etc. The types of personal property that must be counted in determining whether the benefit group's resources exceed the resource limits include, but are not limited to the following.

(a) Life insurance policies owned by a member of the benefit group shall be considered as a resource that may be converted into cash. The cash value of the life insurance policy shall be counted toward the liquid resource limit.

(2) Cash, bank accounts and other readily negotiable assets: "Other readily negotiable assets" include stocks, bonds, negotiable notes, purchase contracts and other similar assets. For purposes of cash assistance eligibility, the value of such assets is their current market value. These shall be counted toward the liquid resource limit.

(b) The value of motor vehicles, equipment and tools, except as set forth in Paragraph (1) of Subsection B of 8.102.510.10 NMAC below, is subject to the non-liquid resource test.

(4) Asset conversion: Money received from one-time only or sporadic sales of real or personal property such as crops, rugs, jewelry, royalties etc. shall be considered an asset, rather than income, provided that the property is not sold or transferred in connection with a business or self-employment activity. Actual verified expenses associated with the purchase, sale or production of such items shall be deducted from payments received from the sale to arrive at "net asset". Assets converted into money are subject to the $1,500 liquid assets limitation, regardless of whether they were fully or partially exempt prior to conversion.

(5) Lump sum payments: Payments of a one-time nature, such as retroactive monthly payments, payments in the nature of a windfall, personal injury and worker's compensation awards, gambling winnings, etc, shall be considered to be a resource in the month received. Changes during the month do not affect the resource determination for that month; what is left at the first moment of the first day of the month following its receipt will be the countable amount.

8.102.510.11 RESOURCE AVAILABILITY:

A. Availability: Resources that are actually available or which are considered to be available are considered in determining eligibility for assistance. For purposes of cash assistance eligibility, the countable resources of all benefit group members shall be considered to be available to the benefit group. The resource determination shall be made based upon the status of resources on the first moment of the first day of each month. Subsequent changes shall not effect the determination of eligibility or ineligibility until the first moment of the first day of the following month.

B. Potentially available resources: The benefit group is required to take all appropriate steps to make available to itself any property resources to which the group may be entitled but whose value is not currently available, which includes, but is not limited to, an inheritance, where the estate has not yet gone through probate. F. Joint property:

(1) Joint resources: Resources owned jointly by separate benefit groups shall be considered available in their entirety to each benefit group, unless it can be demonstrated by an applicant or recipient that such resources are inaccessible to it. The benefit group must verify that:

(a) it does not have the use of the resource;

(b) it did not make the purchase or down payment;

(c) it does not make the continuing loan payments; and

(d) the title is transferred to or retained by the other benefit group;

(e) if a benefit group can demonstrate that is has access to only a part of the resource, the value of that part is counted toward the benefit group's resource level; a resource will be considered totally inaccessible, if it cannot be practically subdivided and the benefit group's access to the value of the resource is dependent on the agreement of a joint owner who refuses to comply; for purposes of this provision, ineligible non-citizens or disqualified individuals residing with a benefit group are considered benefit group members.

(2) Joint bank accounts: If signatories to a joint bank account are separate benefit groups, the funds in the account are considered available to each benefit group to the extent that it has contributed to the account. 8.102.520.11 DETERMINING INCOME FOR SELF-EMPLOYED INDIVIDUALS:

A. Reporting of earnings as business or self- employment income to state or federal tax authorities is the usual indicator of business or self-employment income. Criteria for verification of business and self-employment income are set forth in Paragraph (2) of Subsection B of 8.100.130.14 NMAC.

(1) Tax returns from the previous year may be used, unless the amount of business and self-employment income reported on tax returns is no longer a good indicator of expected income.

(2) When tax forms are used to annualize and project income, the expenses reported on the tax forms shall be used, allowing for adjustments for those expenses or costs that are treated differently or not allowed under cash assistance policy.

(3) Capital gains are counted in full as income to determine self-employment income. A capital gain is defined as proceeds from the sale of capital goods or equipment.

(3) If a self- employment enterprise has been in existence for less than one year, the income from self-employment shall be averaged over the period of time the business has been in operation. The resulting monthly amount shall be projected for the coming year.

(4) If the self- employment enterprise has been in operation for such a short time that there is insufficient information to make a reasonable projection, the benefit group shall be required to report income at shorter intervals until there is enough information to make a longer projection of anticipated income.

(5) Seasonal income: Self-employment income that is intended to meet the benefit group's needs for only part of the year shall be averaged over the period of time the income is intended to cover.

C. Determining monthly business or self-employment income: For the period of time over which self-employment income is averaged, the individual's monthly self-employment income is determined by adding all self-employment income, including capital gains, and excluding allowable costs of producing the self-employment income, and dividing the resulting self-employment income by the number of months over which the income will be averaged.

(c) good cause will be evaluated based on the circumstances of each instance of non-cooperation.

(2) Occurrence of non-cooperation:

(a) Child support:

(i) A benefit group shall be subject to a payment sanction for failure to comply with CSSD cooperation requirements, even if the adult required to cooperate with child support requirements is not included in the benefit group.

(ii) Each benefit group member that fails to cooperate with the NMW requirement is subject to a sanction and shall affect the benefit group.

(iii) An occurrence of non-cooperation shall be applied when a sanction progresses to the next sanction level as a result of the noncompliance continuing for three consecutive months without the sanctioned participant reestablishing compliance. Progression to the next sanction level shall be effective in the fourth month.

(iv) A first or second level sanction is considered to be cured upon full cooperation by the sanctioned participant or a sanction shall be reversed based on a hearing decision when the sanction imposed is determined to be invalid.

(b) NMW:

(i) A benefit group is subject to a payment sanction when a participant in the benefit group fails to cooperate with the NMW requirements absent a finding of good cause.

(ii) In a two-parent benefit group, each mandatory benefit group member that fails to cooperate with the NMW requirements is subject to a sanction that affects the benefit group's sanction level and payment.

(iii) A participant shall not be sanctioned for more than one NMW requirement element at one time. A participant may be sanctioned for the same or a different NMW requirement element only after the original sanction element is cured or reversed. A first or second level sanction may be cured upon full cooperation by the sanction participant and a sanction shall be reversed based on a hearing decision when the sanction imposed is determined to be invalid.

(iv) A participant with limited participation status may not be sanctioned for failure to meet hours or failure to provide a time sheet as identified on the approved work participation agreement.

(v) An occurrence of non-cooperation shall be applied when a sanction progresses to the next sanction level as a result of the noncompliance continuing for three consecutive months without the sanctioned participant reestablishing compliance. Progression to the next sanction level shall be effective in the fourth month.

(ii) A participant with a sanction who joins another benefit group subjects the new benefit group to any sanction or sanction level that has not been cured prior to joining the benefit group.

(c) The benefit group's cumulative sanctions and benefit level shall be reevaluated when a sanction is cured or reversed.

(4) Progressive sanctions:

(a) Non-cooperation sanctions are progressive to both the participant and to the benefit group and shall progress to the next level for the benefit group in which the sanctioned participant resides when:

(i) a participant fails to establish compliance in three-month increments; or

(ii) a participant fails to comply with NMW or CSSD requirements as a separate occurrence.

(b) A sanction that is not cured for three consecutive months shall progress until compliance is established by the participant.

(c) A participant's compliance cannot reverse the sanction level attributed to the benefit group. Any subsequent sanction is imposed at the next higher level, unless reversed by a hearing decision.

B. The conciliation process:

(1) When conciliation is available: Conciliation shall be available to a participant or applicant once during an occurrence of assistance. There must be a period of at least 12 months between occurrences of cash assistance in order for a conciliation to be available again to the benefit group. NMW conciliation and child support conciliation are independent and are counted separately from each other.

(2) Determining that noncompliance has occurred:

(a) The determination of noncompliance with child support shall be made by CSSD. The conciliation and sanctioning process for child support noncompliance is initiated upon receipt of notice from CSSD that the participant or applicant has failed to cooperate. Under 8.102.420 NMAC, the non-cooperative participant or applicant shall be individually disqualified from participation in the benefit group.

(b) The determination of noncompliance with NMW requirements shall be made by the caseworker. A finding of noncompliance shall be made if:

(i) the participant has not completed an assessment;

(II) the participant fails or refuses to complete an IRP;

(iii) the participant fails or refuses to submit an approvable WPA;

(iv) the participant fails to submit timely documentation showing completion of required work hours;

(v) the participant's monthly attendance report shows fewer than the minimum required hours of participation and no other allowable hours of activity can be reasonably attributed by the caseworker towards the monthly participation requirement.

(3) Initiating conciliation: Within 10 days of determining that noncompliance exists, the caseworker shall take action to initiate a conciliation, if the participant's conciliation has not been used. A conciliation is initiated by the HCA or its designee issuing a conciliation notice. CSSD shall determine noncompliance and notify the caseworker who shall initiate the conciliation process.

(4) Conciliation period: Conciliation gives a participant a 30-calendar day period to correct the current non-compliance for either a NMW participation or CSSD requirement.

(a) The conciliation process is established by the HCA, to address the noncompliance, identify good cause for noncompliance or barriers to compliance and shall occur only once prior to the imposition of the sanction.

(i) The participant shall have 10 working days from the date a conciliation notice is mailed to contact the HCA to initiate the conciliation process. A participant who fails to initiate the conciliation process shall have a notice of adverse action mailed to them after the 10th working day following the date on which the conciliation notice is mailed.

(ii) Participants who begin but do not complete the conciliation process shall be mailed a notice of adverse action 30 days from the date the original conciliation was initiated. The benefit group shall be subject to sanction in the month following the month the notice of adverse action expires.

(b) Non-cooperation with CSSD requirements: When the participant has initiated the conciliation process, it is the participant's responsibility to contact CSSD and to comply with requirements or to request a waiver from CSSD due to good cause. If the caseworker does not receive confirmation from CSSD within 30 days of issuing the conciliation notice that the participant is cooperating or has requested a waiver for good cause in accordance with 8.50.105.14 NMAC; the conciliation process shall be considered to have failed and the benefit group shall be subject to payment sanctioning.

(c) The caseworker shall make the determination whether arrangements have been made to meet NMW requirements or whether there is good cause for waiving the cooperation requirements. If arrangements to meet the requirement or to waive it have not been made by the 30th day following issuance of the conciliation notice, the conciliation shall be considered to have failed and the participant is subject to sanctioning.

C. Sanctioning:

(1) Within 10 days of determining that a participant has failed to meet a NMW requirement, HCA or its designee shall issue notice of adverse action that the payment shall be reduced. The payment reduction shall take place with the first payment following expiration of the notice of adverse action.

(2) Notice of adverse action shall apply to all NMW and child support noncompliance sanctions, including those relating to the conciliation process.

(3) A participant who corrects the failure of compliance with NMW or child support enforcement requirements during the notice of adverse action 13-day time period shall not have the sanction imposed against the benefit group or payment amount. The sanction shall not count as a cumulative or progressive sanction, since the reason for the sanction was corrected during the time period of the notice of adverse action and prior to a benefit reduction being imposed. A participant who has failed to meet work participation hours cannot correct the sanction during the notice of adverse action time period.

(4) Failure to comply during the notice of adverse action 13-day time period shall cause the sanction to become effective for a minimum of one month. If the participant later complies with the NMW compliance requirements, as determined by the HCA, the sanction may be removed, so long as the participant has received at least one month of reduced benefit due to sanction.

(a) A child support enforcement sanction shall be removed after CSSD notifies the caseworker that the participant is in compliance with child support enforcement requirements.

(b) A NMW sanction shall be removed after the caseworker receives verification that the participant has completed an assessment; or has completed an IRP; or has completed a WPA that indicates the appropriate number of monthly hours in work activities; or has met NMW participation hours for at least 30 days; or has good cause to waive work participation requirements.

D. Sanction levels:

(1) First-level sanction:

(a) The first level sanction for failure to comply shall result in a sanction of twenty-five percent of the standard of need. The benefit group shall be given notice of the imposition of the sanction.

(b) A first level sanction that is not cured for three consecutive months shall progress to a second level sanction.

(2) Second-level sanction:

(a) The second level of sanction for failure to comply shall result in a decrease of fifty percent of the standard of need. The second level shall be initiated by:

(i) failure to comply with NMW participation or child support enforcement requirements for more than three months; or

(ii) a second occurrence of noncompliance with a NMW or CSSD requirement by a participant; or

(iii) failure of a participant to comply with both CSSD and NMW participation requirements simultaneously. The group shall be given concurrent notice of imposition of the second-level sanction.

(b) A second level sanction that is not cured for three consecutive months shall progress to the third level as described below.

(3) Third-level sanction:

(a) The third sanction level is case closure for a period of not less than six months. The group shall be given notice of adverse action prior to imposition of the sanction.

(i) Once a participant is sanctioned at the third level, any subsequent occurrence of failure to comply with NMW or CSSD requirements shall immediately result in a third level sanction, and case ineligibility for six months.

(ii) The TANF grant will be counted as unearned income for SNAP benefits for the six month period of ineligibility in accordance with 8.139.520 NMAC.

(b) TANF applications received after a six month closure period will be reviewed for eligibility.

(i) Based on eligibility the TANF will be approved and all mandatory members will be required to meet the NMW compliance requirements set forth in 8.102.460 NMAC;

(ii) If ISD determines the applicant is still non-compliant with CSSD, the sanction will remain and the application will be denied.

E. Sanctions by other states or other programs: Participants in sanction status for failure to participate in other programs, such as the food stamp E&T program, or another state's or tribal TANF program, shall not carry that sanction status into NMW.

F. Sanctions with respect to voluntary participants: A voluntary participant is not subject to sanction for failure to participate, but shall be removed from the NMW and lose eligibility for support services

G. Good cause:

(1) Good cause applies to timely completion of assessment, IRP, WPA, work participation rates, and cooperation with the child support services division.

(vi) it is shown the HCA did not provide the participant reasonable assistance to complete the assessment, IRP, or WPA.

(b) The participant must meet with the NMW service provider prior to the end of the 30-day period to establish a WPA for the full participation standard beginning on day 31 or must request a limited work participation status prior to the end of the 30-day period. The participant may be subject to sanction for failure to complete a WPA if a new WPA has not been established by day 31.

(i) A participant with good cause for failure to meet the NMW requirements, who expects the cause of failure to continue for more than 30 days, must contact the HCA to review the participant's circumstances.

(ii) Under no conditions shall good cause be granted for more than 30 days during any given reporting period.

(3) Good cause shall be considered when the HCA has failed to submit a notice in accordance with the requirements of adverse action notices, to the participant or provide available support services that would adversely affect the participant's ability to timely meet work participation requirements.

(4) Good cause for refusal to cooperate with the child support enforcement requirements: In some cases it may be determined by the CSSD that the TANF/NMW applicant's/recipient' refusal to cooperate is with good cause in accordance with 8.50.105.14 NMAC. Any person requesting a good cause exemption to a TANF/ NMW requirement to cooperate must complete a request for a good cause exemption on a form provided by the CSSD and provide any documentation requested by CSSD. The request for a good cause exemption will be reviewed by the CSSD and the requestor will be informed of the decision in writing. The requestor's failure or refusal to complete the form or provide the requested documentation will result in an automatic denial of the request. The HCA may offer assistance to complete the form or obtain the necessary documentation, as appropriate.

(5) It is the applicant's/recipient's responsibility to inform the HCA if they are unable to meet the NMW compliance requirements or CSSD cooperation requirements.

(4) Illness: If a recipient who is temporarily visiting outside New Mexico is unable to return to New Mexico due to illness, cash assistance may continue until such time as the recipient is able to return. The recipient's inability to return to New Mexico due to illness must be verified by a physician's report.

(5) A statement by a recipient of intent to return to the state will be accepted, provided that the recipient does not take action in another state to establish permanent residence.

F. Residency abandonment: Residence shall be considered to have been abandoned when an individual:

(1) leaves the state and indicates that he intends to establish residence in the other state; or

(2) leaves the state for no specific purpose and with no clear intention to return; or

(3) leaves the state and applies for food, financial or medical assistance from another state; or

(4) has been absent from the state for a period of 30 days or more and has not notified the department of the absence or of an intention to return.

G. Residence of children: A dependent child shall be considered to be a resident of the same state as the caretaker adult with whom the child is living.

8.106.410.12 NONCONCURRENT RECEIPT OF ASSISTANCE:

A. Assistance from another state: An individual who is receiving assistance from another state shall be considered a resident of that state until the state is notified of the individual's intention to abandon residence. An individual who received GA from another state shall be considered to be in receipt of concurrent assistance for that month.

B. Concurrent receipt of assistance: To be eligible for inclusion in a GA benefit group, the individual cannot already be:

(1) included as a benefit group member and receiving cash assistance from another department cash assistance program;

(2) an SSI recipient;

(3) a recipient of benefits from a federally-funded TANF program (including a tribal program) or BIA-GA program;

(4) a recipient of a government-funded adoption subsidy program; or

(5) a recipient of benefits from a TANF or GA program in another state.

C. An individual may not be the payee for more than one GA cash assistance payment.

D. Supplemental security income:

(1) Ongoing SSI eligibility: An individual eligible for SSI on an ongoing basis is not eligible for GA benefits based on concurrent receipt of assistance. The SSI recipient shall not be included in the benefit group for purposes of GA eligibility or benefit calculation. The income, resources and needs of the SSI recipient are excluded in determining benefit group eligibility and benefit amount.

(2) SSI applicants: An individual receiving GA cash assistance benefits from the department may apply for and receive SSI benefits for the same months for which the department has already issued GA benefits. Cash assistance benefits issued by the department are considered in determining the amount of retroactive SSI benefits to be paid to the SSI applicant. GA ineligibility or overpayments shall not be established for any month for which the SSA issues an SSI retroactive payment. When notice is received that a benefit group member is approved for SSI on an ongoing basis, that member shall be immediately removed from the benefit group.

(3) Retroactive SSI payments:

(a) A state funded GA recipient who receives retroactive SSI payments is required to reimburse the department under general assistance program interim assistance reimbursement (IAR) provisions set forth at 8.106.420.17 NMAC.

(b) There may be some situations in which only retroactive SSI benefits are approved. Such approvals do not result in GA ineligibility due to concurrent receipt of assistance, since the SSI benefits will not be received on an ongoing basis, but may result in GA ineligibility on the basis of resources (See 8.106.510 NMAC).

(4) Adult residential shelter care program: Receipt of SSI is a requirement for receiving adult residential shelter care payments.

E. Other department programs: The food stamp program, medicaid, LIHEAP and other similar programs are not considered concurrent assistance and shall not make an individual ineligible for GA cash assistance programs.

8.106.410.13 ADDITIONAL ELIGIBILITY REQUIREMENTS FOR DISABILITY:

A. Compliance with IAR requirements: The state of New Mexico is a participant in the interim assistance reimbursement (IAR) program administered by the social security administration (SSA). The U.S. secretary of health and human services, through the SSA, has agreed to reimburse the state through HSD for general assistance payments made to an individual receiving GA disability during the period the individual's application for SSI was pending. Upon approval of SSI, SSA sends the first retroactive SSI payment due an individual to HSD as repayment for the state-funded GA payments made to the individual. The repayment of GA benefits from SSI is referred to as interim assistance reimbursement (IAR).

(1) Interim assistance authorization: An individual applying for disability based on set or variable term disability must, as a condition of eligibility, authorize in writing the reimbursement to HSD for the amount of GA benefits paid on the individual's behalf for any month in which the SSA pays retroactive SSI benefits to the individual.

(a) Completing the IAR authorization: The IAR authorization shall be completed and signed by the applicant and the Department representative at the time the individual is interviewed. Refusal to sign an IAR authorization shall result in immediate denial of a GA application.

(b) The department shall not approve an application for GA without a completed and valid IAR.

(c) The completed and signed IAR authorization form must be received by SSA within 30 days from the date of signature in order to be valid.

(d) Duration of authorization: The authorization for IAR shall remain in effect from the date of signature until:

(i) SSA releases the SSI retroactive payment to HSD and HSD recovers the full amount to which it is entitled; or

(ii) HSD and the individual agree to terminate the authorization.

(2) Termination of GA benefits does not constitute termination of the IAR authorization. HSD shall receive the first retroactive SSI payment for an individual who has received GA in the past and for whom an IAR authorization is in effect.

(3) Validity of an IAR authorization: In order for the IAR authorization to remain in effect, an individual must have filed an application for SSI within 12 months of signing the authorization.

(4) Determination of repayment amount:

(a) The amount of repayment of GA benefits from SSI shall be determined by comparing the months and amounts of GA paid to the individual to the months and amounts of the SSI retroactive payment issued by the SSA. The amount available for reimbursement to the department shall be calculated from the first day the individual is eligible for SSI benefits and shall end with (and include) the month the retroactive SSI payment is made.

(b) For each month that GA and SSI were both paid, the department shall recoup the amount of the GA benefit, not to exceed the amount of SSI for that month.

(c) The department shall not recoup an SSI payment for any month in which a GA payment was not issued.

(d) Emergency advance SSI payments shall not be available for recoupment. Presumptive disability SSI payments shall not be available for recoupment.

(5) Issuance of balance of SSI payment: When the amount of the total SSI payment exceeds the total GA payment, the balance of the remaining SSI retroactive payment(s) shall be sent to the individual within 10 calendar days of the date the department received the SSI retroactive payment from SSA. The balance shall be paid in the form of an HSD warrant. The individual shall be informed in writing of the retroactive SSI payment amount, how the repayment amount was computed by the department, and the balance being sent to the individual.

(6) Returned checks: When the department is issued an amount greater than the amount of GA benefits paid to an individual, and the excess payment cannot be issued because the individual is deceased or cannot be located, the balance of the SSI retroactive payment shall be returned to SSA.

(7) When the individual dies before eligibility is determined: The department has the right to receive repayment for GA benefits paid to an individual who dies before a determination of SSI eligibility is made. In such a circumstance, SSA will make a determination of eligibility or ineligibility for payment. Any excess payment after recovery by HSD will be returned to SSA.

B. Compliance with SSI status requirements:

(1) Any individual who is potentially eligible for SSI on the basis of either age or disability must apply for and accept SSI if approved by the social security administration.

(2) GA benefits shall be terminated when a determination is made that an individual has failed or refused to follow through with the initial SSI application interview, or failed or refused to file a timely request for reconsideration or appeal of an SSI denial.

(3) Ongoing SSI: An individual receiving SSI, or who would be receiving SSI except for recovery of an overpayment by the social security administration, is not eligible for GA.

C. SSI application requirement for disabled individuals:

(1) An individual who is approved for GA based on a set or variable term GA must file an application for SSI or OASDI within 60 days following approval. The GA recipient must follow through with the SSI application process and maintain an active SSI or OASDI application.

(2) An individual whose SSI or OASDI application has been denied or terminated must request and pursue his right to a hearing and appeal through the administrative law judge (ALJ) appeal level of the social security administration (SSA). If an individual has allowed his or her hearing rights to expire, the individual must file a new application with the SSA.

(3) An individual who has pursued his or her hearing rights through the SSA and who has not been approved shall not be required to pursue SSI or OASDI benefits any further.

(4) A GA recipient who has not applied for SSI by the end of the month in which the 60th day occurs shall be ineligible to continue receiving GA. In such a situation, a notice of adverse action must be issued. If the individual files an application for OASDI, SSI or both by the end of the month in which the notice of adverse action expires, the individual's benefits will be reinstated.

(5) GA benefits shall be terminated when a determination is made that an individual has failed or refused to follow through with the initial SSI application interview or failed or refused to timely request for consideration or appeal of an SSI denial, unless the individual can demonstrate good cause.

D. Contingency requirements: To remain eligible for variable term disability assistance, an individual must accept treatment available outside the GA program, unless a determination is made that good cause exists for the individual's inability to comply. The department shall make a determination of whether a contingency requirement is warranted and must be met to maintain eligibility for GA.

(1) The GA recipient shall be informed of any ongoing conditions or contingency requirements that must be met in order to ensure ongoing eligibility.

(2) If appropriate, the individual shall be referred to the division of vocational rehabilitation (DVR). A recipient must accept vocational rehabilitation services if offered by DVR.

(3) The department shall not impose a time limit or deadline for a contingency requirement to be met that cannot realistically be met in the community in which the GA recipient resides.

(4) Failure to comply: Failure to comply with out good cause shall result in termination of GA benefits and ineligibility until contingency requirements have been met or good cause can be established.

(5) If a recipient of GA fails or refuses a referral, treatment or rehabilitation services, the case shall be reviewed by the department to determine if the refusal was for good cause. A determination that the failure or refusal to accept corrective treatment was for good cause will not result in termination of benefits. A determination that the failure or refusal was not for a good cause reason shall result in termination of GA benefits.

E. Good cause: Good cause is determined on an individual basis. There may be situations in which good cause exists for a GA recipient's inability to comply with a contingency requirement, including but not limited to:

(1) the treatment is not available without cost or minimal cost to the recipient;

(2) the treatment is totally unavailable or not available at the frequency required due to lack of providers in the project area in which the recipient resides;

(3) the failure of ISD to provide written notice or sufficient information to the recipient about the contingency requirement;

(4) the recipient's inability to participate because of documented barriers, such as lack of transportation, an inability to leave work, illness, or death in the immediate family;

(5) the contingency requirement was made in error;

(6) a good cause reason approved by the department;

(7) treatment that involves more than reasonable risk to correct the impairment;

(8) treatment that conflicts with the individual's sincere religious beliefs;

(9) fear of additional treatment that could interfere with or reduce the benefits of current treatment interventions; or

(10) treatment that may cause further limitations or loss of a function or organ and the recipient is not willing to take the risk.

8.106.410.14 PROGRAM DISQUALIFICATIONS:

A. Dual state benefits: An individual who has been convicted of fraud for receiving TANF, SNAP, Medicaid or SSI in more than one state at the same time shall not be eligible for inclusion in the GA cash assistance benefit group for a period of 10 years following such conviction. The conviction must have occurred on or after August 22, 1996.

B. Fugitive and probation and parole violators: An individual who is a fugitive felon or who has been determined to be in violation of conditions of probation or parole shall not be eligible for inclusion in the GA cash assistance benefit group.

8.106.420.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.106.420.8 DISABILITY DETERMINATION PROCESS:

A. Disability determination: The department must find:

(1) medical evidence of physical or mental impairment(s), and

(2) medical and non-medical evidence to support that the severity of the impairment(s) is sufficient to significantly restrict the applicant's capacity to perform basic work-related activities or prevent engagement in gainful employment; or

(3) that, absent the above findings, an unsubstantiated statement of impairment or inability to work shall not be adequate to establish disability.

B. Case development process:

(1) all eligibility factors must be met prior to determining disability;

(2) complete a medical/social summary describing the applicant's health history; appearance, work and personal situation;

(3) assist, if appropriate, the applicant with obtaining documentary evidence;

(4) schedule, if appropriate, appointments for the applicant; and

(5) determine the need for additional documents for evidence.

C. The department may use the following alternative methodology to determine disability for set and variable term general assistance.

(1) Documentation requirements:

(a) The medical information must be documented on the department's standardized and approved medical release/physician's statement or may be documented on a physician's statement that includes all the information required to make a disability determination.

(b) The medical information used to substantiate impairment and finding of disability must include, but shall not be limited to:

(i) a record or narrative report resulting from examinations or diagnostic procedures;

(ii) a statement of the impairment;

(iii) a projected time period of the length of the disability; and

(iv) certification that the impairment precludes employment within the individual's capacity.

(2) Duration of an impairment: The duration of the impairment shall be evaluated by the department based on medical documentation.

(a) An impairment substantiated by medical documentation that precludes the individual's capacity to engage in gainful employment that is expected to last at least thirty days from the date of disability and for less than eight months shall be eligible for a set term certification.

(b) An impairment substantiated by medical documentation that precludes the individual's capacity to engage in gainful employment that is expected to last at least thirty days from the date of disability and for an indefinite period exceeding 6 months shall be eligible for a period of no more than six months without substantiating medical evidence consistent with Subsection D of 8.106.420.8 below.

(3) The alternative methodology shall be used no more that once in any 12 month period.

D. Development of evidence: The applicant is responsible to obtain and provide evidence of the nature and severity of the impairment(s) as well as the capacity to work. Non-medical evidence will not be considered in the absence of medical evidence.

(1) Medical evidence: Medical evidence must be submitted and considered to verify the existence of physical, mental impairment(s) or both.

(a) Source: Medical evidence must be obtained from approved source(s), limited to: medical doctors, physician assistants, doctors of osteopathy or podiatry, ophthalmologists, psychiatrists or psychologists, state-licensed providers, and individuals that meet the minimum mental health professional qualifications set by their community mental health services employer.

(b) Timeliness of report: Medical evidence over six months old from the date of application may be useful to support a pattern of recurring impairment, but should be accompanied by current medical evidence.

(c) Department assistance:

(i) Requests for reports: When necessary the department shall assist in obtaining medical evidence by making no more than two written requests per medical provider, for copies of relevant existing medical reports.

(ii) Examinations: The department shall schedule and, based on available funding, pay for a medical examination or other appropriate procedure(s) for purposes of obtaining current medical evidence. The applicant shall first be referred to the individual's own physician or provider.

(2) Non-medical evidence: Non-medical evidence may be submitted and considered from public and private agencies, schools, parents and caregivers, social workers and employers, and other sources to assist in the determination of whether the impairment(s) are of sufficient severity to restrict the applicant's capacity to perform basic work-related activities or prevent engagement in gainful employment.

E. Case disposition: Once an impairment is established, all the medical and non-medical evidence is considered in assessing impairment severity to determine disability. Case disposition shall include:

(1) a thorough review of documentary evidence;

(2) a determination as to whether disability is supported;

(3) the anticipated duration of the impairment;

(4) specific contingency requirements; and

(5) the certification review period for disability review.

F. Certification period: The certification period is primarily based on the prognosis and anticipated duration of the impairment(s), as established by medical evidence.

(1) Set term: A set term is assigned where medical evidence supports that a significant improvement in the impairment(s) is anticipated or probable in the six months following application. A set term certification shall not exceed eight months in total duration. A new application may be submitted for consideration of a new term.

(2) Variable term: A variable term is assigned where medical evidence supports that a significant change in the impairment(s) is not anticipated or probable in the six months following application.

G. Contingencies: Eligibility for benefits may be made contingent upon satisfactory completion of written condition(s) that may include, but are not limited to:

(1) follow treatment plans as prescribed by a physician or mental health provider;

(2) seek and utilize available community based resources;

(3) accept treatment as recommended by a physician or mental health provider;

(4) pursue a referral for DVR, or other available, services.

[8.106.420.8 NMAC - N, 12/01/2009]

8.106.420.9 VERIFYING IMPAIRMENT(S):

A. General: The nature of the physical and mental impairment(s) must be verified by a medical or mental health diagnosis from an acceptable medical source and supported by current medical evidence based on acceptable clinical and laboratory diagnostic techniques.

B. Evaluation of report(s): Reports shall be reviewed for completeness and detail sufficient to identify the limiting effects of impairment(s), probable duration of the impairment(s), and capacity to perform work-related activities.

(1) Anatomical and physiological reports shall be reviewed for a description of the medical history, clinical findings, laboratory findings, diagnosis, prescribed treatment and prognosis, and to identify the applicant's ability to sit, stand, move, lift, carry, handle objects, hear, speak and travel.

(2) Psychological assessments shall be reviewed for a description of the applicant's behavior, affect, orientation, capacity for appropriate decision-making, response to stress, cognitive function (awareness, memory and intellectual capacity), contact with reality and need for occupational, personal and social adjustment(s).

[8.106.420.9 NMAC - N, 12/01/2009]

8.106.420.10 ASSESS CAPACITY FOR WORK:

A. General: The applicant's capacity for work shall be determined by evaluating the severity of the impairment(s) and by applicant's work-related factors with regarding to the impact on the applicant's ability to perform basic work-related activities and to engage in gainful employment.

B. Capacity to perform basic work-related activities

(1) Sedentary work: Sedentary work involves lifting no more than ten pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like docket files, ledgers and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one that involves sitting, a certain amount of walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required occasionally and sedentary standards are met.

(2) Light work: Light work involves lifting no more than twenty pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to ten pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little, a job is placed in this category if it requires a good deal of walking or standing, or if it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. To be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, an individual must have the ability to do substantially all of these activities

(3) Medium work: Medium work involves lifting no more than 50 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 25 pounds.

(4) Heavy work: Heavy work involves lifting no more than 100 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing up to 50 pounds.

(5) Very heavy work: Very heavy work involves lifting objects weighing more than 100 pounds at a time, with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing 50 pounds or more.

C. Capacity for gainful employment: An applicant's verified employment status shall be taken into consideration in determining disability based on the type, nature, and duration of employment. Disability may still be determined where the applicant is employed minimally or for rehabilitative purposes.

(1) Minimal employment: An individual who is minimally employed may still be considered disabled if the individual cannot reasonably be expected to be self-supporting by at least the standard of need for the size of the benefit group.

(2) Rehabilitative employment: Work made available to an individual through the interest or compassion of others, or to rehabilitate an individual (as in a sheltered workshop), but which would not ordinarily exist on the open labor market, shall not be considered employment in a disability determination.

D. Other work-related factors: Other work-related factors may be considered to establish the applicant's capacity to perform basic work-related activities and engage in gainful employment, including but not limited to the following.

(1) Language barriers: An applicant's ability to speak, read and write in English.

(2) Educational level:

(a) Illiteracy: Inability to read or write English. Illiterate individuals are considered suitable for the general labor work force.

(b) Marginal: Eight years of education or less. Marginally-educated individuals are considered suitable for the semi-skilled work force.

(c) Limited: Lack of a high school diploma or GED, but more than eight years of education. Individuals with limited education are considered suitable for the semi-skilled to skilled work force.

(d) High school, GED and above: Indicates an individual's ability to compete in all levels of the job market.

(e) Training program: Completion of training in a particular field of employment may offset limited education in some instances.

(3) Job experience: Experience in a job field can overcome a lack of education, training or both. Jobs held in the last ten years shall be considered. Work experience shall be evaluated based on the type of work previously performed, the length of employment and the potential for transferring the experience to other types of employment. Inability to continue working in one's prior field of work does not constitute a disability. Job experience is classified in the following categories.

(a) General labor: Does not require the ability to read or write.

(b) Semi-skilled labor: Requires a minimal ability to read, write and do simple calculations.

(c) Skilled labor: Ability to do work in which the ability to read, write and do calculations of a complex nature is needed. Specialized training in the area is also considered.

(4) Appearance: An individual's appearance may not be heavily weighted in a disability determination. On rare occasions, an impairment is disfiguring and may interfere with employment.

(5) Age: The older an individual is, the less potential there is for overcoming an impairment. Recovery is more difficult and, often, total recovery may not be achieved. There may be very little chance that the individual will ever return to functioning effectively in his or her previous job duties.

C. School attendance:

(1) Full time attendance: A child is considered a full-time student based on the below criteria:

(a) School attendance is defined by the standards of the educational facility or program in which the child is enrolled including regularly scheduled vacations and breaks provided the child:

(i) has not been removed for non attendance; and

(ii) resumes attendance when classes start again;

(b) is currently enrolled in a home schooling programming approved by the New Mexico PED.

(2) Verification:

(a) Verification of school attendance must be provided at time application and certification for any:

(i) minor unmarried parent; and

(ii) dependent child 18 years of age and over.

(b) The statement of the parent or caretaker is acceptable verification of school attendance for all other dependent children, unless otherwise questionable.

D. Unsatisfactory attendance:

(1) A child shall be considered not meeting the school attendance requirement when the child:

(a) is not enrolled in school;

(b) has accumulated three unexcused absences in a grading period, but not on the same day;

(c) has dropped out of school during the current grading period; or

(d) has one or more unexcused absences during the time period covered by a current school attendance plan.

(2) Reporting requirement: Within 14 days of the date it becomes known, the parent, specified relative, or caretaker must report to ISD if a child is not enrolled in school, has accumulated three unexcused absences during the current grading period, or has dropped out of school. Failure to report that a child has not met school attendance requirements shall not result in a non-reporting sanction for the parent, or the specified relative or caretaker if included in the benefit group.

(3) Failure to meet: In the absence of good cause for failure to meet the school attendance requirements the conciliation process shall be initiated.

(a) Conciliation process: Prior to removing the child's needs from the benefit group's standard of need, the parent, specified relative or caretaker shall have a 10 working day conciliation period to address school non-attendance. The conciliation period is a 10 working day period affording an opportunity for the parent, child, and the school to develop a plan to ensure regular attendance by the child and comply with NMW requirements.

(i) Within 10 days of receipt of verification that a child has not met school attendance requirements, the caseworker shall take action to initiate a conciliation period by issuing a notice of action.

(ii) The benefit group shall have 10 working days from the date of issuance of the notice to provide a school attendance plan indicating the school’s confirmation of satisfactory arrangements.

(iii) If a benefit group fails to provide a school attendance plan, a notice of adverse action shall be sent within five working days.

(iv) If the school confirms that satisfactory arrangements have been made to ensure regular attendance by the child, the child shall remain eligible.

(b) Benefit reduction:

(i) The child shall be removed from the benefit group effective the month following the month the notice of adverse action expires.

(ii) If there is one or more unexcused absence following successful submission of a school attendance plan (the school's confirmation of satisfactory arrangements), the caseworker shall remove the child from the benefit group effective the month following the month the notice of adverse action expires.

(c) Case closure: If the child is the only child included in the benefit group, the cash assistance case shall be subject to closure in the month following the notice of adverse action.

(4) Good cause: A child with unsatisfactory school attendance or enrollment shall be warranted good cause based on the following circumstances:

(b) family emergencies, for a period not to exceed 30 days;

(c) participation in or attendance at cultural and religious activities as long as the child has parental consent; or

(d) a minor parent has a child under 12 weeks of age.

E. Regaining eligibility: Once a child has been removed from the benefit group due to failure to comply with school attendance requirements, the child can not be considered a member of any benefit group. Changes in school attendance must be reported by the parent/caretaker. Eligibility may be regained when:

(1) the child has attended school with no unexcused absences for the 30 days;

(2) circumstances of good cause apply as listed in Paragraph (4) of Subsection D; or

(3) during the summer months if the child is promoted, attending summer school or graduating.

8.106.430.10 CHILD SUPPORT ENFORCEMENT:

A. Assignment of support rights: A caretaker who receives cash assistance for an unrelated dependent child, whether or not the caretaker is included in the benefit group, automatically assigns to HSD the right to child support for any individual included in the benefit group. The assignment shall be:

(1) effective with respect to any dependent child included in the benefit group;

(2) valid as long as the caretaker receives GA payments on the child's behalf; and

(3) includes any child support amount for which the caretaker is or may become eligible on behalf of any dependent child included in the benefit group.

B. Cooperation:

(1) The caretaker who is responsible for each child included in the benefit group must cooperate with the child support enforcement division (CSED) in obtaining child support. The caretaker shall be required to cooperate regardless of whether the caretaker is included in the benefit group.

(2) Failure to cooperate with a child support enforcement requirement will result in payment reduction through the sanction process.

(3) Failure to cooperate shall result in the personal ineligibility of the caretaker if the caretaker is included in the GA benefit group, and in a payment sanction against the benefit group, as described in 8.106.620.10 NMAC.

(4) The caretaker must turn over to CSED any child support payment which the caretaker receives directly from a noncustodial parent of the unrelated dependent child.

C. Determining that cooperation exists:

(1) A caretaker who signs an application or other applicable child support-related forms, on behalf of an unrelated dependent child indicates an understanding of the requirement to assign support rights to the department.

(2) The caretaker shall be considered to have met the cooperation requirement until such time as CSED reports to the caseworker that the caretaker has failed to cooperate.

(3) The determination whether the caretaker has cooperated with CSED shall be made by CSED based on CSED requirements.

(4) The cooperation requirement may be partially or fully waived by CSED upon demonstration of good cause by the caretaker.

D. Action upon receiving notice of noncompliance: Within ten days after notification by CSED of the failure of a caretaker to cooperate, the caseworker shall take action that is appropriate to the status of the case, including:

(1) issuing a conciliation notice that allows a period of time for the caretaker to cooperate and avoid payment reduction ; or

(2) removing the needs of the dependent child from the cash assistance payment; and

(3) imposing a noncompliance sanction, in cases where the caretaker is included in the benefit group;

(4) in a cases where the dependent child is the only benefit group member, GA benefits shall be terminated upon a determination that the caretaker has failed to cooperate with the assignment of rights to child support.

E. Good cause:

(1) In some situations, it is not in the best interests of the child or caretaker to pursue support or to require that the caretaker cooperate with CSED in pursuing such support. A caretaker shall be:

(a) notified that the requirement to cooperate may be waived,

(b) informed of the requirements involved in the waiver, and

(c) given an opportunity to request a waiver that would exempt the caretaker from the cooperation requirement.

(2) If a caretaker requests a waiver of the cooperation requirement, assistance shall not be delayed pending determination of good cause, nor may enforcement of support begin or continue while the waiver of the requirement is under consideration.

(3) Granting a good cause exemption: The decision whether to grant a good cause exemption shall be made according to the following:

(a) ISD-domestic violence exemption: ISD shall exempt a caretaker from CSED cooperation requirements where a trained counselor, such as a domestic violence counselor or social worker, has certified that cooperation would make it more difficult to escape a domestic violence situation involving a parent of the dependent child, or would unfairly penalize the caretaker or child in light of current circumstances.

(b) CSED-other good cause exemptions: All other good cause exemptions from cooperation with CSED requirements shall be made by the director of the CSED or designee.

(4) Notification: The caseworker shall send a caretaker a written notice when a waiver has been granted due to domestic violence.

(a) The caretaker shall be informed whether CSED has determined that support can be pursued without danger or risk to the caretaker or child. If pursuit is planned, the caretaker shall be notified that he or she must cooperate to the extent of providing necessary information and documents and that, if the caretaker does not comply to the extent possible, a noncompliance sanction will be imposed or benefits will be terminated.

(b) A caretaker shall be notified of the right to a fair hearing, and that the caretaker may ask for such a hearing within 90 days of the date on the written notice.

(c) If CSED determines that good cause does not exist, the caseworker shall notify the caretaker within 10 working days that:

(i) the request has been denied;

(ii) the caretaker is expected to cooperate fully in pursuing support; and

(iii) the caretaker may request an administrative hearing, but that the caretaker is expected to begin cooperating within ten days after the date of the notice.

8.106.500.8 GA - GENERAL REQUIREMENTS:

A. Limited state funds may result in a suspension or reduction in general assistance benefits without eligibility and need considered.

B. Need determination process: Eligibility for the GA program based on need requires a finding that the:

(1) countable resources owned by and available to the benefit group do not exceed either the $1,500 liquid or $2,000 non-liquid resource limit;

(2) benefit group's countable gross earned and unearned income does not equal or exceed eighty-five percent of the federal poverty guideline for the size of the benefit group; and

(3) benefit group's countable net income does not equal or exceed the standard of need for the size of the benefit group.

C. GA payment determination: The benefit group's cash assistance payment is determined after subtracting from the standard of need the benefit group's countable income and any payment sanctions or recoupments.

D. Gross income test: The total countable gross earned and unearned income of the benefit group cannot exceed eighty-five percent of the federal poverty guidelines for the size of the benefit group.

(1) Income eligibility limits are revised and adjusted each year in October.

(2) The gross income limit for the size of the benefit group is as follows:

(a)	one person	$1,067
(b)	two persons	$1,448
(c)	three persons	$1,829
(d)	four persons	$2,210
(e)	five persons	$2,592
(f)	six persons	$2,972
(g)	seven persons	$3,353
(h)	eight persons	$3,735
(i)	add $382 for each additional person.

E. Standard of need:

(1) As published monthly by the department, the standard of need is an amount provided to each GA cash assistance benefit group on a monthly basis and is based on availability of state funds, the number of individuals included in the benefit group, number of cases, number of applications processed and approved, application approval rate, number of case closures, IAR caseload number and expenditures, and number of pending applications.

(2) Basic needs include food, clothing, shelter, utilities, personal requirements and an individual benefit group member's share of supplies.

(3) Notice: The department shall issue prior public notice identifying any change(s) to the standard of need amounts for the next quarter, as discussed at 8.106.630.11 NMAC.

F. Net income test: The total countable earned and unearned income of the benefit group after all allowable deductions cannot equal or exceed the standard of need for the size of the GA benefit group. After the countable net income is determined it is rounded down prior to the comparison of the household's income to the standard of need to determine the households monthly benefit amount.

G. Special clothing allowance for school-age dependent children: A special clothing allowance may be issued to assist in preparing a child for school, subject to the availability of state or federal funds and a specific allocation of the available funds for this allowance.

(1) For purposes of determining eligibility for the clothing allowance, a child is considered to be of school age as defined by PED.

(2) The clothing allowance shall be allowed for each school-age child who is included in the GA cash assistance benefit group, subject to the availability of state or federal funds.

(3) The clothing allowance is not counted in determining eligibility for GA cash assistance.

H. Supplemental issuance: A one-time supplemental issuance may be distributed to recipients of GA for disabled adults based on the sole discretion of the secretary of the human services department and the availability of state funds.

(1) The one time supplemental issuance may be no more than the standard GA payment made during the month the GA payment was issued.

(2) To be eligible to receive the one time supplement, a GA application must be active and determined eligible no later than the last day of the month in the month the one time supplement is issued.

I. Minimum Benefit Amount: Benefits less than ten dollars ($10.00) will not be issued for the initial month or subsequent months. ISD shall certify household beginning the month of application.

[8.106.500.8 NMAC - Rp, 8.106.500.8 NMAC 3/1/2025]

8.106.500.9 PROSPECTIVE BUDGETING:

A. Initial eligibility: Eligibility for cash assistance programs shall be determined prospectively. The benefit group must meet all eligibility criteria in the month following the month of application. Eligibility and amount of payment shall be determined prospectively for each month in the certification period.

B. Changes in benefit group composition: A person added to the benefit group shall have eligibility determined prospectively, beginning in the month following the month the report is made.

C. Anticipating income: In determining the benefit group's eligibility and benefit amount, the income already received and any income the benefit group expects to receive during the certification period shall be counted.

(1) Income anticipated during the certification period shall be counted only in the month it is expected to be received, unless the income is averaged.

(2) Actual income shall be calculated by using the income already received and any other income that can reasonably be anticipated in the calendar month.

(3) If the amount of income or date of receipt is uncertain, the portion of the income that is uncertain shall not be counted.

(4) In cases where the receipt of income is reasonably certain but the amount may fluctuate, the income shall be averaged.

(5) Averaging is used to determine a monthly calculation, when there is fluctuating income within the weekly, biweekly or monthly pay period and to achieve a uniform amount for projecting future income.

D. Counting income in the certification period:

(1) For the purposes of cash assistance eligibility and determination of benefit amount, income is money received by or available to the benefit group in each month of the certification period.

(2) Only income which is actually received, or can reasonably be expected to be received, is counted for financial eligibility and benefit calculation.

(3) The benefit group must take appropriate steps to apply for and receive income from any other source to which the group may potentially be entitled.

(4) A benefit group may be found ineligible for failing or refusing to apply for or pursue potential income or assets from other sources.

(5) A benefit group member who is 62 years of age or older must apply for and take all necessary steps to receive a reduced OASDI benefit from the SSA.

E. Income availability:

(1) The availability of income to the benefit group is determined by who must be included in the benefit group and whether income must be deemed available to the benefit group.

(2) The earned and unearned income of an individual who is not a mandatory benefit group member shall not be considered available to the benefit group.

(3) Income belongs to the person who gains it, either through the person's own efforts, as in the case of earnings, or as a benefit, as in the case of a beneficiary of SSA benefits.

(4) Unearned income, such as child support or social security survivor's benefits and other similar payments for a child, are considered as belonging to the benefit group in which the child is included.

(5) Alien sponsors: The gross income belonging to an individual who is the sponsor of an alien included in the cash assistance benefit group, and the income belonging to the sponsor's spouse, shall be counted in its entirety to determine the eligibility and benefit amount if the sponsor has executed an affidavit of support pursuant to Subsection 213-A of the Immigration and Nationality Act. The income of the alien sponsor and spouse shall be counted until the sponsored alien achieves citizenship or can be credited with 40 qualifying quarters under title II of the federal Social Security Act.

F. Unavailable income: In some situations, individuals who are included in the benefit group, either in applicant or recipient status, have a legal right to income but do not have access to it. Such income is not counted as available income for purposes of cash assistance eligibility and benefit calculation.

G. Ineligible alien: The countable income belonging to an ineligible alien who is a mandatory benefit group member is deemed available to the benefit group. The countable income shall be prorated according to the size of the benefit group to determine the eligibility and benefit amount for the benefit group.

H. Income received less frequently than monthly: The amount of gross income that is received less frequently than monthly is determined by dividing the total gross income by the number of months the income is intended to cover. This includes, but is not limited to, income from sharecropping, farming and self-employment. It also includes contract income as well as income of a tenured teacher who may not actually have a contract.

I. Contract income: A benefit group that derives its annual income in a period of less than one year shall have that income averaged over a twelve-month period, provided that the income is not earned on an hourly or piecework basis.

J. Using exact income: Exact income, rather than averaged income, shall be used if:

(1) the benefit group has chosen not to average income;

(2) income is from a source terminated in the month of application;

(3) employment began in the application month and the income represents a partial month; or

(4) income is received more frequently than weekly.

K. Income projection for earned income:

(1) Income from the four-week period prior to the date of initial interview is used to project monthly income, provided that the income is expected to continue. If a determination is made that the prior income is not indicative of income anticipated to be received during the certification period, then income from a longer period of past time may be used. If the longer period is not indicative of income anticipated to be received, then verification of anticipated income shall be obtained from the income source.

(2) The methods described above may not give the most accurate estimate of monthly earnings due to unique circumstances that may occur. In such cases, the caseworker shall use whichever method provides the most accurate estimate of earnings.

(3) An income projection shall be considered valid for the certification period unless changes are made that affect eligibility or benefit amount.

L. Unearned income: For purposes of anticipating future income, unearned income from the four-week period prior to the date of interview shall be used, provided that the income is expected to continue.

M. Use of conversion factors: Whenever a full month's income is anticipated and is received on a weekly or biweekly basis, the income shall be converted to monthly amount as follows:

(1) income received on a weekly basis is averaged and multiplied by 4.0;

(2) income received on a biweekly basis is averaged and multiplied by 2.0;

(3) averaged income shall be rounded to the nearest whole dollar prior to application of the conversion factor; amounts resulting in $0.50 or more are rounded up; amounts resulting in $0.49 or lower are rounded down.

8.106.500.10 PAYMENTS TO ADULTS IN RESIDENTIAL CARE:

[8.106.510.7 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.510.8 RESOURCE STANDARDS:

To be eligible, the value of all countable personal and real property, belonging to or considered as belonging to or considered available to the benefit group, shall not exceed the liquid or non-liquid resource limits. Total resources that exceed the liquid or non-liquid resource limit result in benefit group ineligibility unless the nature of the property or an express condition of its ownership prohibits its transfer. Resources are evaluated based upon their equity value.

A. Liquid resources: The value of countable liquid resources shall not exceed $1,500.

B. Non-liquid resources: The value of countable non-liquid resources shall not exceed $2,000.

[8.106.510.8 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.510.9 COUNTABLE RESOURCES:

A. Non-liquid real property: means land and the structures (including mobile homes) and improvements affixed to it.

(1) The value of countable real property owned by or considered available to the benefit group, shall be considered in determining whether non-liquid resources exceed $2,000.

(2) Grazing permits are considered to be real property.

B. Personal property (liquid or non-liquid): means all property, other than real property, and includes such possessions as bank accounts, cash (other than the current month's income), motor vehicles, livestock, tools, equipment and rights to receive money, such as stocks, bonds, contract rights, insurance policies, etc. The types of personal property that must be counted in determining whether the benefit group's resources exceed the resource limits include, but are not limited to:

(1) Life insurance:

(a) Life insurance policies owned by a member of the benefit group shall be considered as a resource that may be converted into cash. The cash value of the life insurance policy shall be counted toward the liquid resource limit.

(b) Information about lapsed insurance shall be obtained , since many lapsed policies have a cash value.

(2) Cash, bank accounts and other readily negotiable assets:

(a) Readily available cash, such as cash on hand or money in a bank account and other readily negotiable assets, shall be considered as a liquid resource and shall be counted toward the liquid resource limit.

(b) "Other readily negotiable assets" include stocks, bonds, negotiable notes, purchase contracts and other similar assets. For purposes of cash assistance eligibility, the value of such assets is their current market value.

(3) Motor vehicles, equipment and tools:

(a) The equity value of all motor vehicles, equipment and tools is countable, unless specifically excluded.

(b) The value of motor vehicles, equipment and tools, except as set forth in Paragraph 1 of Subsection B of 8.106.510.10 NMAC below, is subject to the non-liquid resource test.

(4) Asset conversion:

(a) Money received from one-time-only or sporadic sales of real or personal property, such as crops, rugs, jewelry, etc., shall be considered an asset, rather than income, provided that the property is not sold or transferred in connection with a business or self-employment activity.

(b) Assets converted into money are subject to the $1,500 liquid assets limitation, regardless of whether they were fully or partially exempt prior to conversion.

(5) Lump sum payments: Payments of a one-time nature, such as retroactive monthly payments, payments in the nature of a windfall, personal injury and worker's compensation awards, gambling winnings, etc., shall be considered a resource subject to the liquid resource limit.

[8.106.510.9 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.510.10 RESOURCE EXCLUSIONS:

A. Real property:

(1) The home: The value of the benefit group's home is not considered in determining eligibility. The "home" is the dwelling place occupied by the benefit group. The home is considered to be occupied by the benefit group during a temporary absence, when there is a definite plan to return to the home and no one else is occupying it.

(2) "Home" includes, in addition to the residence building and the land upon which it is constructed, the following:

(a) a reasonable amount of land within reasonable proximity to the residence building, if that land is currently used by and useful to the client;

(b) outbuildings within reasonable proximity to the residence building, such as barn, garage and well, if the well is a principal source of water;

(c) buildings used for rental purposes, if located on land contiguous to the land upon which the residence building is constructed, and if these buildings cannot be divided from the residence land and sold separately;

(d) grazing permits currently being used to graze livestock owned by the client; and

(e) furniture, equipment and household goods necessary for the operation and maintenance of the home.

(3) Other real property - burial plots: One burial plot for each person included in the benefit group shall be excluded; a burial plot shall consist of the space needed to bury a member of the immediate family.

B. Exempt personal property: The value of the following items of personal property shall not be considered in determining eligibility for GA cash assistance:

(1) Vehicles: all vehicles used by the benefit group for transporting individuals to or from employment, for daily living activities, or for the transportation of goods shall be excluded from consideration as a resource subject to the non-liquid resource limit; recreational vehicles, such as boats or motor homes, shall not be excluded;

(2) Specially-equipped vehicles: a vehicle owned by the benefit group that is specially equipped for the handicapped shall not be considered in the determination of the liquid or non-liquid resource limit.

C. Exempt income: Any income that is exempt under income provisions is also exempt from consideration as a resource. To maintain its exempt status, exempt income that is accumulated must be kept separate from non-exempt savings.

D. Individual development account (IDA): Subject to the limitations set forth below, funds in an IDA are exempt from consideration as resources in determining benefit group eligibility. To be exempt from consideration, the IDA must be designated for a qualified purpose.

(1) Post-secondary education of a dependent child included in the benefit group: In order to be considered used for a qualified purpose, the post-secondary education funds must be paid from an IDA directly to an eligible education institution. For purposes of this regulation, post-secondary education expenses include:

(a) tuition and fees required for the enrollment or attendance of a student at an eligible education institution. An eligible institution is an institution described in section 481(a)(1) or 1201(a) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 USC 1088(a)(1) or 1141(a)); an area vocational education school (as defined in section 521(4) of the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act (20 U.S.C. 2471(4)) located in any state; or

(b) books, fees, supplies and equipment required for courses of instruction at an eligible educational institution.

(2) Purchase of a principal residence for a first-time home buyer: The purpose of the IDA is to assist a qualified first-time home buyer to accumulate part of the cash necessary to initiate purchase of the individual’s first home.

(a) Only IDA's established by qualified first-time home buyers shall be disregarded; a qualified first-time home buyer is one who has never had an ownership interest in a principal residence.

(b) The IDA may be used only for the purchase of a qualified principal residence; a qualified principal residence is one which qualifies as the principal home under subsection 1034 the federal internal revenue code, if the costs for which do not exceed 100% of the average area purchase price applicable to such residence, determined in accordance with paragraphs (2) and (3) of subsection 143(e) of the internal revenue code.

(c) No more than $1,500 may be accumulated in an IDA for first-time home purchase. Any amount in excess of $1,500 is considered in determining whether the benefit group meets the cash resource limit.

(3) Business capitalization: In order to be considered used for a qualified purpose, the funds have to be paid directly from the IDA to a business capitalization account established in a federally insured financial institution that is restricted to use solely for qualified business capitalization expenses. A qualified business means any business that does not contravene any law or public policy. Qualified business capitalization expenses include capital, plant, equipment, working capital and inventory expenses. To be a qualified business, there must be a business plan which:

(a) is approved by a financial institution or a nonprofit loan fund having demonstrated fiduciary integrity;

(b) includes a description of services or goods to be sold, a marketing plan and projected financial statements; and

(c) may require the eligible individual to obtain the assistance of an experienced entrepreneurial advisor.

(4) To be disregarded, the IDA must meet the following requirements:

(a) the benefit group member must first establish and maintain a savings account with a balance of $1,500;

(b) the benefit group member must establish the IDA for one of the three purposes described above.

(c) in order for such accounts to be excludable, the IDA must be a trust created or organized in the United States, with trust language restricting use of account funds to the purposes as designated in this section; and

(d) the IDA must be funded exclusively with income earned by a benefit group member or by contributions made by a non-benefit group member.

(5) Funds withdrawn from the account and used for any purpose other than those specified under this section will cause the account to lose its status as an excluded resource, starting with the month in which the funds are withdrawn from the IDA account.

E. Funeral agreements: The equity value of funeral agreements owned by a benefit group member shall be excluded from consideration as a resource. Funeral agreements include any arrangement under which prepaid funeral services are provided or cash benefits that are intended to pay for funeral services are paid upon the individual’s death. Such agreements include contracts with funeral homes, life or burial insurance, and trust or escrow accounts in financial institutions or banks, provided that the trust or escrow accounts contain provisions making the funds payable only upon the death of a named individual. There is no limit on the amount of the funeral agreement that can be disregarded.

F. Contingent or unliquidated claims: A "contingent or unliquidated claim" is an undetermined right of an individual to receive, at some future time, a resource such as an interest in an unprobated estate or damages or compensation resulting from an accident or injury. Such a claim is not considered a resource if the individual (either applicant or recipient) can demonstrate that an attorney has been consulted, or that under the circumstances, it is reasonable not to have consulted an attorney, and that the individual is making every reasonable effort to prosecute the claim or to proceed with the probate. If the individual can demonstrate that his or her share in an unprobated estate would be less than the expense of the proceedings to probate the estate, the value is not considered a resource.

G. Work-related equipment exclusion: Work-related equipment, such as the tools of a trades person or the machinery of a farmer, which are essential to the employment or self-employment of a benefit group member, are excluded, in an amount not to exceed $1,000 per individual, and remain excludable if the trades person becomes disabled. Farm machinery retains this exclusion for one year if the farmer ends self-employment.

H. Livestock: The value of livestock is an excluded non-liquid resource.

I. Federally excluded resources: Certain resources are excluded pursuant to federal law. For a listing of federally-excluded resources, see 8.139.527 NMAC.

[8.106.510.10 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.510.11 RESOURCE AVAILABILITY:

A. Availability: Resources that are actually available or that are considered to be available to the benefit group are considered in determining eligibility for assistance.

(1) The resource amount used for determination of eligibility for an applicant benefit group shall be based upon the status of the resources on the date of the application interview.

(2) The resource amount used for determination of eligibility for an active case shall be made based on the amount available in the month following the month of expiration of a notice of adverse action.

B. Potentially available resources: The benefit group is required to take all appropriate steps to make available to itself any liquid or non-liquid resource to which the group may be entitled but whose value is not currently considered available, e.g., an inheritance from an unprobated estate. The fact that specific property is not readily marketable on the client's terms is not a condition prohibiting transfer. The current value of property, which must be partitioned in order to be accessible, is not considered available if the net value (after estimated costs of partition and other closing costs) is less than the resource limit. If the amount likely to be derived from the applicant's/recipient's share of the property exceeds the resource limit, the applicant/recipient will be required to initiate attempts to obtain the applicant's/recipient's share of the estate.

C. Resources of benefit group members: A countable liquid or non-liquid resource that belongs to any member of the benefit group is considered available to the entire benefit group.

D. SSI recipients and other non-members: The property of individuals receiving SSI or that of other non-members shall not be considered available, regardless of relationship to benefit group members, except as indicated in Subsection F below.

E. Alien sponsor: The gross income and resources belonging to an individual who is the sponsor of an alien included in the cash assistance benefit group, and the income belonging to the sponsor's spouse, shall be counted in its entirety to determine the eligibility and payment amount if the sponsor has executed an affidavit of support pursuant to subsection 213-A of the Immigration and Nationality Act. The income and resources of the alien sponsor and spouse shall be counted until the sponsored alien achieves citizenship or can be credited with 40 qualifying quarters under title II of the federal Social Security Act.

F. Resources belonging to the unrelated caretaker: The liquid resources owned by an unrelated caretaker of a minor dependent child living in the home shall not be considered available to the child, unless the unrelated caretaker chooses to be included in the GA benefit group.

G. Jointly-owned resources: Resources owned jointly by the benefit group and any individual who is not a mandatory benefit group member shall be considered available in their entirety to the benefit group, unless it can be demonstrated by an applicant or recipient that such resources are inaccessible. The benefit group must verify that:

(1) it does not have the use of the resource;

(2) it did not make the purchase or down payment associated with the resource;

(3) it does not make the continuing loan payments; and

(4) the title is transferred to, or retained by, the other joint owner;

(5) if a benefit group can demonstrate that is has access to only a part of the resource, the value of that part is counted toward the benefit group's resource level; a resource will be considered totally inaccessible, if it cannot be practically subdivided and the benefit group's access to the value of the resource is dependent on the agreement of a joint owner who refuses to comply; for purposes of this provision, ineligible aliens or disqualified individuals residing with a benefit group are considered benefit group members.

H. Joint bank accounts: If a bank account is owned jointly by a benefit group member and any other individual, the funds in the account are considered available to the benefit group to the extent that it has contributed to the account. If the participating benefit group has not contributed to the account, the funds are considered available only if there is clear and convincing evidence that the other joint owner of the account intends for the participating benefit group to have access to the funds.

8.106.510.12 ELIGIBILITY DETERMINATION:

A. Determination: If, after determining what property is available to the benefit group and determining the value of that resource, the net value of the countable real and personal property exceeds resource limits, the benefit group shall be ineligible for assistance on the basis of need. The benefit group shall remain ineligible on the basis of need for as long as the value of the property exceeds the resource standards.

B. Receipt of resources: Resources acquired by a benefit group member after approval of an assistance grant shall be evaluated for purposes of financial assistance eligibility at the time of the change. Reporting requirements as indicated in Subsection D of 8.102.630.8 NMAC apply. If the benefit group becomes ineligible due to ownership or availability of resources, assistance is terminated effective the month following the month in which the notice of adverse action expires.

[8.106.510.12 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.510.13 NON-TRANSFER OF REAL PROPERTY:

A. Requirement:

(1) In order to include an individual in the benefit group, the individual must not have transferred real property for the purpose of becoming eligible for cash assistance within the two-year period preceding the date of application.

(2) A transfer is considered to be for the purpose of becoming eligible for cash assistance if:

(a) the transfer was made without a reasonable return; and

(b) the individual had no reasonable plan for support at the time of the transfer other than assistance from the department.

B. Transfer:

(1) For the purpose of this provision, transfer includes the sale, conveyance by deed, or any other method of transferring the title to the property involved, including transfer by gift. The transfer may be for either the title to the real property or other interests or rights in the property, such as mineral or water rights.

(2) A child under the age of 18 cannot transfer property, except through a legal guardian. Normally, a child will not own property in the child's own right, but if facts indicate the existence of a trust, inheritance or prior gifts to the child, it must be determined whether a transfer has taken place within the two-year period.

C. Reasonable return: A reasonable return on the transfer of property is considered to have been received when the person who made the transfer received compensation in cash or in kind equal to the value of the property at the time of transfer. The determination as to whether a reasonable return was received is based on the individual's equity interest in the property at the time of the transfer.

(1) Equity less than $2,000: If the value of the equity interest, plus all other countable resources, was less than $2,000, the transfer is not considered to be for the purpose of becoming eligible for cash assistance.

(2) Reasonable value not received: If it is determined that the property was transferred for the purpose of becoming eligible, but the client has subsequently made efforts to obtain a reasonable return or to regain title, and is willing to continue such efforts, eligibility on this condition exists. If the client is not willing to pursue a reasonable return, or to attempt to regain title to the property, the benefit group shall not be eligible for six months from the month ISD makes the determination that the transfer was made.

8.106.520.10 EARNED INCOME DEFINITION:

A. Earned income means cash or payment in kind that is received as wages from employment, payment in lieu of wages, earnings from self-employment or earnings acquired from the direct provision of services, goods or property, production of goods, management of property or supervision of services.

B. Earnings include gross profit from self-employment, which requires substantial effort on a continuous basis by the individual who is receiving the income.

(1) Income from rental property is considered earnings if the individual regularly does painting, plumbing, carpentry, maintenance, cleaning or repair work on the property, or if substantial time is spent each month in bookkeeping, collecting rent, or paying bills on the property.

(2) Income from livestock is considered earnings if the individual raises livestock for the purpose of making cash sales. Net income received from the sale of livestock shall be considered in determining the cash assistance benefit amount.

(a) The income received from the sale of livestock may be prorated and projected on a monthly basis over the certification period.

(b) Domestic pets (cats, dogs, etc.) are not considered livestock, and their value is not considered in determining income eligibility, except when they are bred and raised for sale.

C. The use of property, such as inhabiting a home or apartment, is considered as earnings if it is received in exchange for services provided to the person owning or controlling the property, and the applicant or recipient would be legally obligated to make a payment for use of the property.

8.106.520.11 DETERMINING INCOME FOR SELF-EMPLOYED INDIVIDUALS:

A. Reporting of earnings as business or self-employment income to state or federal tax authorities is the usual indicator of business or self-employment income. Criteria for verification of business and self-employment income are set forth in Paragraph (2) of Subsection B of 8.100.130.14 NMAC.

(1) Tax returns from the previous year may be used, unless the amount of business and self-employment income reported on tax returns is no longer a good indicator of anticipated income.

(2) If the self-employment enterprise has been in operation for such a short time that there is insufficient information to make a reasonable projection, the benefit group shall be required to report income at shorter intervals until there is enough information to make a longer projection of anticipated income.

(3) When tax forms are used to annualize and project income, the expenses reported on the tax forms shall be used, allowing for adjustments for those expenses or costs that are treated differently or not allowed under cash assistance policy.

(4) Capital gains are counted in full as income to determine self-employment income. A capital gain is defined as proceeds from the sale of capital goods or equipment.

B. Averaging business or self-employment income: Business or self-employment income is averaged over the period the income is intended to cover, even if the benefit group receives income from other sources.

(1) An individual in a benefit group, who by contract or self-employment derives his or her annual income in a period of time shorter than one year, must have income averaged over a twelve-month period.

(2) If significant changes have occurred because of a substantial increase or decrease in business and averaged income will not accurately reflect the self-employed individuals' income, the self-employment income shall be calculated on the basis of anticipated, not prior, earnings.

(3) If a self-employment enterprise has been in existence for less than one year, the income from self-employment shall be averaged over the period of time the business has been in operation. The resulting monthly amount shall be projected for the coming year.

(4) Seasonal income: Self-employment income that is intended to meet the benefit group's needs for only part of the year shall be averaged over the period of time the income is intended to cover.

C. Determining monthly business or self-employment income: For the period of time over which self-employment income is averaged, the individual's monthly self-employment income is determined by adding all self-employment income, including capital gains, and excluding allowable costs of producing the self-employment income, and dividing the resulting self-employment income by the number of months the income is intended to cover.

8.106.520.12 EARNED INCOME DEDUCTIONS:

A. Earnings deductions: Deductions from gross earned income shall be made in determining the net countable earned income of benefit group members.

(1) Earned income deductions may not exceed the amount of an individual's gross earned income.

(2) The earned income deductions may not be used to reduce unearned income, nor may deductions that are not used by one benefit group member be allocated against the earnings of another benefit group member.

(3) An allowable business expense or cost of producing self-employment income that has been used as a deduction from self-employment income shall not also be allowed as an earned income deduction.

B. Business expenses and self-employment costs: Business expenses and self-employment costs shall be deducted from the gross earnings of a self- employed benefit group member. The income remaining after all allowable business expenses and self-employment costs have been deducted shall be counted as the gross income of the benefit group member. To be eligible for a business or self-employment expense deduction, a Tax ID shall be required.

(1) Allowable expenses and costs: Allowable costs of producing self-employment income include, but are not limited to:

(a) costs of materials and supplies;

(b) business travel, but not personal commuting expenses, calculated at $.25 per mile, unless the self-employed individual can prove that the actual expense is greater;

(c) business taxes, including occupational taxes, gross receipts taxes and property taxes on a place of business other than the home, and business licenses;

(d) rental of equipment, tools and machinery;

(e) rent expense for the place of business, except for the place of business when the individual operates the business out of the individual's residence, unless the individual can demonstrate that the expense has been allowed under federal income tax guidelines;

(f) payments on the principal of the purchase price of income-producing real estate and capital assets, machinery, equipment and other durable goods;

(g) interest paid to purchase income-producing property.

(2) Expenses and costs not allowed:

(a) costs for depreciation, personal business, entertainment expenses and personal transportation to and from work; and

(b) expenses or costs of self-employment that are reimbursed by other agencies cannot also be claimed as costs of self-employment, such as, but not limited to, reimbursements made through USDA to individuals who provide home child care.

(3) Expenses or costs that exceed self-employment income shall not be deducted from other income.

C. Living expense deduction:

(1) Allowing the deduction in the GA-disabled adult program: The living expense deduction is allowed with no time limit as follows:

(a) $125 and one-half of the remainder for a single-adult benefit group;

(b) $225 and one-half of the remainder for a benefit group that includes two adults.

(2) Allowing the deduction in a GA-unrelated child benefit group: The living expense deduction shall be allowed when the caretaker of an unrelated dependent child chooses to be included as a benefit group member. The living expense deduction is allowed with no time limit as follows:

(a) $125 and one-half of the remainder for a single-adult benefit group;

(b) $225 and one-half of the remainder for a benefit group that includes the unrelated caretaker and his or her spouse.

D. Child care costs: Out-of-pocket expenses for child care apply only to the GA-unrelated child benefit group. Expenses paid by the unrelated caretaker for the dependent child included in the benefit group that are necessary due to employment of the caretaker shall be allowed.

(1) From earnings remaining after allowing the work incentive deduction, deduct an amount not to exceed $200 per month for a child under age two and $175 per month for a child age two or older.

(2) If both the caretaker and spouse of the caretaker are working, child care expenses shall be allocated to maximize the available deduction to the benefit group.

(3) The total amount deducted per child shall not exceed the applicable limits set forth above.

8.106.520.13 UNEARNED INCOME:

A. Definition of unearned income: Unearned income means old age, survivors and disability insurance payments (social security), railroad retirement benefits, veterans administration compensation or pension payments, military retirement and allotments, pensions, annuities and retirement benefits; lodge or fraternal benefits, any other public or private disability or retirement benefit or pension, shared shelter payments, individual Indian money (IIM); royalty or lease payments for land or property owned by a benefit group member; settlement payments resulting from insurance or litigation; worker's compensation benefits; child support; unemployment compensation benefits; union benefits paid in cash; gifts and contributions; and real property income.

B. Special considerations:

(1) Direct receipt of child support: Child support payments directly received by an unrelated caretaker and retained by the caretaker are considered available to the benefit group in their entirety, whether or not the caretaker chooses to be included in the benefit group.

(2) Real property income: Income from real property is considered as unearned income when an individual included in the benefit group engages in the management of the property less than 20 hours a week. Costs associated with maintenance of the property or the production of income for which the benefit group is responsible are deducted from the income received for the use of the property.

(3) Alien sponsor income: All of the income of the alien sponsor and sponsor's spouse is counted as unearned income to the benefit group.

8.106.520.14 NET COUNTABLE INCOME:

The earned income remaining after all allowable exemptions and deductions shall be added to the unearned income belonging to the benefit group. The resulting amount shall be the net countable income of benefit group members. The net countable income shall be used to determine the cash assistance payment to the benefit group.

B. Determining the payment:

(1) A benefit group whose net countable income equals or exceeds the standard of need for the size of the benefit group shall not be eligible for GA benefits.

(2) For a benefit group whose net countable income does not exceed the standard of need for the size of the benefit group, the benefit amount shall be determined by:

(a) subtracting the benefit group's countable income from the standard of need for the size of the benefit group;

(b) subtracting any sanction amount, if applicable; and

[8.106.620.9 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.620.10 CHILD SUPPORT PAYMENT SANCTIONS - GA UNRELATED CHILD PROGRAM:

A. General:

(1) Failure by an adult caretaker of an unrelated dependent child to comply with child support cooperation requirements shall result in a payment reduction of 25% for the first occurrence, 50% for the second occurrence and case closure for the third occurrence. Cases closed due to sanctioning are ineligible for a period of six months.

(2) Before imposing the first sanction, the caretaker shall be given the opportunity to meet child support requirements through a conciliation process. If the individual does not agree to cooperate by the end of the conciliation period, a payment sanction shall be imposed. The reduction shall be applied to the benefit group's standard of need.

(3) Child support cooperation requirements shall be applicable to the caretaker adult even if the adult is not included in the benefit group. Payment sanctions shall be applicable to benefit group's standard of need even if the caretaker adult is not included in the benefit group.

B. The conciliation process:

(1) When conciliation is available: Conciliation shall be available to an individual once during an occurrence of assistance. Once a conciliation period has been made available to the benefit group, there must be a period of at least 12 months between occurrences of assistance in order for a conciliation to be available again to the benefit group.

(2) Occurrence of assistance: An occurrence of assistance means a continuous period in which a benefit group receives GA benefits.

(3) Determining that noncompliance has occurred: The determination of noncompliance with child support shall be made by CSED. The conciliation and sanctioning process for child support noncompliance is initiated by the department upon receipt of notice from CSED that the caretaker has failed to cooperate.

(4) Initiating conciliation: Within ten days of notification by CSED that the caretaker has not complied, the caseworker shall take action to initiate a conciliation period, if the individual's conciliation has not been used. A conciliation is initiated by the caseworker issuing a conciliation notice.

(5) Conciliation period:

(a) Conciliation is a 30-day period during which the caretaker has the opportunity to correct whatever failure resulted in the noncompliance determination. The conciliation process shall occur only once prior to the imposition of the sanction. The benefit group shall be subject to sanction in the month following the month the notice of adverse action expires.

(b) If CSED determines that the adult caretaker is not complying with child support requirements, the adult caretaker shall be required to enter into a conciliation process established by HSD to address the noncompliance, or to identify good cause for noncompliance or barriers to compliance, if applicable.

(c) The adult caretaker shall have ten working days from the date a conciliation notice is mailed to contact HSD to initiate the conciliation process. An adult caretaker who fails to initiate the conciliation process shall have a notice of adverse action mailed after the tenth working day following the date on which the conciliation notice is mailed. An adult caretaker who begins, but does not complete, the conciliation process shall be mailed a notice of adverse action 30 days from the date the original conciliation was initiated.

(d) If the adult caretaker has initiated the conciliation process, it is the adult caretaker's responsibility to contact CSED and to comply with CSED requirements or to request a waiver. If the caseworker does not receive confirmation from CSED within 30 days of issuing the conciliation notice that the caretaker is cooperating, has a good cause waiver, or has requested a good cause waiver, the conciliation process shall be considered to have failed and the benefit group shall be subject to a payment sanction.

C. Occurrence of noncooperation:

(1) Each instance in which a caretaker is determined by the department to have failed to meet a child support requirement shall be considered a separate occurrence of noncompliance.

(2) When the noncompliance continues for three months without the sanctioned individual reestablishing compliance, progression to the next higher sanction level shall result in the fourth month.

(3) Reestablishing compliance shall allow full payment to resume, or shall appropriately reduce the sanction level for the benefit group in the month following the month in which compliance is established.

D. Cumulative sanctions: Noncompliance sanctions are cumulative as they relate to an individual in the benefit group.

(1) A cumulative sanction shall result when there is more than one failure by an individual in the benefit group to comply with child support enforcement requirements.

(2) A cumulative sanction, whether or not cured, shall remain the property of the individual benefit group member who caused the sanction. An individual with a cumulative sanction who leaves a benefit group relieves the benefit group of that individual's sanction status.

(3) An individual's compliance shall reverse the sanction level to the benefit group.

(4) An individual's sanction status may be reversed as a result of a hearing decision that renders the sanction invalid.

(5) A third sanction level, which results in a mandatory six-month closure for the benefit group, cannot be reversed.

E. Progressive sanctions: Sanction levels shall be progressive to the benefit group in which the sanctioned individual resides.

(1) When the noncompliance continues for three months without the sanctioned individual reestablishing compliance, progression to the next higher sanction level shall result in the fourth month.

(2) A sanction shall progress until compliance is established by the individual, or there is a waiver of the requirement. Reestablishing compliance shall allow full payment to resume or shall appropriately reduce the sanction level for the benefit group in the month following the month in which compliance is established.

(3) A progressive sanction may be reversed as a result of a hearing decision that renders the sanction level invalid.

(4) An individual's compliance cannot reverse the sanction level attributed to the benefit group. Once a sanction has been imposed, any subsequent sanction is imposed at the next higher level, unless reversed by a hearing decision.

F. Sanctioning:

(1) Within ten days of determining that the caretaker has failed to meet a child support cooperation requirement, ISD shall issue a notice of adverse action informing the benefit group that its cash assistance payment will be reduced. The payment reduction shall take place with the first payment following expiration of the notice of adverse action.

(2) Notice of adverse action shall apply to all child support noncompliance sanctions and levels, including those relating to the conciliation process.

(3) Failure to comply during the 13-day notice of adverse action time period shall cause the sanction to become effective.

(4) Lifting the sanction: An caretaker who corrects the failure of compliance with child support enforcement requirements during the 13-day notice of adverse action time period shall not have the sanction imposed against the benefit group or payment amount.

(a) The sanction shall not count as a cumulative or progressive sanction, since the reason for the sanction was corrected during the notice of adverse action time period and prior to a benefit reduction being imposed.

(b) A sanction shall be removed effective the month following the month in which the determination is made that the individual has complied with requirements.

(c) A child support enforcement sanction shall be removed after CSED notifies the caseworker that the individual is in compliance with child support enforcement requirements.

G. Sanction levels:

(1) First-level sanction:

(a) The first failure to comply, or first level sanction for failure to comply, shall result in a reduction of 25% of the standard of need.

(b) If the first level, or 25% sanction, lasts for three months, or an individual has a second incident of failure to comply, the sanction shall advance to level two, or 50% sanction.

(2) Second-level sanction:

(a) The second level sanction for failure to comply shall result in a reduction of 50% of the standard of need. The second level is initiated by failure to comply for more than three months or a second instance of noncompliance with a CSED requirement.

(b) A failure to meet child support enforcement requirements for three months at the second level, or a third incidence of failure to comply with a requirement shall result in the third sanction level.

(3) Third-level sanction:

(a) The third sanction level results in case closure for a period of not less than six months.

(b) Once an individual is sanctioned at the third level, any subsequent incident of failure to comply shall immediately result in the third level sanction, or case ineligibility for six months.

H. Sanctions by other states or other programs: Individuals in sanction status for failure to comply with the requirements of other programs or other states, such as the food stamp employment and training program shall not carry that sanction status into the GA cash assistance program.

[8.106.620.10 NMAC - N, 07/01/2004]

8.106.620.11 NON-REPORTING SANCTIONS:

A. General: The eligibility determination and payment calculation process relies upon applicants and recipients to provide accurate and timely reports of information affecting their eligibility and benefit amount. Payment sanctions for non-reporting shall be established to encourage timely and accurate reporting and to offset benefits resulting from the reporting of inaccurate or misleading information, the untimely reporting of changes, or the failure to report any required information.

B. Length of a sanction: Each non-reporting sanction shall run for a period of four months for the first month in which failure to report occurred. An additional month shall be added for each additional month included in an occurrence of non-reporting until the payment is corrected.

C. Definition of an occurrence of non-reporting: An occurrence of non-reporting exists when an applicant or recipient intentionally fails to report information or reports incorrect information which results in an overpayment of cash assistance benefits.

D. Amount of sanction:

(1) Reporting sanctions shall be calculated at 25% of standard of need for the size of the benefit group being sanctioned.

(2) Reporting sanctions are not progressive. If there is another occurrence of non-reporting prior to the end of an ongoing non-reporting sanction period, the next sanction and any subsequent non-reporting sanctions shall be consecutive and at the 25% level.

(3) Reporting sanctions and child support sanctions shall be integrated into a single calculation to determine the final sanction amount.

(4) If a case closes during a reporting sanction period for reasons other than sanctions, the non-reporting sanction shall be suspended and resumed at the same duration the next time the case is reopened.

E. Procedures: The following steps shall be taken in implementing a payment sanction.

(1) The caseworker shall document and establish an overpayment claim using ISD2 overpayment claims procedures. The caseworker shall also determine whether the recipient was at fault.

(2) The county director or a designated unit supervisor shall review the overpayment and determine the accuracy of the overpayment determination and appropriateness of the fault determination. Upon determining that all is in order, the county director, or designated supervisor shall cause a notice of intent to sanction to be issued to the recipient. Failure of the recipient to contact the person issuing the notice within the 10 working days allowed shall constitute waiver of conciliation rights.

(3) If the recipient requests conciliation within the 10 working days after issuance of the notice, the county director or designated supervisor shall schedule a conciliation conference.

(4) The conciliation conference is conducted by the county director or designated supervisor.

(a) The caseworker shall describe the reporting error, how the amount of the overpayment is determined and the reasons for finding the recipient at fault.

(b) The recipient shall have the opportunity to discuss the overpayment determination, the finding of fault and to show good cause why the sanction should not be imposed.

(c) Based upon this conference, the county director or designated supervisor shall determine whether a sanction should be imposed.

(d) The recipient may represent himself or be represented by someone else. If the recipient wishes to be represented by another individual, the recipient must designate that individual on a form ISD-121.

(5) Following the conference, the county director shall issue written notice stating whether or not the sanction is to be imposed, and, if appropriate, the worker shall effect the sanction causing issuance of a notice of adverse action. The payment reduction takes effect in the month following expiration of the notice of adverse action.

(6) Recipients who disagree with the sanction determination shall have fair hearing rights and access to the fair hearing process.

B. Reducing the benefit amount: For changes that result in a reduction of cash assistance benefits, the caseworker shall act on the change as follows.

(1) If a signed written report is provided by the benefit group, action shall be taken for the following month without issuing a notice of adverse action. The benefit group shall be provided with adequate notice. If the benefits will be reduced in the same month in which the certification period will expire, no action shall be required to reduce or terminate benefits.

(2) When a benefit group timely reports a change that will reduce benefits, but does not provide a signed written report, the caseworker shall issue an adverse action notice to the benefit group. 8.139.100.9 MISSION STATEMENT:

A. The purpose of the program is to provide for improved levels of nutrition among low-income households through a cooperative federal-state program of food assistance to be operated through normal channels of trade.

B. Section 2 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977 states, in part: Congress hereby finds that the limited food purchasing power of low-income households contributes to hunger and malnutrition among members of such households. To alleviate such hunger and malnutrition, a food stamp program is herein authorized which will permit low-income households to obtain a more nutritious diet through normal channels of trade by increasing food purchasing power to all eligible households who apply for participation.

8.139.100.11 GENERAL PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

A. Purpose: The supplemental nutrition assistance program (SNAP) is designed to promote the general welfare and to safeguard the health and well-being of the nation's population by raising the levels of nutrition among low-income households.

B. Household participation: Participation in SNAP shall be limited to those households whose income and other financial resources, held singly or in joint ownership, are determined to be a substantial limiting factor in permitting them to obtain a more nutritious diet. Eligibility for the program is determined by comparing the applicant group's income, resources, and non-financial eligibility information to the program's policies.

C. National standards: Uniform national standards for determining eligibility and participation are established each year and are effective every October. A household shall meet income and resource limits and other specific eligibility criteria before approval for participation in SNAP. The income test is based on one hundred and thirty percent of the federal poverty level. Resource eligibility limits are $2,250 for households whose members are under 60 years of age, and $3,250 for households containing one or more individuals 60 years of age or over. The federal government funds program benefits at one hundred percent and administrative costs at fifty percent.

B. Items completed: SNAP regulations require only that an application contain the name, address and signature, or witnessed mark, of the applicant in order to be filed and registered.

C. Who completes the application: The application must be completed by a household member or designated authorized representative. If an authorized representative or adult member of the SNAP household completes the application form, the applicant should still review the completed form, since the applicant is liable for improper payments resulting from erroneous information given by an authorized representative. If an applicant needs help completing the form, ISD shall help the applicant complete the form.

D. Signature:

(1) The application must be signed by the applicant and the authorized representative, if one is designated. A signature means that the applicant is verifying the information provided by the household and has read and agrees with all of the statements on the application or other form requiring a signature.

(2) A signature is the depiction of the individual's name(s) that is, handwritten, electronic or recorded telephonically. Electronic and telephonically recorded signatures are valid only if provided in a format or on a system approved by the HCA, which includes verification of the identity of the person providing the signature.

(3) If the applicant receives help completing the form, that person must also sign at the bottom of the form.

(4) A person who is unable to sign their own name may sign the application with a mark and have it witnessed. A mark that is not witnessed cannot be accepted as a valid signature. The witness shall be someone other than the interviewer.

E. Filing the application:

(1) An application can be filed in person, through an authorized representative, by mail or by fax or other electronic transmission, including on-line electronic transmission. An application submitted electronically or by fax and containing a handwritten or electronic signature shall be considered an acceptable application.

(2) An application shall be filed at the ISD field office serving the community or county where the applicant lives or through the YES-NM web portal. ISD shall provide households that complete an on-line electronic application in person at the ISD office the opportunity to review the information that has been recorded electronically and provide them with a copy of that information for their records, upon request.

F. Registration of the application: Applications submitted to ISD with at least the applicant's name, address and signature of the applicant, spouse, other adult household member or authorized representative shall be registered effective the date on which an application is received by ISD at the field office or electronically during regular business hours. Applications that are dropped off or submitted electronically after regular business hours will be considered received as of the next business day. Regular business hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., excluding state holidays or other days/times when the field office is officially closed. Processing deadlines shall be calculated based on the application date.

G. Incomplete applications: Applications that do not contain, at a minimum, the applicant's name, address, and signature, or witnessed mark, are incomplete and cannot be registered. Prompt action shall be taken to return the application form for completion of the minimum required entries. Other missing information does not constitute an incomplete application for purposes of registering the application.

H. Computer inquiries: Computer inquiries shall be completed prior to certification and, where feasible, prior to the interview in order to prevent dual participation and to reveal undetected income and resources. These inquiries include scans for wage and unemployment benefits, SSI benefits, and licensed vehicle ownership, as well as for other available information and appropriate IEVS data.

I. Action on discrepancies:

(1) If computer interfaces show a household member is currently participating in another household or receiving benefits from the food distribution on Indian reservations program (FDPIR), ISD shall discuss the situation with the applicant. The household can be certified only after the other project area has been informed of the situation and the case has been adjusted or transferred whichever is appropriate. If an inquiry shows that the case is on file in another project area, residence shall be established. The application shall be forwarded to the project area in which the applicant household has established residency.

(2) Available information: The household shall be given an opportunity to verify information from another source if information is contradictory to that already provided or is questionable. A decision on eligibility and benefit amount shall not be delayed beyond normal application processing standards if other sources of data are unavailable. The final decision to approve or deny shall be based on the available information.

8.139.110.11 INTERVIEWS:

A. Purpose and scope of interview: The interview is an official and confidential discussion of household circumstances with the applicant. It is intended to provide the applicant with program information, and the worker with the facts needed to make a reasonable eligibility determination. The interview is not simply to review the information on the application, but also to explore and clarify any unclear and incomplete information. The scope of the interview shall not extend beyond examination of the applicant's circumstances that directly relate to determining eligibility and benefit amounts. The interview shall be held prior to disposition of the application.

B. Joint cash assistance/SNAP interview: At initial application for cash assistance (CA), a single interview shall be conducted concurrently for both cash assistance and SNAP benefits if the client wishes to apply for both programs. Federal SNAP regulations specifically provide that applicants for both programs shall not be required to see a different ISD worker or be otherwise subjected to two interviews in order to obtain the benefits of both programs. Following the single interview, the application may be processed by separate workers to determine eligibility for SNAP benefits and cash assistance. In an expedited SNAP certification situation, a second interview is permitted if an immediate interview for cash assistance cannot be arranged.

C. Individuals interviewed: Applicants, including those who submit applications by mail, shall be interviewed in person at the local ISD office. When circumstances warrant, the household shall be interviewed by telephone, or at another place reasonably accessible and agreeable to both the applicant and ISD. The applicant may bring any person he chooses to the interview.

D. Out of office interviews:

(1) A SNAP applicant shall not be required to have an initial office interview if the applicant is unable to appoint an authorized representative and the household has no member(s) able to come to ISD because the member(s) is elderly or disabled, as defined.

(2) The initial office interview can also be waived if requested by any household that is unable to appoint an authorized representative who is willing and able to perform this function, and who lives in a location not served by a certification office.

(3) Hardship conditions: The office interview for SNAP households shall be waived when the applicant meets one of the following conditions:

(a) older than the age of 60;

(b) disabled;

(c) employed 20 or more hours per week;

(d) has a dependent child younger than the age of six;

(e) has transportation difficulties;

(f) illness;

(g) care of a household member;

(h) resides in a rural area;

(i) prolonged severe weather;

(j) other hardship identified as situations warrant; as authorized by the county director.

(4) A face-to-face interview must be granted to any recipient who requests one.

E. Face-to-face/telephone interviews: A household must have a face-to-face interview at initial certification and at least once every 12 months thereafter.

(1) A household certified for longer than 12 months is excluded.

(2) At recertification, a household is considered to have met the face-to-face requirement when alternative recertification interviews are conducted by telephone.

(3) No household shall have the face-to-face interview waived for two consecutive recertifications.

(4) The requirement for a face-to-face interview may be waived on a case-by-case basis because of household hardship conditions.

F. Applicant information: During the application interview all reasonable steps shall be taken to make the applicant feel at ease and protect the applicant’s right to privacy.

(1) All applicants shall be provided with the following information at initial certification and recertification:

(a) ISD's nondiscrimination policy and procedures;

(b) complaint and fair hearing procedures and clients' rights;

(c) program procedures, including the use of IEVS, SDX, BENDEX information, and CSSD and MVD interfaces;

(d) application processing standards, including time limits;

(e) procedures in cases of over-issuance or under-issuance;

(f) requirement for cooperation with quality control reviewers (QC), including penalties for non-cooperation;

(g) work requirements and penalties for non-cooperation, including voluntary quit and associated penalties;

(h) responsibility to contact the local ISD office to reschedule missed appointments; and

(i) exemption from gross receipts tax collection by the retailer on eligible food purchased with SNAP benefits.

(j) For households applying for cash assistance programs and SNAP, ISD must explain that limits and other requirements that apply to the receipt of cash benefits do not apply to the receipt of SNAP benefits.

(k) ISD has a responsibility to help applicants obtain verification if the applicant indicates that the verification may be difficult for the applicant to obtain and offer to assist with obtaining verification if it appears the household will not be able to obtain it.

(l) ISD will provide an explanation of information that still needs to be verified and how to verify in accordance with 8.100.130.9 NMAC and 8.100.130.10 NMAC.

(m)Review all information that ISD has on file and will not require further verification of eligibility factors already established that are not subject to change.

(n) ISD will review all household information received from data scans with the household during the interview and will not require further verification unless it is questionable or outdated.

(o) Simplified reporting requirements for those households assigned to simplified reporting including the following:

(i) a written and oral explanation of how simplified reporting works as defined at 8.139.120.9 NMAC; and

(ii) a written and oral explanation of the reporting requirements which includes: what needs to be reported and verified; when the report is due; how to obtain assistance; and the consequences of failing to file a report. Simplified reporting requirements are found at 8.139.120.9 NMAC.

(2) Fair hearing information:

(a) Notification of right to request hearing: At the time of application each household shall be informed in writing of its right to a hearing, of the method by which a hearing may be requested, and that its case may be presented by a household member or representative, such as a legal counsel, relative, friend or other individual.

(b) Periodic notification: At any time a household informs the local office that it disagrees with an HCA action, the household shall be reminded of the right to request a fair hearing.

(c) Forwarding hearing request: A request for a hearing made either orally or in writing by a household or representative shall be forwarded to the fair hearings bureau. If it is unclear from a request what action a household or representative wishes to appeal, a clarification may be requested by HCA. The freedom to make a request for a hearing shall not be limited or interfered with in any way.

(d) Providing a hearing: The fair hearing process shall be available to any household which feels an action taken by HCA is incorrect, and which affects participation of the household in the SNAP.

(e) Other representation: If there is an individual or organization available that provides free legal representation, the household shall be informed of the availability of that source.

(3) Agency conference information: A household shall be informed of the availability of an agency conference to resolve a dispute. HCA shall schedule an agency conference for a household when a dispute arises.

(a) Denial of expedited service: An agency conference shall be offered to a household which wishes to contest a denial of expedited service. An agency conference for such a household shall be scheduled within two working days, unless the household requests that it be scheduled later or states that it does not wish to have an agency conference.

(b) Adverse actions: ISD may also offer an agency conference to a household adversely affected by an ISD action.

(c) Use of agency conference: ISD shall inform a household that use of an agency conference is optional and that it shall in no way delay or replace the fair hearing process.

G. Scheduling interviews: ISD will schedule an interview to be held within 10 working days of the date the application was received that is, to the extent possible, convenient for both the applicant and ISD. The application received date is the first day the application is received within regular business hours. ISD will provide the applicant with a written appointment letter that will include: the date, time and place of the appointment, the name and telephone number of the local county office, the consequences of missing an appointment, how to reschedule an appointment, the possibility of a telephone interview, and that the spouse, any other responsible person in the household, or an authorized representative may attend the interview with the applicant or in the applicant's place.

H. Missed interviews: ISD shall notify a household that it missed its first interview appointment and that the household is responsible for rescheduling a missed interview. ISD shall send the household a notice of missed interview that may be combined with the notice of denial. If a household misses its scheduled interview and requests another interview, the ISD shall schedule a second interview. The household is responsible for rescheduling a missed interview. If the household requests a second interview ISD within the 30-day application-processing period, ISD shall schedule a second interview. When the applicant contacts the local ISD office, either orally or in writing, ISD shall reschedule the interview as soon as possible within the 30-day processing period, without requiring the applicant to provide good cause for failing to appear. If the household is determined eligible, benefits will be pro-rated from the date of application. If the applicant does not contact the office or does not appear for the rescheduled interview, the application shall be denied on the 30th day (or the next work day) after the application was filed (see Section 8.139.110.12 NMAC).

8.139.110.12 PROCESSING APPLICATIONS:

A. HCA is responsible for timely and accurate issuance of benefits to eligible households. All applications for assistance will be processed as soon as possible. Applicants who complete the application process will have their eligibility determined and be given an opportunity to participate within the time limits mandated for expedited or normal application processing. ISD will explain the time limits to the applicant and inform them of the date by which the application will be processed. With the exception of those manual provisions that specify "working days," time limits begin on the first calendar day following the action that triggered the time limit.

B. Household cooperation: To determine eligibility an application form must be completed and signed, a household or its authorized representative interviewed, and certain information on the application verified.

(1) At application: If a household refuses to cooperate in completing the process, the application will be denied at the time of refusal. For a determination of refusal to be made, a household must be able to cooperate, but clearly demonstrates that it will not take action that it can take and that is required to complete the application process. If there is any question that a household has failed to cooperate as opposed to refused to cooperate, it will not be denied. Once denied for refusal to cooperate, a household may reapply but will not be determined eligible until it cooperates with ISD.

(2) Subsequent reviews: A household will be determined ineligible if it refuses to cooperate in a subsequent review of eligibility. Such reviews include those because of reported changes and at application for recertification. Once terminated for refusal to cooperate, a household may reapply, but will not be determined eligible until it cooperates with ISD.

(3) Outside sources: A household will not be determined ineligible when an individual outside the household fails to cooperate with a request for verification. Individuals identified as ineligible household members in 8.139.400.12 NMAC will not be considered as individuals outside the household.

(4) Cooperation with quality control (QC): A household will be determined ineligible if it fails or refuses to cooperate in a QC review of eligibility and benefit amount.

(a) Period of ineligibility:

(i) A household that refuses to cooperate with a state QC review will be determined ineligible effective the month following the month the adverse action notice time limit expires. Ineligibility will continue until 125 days from the end of the annual QC review period (February 4) during which non-cooperation is found. The annual QC review period begins October 1 and ends September 30.

(ii) A household that refuses to cooperate with a federal QC review will be ineligible effective the month following the month the adverse action notice time limit expires. Ineligibility will continue until nine months from the end of the annual review period (May 1) during which non-cooperation is found. The annual QC review period begins October 1 and ends September 30.

(b) Re-establishing eligibility:

(i) A household may reapply during the period of ineligibility but will not be determined eligible until it cooperates with the QC review and is otherwise eligible.

(ii) A household which reapplies at the end of the period of ineligibility will not be determined ineligible because of its failure or refusal to cooperate with a state or federal QC review. The household must provide verification necessary to determine eligibility at reapplication in accordance with Subsection H of 8.139.110.11 NMAC.

C. Verification standards: Verification is use of third-party information or documentation to establish the accuracy of statements on the application, or information provided by the applicant or recipient.

(1) Initial certification: Verification is mandatory for the following information prior to initial certification for both new and reopened cases.

(a) Financial information:

(i) gross nonexempt income, and

(ii) resources.

(b) Any of the following if the expense would result in a deduction:

(i) utility expenses;

(ii) continuing shelter expenses;

(iii) dependent care expenses;

(iv) deductible medical expenses including the amount of reimbursements;

(v) legally obligated child support expenses, and amount actually paid;

(vi) if any of the above expenses will not result in a deduction, verification shall not be required (for example, less than $35 in medical expenses, or shelter expenses that do not exceed fifty percent of income after all other deductions).

(c) Nonfinancial information:

(i) residence;

(ii) citizenship, if questionable, and non-citizen status of household members who are individually applying for benefits only;

(iii) identity of the applicant and authorized representative, if designated;

(iv) household size and composition;

(v) disability, if necessary;

(vi) social security numbers, except that eligibility or issuance of benefits shall not be delayed solely to verify the social security number of a household member, and

(vii) any questionable information that must be verified to determine eligibility.

(2) Verification subsequent to initial certification: Verification of the following is mandatory in accordance with the individual's reporting requirements found at 8.139.120.9 through 12 NMAC:

(a) a change in income if the source has changed or the amount has changed by more than $50;

(b) a change in utility expenses if the source has changed;

(c) previously unreported medical expenses, and total recurring medical expenses which have changed by more than $25;

(d) new social security numbers, for individuals who are applying for benefits, that shall be verified as detailed in 8.139.410.8 NMAC;

(e) any other information which has changed or is questionable;

(f) unchanged information shall not be re-verified unless it is incomplete, inaccurate, inconsistent, or outdated.

(g) satisfactory compliance with time limits for individuals subject to the time limit in accordance with 8.139.410.14 NMAC.

(3) Providing verification:

(a) If electronic verification is not available, the household has primary responsibility for providing documentary evidence to support statements on the application and to resolve any questionable information.

(b) ISD shall assist a household in obtaining verification, provided the household is cooperating in the application process.

(c) A household or their authorized representative may supply documentary evidence in person, by mail, fax, electronic device or through the YES NM web portal.

(d) A household shall not be required to supply verification in person at the ISD office or to schedule an appointment to provide such verification.

(e) ISD shall accept any reasonable documentary evidence provided by the household and must be primarily concerned with how adequately the verification proves the statements on the application.

(4) Documentation: A case file shall be documented to support eligibility, ineligibility, and benefit amount determination. Documentation shall be in sufficient detail to permit a reviewer to determine the reasonableness and accuracy of the determination.

[8.139.110.12 NMAC - Rp 8.139.110.12 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.110.13 TIME LIMITS:

A. Opportunity to participate: ISD shall provide eligible households that complete the initial application process an opportunity to participate as soon as possible, but no later than 30 calendar days following the date the application was filed, except for residents of public institutions who apply jointly for SSI and SNAP benefits prior to release from the institution in accordance with Paragraph (2) of Subsection C of 8.139.110.9 NMAC. Residents of institutions who apply for SNAP benefits prior to their release from the institution will be provided the opportunity to participate as soon as possible but no later than 30 calendar days from the date of the applicant's release from the institution.

B. Move during eligibility determination: When an office that is processing an application for assistance learns that the applicant has moved to another county, that office will immediately transfer the case in pending status. The application will be processed by the new office using the original registration date from the first office.

C. Withdrawing the application: An applicant may voluntarily withdraw their application at any time prior to the determination of eligibility. A notice will be sent advising the household of the action taken. An applicant will be advised that withdrawal of their application has no effect on their right to apply for assistance in the future. The agency will document the reason for withdrawal, if any was given.

D. Delayed eligibility determinations:

(1) Establishing cause for delay: When an application for SNAP is not processed by the end of the 30 day time limit, a determination as to whether the delay is the fault of the applicant or ISD will be made.

(2) Applicant delays: A delay is the fault of the applicant if they have failed to complete the application process. ISD will send the household a delay notice on the 30th day in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(h), after the application is filed when the interview has not been held by the 30th day and the appointment has been rescheduled beyond the 30th day. The notice will inform the applicant that all changes in circumstances since the application was filed must be reported. ISD must have taken the following actions, as appropriate, before the delay can be considered the fault of the household:

(a) For applicants who have failed to complete the application form, ISD must have offered, or attempted to offer, assistance in its completion.

(b) For applicants who have failed to provide complete verification, ISD must have provided the household with a statement of required verification, offered assistance as required, and allowed the household sufficient time to provide the missing verification. Sufficient time is at least 10 days from the date of ISD's initial request for the particular verification that is missing.

(c) For applicants who have failed to appear for an interview ISD must notify the applicant that it missed the scheduled interview and that the applicant is responsible for rescheduling a missed interview. If the applicant contacts ISD by the 30th day following the date of application, ISD must schedule a second interview. If the applicant fails to schedule a second interview or the subsequent interview is postponed at the applicant's request or cannot otherwise be rescheduled until after the 20th day but before the 30th day following the date the application was filed, the applicant must appear for the interview, bring verification, and register household members for work by the 30th day following date of application. Otherwise, the delay is the fault of the applicant.

(d) If the applicant has failed to appear for the first interview, fails to schedule a second interview, or the subsequent interview is postponed at the applicant's request until after the 30th day following the date the application is filed, the delay shall be the fault of the applicant. If the applicant has missed both scheduled interviews and requests another interview, any delay shall be the fault of the applicant.

(e) If one or more members of the household have failed to register for work in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7, ISD must have informed the household of the need to register for work, determined if the household members are exempt from work registration, and given the household at least 10 days from the date of notification to register these members.

(3) Denial of the household application: Applicants that are found to be ineligible shall be sent a denial notice as soon as possible but not later than 30 days following the date the application was filed. If the applicant has failed to appear for a scheduled interview and has made no subsequent contact with ISD, ISD shall send a denial notice on the 30th day following the date of application. The applicant must file a new application if they wish to participate in the program. In cases where ISD was able to conduct an interview and request all the necessary verification on the same day the application was filed, and no subsequent requests for verification were made, ISD may also deny the application on the 30th day, if ISD provided assistance to the applicant in obtaining verification, but the applicant failed to provide the requested verification.

(4) ISD delays: Delays that are the fault of ISD include, but are not limited to, cases where ISD fails to provide the required assistance, fails to observe time limits, fails to schedule timely interviews, or fails to provide other proper procedural help to the applicant. ISD is at fault when the applicant has met their obligations in a timely manner, but ISD fails to complete the application process in a timely manner.

(a) Action on ISD delays: If the delay in the initial 30-day period is caused by ISD, ISD will take immediate corrective action and the application will not be denied. The applicant will be notified that the application is pending and informed of any action to take to complete the application process, including reporting any changed circumstances since the application was filed. ISD will send the applicant a notice of delay in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(h).

(b) Retroactive benefit rights: If the applicant is found to be eligible during the second 30-day period, the household is entitled to benefits retroactive to the date of application.

(c) Denial of an application: If the household is determined ineligible, the application will be denied and a notice sent no later than the 60th day after the application was filed, or the following work day if the 60th day falls on a weekend or holiday.

(5) ISD action on applicant delays:

(a) If by the 30th day ISD cannot take any further action on the application due to the fault of the applicant, the applicant shall lose its entitlement to benefits for the month of application and a denial notice will be sent.

(b) ISD shall give the applicant an additional 30 days to take the required action. If the applicant takes the required action within 60 days following the date the application was filed, ISD shall reopen the case without requiring a new application.

(c) If the applicant fails to provide requested verification by the 60th day, no further action is required by ISD.

(d) If the applicant was at fault for the delay in the first 30 day period, but is found to be eligible during the second 30 day period, benefits shall be provided only from the month following the month of application.

(6) Delays beyond 60 days:

(a) ISD delays:

(i) If ISD is at fault for not completing the application process by the end of the second 30-day period, and the record is otherwise complete, the application process will be continued until an eligibility determination is accomplished.

(ii) If the household is determined eligible, and ISD was at fault for the delay in the initial 30 days, the household shall receive SNAP benefits retroactive to the date of original application, but only for those months that it is determined eligible.

(iii) If ISD is at fault for not completing the application process by the end of the second 30-day period, but the case record is not complete enough to reach an eligibility determination, the application will be denied and the household advised to file a new application. The household shall be advised of possible entitlement to lost benefits caused by an ISD delay.

(iv) If ISD was at fault for the delay in the initial 30-day period, the amount of lost benefits will be calculated from the date of application.

(b) Household delays:

(i) If the household is at fault for not completing the application process by the end of the second 30-day period, the application will be denied and the household will be required to file a new application, if it still wishes to participate in the program. The household shall not be entitled to any lost benefits even if the delay in the initial 30 days was the fault of ISD.

(ii) If the initial delay was the household's fault, the household will receive SNAP benefits retroactive only to the month following the month of application.

8.139.110.14 DISPOSITION OF APPLICATION/NOTICES:

A. Approval of SNAP: Notification of the final eligibility determination will be mailed via US postal service and or through approved electronic methods to the applicant in time to be received not later than the last day of the time limit that is, mailed by the 28th day after the date of application to be received by the 30th day.

B. Contents of the notice: The notice of approval provides the household with written notice, sent by mail or electronically, of the amount of the benefits and the beginning and ending dates of the certification period. If the initial benefit amount is prorated or contains benefit amounts for both the month of application and the current month, the notice will explain that the initial month's SNAP benefit amount differs from the benefit amount for the remainder of the certification period. The notice also states that if households that have applied jointly for financial assistance and SNAP begin to receive a financial assistance check, their SNAP benefit amount will be reduced or terminated without advance notice. The notice will contain a telephone number for the customer service call center which will accept calls throughout working hours.

C. Denial of SNAP: If the application is denied, a written or electronic notice will be sent to the applicant explaining the basis for the denial, the right to request a fair hearing, and the telephone number of the ISD office where the household can get information concerning an individual or organization that provides legal representation. Households determined to be ineligible will be sent a denial notice as soon as possible, but not later than 30 days following the date the application was filed. The household must file a new application if it wishes to have eligibility re-determined, subsequent to the initial denial.

8.139.110.15 DESIGNATING THE HEAD OF HOUSEHOLD:

A household has the right to select its head of household at each certification action or whenever there is a change in household composition reported in accordance with change reporting requirements.

A. No special requirements: The head of household designation will not be used to impose special requirements on the household, such as requiring the head of household, rather than another responsible member, to appear at the certification office to apply for benefits.

B. Households with children:

(1) When designating the head of household, the household is allowed to select:

(a) an adult parent of children (of any age) living in the household; or

(b) an adult with parental control over children (under age 18) living in the household.

(2) All the adult household members must agree to the selection.

(3) A household with children which fails to select an adult parent of children (of any age) or an adult with parental control over children (under age 18) as the head of household loses the right to this designation option. In such a case, the household member with the most income will be the principal wage earner and will be treated as the head of household.

(4) If all adult household members cannot agree to the selection of, or decline to select, an adult parent of children (of any age) or an adult with parental control over children (under age 18) as the head of household, ISD will permit the household to make another selection, or ISD will designate the head of household.

(5) No person of any age living with a parent or person fulfilling the role of a parent who is:

(a) registered for work; or

(b) exempt from work registration requirements because such parent or person fulfilling the role of a parent is subject to and participating in any work requirement under Title IV of the Social Security Act; or

(c) in receipt of unemployment compensation (or has registered for work as part of the application for or receipt of unemployment compensation); or

(d) is employed or self-employed and working a minimum of 30 hours weekly or receiving weekly earnings equal to the federal minimum wage multiplied by 30 hours; will be considered the head of household unless the person is an adult parent of children (of any age) and the household elects to designate the adult parent as its head of household.

C. Denial of benefits, delay of certification prohibited: In no event will a denial of benefits or delay of certification action result if an otherwise eligible household fails to select an adult parent of children (of any age) or an adult with parental control over children (under age 18) as its head of household.

D. Households with no adult parent or adult with parental control: If a household does not have an adult parent of children (of any age) or an adult with parental control over children (under age 18) living in the household, the household may designate another member as the head of household or ISD will do so.

E. Designation of head of household by ISD: ISD can designate the head of household only if:

(1) all the adult household members have not agreed to a selection; or

(2) the household declines to select an adult parent or adult with parental control as the head of household and declines to make another selection.

8.139.110.16 EXPEDITED SNAP SERVICE:

A. Identifying eligible households: Households meeting the federal requirements of income and resources may be entitled to receive SNAP benefits within seven days after an application is received by ISD, in accordance with 7 C.F.R 273.2(i). Applications will be screened to identify eligible households at the time the household requests assistance.

(1) Entitlement to expedited service: The following households will be expedited, provided that they are otherwise SNAP eligible:

(a) households with less than $150 in gross monthly income, and with liquid resources (i.e., cash on hand, checking or savings accounts, savings certificates, lump sum payments, and the like) not exceeding $100;

(b) households with combined gross monthly income and liquid resources less than the household's monthly rent, or mortgage, and utilities. The mandatory SUA may be used in making this determination, provided that the household qualifies for the SUA; or

(c) migrant or seasonal farm worker households with one hundred dollars ($100) or less in liquid resources and determined to be destitute as defined by the special income calculations in 8.139.400.14 NMAC, migrant and seasonal farm workers.

(2) Verification requirements: All households entitled to expedited service must verify identity through readily available documentation or through a collateral contact. All other eligibility factors may be postponed. Reasonable efforts must be made by ISD to verify residence, income, liquid resources, and all other eligibility factors. Benefits will not be delayed because of an inability to verify such factors or any questionable information but for identity.

(3) SSNs and work registration: Applicant households are specifically permitted to receive their first expedited SNAP benefit amount before providing social security numbers (SSN) or applying for them. Such households are required to do so before their next benefit issuance but will remain eligible for participation as long as good cause exists. Unless exempt, the household's work registration status will be established at the time of certification for expedited service. If an individual's work registration exemption status is in question, benefits will not be delayed solely to verify the exemption.

B. Time limits:

(1) Expedited time limits: All households entitled to expedited service will receive their benefits no later than the seventh calendar day after the date the application is received by ISD.

(2) Out-of-office interview: If a household is entitled to expedited service and waiver of the office interview, the interview will be conducted and the eligibility determination completed within the expedited service time limits, unless the household cannot be reached. The first day of this count is the first calendar day after the application is filed. If a telephone interview is conducted and the application must be mailed to the household for signature, the mailing time involved will not be calculated in the expedited service time limits.

(3) Late identification: If screening fails to identify a household as being entitled to expedited service and it is subsequently determined that the household was so entitled, the household's application will be processed immediately; the time limits in such instances are calculated from the date that it is discovered that the household was entitled to expedited service.

(4) Certification periods: Households entitled to expedited service which provide all necessary verification prior to certification may be assigned a certification period in accordance with 8.139.120.9 NMAC. Households whose verification requirements are outstanding due to an inability to verify via electronic means and the household not providing necessary documentation, will be certified for the month of application, and the following month, or for households whose circumstances warrant, an assigned certification period in accordance with 8.139.120.9 NMAC. When a certification period of more than one month is assigned, the written notification to the household will state that no further benefits will be issued until the verification requirement is completed. The notice also advises that if verification results in changes in eligibility or SNAP benefit amount, ISD will act on these changes without advance notice of adverse action.

(5) Continuation of benefits: Households providing verification by the 30th day after the application date will have their benefits continued. The second month's benefits will be issued within five working days from the date verification is received, or the first day of the second month, whichever is later.

(6) Termination of benefits: Except for migrant farm workers needing out-of-state verification, when the verification requirement is not completed within 30 days of the date of application, the household's participation in the program will be terminated and no further benefits issued.

(7) Denial of expedited service: Households determined ineligible for expedited service will have their applications processed according to normal standards. A household wishing to contest a denial of expedited service will be offered an agency conference to discuss the denial. The conference will be scheduled within two working days of the request for a conference, unless the household requests a later date or states that it no longer wishes to have an agency conference.

C. Number of expedited issuances:

(1) Limits: There is no limit to the number of times a household can be certified under expedited procedures, as long as prior to each expedited certification the household either has completed the verification requirements outstanding from the last expedited certification or has been certified under normal processing standards since the last expedited certification.

(2) At every application: Expedited services will be available at initial application based on the circumstances existing in the month of application. If a participating household applies for recertification before the end of its current certification period, the expedited service provision will not be applied.

[RESERVED]

8.139.120.8 RECERTIFICATION:

When a household's certification period expires, its eligibility to participate in SNAP ends. SNAP benefits will not be continued beyond the certification period. Timely applications for recertification will be approved or denied before the end of the current certification period. ISD must establish procedures for notifying households of expiration dates, providing application forms, scheduling interviews, and recertifying eligible households prior to the expiration of certification periods.

A. Notice and time standards: ISD shall provide households certified for one month or certified in the second month of a two-month certification period a notice of expiration (NOE) at the time of certification. ISD shall provide other households the NOE before the first day of the last month of the certification period, but not before the first day of the next-to-the-last month. Jointly processed Public Assistance ("PA") (as defined at 7 C.F.R. 271.2), and General Assistance ("GA") (as defined at 7 C.F.R. 271.2) households need not receive a separate SNAP notice if they are recertified for SNAP at the same time as their PA or GA redetermination. Every household will be provided with a notice of expiration, as follows:

(1) For a household certified for one or two months, the notice of expiration will be provided at the time of certification. The household will have 15 days from the date the notice is received to submit a timely application for recertification. The household will be approved and provided an opportunity to participate, if eligible, or be denied, within 30 days after obtaining its last SNAP benefit amount.

(2) For all other households, a notice of expiration will be sent by HCA prior to the start of the last month of the household's certification period. A household has reapplied timely if the application for recertification is filed by the 15th day of the last month of the household's certification period.

(3) ISD will complete the application process if the household meets all requirements and finishes the necessary processing steps; ISD will approve or deny timely applications before the end of the household's current certification period.

B. Failure to submit timely application:

(1) A household that does not submit an application for recertification by the 15th day of the expiration month loses its right to uninterrupted benefits.

(2) SNAP benefits will be prorated from the date of application if a household's application is received in the month after its certification period has expired or participation has been terminated for any reason.

(3) ISD will ensure that any eligible household that does not submit a timely application for recertification be provided the opportunity to participate, if eligible, within 30 calendar days after the date the application is filed.

C. ISD caused delayed processing: If an eligible household files an application before the end of the certification period but the recertification process cannot be completed within 30 days after the date of application because of ISD fault, ISD must continue to process the case and provide a full month's allotment for the first month of the new certification period, and will send a delay notice in accordance with Subsection D of 8.139.110.13 NMAC. If the household fails to take required action, ISD may deny the case at the time of application, at the end of the certification period, or at the end of 30 days. ISD shall determine cause for any delay in processing a recertification application in accordance with the provisions of 7 C.F.R. 273.2(h)(1).

D. Scheduling interviews: ISD shall schedule interviews so that the household has at least 10 days after the interview in which to provide verification before the certification period expires. A household will not be required to appear for an interview, or to file an application for recertification, in the month before the last month of its current certification period. An interview may be scheduled in the month before the last month of certification, or prior to the date the application is timely filed, provided the household is not denied for failing or refusing to appear for the interview. If an interview was scheduled, or if household member or authorized representative failed to attend an interview which was scheduled prior to the date a household files a timely application, ISD will schedule an interview on or after the date an application is timely filed.

E. Failure to appear: If a household member or authorized representative fails to appear for a recertification interview scheduled on or after a timely application is filed, the household loses the right to uninterrupted participation. ISD shall send the household a notice of missed interview that may be combined with the notice of denial. If a household misses its scheduled interview and requests another interview, the ISD shall schedule a second interview. The household is responsible for rescheduling a missed interview.

F. Prospective eligibility determination: A household's eligibility and SNAP benefit amount at recertification will be determined prospectively based on circumstances anticipated for the certification period, beginning with the month following the expiration of the current certification period.

G. Eligibility and benefits: Eligibility will be determined at recertification according to the standards described below.

(1) Timely reapplication: Applications filed before the 15th of the expiration month will be considered timely. A household member or authorized representative that attends an interview and provides all necessary verification by the end of the household's current certification period, will have the opportunity to participate by the household's normal issuance cycle in the month following the end of the current certification period, if all eligibility factors have been met.

(2) Reapplication after the 15th: If an application for recertification is submitted after the 15th but before the end of a household's certification period and the household is determined eligible for the first month following the end of the certification period, that month is not considered an initial month and benefits are not prorated.

(3) First month ineligibility: If an application for recertification is submitted before the end of a household's certification period, but the household is determined ineligible for the first month following the end of the certification period, the first month of any subsequent certification period will be considered an initial month and SNAP benefits will be prorated.

(4) Late applications:

(a) Recertification verification standards, in accordance with Paragraph (2) of Subsection C of 8.139.110.12 NMAC, will be used when an application is received within 30 days after the certification period expires. Initial month verification standards, in accordance with Paragraph (1) of Subsection C of 8.139.110.12 NMAC, will be used if the application is received more than one calendar month after the certification period expires or the case has been closed for any reason.

(b) Initial month certification provisions and proration of benefits for migrant and seasonal farmworker households will apply when more than 30 days have passed since the household was certified for participation. (See 8.139.400.14 NMAC for more information on migrant and seasonal farmworker households).

(5) Pending verification: A household member or authorized representative that has reapplied timely, attended an interview, and is required to provide verification, will be given 10 days to provide the verification, or until the certification period expires, whichever is longer. If the certification period expires before the 10-day deadline for submitting the required verification, the household will have the opportunity to participate, if eligible, within five working days after verification is submitted. The household is entitled to a full month's benefits.

8.139.120.9 SIMPLIFIED REPORTING:

All households will be assigned to simplified reporting (SR). Households must submit an interim report once every six or twelve months, depending on their certification period. Households assigned to a 12-month certification period have an interim report form due at six months. Households assigned to a 24-month certification period have an interim report form due at 12 months.

A. Household Certification Periods: A household that is approved for SNAP benefits shall be assigned the longest certification period possible in accordance with the household's circumstances. Households wherein all adult members are elderly or disabled, with no earned income, will be assigned a 24-month certification period. All other households will be assigned a 12-month certification period.

B. Household responsibility to turn in interim report form:

(2) a written and oral explanation of the reporting requirements including:

(a) what needs to be reported and verified;

(b) when the interim report form is due;

(c) how to obtain assistance; and

(d) the consequences of failing to file an interim report form.

(3) special assistance in completing and filing interim reports to households whose adult members are all either mentally or physically handicapped or are non-English speaking or otherwise lacking in reading and writing skills such that they cannot complete and file the required report; and

(4) a toll-free number which the household may call to ask questions or to obtain help in completing the interim report.

D. Information requirements for the interim report form: The interim report form will be written in clear, simple language, include information on the availability of a bilingual version of the document described in 7 CFR 272.4(b), and shall specify:

(1) the deadline date to submit the form to ISD to ensure uninterrupted benefits if the household is determined eligible;

(2) the consequences of submitting a late or incomplete form including whether ISD shall delay benefits if the form is not received by the due date;

(3) verification the household must submit with the form;

(4) a statement to be signed by a member of the household indicating their understanding that the information provided may result in a reduction or termination of benefits;

(5) where to call for help in completing the form;

(6) a statement explaining that ISD will not change certain deductions until the household's next recertification and identify those deductions if ISD has chosen to disregard reported changes that affect certain deductions in accordance with paragraph (c) of section 7 CFR 273.12;

(7) a brief explanation of fraud penalties; and

(8) how the agency may use social security numbers.

E. The following information, along with required verification, must be returned to ISD with the interim report form:

(2) a change in the source of income, including starting or stopping a job or changing jobs, if the change in employment is accompanied by a change in income;

(3) changes in either:

(a) the wage rate or salary or a change in full-time or part-time employment status as defined in Subsection C of 8.102.461.11 NMAC, provided the household is certified for no more than six months; or

(b) a change in the amount earned of more than one hundred twenty-five dollars ($125) a month from the amount last used to calculate the household's allotment, provided the household is certified for no more than six months.

(4) all changes in household composition, such as the addition or loss of a household member;

(5) changes in residence and the resulting shelter costs;

(6) the acquisition of a licensed vehicle, unless the household is categorically eligible as defined at Sections 8 and 9 of 8.139.420 NMAC or the vehicle is not fully excludable under 8.139.527 NMAC;

(7) when cash on hand, stocks, bonds and money in a bank account or savings institution reach or exceed the resource limit set at 8.139.510.8 NMAC, unless the household is categorically eligible as defined at 8.139.420.8 and 8.139.420.9 NMAC;

(8) changes in the legal obligation to pay child support;

(9) for able-bodied adults subject to the time limit of 7 CFR 273.24, any changes in work hours that bring an individual below 20 hours per week, averaged monthly, as defined in 7 CFR 273.24(a)(1)(i); and

(10) In accordance with 7 CFR 273.12(a)(2), SNAP households must report substantial lottery and gambling winnings;

(a) if the substantial lottery and gambling winning is won by multiple beneficiaries and is over the elderly and disabled resource standard, each SNAP member's share must be reported;

(b) if the winning is less than the elderly and disabled resource standard it does not need to be reported;

F. ISD's responsibility with interim report forms:

(1) Interim report form is not received: If a household fails to file a report by the specific filing date, defined in Subsection B of 8.139.120.9 NMAC, ISD will send a notice to the household advising of the missing report no later than 10 calendar days from the date the report should have been submitted. If the household does not respond to the notice, the household's participation shall be terminated.

(2) Incomplete interim report form is received:

(a) An interim report form that is not signed shall be returned to the household for a signature. The household:

(i) shall be notified that the form is incomplete;

(ii) what needs to be completed to complete the interim report form; and

(iii) shall be given 10 calendar days to provide the signed interim report form to be reviewed for completeness.

(b) An interim report form that is incomplete because required verification is not provided shall not be returned to the household. The household:

(i) shall be notified that the form is incomplete;

(ii) what information must be provided to complete the interim report form; and

(iii) shall be given 10 calendar days to provide the verification to process the interim report form.

(3) Complete interim report form is received:

(a) A form that is complete and all verifications are provided, shall be processed within 10 calendar days of receipt.

(b) A form that is complete, and all verifications are provided except for verification of an allowable deduction, shall be processed, unless the verification is otherwise questionable, in accordance with 8.100.130.12 NMAC. The household:

(i) shall be notified that verification is questionable; and

(ii) shall be given 10 calendar days to provide the verification to process the allowable deduction.

(c) A deduction that is verified within the month the interim report form is due shall be processed as part of the interim report form.

(d) A deduction that is verified in the month after the interim report form is due shall be processed as a change reported by the household.

(e) If the household files a timely and complete report resulting in reduction or termination of benefits, ISD shall send a notice of case action. The notice must be issued so that the household will receive it no later than the time that its benefits are normally received. If the household fails to provide sufficient information or verification regarding a deductible expense, ISD will not terminate the household, but will instead determine the household's benefits excluding the deduction from the benefit calculation.

G. Changes that must be reported at any time during certification period: Households must report changes no later than 10 days from the end of the calendar month in which the change occurred, provided that the household has at least 10 calendar days within which to report the change. If there are not 10 days remaining in the month, the household must report within 10 days from the date the work hours fall below 20 hours per week, averaged monthly or when income exceeding the gross federal poverty limit as mentioned below is first received. The interim report form is the sole reporting requirement for any information that is required to be reported on the form, except that a household must report at any time during the certification period:

(1) the household must report when its monthly gross income exceeds one hundred thirty percent of the poverty level. If the household was last certified with monthly gross income which exceeds one hundred thirty percent of the poverty level, and the household is a categorically eligible household defined in accordance with 8.139.420.8 NMAC, the requirement is to report any additional changes to their monthly gross income at their next interim report or recertification; and

(2) able-bodied adults subject to the time limit in accordance with 7 CFR 273.24 shall report whenever their work hours fall below 20 hours per week, averaged monthly; and

(3) in accordance with 7 CFR 273.12(a)(2), SNAP households must report substantial lottery and gambling winnings within 10 days of the end of the month in which the household received the winnings.

(a) if the substantial lottery and gambling winning is won by multiple beneficiaries and is over the elderly and disabled resource standard, each SNAP member's share must be reported.

(b) if the winning is less than the elderly and disabled resource standard it does not need to be reported.

H. Action on changes reported outside of the interim report form: In addition to changes that must be reported in accordance with Subsection G of 8.139.120.9 NMAC, ISD must act on changes in between interim report forms, if it would increase the household's benefits. ISD shall not act on changes that would result in a decrease in the household's benefits unless:

(1) The household has voluntarily requested that its case be closed.

(2) ISD has information about the household's circumstances considered verified upon receipt. Verified upon receipt is defined:

(a) information is not questionable; and

(b) the provider of the information is the primary source of information; or

(c) the recipient's attestation exactly matches the information received from a third party.

(3) A household member has been identified as a fleeing felon or probation violator in accordance with 7 CFR 273.11(n);

(4) There has been a change in the household's cash grant, or where cash and SNAP cases are jointly processed in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(j)(2).

I. Responsibilities on reported changes outside of the interim report form: When a household reports a change, ISD shall take action to determine the household's eligibility or SNAP benefit amount within 10 working days of the date the change is reported.

(1) During the certification period, action shall not be taken on changes to medical expenses of households eligible for the medical expense deduction which ISD learns of from a source other than the household and which, in order to take action, requires ISD to contact the household for verification. ISD shall act only on those changes in medical expenses that it learns about from a source other than the household, if those changes are verified upon receipt and do not necessitate contact with the household.

(2) Decreased or termination of benefits: For reported and verified changes that result in a decrease or termination of household benefits, ISD shall act on the change as follows:

(a) Issue a notice of adverse action within 10 calendar days of the date the change was reported and verified unless one of the exemptions to the notice of adverse action in 7 CFR 273.13 (a)(3) or (b) applies.

(b) When a notice of adverse action is used, the decrease in the benefit level shall be made effective no later than the allotment for the month following the month in which the notice of adverse action period has expired, provided a fair hearing and continuation of benefits have not been requested.

(c) When a notice of adverse action is not used due to one of the exemptions in 7 CFR 273.13 (a)(3) or (b), the decrease shall be made effective no later than the month following the change. Verification which is required by 7 CFR 273.2(f) must be obtained prior to recertification.

(3) Increased benefits: For reported and verified changes that result in an increase of household benefits, ISD shall act on the change as follows:

(a) For changes which result in an increase in a household's benefits, other than changes described in Paragraph (b) of this section, ISD shall make the change effective no later than the first allotment issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported to ISD.

(b) For changes which result in an increase in a household's benefits due to the addition of a new household member who is not a member of another certified household, or due to a decrease of $50 or more in the household's gross monthly income, ISD shall make the change effective not later than the first allotment issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported.

(i) In no event shall these changes take effect any later than the month following the month in which the change is reported.

(ii) If the change is reported after the last day to make changes and it is too late for ISD to adjust the following month's allotment, ISD shall issue a supplement or otherwise provide an opportunity for the household to obtain the increase in benefits by the 10th day of the following month, or the household's normal issuance cycle in that month, whichever is later.

(4) No change in SNAP benefit amount: When a reported change has no effect on the SNAP benefit amount, ISD shall document the change in the case file and notify the household of the receipt of the report.

(5) Providing verification: The household shall be allowed 10 calendar days from the date a change is reported to provide verification, if necessary. If verification is provided at the time a change is reported or by the deadline date, the increase in benefits shall be effective in accordance with (a) and (b) above. If the household fails to provide the verification by the deadline date, but does provide it at a later date, the increase shall be effective in the month following the month the verification is provided. If the household fails to provide necessary verification, its' SNAP benefit amount shall revert to the original benefit amount.

J. Resolving unclear information:

(1) During the certification period, ISD may obtain information about changes in a household's circumstances from which ISD cannot readily determine the effect of the change on the household's benefit amount. The information may be received from a third party or from the household itself. ISD must pursue clarification and verification of household circumstances using the following procedure if unclear information received outside the periodic report is:

(a) information fewer than 60 days old relative to the current month of participation; and,

(b) if accurate, would have been required to be reported under simplified reporting rules, in accordance with 8.139.120.9 NMAC.

(c) ISD must pursue clarification and verification of household circumstances in accordance with the process outlined in Subsection B of 8.100.130.12 NMAC, for any unclear information that appears to present significantly conflicting information from that used by ISD, at the time of certification.

(2) Unclear information resulting from certain data matches:

(a) if the HCA receives match information from a trusted data source as described in 7 CFR 272.13 or 7 CFR 272.14, ISD shall send a notice in accordance with Subsection B of 8.100.130.12 NMAC in accordance with 7 CFR 272.13(b)(4) and 7 CFR 272.14 (c)(4). The notices must clearly explain what information is needed from the household and the consequences of failing to respond to the notice.

(b) if the household fails to respond to the notice or does respond but refuses to provide sufficient information to clarify its circumstances, ISD shall remove the individual and the individual's income from the household and adjust benefits accordingly. As appropriate, ISD shall issue a notice of adverse action.

K. Failure to report changes: If ISD discovers that the household failed to report a change as required, ISD shall evaluate the change to determine whether the household received benefits to which it was not entitled or if the household is entitled to an increased benefit amount.

(1) Decreased benefit amount: After verifying the change, ISD shall initiate a claim against the household for any month in which the household was over issued SNAP benefits. The first month of the over issuance is the month following the month the adverse action notice time limit would have expired had the household timely reported the change. If the discovery is made within the certification period, the household is entitled to a notice of adverse action if its benefits will be reduced. No claim shall be established because of a change in circumstances that a household is not required to report in accordance with Subsection G of 8.139.120.9 NMAC above.

(2) Increased benefit amount: When a household fails to make a timely report of a change which will result in an increased SNAP benefit amount, the household is not entitled to a supplement for any month prior to and including the month in which the change was reported. The household is entitled to an increased benefit amount effective no later than the first benefit amount issued 10 calendar days after the date the change was reported.

A. Mass changes: Certain changes initiated by the state or federal government may affect the entire caseload or significant portions of it.

(1) Mass changes include, but are not limited to, increases in excluded or deducted items or amounts.

(2) Mass changes affecting income include annual adjustments to social security, SSI, and other federal benefit programs, and any other changes in eligibility criteria based on legislative or regulatory actions.

(3) Information concerning mass change notice and hearing requirements are set forth in 8.100.180.15 NMAC.

(4) Notice of mass changes: Adverse action notices are not required for mass changes resulting from federal adjustments to eligibility standards, the maximum SNAP allotment, standard deduction, shelter deduction, and state adjustments to the mandatory utility standard. Announcement of anticipated mass changes may be made through the media, posters in ISD offices, and other likely places frequented by households, or through a general notice mailed to a participating household. When HCA makes a mass change in food stamp eligibility or benefit amount affecting the entire caseload or a part of it, affected households shall be mailed a notice of any change, reduction or termination of benefits. HCA shall issue a notice to affected households as far in advance of the household's next scheduled issuance date as is reasonably possible, but by no later than the date the affected benefit is issued.

B. Federal changes: Authorized adjustments which may affect SNAP benefit amount for participating households include the maximum SNAP allotment, standard deduction, excess shelter and dependent care deductions, and income eligibility standards. These changes go into effect for all households annually on October 1. Adjustments to federal standards are made prospectively.

C. Cost of living adjustments: Cost of living increases and any other mass changes in federal benefits, such as social security and SSI benefits, shall be treated as mass changes for SNAP purposes. ISD is responsible for automatically adjusting a household's SNAP benefit amount to reflect such a change. Households shall not be responsible for reporting these changes.

D. Mass changes in public assistance: When overall adjustments to cash assistance payments are made, corresponding adjustments in SNAP benefits shall be handled as a mass change. Households shall be given advance notice of any adjustment in the SNAP benefit amount. If a household requests a fair hearing, benefits shall continue at the former amount only if the issue being appealed is that eligibility or SNAP benefit amount was determined incorrectly.

E. Utility standard: Authorized adjustments shall be effective for all October SNAP issuances. Households whose certification periods overlap annual adjustments in the state's mandatory utility allowance shall be informed at the time of certification that the adjustment shall be effective in October 1; the household shall be informed of the adjusted benefit amount, if known at the time of certification. Adjustments in the state's mandatory utility allowance are made prospectively.

8.139.120.14 OTHER CHANGES AFFECTING SNAP HOUSEHOLDS:

A. Failure to report changes:

(1) If ISD discovers that the household failed to report a change as required, ISD shall evaluate the change to determine whether the household received benefits to which it was not entitled.

(2) After verifying the change, ISD shall initiate a claim against the household for any month in which the household was over issued SNAP benefits. The first month of the over issuance is the month following the month the adverse action notice time limit would have expired had the household timely reported the change.

(3) If the discovery is made within the certification period, the household is entitled to a notice of adverse action if its benefits will be reduced.

(4) No claim shall be established because of a change in circumstances that a household is not required to report.

B. Noncompliance with program requirements or fraud:

(1) Intentional failure to comply or fraud: No household shall receive an increase in SNAP benefits when benefits from another program have been decreased (reduced, suspended or terminated) for intentional failure to comply with the other program eligibility requirements or for an act of fraud. This provision applies in cases where the other program is a means-tested, federal, state or local welfare or public assistance program, which is governed by welfare or public assistance laws or regulations and which distributes public funds.

(2) Failure to comply shall be determined as provided in Paragraph (3) of Subsection I of 8.139.520.9 NMAC.

(3) Verification of recoupment: Agencies administering means-tested, publicly funded assistance programs provide recipients with written advance notice of proposed changes in benefit amounts. Such notices provide information which shall determine if the reduction in cash assistance is because of a properly reported change in circumstances. In most cases, the notice shall document whether the reduction is because of a recoupment of overpaid benefits resulting from intentional failure to report changes. If the notice is not detailed enough to make a determination, the agency which initiated recoupment shall be contacted to obtain the necessary information. SNAP benefits shall not be delayed beyond normal processing standards pending the outcome of this determination.

(4) Calculating benefits: When a recipient's assistance benefits are decreased to recoup an overpayment, that portion of the decrease that is the recoupment shall first be identified. The recoupment is the amount of decrease attributed to the repayment of benefits over issued. If a Title IV-A recipient intentionally underreports income, the Title IV-A grant is first reduced to reflect the corrected income, then reduced further by the recoupment amount. In such a case, the SNAP calculation would reflect the Title IV-A amount reduced because of income, but not the second reduction caused by recoupment.

8.139.120.15 CHANGE NOTICES:

A. Agency responsibilities:

(1) ISD shall take action on any change reported by a household, and on any change which becomes known through other sources.

(2) The household shall be issued a change notice.

(a) If there is a reduction or termination of benefits, the household shall be issued an adverse action notice, unless the change has been reported by the household in writing.

(b) If the household reports the change in writing, advance notice of the change in benefit amount is required before the household's next issuance.

(c) If there is no change in the benefit amount, the household shall be notified that the change resulted in no change in benefit amount.

(3) If a household receiving cash assistance reports a change, it shall be considered to have also reported the change for SNAP purposes. A notice shall be sent to the household acknowledging the reported change, even if there is no change in benefits. A notice of adverse action shall be sent if there is a reduction or termination in the SNAP benefit amount and the change was not reported in writing.

B. Notice of adverse action:

(1) Prior to any action to reduce or terminate a household's SNAP benefits within the certification period, the household shall be provided with a timely and adequate advance notice before the adverse action is taken, unless the change was reported by the household in writing. A written change report submitted by the household is subject to the adequate notice requirements in Subsection C of 8.139.120.15 NMAC.

(2) At a minimum, the adverse action notice shall include the following information:

(a) proposed action and reason for the action;

(b) month in which the change takes effect;

(c) adjusted benefit amount;

(d) household's right to request a fair hearing, circumstances under which the household can continue benefits at the greater amount, and deadline dates for requesting a hearing;

(e) household's liability for any benefits over issued if the decision of the fair hearing is that the HCA took the correct action;

(f) general information on whom to contact for additional information, including the right to representation by legal services.

(3) Individual notices of adverse action shall not be provided when:

(a) there is a mass change;

(b) ISD determines on the basis of reliable information that the household has moved from the project area;

(c) ISD determines on the basis of reliable information that all members of a household have died;

(d) the household has received an increased benefit amount to restore lost benefits, the restoration is complete, and the household has been notified in writing of the date the increased benefit amount would terminate;

(e) the household's benefit amount varies from month to month within the certification period to take into account changes anticipated at the time of certification, and the household was notified of such variations at the time of certification;

(f) the household applied for cash assistance and SNAP benefits at the same time, has been receiving SNAP benefits pending approval of cash assistance, and the household was notified at the time of certification that SNAP benefits would be reduced upon approval of the cash assistance grant;

(g) a household member is disqualified for intentional program violation, or the benefits of the remaining household members are reduced or terminated to reflect the disqualification of the household member.

(h) the household was certified on an expedited basis, is assigned a certification period longer than one month, and verification has been postponed; the household must have received written notice that receipt of benefits beyond the month of application is contingent on the household providing the postponed verification;

(i) the eligibility of a resident of a drug or alcoholic treatment center or a group living arrangement is terminated because the treatment center or group living arrangement loses either its certification or its status as authorized representative;

(j) the household voluntarily requests, in writing or in the presence of ISD, that its participation be terminated.

C. Adequate notice: If a change was reported in writing that will result in a reduction or termination in SNAP benefits, the household shall be provided with adequate advance written notice confirming the change. Adequate notice does not preclude the household's right to request a fair hearing. The household shall be notified that its benefits are being reduced or terminated no later than the date the household will receive, or would have received, its SNAP benefits. Adequate notice shall be provided when changes reported in writing meet the following conditions:

(1) the household reports the information which results in the reduction or termination;

(2) the reported information is in writing and signed by a member of the household;

(3) ISD can determine the household's reduced benefit amount or ineligibility based solely on the information provided by the household in the written report;

(4) the household retains its right to a fair hearing;

(5) the household retains its right to continued benefits if the fair hearing is requested within the advance notice time limit;

(6) ISD continues the household's previous benefit amount if required, within five working days of the household's request for a fair hearing.

8.139.120.16 TRANSFER OF HOUSEHOLDS:

When a household transfers from one project area to another, the household's case record and computer file shall be transferred accordingly. Procedures for handling households which transfer between project areas within the state and between offices within a single project area are described below.

A. Transfer of inactive cases: Inactive cases are those that have been certified and are subsequently closed. ISD in the new project area is responsible for requesting that the case record be transferred. The former project area is responsible for transferring case records and making sure they are complete.

B. Transfer of active cases: Active cases are those presently certified.

(1) Timely reporting: Transfers within the state shall be considered like any other reported change in circumstances. The household must timely report a move and verify its new address and shelter expenses, as well as any change in household composition and income, before benefits may continue or be issued (see Subsection A of 8.139.120.12 NMAC). The former project area shall update the household's address on its computer file and transfer the case in active status to the new project area. The new project area shall verify the household's new circumstances, including but not limited to, address, shelter expenses, income, and household composition (see Paragraph (1) of Subsection B of 8.139.120.12 NMAC).

(2) Not reported: If a project area becomes aware that a household has moved but has not been informed of a new in-state address, either by the household or its designee or by another project area, participation shall be terminated immediately based on unverified residence. If the household wishes to continue participation, it must file a new application.

C. Procedures for nonreceipt of benefits: If a household which has moved to a different project area has not received its current month's SNAP benefits, action required by ISD shall depend on circumstances described below:

(1) If the SNAP benefits are returned to the central mail issuance unit, reissuance is authorized by the new project area to the household's address in the new project area.

(2) If the SNAP benefits are not returned to the central mail issuance unit, an affidavit shall be submitted by the new project area, as described in Subsection G of 8.139.610.14 NMAC, replacement of benefits lost in the mail, even though the original issuance was from the former project area. The new project area shall make sure that the household's residence and mailing address are changed prior to submitting the affidavit.

C. Providing information to law enforcement shall not interfere with the HCA's responsibility to immediately report to the immigration and naturalization service (INS) the ineligibility of any individual who is present in the United States in violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

This revision incorporated the latest federal policy changes in the food stamp program not yet filed. In addition, current policy citations were rewritten for clarification purposes or were simply reformatted. Issuance of the revised policy manual incorporated a new format which is the same in all income support division policy manuals. A new numbering system was designated so that similar topics in different programs carry the same number. The revised format and numbering standards were designed to create continuity among ISD programs and to facilitate access to policy throughout the HCA.

8.139.400.8 BASIS FOR DEFINING GROUP (HOUSEHOLD COMPOSITION):

A. Households: The basic assistance unit of the food stamp program is the household. A household is composed of an individual or a group of individuals who customarily purchase and prepare meals together for home consumption. There can be more than one household living in one place.

B. Verification of information:

(1) Identity: It is mandatory that the applicant's identity be verified. Identity may be established through readily available documentary evidence, or, if this is not possible, through a collateral contact or home visit. Acceptable documentary evidence includes, but is not limited to, driver's license; work or school ID; school records; ID for health benefits or for another assistance or social services program; voter registration card; wage stubs or marriage certificate. Any document that reasonably establishes the applicant's identity must be accepted. No requirement for a specific type of document, such as a birth certificate, may be imposed.

(2) Household composition: Information regarding household composition must be verified before certification, recertification, or when a change is reported. If household size or composition becomes questionable, the income support specialist (ISS) must request verification. Findings must be documented in the case file.

C. Household composition: A food stamp household may be composed of any of the following:

(1) an individual living alone;

(2) an individual living with others who customarily purchases food and prepares meals for home consumption separate and apart from the others;

(5) separate status may be granted on a case-by-case basis to other individuals or groups of individuals who have customarily purchased and prepared food apart from the individual(s) with whom they are now living.

(1) Eligibility: An individual who is enrolled at least half-time in an institution of higher education will be ineligible to participate in SNAP unless the individual qualifies for one of the exemptions contained in Paragraph (3) of Subsection A of 8.139.400.11 NMAC. Half-time enrollment status is determined by the definition of the institution in which the individual is enrolled or attending.

(2) Enrollment:

273.5(b)(2) is defined as follows: An individual who has a mental or physical illness or disability, temporary or permanent, which reduces their ability to financially support themselves. Unfitness can be obvious to the HCA and documented in the case file; or not obvious to the HCA, but is documented by a physician, physician's assistant, nurse, nurse practitioner, a licensed or certified psychiatrist or a licensed or certified psychologist, or social worker as being unfit to work; the claim of physical or mental unfitness must be substantiated by written documentation identifying the physical or mental condition and certifying that the person is unfit for employment.

(i) If an individual claims to be physically or mentally unfit for purposes of the student exemption, and the unfitness is not evident to ISD, verification may be required.

(ii) Appropriate verification may consist of receipt of temporary or permanent disability benefits issued by government or private sources, or of a statement from a physician or licensed or certified psychologist.

(c) Education/training program: Assigned to or placed in an institution of higher education through or in compliance with the requirements of:

(d) Employment: Employed a minimum of 20 hours per week and paid for such employment, or, if self-employed, working a minimum of 20 hours per week, and receiving weekly earnings at least equal to the federal minimum wage multiplied by 20 hours. Students whose employment hours fluctuate week to week will be considered to have met the minimum work hour requirement, as long as they maintain an average of 20 hours per week or 80 hours per month.

(e) Work study: Be participating in a state or federally financed work study program during the regular school year.

(i) The student must be approved for work study at the time of application for SNAP benefits, the work study must be approved for the school term, and the student must anticipate actually working during that time.

(ii) The exemption will begin with the month in which the school term begins or the month work study is approved, whichever is later.

(iii) Once begun, the exemption will continue until the end of the month in which the school term ends, or it becomes known that the student has refused an assignment.

(iv) The exemption will not continue between terms when there is a break of a full month or longer, unless the student is participating in work study during the break.

(f) Children: Responsible for a dependent household member who:

(i) is under age six; or

(ii) has reached the age of six but is under age 12 when ISD has determined that adequate child care is not available to enable the student to attend class and comply with the 20-hour work requirement in (d) or the work study requirement in (e) above.

(g) Single parents: Enrolled in an institution of higher education on a full-time basis (as determined by the institution) and be responsible for the care of a dependent child under age 12.

(i) This provision applies when only one natural, adoptive or stepparent (single, widow/ widower, separated, divorced) is in the same SNAP household as the child.

(ii) If there is no natural, adoptive or stepparent in the same SNAP household as the child, another full-time student in the same SNAP household as the child, may qualify for eligible student status under this provision if they have parental control over the child and are not living with their spouse.

(h) Title IV-A: Receiving Title IV-A cash assistance.

(i) Work incentive program: Participation in the job opportunities and basic skills program under Title IV of the Social Security Act or its successor programs.

(j) On-the-job training: Be participating in an on-the-job training program. An individual is considered to be participating in an on-the-job training program only during the period of time the individual is being trained by the employer.

B. Strikers: Households with members on strike are ineligible to participate in the SNAP, unless the household was eligible for benefits the day before the strike began and is otherwise eligible at the time of application. A striker is anyone involved in a strike or concerted stoppage of work by employees, including a stoppage because of the expiration of a collective bargaining agreement, and any concerted slowdown or other concerted interruption of operations by employees. Employees participating in a sympathy strike will be considered strikers. The household will not receive an increased SNAP benefit amount as a result of the decrease in income of the striking member(s) of the household.

(1) Nonstrikers: The following individuals are not considered strikers and are eligible for program participation:

(a) any employee affected by a lockout;

(b) an individual who goes on strike who is exempt from work registration (Subsection B of 8.139.410.12 NMAC) the day before the strike, except those who were exempt because of employment;

(c) employees whose workplace is closed by an employer in order to resist demands of employees (i.e., a lockout);

(d) employees unable to work as a result of other striking employees (e.g., truck drivers who are not working because striking newspaper pressmen prevent newspapers from being printed;

(e) employees who are not part of the bargaining unit on strike but who do not want to cross a picket line for fear of personal injury or death;

(f) employees who are fired or laid off, or who are permanently replaced or officially resign; and

(g) employees who will not be permitted to return to their old jobs but are offered different ones.

(2) Striker eligibility:

(a) Striker eligibility is determined by considering the day before the strike as the day of application and assuming the strike did not occur.

(b) Eligibility at the time of application is determined by comparing the striking member's income before the strike to the striker's current income and adding the higher of the two to the current income of the nonstriking household members during the month of application.

(c) To determine benefits (and eligibility for households subject to the net income eligibility standard), deductions will be calculated for the month of application as for any other household. Whether the striker's prestrike earnings are used or the current income is used, the earnings deduction is allowed if appropriate.

(d) Strikers whose households are eligible to participate in the SNAP will be required to register for work unless otherwise exempt.

C. Boarders: Boarders are defined as individuals or groups of individuals residing with others and paying reasonable compensation to those others for lodging and meals. An individual furnished both lodging and meals by a household, but paying less than reasonable compensation to the household for such services, will be considered a household member. Foster care children placed in the home of relatives or other individuals or families will be considered boarders. Foster care payments made to the household will not be counted as income, unless the household chooses to include the foster child. Payment to a household for lodging and meals will be treated as self-employment income to the household.

(1) Reasonable compensation: To determine if an individual is paying reasonable compensation for meals and lodging in making a determination of boarder status, only the amount paid for meals will be used, provided that the amount paid for meals can be distinguished from the amount paid for lodging. A reasonable monthly payment will be either of the following:

(a) A boarder whose board arrangement is for more than two meals a day must pay an amount which equals or exceeds the maximum SNAP benefit amount for the appropriate size of the boarder household.

(b) A boarder whose board arrangement is for two meals or less per day must pay an amount which equals or exceeds two-thirds of the maximum SNAP benefit amount for the appropriate size of the boarder household.

(2) Included boarders: A household which provides boarding services may request that the boarder be included as a member of the household. Boarders are not eligible to participate in the SNAP separately from the household providing the board. All the income and resources of included boarders will be counted in determining the eligibility and SNAP benefit amount of the household.

(3) Excluded boarders: The income and resources of boarders who are not included as household members will not be considered available to the household.

(2) Ineligible students: Individuals enrolled in an institution of higher education who are ineligible because they do not meet the student eligibility requirements in Subsection A of 8.139.400.11 NMAC. 8.139.400.13 SPECIAL HOUSEHOLDS:

A. Institutions: An individual shall be considered a resident of an institution if the institution provides two or more meals daily, and the institution has not been authorized to accept food stamp benefits.

B. Eligibility: Residents of institutions shall not be eligible to participate in the food stamp program, with the following exceptions:

(1) Federally subsidized housing: Residents of federally subsidized housing for the elderly, built under Section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959 (even if residents are not elderly), provided that they otherwise qualify for participation.

(2) Drug/alcoholic treatment centers: Drug addicts or alcoholics who, for the purpose of regular participation in a drug or alcohol treatment and rehabilitation program, live in a public or private nonprofit facility or treatment center.

(3) Disabled/blind group living arrangement: Disabled or blind individuals as defined in (i) through (x) of Subparagraph (b) of Paragraph (23) of Subsection A of 8.139.100.7 NMAC who are residents in a group living arrangement.

(4) Battered women/children: Women, or women with their children, temporarily residing in a shelter for battered women and children. Such persons temporarily residing in shelters for battered women and children shall be considered individual households for the purposes of applying for and participating in the food stamp program.

(5) Homeless: Residents of public or private nonprofit shelters for the homeless.

C. Residents of drug/alcohol treatment centers: A drug addict or alcoholic who regularly participates in a drug or alcoholic treatment or rehabilitation program as a resident of the center may voluntarily apply for food stamp benefits. Children living with their eligible parent(s) in a drug or alcohol treatment center shall be considered household members when determining eligibility and benefit amount. A caseworker shall certify residents of addict/alcoholic treatment centers, and their children, by using the same provisions applied to all other applicant households, except that certification must be accomplished through an authorized representative employed by the institution. (For further information, Subsection D of 8.139.110.9 NMAC)

(1) Processing:

(a) Expedited services: Residents of treatment centers or rehabilitation centers for drug addiction or alcohol treatment, and their children, may qualify for expedited service in the same way as any other household. Food stamp benefits shall be received no later than the seventh calendar day following the date of application, and verification may be postponed. Verification requirements shall be completed before the second month's benefits are issued. (See 8.139.110.16 NMAC for more information on expedited service and continuation of benefits).

(b) Normal processing: If normal processing standards apply, the caseworker shall complete the verification and documentation requirements before making an eligibility determination for the initial application (see 8.139.110.12 NMAC and 8.139.110.13 NMAC).

(c) Changes and recertifications: Changes and recertifications shall be processed for resident households using the same standards outlined at 8.139.120.10 NMAC. Households shall be extended the same rights to notices of adverse actions, to fair hearings, and to entitlement to lost benefits as are all other food stamp households (see 8.139.120.8 NMAC and 8.139.120.10 NMAC).

(2) Treatment centers eligibility status:

(a) Food and nutrition service authorization: Before certifying any resident for food stamp benefits, a caseworker shall verify that the treatment center is authorized by FNS as a retailer if the center wishes to accept food stamp benefits. If the center is not authorized by FNS, the treatment center's status under Part B of Title XIX of the Public Health Service Act (42 USC, 300 et seq.) shall be verified.

(b) List of residents: Each treatment and rehabilitation center must provide the appropriate county office a list of currently participating residents. The list must include a statement signed by a responsible center official attesting to the list's validity. The list is required on a monthly basis.

(c) On-site visits: The county director or designee shall conduct periodic, random, on-site visits to the center to ensure the accuracy of the list and that the appropriate county office records are consistent and up-to-date.

(d) Change notification: The treatment center must notify the caseworker of changes in a household's income or other circumstances and when an addict or alcoholic leaves the treatment center. The treatment center must return the household's food stamp benefits to the county office if the household has left the center without its share.

(3) When household leaves center: When a household leaves the center, the center must give the resident household its ID card and any unused food stamp benefits. The household, not the center, shall be allowed to participate during any months remaining in the certification period.

(a) A household shall receive the full food stamp benefit amount if no benefits were spent on its behalf. This is applicable at any time during the month.

(b) If food stamp benefits have already been issued and any amount has been spent on behalf of a household, and the household leaves the program before the 16th day of the month, the treatment center must return to the household one-half of the monthly food stamp benefit amount. If a household leaves after the 16th of the month, and the food stamp benefits have already been issued and used, no food stamp benefits shall be returned to the household.

(c) The treatment center must, if possible, give the household a change report form to report the household's new address and other circumstances after leaving the center, and must advise the household to return the form to the appropriate county office within ten days.

(d) When the household leaves the treatment center, the center is no longer allowed to act as the household's authorized representative.

(4) Organization/institution responsibilities:

(a) The organization or institution is responsible for:

(i) Program rules: An organization or institution is legally responsible for any misrepresentation or intentional program violation which it knowingly commits in the certification of center residents.

(ii) Awareness of household circumstances: As an authorized representative, the organization or institution must be aware of the household's circumstances and should carefully review those circumstances with any resident before applying on their own behalf.

(iii) Proper use of food stamp benefits: The organization or institution shall be strictly liable for any loss or misuse of food stamp benefits held on behalf of resident households, and for all over issuances that occur while the households are residents of the treatment center. The organization or institution may be penalized or disqualified if it is determined administratively or judicially that food stamp benefits were misappropriated or used for purchases that did not contribute to a certified household's meals.

(b) The county office shall notify the food assistance bureau when it has reason to believe that an organization or institution is misusing food stamp benefits in its possession. The food assistance bureau shall notify FNS. HCA shall take no action before FNS action against the organization or institution.

(c) HCA shall establish a claim for over issuance of food stamp benefits held on behalf of resident clients if any over issuance is discovered during an investigation or hearing procedure for redemption violations.

(d) If FNS disqualifies an organization or institution for any period of time, HCA shall suspend its authorized representative status for the same period.

D. Residents in group living arrangements: A disabled or blind resident of a public or private non-profit group living arrangement may choose to apply for food stamp benefits on their own, or through an authorized representative of the resident's own choosing, or through the facility's authorized representative. The group living arrangement facility must determine if the resident may apply on the resident's own behalf based on the resident's physical and mental ability to handle their own affairs. If a resident applies through the facility's authorized representative, eligibility shall be determined as a one-person household. If a household applies on its own behalf, the household size shall be determined according to the rules at Subsection C of 8.139.400.8 NMAC. Such residents shall be certified using the same provisions applied to all other households. HCA shall determine that the group living arrangement facility is a non-profit organization as established by its articles of incorporation with the New Mexico public regulation commission, and the group living arrangement facility must provide verification that it is authorized by FNS or certified by the New Mexico department of health as a group living arrangement, before any of the residents are certified for food stamps.

(1) Resident's rights/responsibilities:

(a) The rights and responsibilities listed in Paragraph (1) of Subsection C of 8.139.400.13 NMAC, for residents of treatment centers also apply to blind or disabled residents of group living arrangements when the facility acts as the resident's authorized representative.

(b) If a household has made application on its own behalf, the household is responsible for reporting changes to the county office within 10 days of the date the change becomes known to the household.

(c) If a resident, or a group of residents, receives food stamp benefits on the resident's or group's own behalf and retain use of the resident's or group's food stamp benefits, the resident or group is entitled to keep the food stamp benefits when the resident or group leaves. If a group of residents has received food stamp benefits as one household, a pro rata share of the remaining food stamp benefits shall be provided to any departing member.

(d) Residents of group living arrangements receiving food stamp benefits on their own behalf are responsible for over issuances, as would any other household (see Subparagraph (d) of Paragraph (2) of Subsection C of 8.139.400.13 NMAC).

(2) Group home responsibilities:

(a) The same responsibilities apply to authorized representatives of a group living arrangement as to treatment centers (Paragraph (4) of Subsection C of 8.139.400.13 NMAC). These provisions are not applicable if a resident has applied on the resident's own behalf. (For further information see Subsection B of 8.139.110.9 NMAC, authorized representatives).

(b) A group living facility shall give the appropriate county office a list of currently participating residents. This list shall include a statement by a responsible center official attesting to the validity of the list. The list is required on a monthly basis.

(c) The county director or designee shall conduct periodic, random on-site visits to ensure the accuracy of the list and make sure that the appropriate county office records are consistent and up-to-date.

(d) If a group living facility acts in the capacity of authorized representative, it must notify the caseworker of changes in a household's income or other household circumstances, and when an individual leaves the group living arrangement.

(e) When a household leaves a group living facility, the facility, if it either acted as authorized representative or retained use of food stamp benefits on behalf of residents, gives the departing household its ID card and any unused benefits. The household, not the group living facility, shall be allowed to sign for and receive any remaining food stamp benefits.

(f) A departing household must receive the full food stamp benefit amount, if issued, and if no food stamp benefits have been spent on behalf of that household. These procedures are applicable at any time during the month.

(g) If the food stamp benefits have been issued and any portion spent on behalf of the household, and the household leaves the group living arrangement before the 16th day of the month, the group living facility must return the ID card and one-half of the monthly food stamp benefit amount to the departing household. If the household leaves on or after the 16th of the month and the food stamp benefits have already been issued and used, the household shall not receive any food stamp benefits.

(h) If a group of residents is certified as one household and gives the food stamp benefits to the group living facility to use, departing residents must be given a pro rata share of one-half of the household's monthly food stamp benefit amount if the group leaves prior to the 16th day of the month. When a household leaves, the group living facility may no longer act as the household's authorized representative.

(i) The group living facility shall, if possible, give the household a change report form to report the household's new address and other circumstances after leaving the facility, and shall instruct the household to return the form to the appropriate county office within ten days.

(3) Use of benefits:

(a) A group living facility may purchase and prepare food for eligible residents on a group basis if residents normally get their meals at a central location as part of the group living arrangement services, or if meals are prepared at a central location for delivery to the individual residents.

(b) If residents purchase or prepare food for home consumption, as opposed to communal dining, the group living facility must make sure that each resident's food stamps are used for meals intended for that resident.

(c) If residents retain use of their own food stamp benefits, they may either use the food stamp benefits to purchase meals prepared for them by the facility or to purchase food to prepare meals for their own consumption.

E. Battered women's shelters:

(1) Before certifying residents of a battered women's shelter, a caseworker shall make sure that the shelter is a public or private nonprofit residential facility serving battered women and their children.

(2) If a facility serves other individuals as well as battered women and their children, a caseworker shall make sure that a part of the facility is set aside on a long term basis to serve only battered women and their children.

(3) Shelters with FNS authorization to redeem food stamps at wholesalers shall be considered to be meeting the definition and the caseworker is not required to make any further determination. The caseworker shall document the basis of this determination.

(4) Local ISD offices are required to maintain and update a current list of shelters meeting the battered women's shelter definition to facilitate prompt certification of eligible residents.

(5) Special certification procedures:

(a) Many shelter residents have recently left a household containing the person who abused them. The former household may be certified for participation in the food stamp program, and its certification may be based on a household size that includes the woman and children who have just left. Shelter residents included in such a certified household may nevertheless apply for and (if otherwise eligible) participate in the program as a separate household, and concurrently, if the household that included them is the household containing the person who abused them. Shelter residents included in such a household may receive additional food stamp benefits as a separate household only once in a month.

(b) Shelter residents who apply as separate households shall be certified solely on the basis of their own income and resources and the expenses for which they are responsible. They shall be certified without regard to the income, resources, and expenses of their former household. Jointly held resources shall be considered inaccessible.

(c) Room payments from the residents to the shelter shall be counted as shelter expenses. Any shelter residents eligible for expedited service shall be handled in accordance with the provisions in 8.139.110.16 NMAC.

(6) Handling the former household: The caseworker shall take prompt action to make sure that the former household's eligibility or food stamp benefit amount reflects the change in household size and composition.

8.139.400.14 MIGRANT AND SEASONAL FARMWORKER HOUSEHOLDS:

A. Migrant or seasonal farmworker households are entitled to special handling of their application as described below. Only migrant or seasonal farmworker households will be classified as destitute and receive the special income considerations outlined in this section. For migrant or seasonal farmworker households only, the initial month is defined as the first month for which the household will be certified for participation in the food stamp program following any period of more than 30 days during which the household was not certified for participation. More than 30 days must pass before the application month is considered an initial month and benefits are prorated from the date of application. If 30 days have not passed, the household is entitled to a full month's benefits.

B. Destitute households: Migrant or seasonal farmworker households may have little or no income at the time of application and may be in need of immediate food assistance, even though a household may have received income at some time during the month of application. The following procedures will be used to determine whether migrant or seasonal farmworker households may be considered destitute and therefore entitled to expedited service and special income calculation procedures, except that migrant or seasonal farmworker households with resources of $100 or more will not be entitled to expedited service.

(1) Terminated income source:

(a) Expedited service: Migrant or seasonal farmworkers whose only income for the month of application was received before the date of application, and was from a terminated source, will be considered destitute and entitled to expedited service.

(b) Monthly or more frequent income: If income is received on a monthly or more frequent basis, it will be considered as coming from a terminated source if it will not be received again from the same source during the balance of the month of application or during the following month.

(c) Less often than monthly income: If income is normally received less often than monthly, the nonreceipt of income from the same source in the balance of the month of application or in the following month is inappropriate to determine whether or not the income is terminated. Therefore, for households normally receiving income less often than monthly, the income will be considered as coming from a terminated source if it will not be received in the month in which the next payment would normally be received.

(2) New income source:

(a) Households whose only income for the month of application is from a new source will be considered destitute and entitled to expedited service if income of more than $25 from the new source will not be received by the 10th calendar day after the date of application.

(b) Income normally received on a monthly or more frequent basis will be considered to be from a new source if income of more than $25 has not been received from that source within 30 days before the date the application was filed.

(c) If income is normally received less often than monthly, it will be considered to be from a new source if income of more than $25 was not received within the last normal interval between payments.

(3) Income from terminated and new source:

(a) Households may receive income from both a terminated source before the date of application and from a new source after the date of application, and still be considered destitute if they receive no other income in the month of application and if income of more than $25 from the new source will not be received by the 10th day after the date of application.

(b) A household member who changes jobs but continues to work for the same employer will be considered as still receiving income from the same source. A migrant farmworker's source of income is considered to be the grower/employer for whom the migrant is working at a particular point in time, and not the crew chief. A migrant who travels with the same crew chief but moves from one grower/employer to another will be considered to have moved from a terminated income source to a new source.

(4) Travel advances: Some employers provide travel advances to cover the costs of new employees who must travel to the location of their new employment. To the extent that these payments are excluded as a reimbursement, receipt of travel advances will not affect the determination of when a household is destitute. If a travel advance is, by written contract, an advance of wages to be subtracted from wages later earned by the employee rather than a reimbursement, the wage advance will be counted as income. Receipt of a wage advance for travel costs of a new employee will not affect the determination of whether subsequent payments from the employer are from a new source of income, or whether a household will be considered destitute.

C. Special income calculation: The eligibility and food stamp benefit amount of destitute households will be calculated for the month of application by considering only income which is received between the first of the month and the date of application. Any income from a new source that the household anticipates receiving after the date of application will be disregarded. Destitute household eligibility will be determined using the special income calculations in Subsection B of 8.139.400.14 NMAC, and by comparing as appropriate the household's gross or net income to the income eligibility standards in Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC. The procedures described in Subsection B of 8.139.400.14 NMAC above apply at initial application and at recertification, but only for the first month of each certification period. At recertification, income from a new source will be disregarded in the first month of the new certification period if income of more than $25 will not be received from the new source by the 10th calendar day after the date of the household's normal issuance cycle.

D. Prospective budgeting: Migrant or seasonal households will be entitled to a prospective determination of eligibility and food stamp benefit amount during the time they are in the migrant stream.

(1) Anticipating income:

(a) Income received during the past 30 days will be used as an indicator of the income that is and will be available to the household during the certification period.

(b) An ISS will not use past income as an indicator of income anticipated for the certification period if changes in income have occurred or can be anticipated.

(c) If income fluctuates to the extent that a 30-day period alone cannot provide an accurate indication of anticipated income, the ISS and the household may use a longer period of past time if it will provide a more accurate indication of anticipated fluctuations in future income. Similarly, if income fluctuates seasonally, it may be appropriate to use the most recent season comparable to the certification period, rather than the last 30 days, as one indicator of anticipated income.

(2) Handling anticipated income:

(a) Income anticipated during the certification period will be counted as income only in the month it is expected to be received, unless the household chooses to have its income averaged.

(b) At recertification, income from a new source will be disregarded in the first month of the new certification period, if more than twenty - five dollars ($25) income will not be received from this new source by the 10th calendar day after the date of the household's normal issuance cycle.

(3) Continuous employment:

(a) In cases where the head of a migrant or seasonal household is steadily employed, income from the previous month is usually a good indicator of the amount of income that can be anticipated in the month of application and following months.

(b) If the information supplied by a household or a collateral contact (8.139.650.7 NMAC) indicates that future income will differ from the previous month's income, the ISS will use such information to make a reasonable estimate of anticipated income.

(c) The method used to determine income must be fully documented in the case record.

(4) Hourly and piecework wages:

(a) When income is received on an hourly or piecework basis, it may fluctuate if a wage earner works less than eight hours some days or is required to work overtime on others. The ISS will discuss with the household to determine the "normal" amount of the income to be expected as a result of one week's work and whether the income can be reasonably expected to be available during the certification period. The amount which is reasonably expected will be used to determine monthly income.

(b) The option of averaging income should be discussed with the household.

(5) Withheld wages:

(a) Wages held at the request of an employee will be counted as income to the household in the month the wages would otherwise have been paid by the employer.

(b) Wages held by the employer as a regular practice, even if in violation of law, will not be counted as income, unless the household anticipated asking for and receiving an advance, or receiving income from wages that were previously held by the employer as a regular practice, and that were, therefore, not previously counted as income.

(c) Wage advances will count as income in the month received only if reasonably anticipated.

(6) Varied eligibility: Because of anticipated changes, a household may be eligible for the month of application but ineligible in a later month. The household will be entitled to food stamp benefits for the month of application even if the processing of its application results in the food stamp benefits being issued in a subsequent month. Similarly, a household may be ineligible for the month of application, but eligible in the subsequent month because of anticipated changes in circumstances. Even though benefits are denied for the month of application, the household does not need to reapply in the following month. The same application will be used for the denial of the month of application and the determination of eligibility for subsequent months.

(7) Varied benefit amount: As a result of anticipating changes, a migrant or seasonal household's food stamp benefit amount for the month of application may differ from its food stamp benefit amount for subsequent months. The ISS must establish a certification period for the longest possible period over which changes in circumstances can be reasonably anticipated. The food stamp benefit amount will vary from month to month within the certification period, unless the household chooses to have its income averaged.

E. Income averaging: Destitute migrant or seasonal farmworker households may choose to have income averaged. Income will not be averaged for destitute households, unless the household so chooses, because averaging would result in assigning to the month of application income from future periods which is not available to the destitute household for its current needs. If the income averaging option is chosen, it cannot be changed during the certification period.

F. Deductible expenses: For migrant or seasonal households in the job stream, deductible expenses are determined prospectively in accordance with the following procedures (see 8.139.500.11 NMAC for more information).

(1) Anticipating expenses: A household's expenses will be calculated based on the expenses for which the household expects to be billed during the certification period. Anticipation of these expenses will be based on the most recent month's bills, unless it is reasonably certain a change will occur. The ISS will not average past expenses, such as utility bills, for the last several months, as a method of anticipating utility costs for the certification period. When the household's actual costs for utilities, including a heating or cooling cost, are anticipated to be less than the state's standard utility allowance (SUA), the SUA is applied. Similarly, when more than one household shares utility expenses, and a household's share of the billing for heating or cooling costs is less than its prorated share of the SUA, the household will be given its prorated share of the SUA.

(2) Averaging expenses: Migrant households may choose to average anticipated expenses as follows.

(a) Households may choose to have fluctuating expenses averaged.

(b) Households may choose to have one-time only expenses averaged over the certification period in which they are billed.

(c) Households may choose to have expenses that are billed less often than monthly averaged forward over the interval between scheduled billings, or, if there is no scheduled interval, averaged forward over the period the expense is intended to cover.

G. Certification periods:

(1) A household will be assigned the longest certification period possible based on the predictability of the household's circumstances. Because of the uncertainty of income and the likelihood of frequent and significant change in income or household circumstances, migrant or seasonal households usually are certified for one month. A two- or three- month certification period may be assigned if income and circumstances are stable and the household chooses to average income and expenses.

(2) Expedited migrant households: A migrant or seasonal household eligible for expedited service and assigned a certification period of longer than one month, will receive the first month’s benefits. If verification is postponed, the household will be notified in writing that postponed verification from sources within and out-of-state must be provided before food stamp benefits for the second month are issued. Migrants will be entitled to postpone out-of-state verification only once each season. If a migrant or seasonal household requesting expedited service has already received this consideration during the current season, the ISS will grant a postponement of out-of-state verification only for the initial month's issuance and not for the second month's issuance. The notice to the household will state that if the verification results in a change in the household's eligibility or food stamp benefit amount, the ISS will act on the change without advance notice of adverse action.

8.139.400.15 DISASTER VICTIMS:

A. Authority:

(1) Section 409 of the Disaster Relief Act of 1974 authorizes the president to distribute emergency food stamp benefits through USDA to low-income households which are unable to purchase adequate amounts of nutritious food as a result of a major disaster.

(2) The Food Stamp Act of 1977 also provides for development of disaster relief provisions. During a major disaster declared by the president or by USDA/FNS, disaster relief provisions will be implemented in those areas declared in need of disaster relief.

B. Determination of need:

(1) FNS will establish temporary eligibility standards for the duration of an emergency for households that are disaster victims as defined in this section. In addition, FNS will provide for emergency food stamp benefits to eligible households to replace food destroyed in a disaster. The emergency food stamp benefits will be equal to the value of the food destroyed, but not greater than the applicable maximum food stamp benefit amount for the household size.

(2) HCA is authorized to distribute emergency food stamp benefits to households residing in those areas determined to be adversely affected by a major disaster, but only upon the determination by USDA/FNS that such households have food assistance needs that cannot be met by the existing program in the project area(s), and only to those households that meet the eligibility criteria.

(3) The HCA food assistance bureau, after contact with USDA/FNS, will provide direction for implementation of disaster provisions.

(4) Under no circumstances may an ISD county office implement the emergency disaster provisions without specific direction and approval from the income support division, food assistance bureau.

C. Eligibility criteria-conditions: To be eligible for emergency food stamp benefits during a disaster, a household must meet all the following standards:

(1) At the time the disaster struck, the household must have been residing within the geographical area which is considered a disaster area. Such a household may be certified for disaster food stamp benefits even though the household at present is occupying temporary accommodations outside the disaster area. (A household representative must go to the certification site to be certified for disaster food stamp benefits).

(2) The household will purchase food and prepare meals during the disaster benefit period. A household residing in a temporary shelter that is providing all the household's meals is not eligible.

(3) The household must have experienced at least one of the following adverse effects of the disaster:

(a) The household's income becomes inaccessible or there is a termination of income or a significant delay in receipt of income, for example, if a disaster has caused a place of employment to close or reduce its work days, or if paychecks or other payments are lost or destroyed, or if there is a significant delay issuing paychecks or other payments. The household's income can become inaccessible if the work location is inaccessible because of the disaster.

(b) The household's liquid resources become inaccessible. Inaccessibility of liquid resources includes situations in which the financial institution(s) holding the household's resources is expected to be closed because of the disaster for most of the disaster benefit period, or if the household is otherwise unable, and is not expected to be able, to reach its cash resources for most of the disaster benefit period.

(4) Expenses paid during the disaster period:

(a) A household must have paid, or expect to pay for, expenses during the disaster benefit period to be eligible for a shelter expense deduction. The expense is not deductible if the household will not pay for it until after the disaster benefit period is over.

(b) If a household has received, or is reasonably certain to receive, a reimbursement for all or part of the expense during the disaster benefit period, only the net expense after reimbursement is allowed as a shelter expense deduction. If a reimbursement is expected, but it is not reasonably certain that it will be provided during the disaster benefit period, the full amount of the expense is deductible. The following household expenses are deductible:

(i) repairing damage to home or property essential to the employment or self-employment of a household member;

(ii) temporary shelter if a home is uninhabitable or the household cannot reach its home;

(iii) moving out of an area evacuated because of a disaster;

(iv) protecting property from disaster damage;

(v) medical expenses for disaster-related injury to a person who was a household member at the time of the disaster (including funeral and burial expenses in the event of death).

(vi) any other expenses may not be considered.

(5) Disaster income calculation: Disaster income is calculated by adding the household's take-home pay to the household's available cash resources and then deducting the household's disaster-related expenses. The result must be less than or equal to the food stamp maximum disaster income limit for the household size.

(6) Maximum disaster income limit: The maximum disaster income limit is calculated by adding the food stamp net income limit for the appropriate household size, the standard deduction, and the maximum shelter deduction. Medical deductions for the elderly and disabled, the earned income deduction, the uncapped shelter deduction for the elderly and disabled and the dependent care deduction will not be used to calculate the maximum disaster income limit.

(7) Countable income: Income counted to determine eligibility includes:

(a) wages a household actually receives after taxes and other payroll deductions are taken out;

(b) assistance payments or other unearned income a household receives; and

(c) net self-employment income earned after personal income and social security taxes as well as expenses of producing the self-employment income are subtracted;

(d) income is only counted if it has already been received in the benefit period or if the household is reasonably certain the income will be received during the disaster benefit period;

(e) all cash resources (cash on hand and all funds in savings and checking accounts) will be counted as income unless the ISS determines that such funds will be inaccessible for most of the disaster benefit period; the resource standards do not apply under disaster certification rules.

(8) Certification periods: Certification periods must coincide with the disaster benefit period.

(a) If the disaster benefit period is for one month, income over this full month period will be counted; disaster-related expenses paid or expected to be paid over the full month period will be deducted to determine the net income.

(b) If the disaster benefit period will be for one- half month, estimated income over the half-month period will be counted, disaster-related expenses paid or expected to be paid over this period will be deducted, and the income limit will be only one-half of the monthly food stamp maximum disaster income limit.

(9) Household estimates: Applicant households must provide estimates of total take-home pay, cash resources, and allowable disaster-related expenses. Verification is not required, nor is an ISS required to request itemization of individual expenses or of different sources of income or resources.

(10) Variable criteria: FNS may, in certain disaster situations where circumstances warrant, establish eligibility standards that differ from those set forth above.

D. FSP operations:

(1) Regular FS program: The regular food stamp program will continue to operate and to process applications and make eligibility determinations in its normal manner during a disaster benefit period. If an applicant household does not meet the eligibility requirements for the disaster program, the household will be informed of the potential availability of food stamp benefits under the regular program, including provisions to consider costs of home repair caused by a natural disaster as an allowable shelter expense.

(2) Personnel: HCA may use volunteers and other agency personnel to help the certification staff make eligibility determinations during a disaster. A disaster relief agency designated by HCA and approved by FNS may also determine the eligibility of applicant households. HCA may set up alternate certification and issuing points that are accessible to the affected population.

(3) General standards: To apply for food stamp benefits under the disaster assistance program, a household must complete and submit a short form application, be interviewed, and provide limited verification, as specified below. HCA may use group sessions to screen applicants, explain rights and responsibilities, and explain how to complete an application.

(4) Verification: Except for identity and residence, all other verification requirements are waived for disaster emergency assistance. Since verification documents may have been lost or destroyed in the disaster, interviewers may use collateral sources to provide verification and to expedite certification. The household will not be denied for lack of verification of residence in unusual situations, such as if a household has recently moved to the area, has no documentary evidence of residence, and is not known to others in the disaster area.

(5) Period for processing: No emergency food stamp benefits will be authorized after the end of the disaster period. If the period is extended by FNS, HCA may be authorized to permit households already certified for emergency food stamp benefits to apply for recertification, if the households continue to meet the disaster eligibility requirements. A household applying for recertification must submit a new application and be interviewed. Identity and residence need not be reverified unless they are questionable. If an extension is granted, HCA will issue a press release notifying those concerned that the disaster authorization period has been extended, and where and when they may reapply for extended food stamp benefits.

(6) Benefit calculation: Households meeting the eligibility requirements will receive the maximum food stamp benefit amount for their household size as listed in Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC, if the disaster benefit period is a full month. If the disaster benefit period is for a half month, the household will receive half the maximum food stamp benefit amount.

(7) Certification notices: In certifying disaster benefit applicants, written notification requirements will be waived. The notification that interviewers are required to give applicants may be given orally.

(8) ID cards: Participants in a disaster emergency program will be issued an identification card (ID) marked with the word "disaster" or some similar designation for disaster food stamp issuance. The ID card will serve to identify the household at an issuing point or in retail food stores as a legitimate food stamp participant.

(9) Transition to FSP: Households issued emergency food stamp benefits which are later determined eligible to participate in the ongoing food stamp program will have their emergency food stamp benefits deducted from their regular program food stamp benefits if the disaster certification period and the ongoing certification period overlap. The ISS will calculate food stamp benefits to be issued under the regular program as follows:

(a) the number of days overlapping the disaster certification period and the certification period for ongoing food stamp benefits will be determined;

(b) disaster food stamp benefits will be prorated over the number of days in the disaster period to determine the disaster food stamp benefit amount issued on a daily basis; and

(c) the food stamp benefit amount to be issued under the regular program will be offset against the amount of overlapping disaster benefits determined in Subparagraph (b) of Paragraph (9) of Subsection D of 8.139.400.15 NMAC above.

(d) Interviewers must act promptly on all applications. HCA will give eligible households an opportunity to get disaster food stamp benefits the day of application, unless restrictions such as curfews make it impossible to meet this standard; in such a situation, a household must be given an opportunity to get benefits no later than the day following the date the application is filed.

(10) Controls: HCA will establish a system to detect duplicate applications for disaster food stamp benefits. The system will include an exchange of case index cards or lists of certified disaster households between the appropriate certification and issuance sites used in the disaster operation. HCA will also use computer checks, address checks, and telephone calls to keep households from receiving duplicate disaster benefits.

E. Application process:

(1) Forms:

(a) The short application form for temporary emergency assistance (ISD459) will be used to gather the minimum amount of information needed to establish eligibility and the food stamp benefit amount. It also serves as an issuance document.

(b) To determine eligibility, an application must be completed and signed, the household or its authorized representative must be interviewed, and certain information on the application must be verified.

(c) The short disaster application form will provide warnings of the civil and criminal provisions and penalties for violations of the Food Stamp Act, and of the fact that the household may be subject to a post-disaster review.

(2) Filing: To file an application for emergency food stamp assistance, a household must submit a completed form, in person or through an authorized representative, at a certification site. To be processed under disaster procedures, the application must be filed during the disaster period. Households applying outside this period will be processed according to regular food stamp program procedures.

(3) Household cooperation: If a household refuses to cooperate with an interviewer in completing the application process, the application will be denied at the time of refusal.

(4) Interviews: All applicants for emergency disaster assistance must be interviewed. HCA will screen applicants before the interview to identify those who do not meet eligibility requirements.

(a) The interview will be conducted as an official discussion of household circumstances. It is designed to process the application quickly and not hinder disaster operations.

(b) Interviews will be conducted by ISSs as well as by volunteers and other non-HCA personnel, such as representatives of an authorized disaster relief agency designated by HCA.

(c) The interviewer will review the information that appears on an application and resolve unclear or incomplete information.

(d) At the interview, a household will be advised orally of the disposition of its application, its rights and responsibilities, when its certification period for emergency assistance ends, and of the ongoing food stamp program.

(e) If a household wishes to file an application for the ongoing program, the interviewer will advise the household of the address and telephone number of the appropriate office.

(f) The interviewer will inform each certified household of the proper use of food stamp benefits.

F. Treatment of current FSP household:

(1) Eligibility: Households currently certified for the ongoing food stamp program may also be eligible for temporary emergency food stamp assistance during disasters. Such households will be allowed to apply for disaster food stamp assistance, and their eligibility will be determined in the same manner as for any other disaster victim. The ISS must, however, reduce the disaster food stamp benefit amount by the amount of regular food stamp benefits issued to the household under the ongoing program for any part of the disaster benefit period. If the household's food has been damaged by the disaster, and it must replace the food, the disaster food stamp benefit amount will not be reduced by the amount of food stamp benefits issued under the ongoing program. If it is not practical to determine, verify, or otherwise take into account ongoing program benefits, HCA will issue full disaster food stamp benefits to those households, with FNS approval.

(2) Replacements: A household requesting a replacement of food stamp benefits it had received under the ongoing program that were destroyed in the disaster, or of food destroyed in a disaster that was purchased with food stamp benefits issued under the ongoing program, will be handled by the ongoing program. A household will not be given a replacement if it has received, or will receive, disaster food stamp assistance for the same period.

(3) Reporting changes: Households certified under the ongoing program who report required changes during the application process for emergency assistance, will be referred to the ongoing program. The household is responsible for reporting the required information directly to the office that handles its regular case.

G. Issuance of emergency food stamps: Emergency food stamp benefits will be issued by normal procedures in effect in a project area if the opportunity to participate standards can be met. Such issuance arrangements may not be practical because of the effects of the disaster. HCA, with FNS approval, will make temporary arrangements during an emergency period to facilitate the issuance of benefits to disaster victims.

H. Fair hearings: Households denied disaster food stamp benefits may request a fair hearing. Households requesting a fair hearing must be offered an immediate supervisory review of their circumstances because of the time that is likely to pass before a fair hearing decision can be made. The supervisory review is not a replacement for a fair hearing, but may be held in addition to the fair hearing.

8.139.410.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.139.410.8 ENUMERATION (SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER):

A. Requirement: The social security number is required for every individual who receives food stamp benefits. Providing the social security number of a household member is voluntary. However, failure to provide the social security number shall result in the denial of food stamp benefits to the household member.

(1) A household participating in the food stamp program (FSP) must provide the social security number of each household member before certification. An actual social security card is not mandatory to fulfill the verification requirement.

(2) If an individual has more than one number, all numbers must be provided.

(3) If an individual does not have a social security number, or if the household does not know if an individual member has a social security number, the household must apply for a social security number for the individual(s) before certification.

(4) A caseworker shall inform the household where to apply and what information is needed, and shall advise the household that proof of application from the social security administration (SSA) office for a social security number is required before certification.

(5) The caseworker shall explain to applicants and participants that refusal or failure to comply, without good cause, shall result in disqualification of the individual household member for whom a social security number has not been provided or obtained.

(6) For a newborn, the household must provide a social security number or proof of application for a social security number at the next recertification or within six months, whichever is later.

B. Validation of social security number:

(1) The caseworker shall record, in the case file and the computer file, the social security number of each household member at certification, recertification, or at any contact with the household. The social security number is validated by the SSA on a periodic basis.

(2) Immediate validation of an individual's social security number is not required for participation in the FSP. Household certification or issuance of food stamp benefits shall not be delayed solely to validate the social security number of a household member.

(3) When a social security number has been validated by the SSA, the caseworker shall make a permanent annotation on the client case file to prevent validation of the social security number in the future.

(4) The caseworker shall offer to:

(a) complete, or help the applicant complete, an application for a social security number, form SS-5.

(b) verify identity, age, and citizenship or alien status, as required by SSA;

(c) forward the SS-5 application to the SSA.

C. Disqualification from food stamps: If a caseworker determines that the household has refused or failed to provide or apply for a social security number without good cause, the individual who does not have a social security number shall be ineligible to participate in the FSP.

(1) Refusal to comply: Refusal to provide or apply for a social security number shall result in the disqualification of the individual for whom a social security number is required. Any remaining household members are eligible to participate in the FSP.

(2) Failure to comply: Individuals who fail, without good cause, to meet the enumeration requirement within the required time period are ineligible. The disqualification applies to an individual(s), not to an entire household. An individual becomes eligible to participate, and the disqualification ends, when the social security number is provided.

(3) Determining good cause: If a household can show good cause why an application has not been completed in a timely manner, the household member without a social security number shall be allowed to participate for one month in addition to the application month. To determine good cause, information from the household member, the social security administration, and HSD records shall be considered. Documentary evidence or collateral information (8.139.100.7 NMAC definitions) that the member has applied for a social security number or has made every effort to provide the social security administration with the information needed to complete an application is considered good cause for not complying timely with this requirement. If a household member applying for a social security number is unable to obtain the documents required by the social security administration, the caseworker shall make every effort to help the household get these documents.

(a) If a household can show good cause why an application for a social security number has not been made in a timely manner, the household member concerned shall be allowed to continue to participate each month that good cause exists.

(b) Good cause does not include delays caused by illness, lack of transportation, or temporary absence, since the SSA provides for the application process to be conducted entirely by mail. A personal interview is not required except for persons age 18 or over who must apply for an original social security number at a local SSA office.

(4) Participation pending notification: When an application for a social security number has been filed, as verified by a receipt of application for a social security number from the social security administration (SSA), an individual shall be permitted to participate in the food stamp program, pending notification by the SSA of the household member's social security number.

(5) Subsequent actions: If the social security number is not verified at recertification for a number already provided, or has not been computer-verified in the interim, the caseworker shall disqualify the individual for noncompliance with the enumeration requirement. The caseworker shall have offered to help the individual complete an application for a duplicate social security number. Any household member disqualified for noncompliance with the enumeration requirement becomes eligible upon providing verification of a valid social security number.

D. Resources and income: The resources of a disqualified individual count in their entirety. A pro rata share of the disqualified individual's income shall be considered available to the remaining household members.

E. Use of social security number: HSD is authorized to use social security numbers in the administration of the food stamp program. To the extent determined necessary, HSD may access computer information regarding individual applicants and participants who receive benefits or services under Title XVI of the Social Security Act. The social security number shall be used to prevent duplicate participation, to facilitate mass changes in federal benefits, and to request and exchange information on individuals through the IEVS and SAVE computer match programs, and the department of labor.

E. Verification of immigrant status is determined in accordance with 7 CFR 273.2(f) and reasonable opportunity is provided pursuant to 7 CFR 273.2(f)(1)(c).

F. Reporting undocumented aliens:

(1) HSD shall inform the local DHS office only when an official determination is made that any individual who is applying for or receives benefits is present in the U.S. in violation of the INA. An official determination that an undocumented immigrant is in the U.S. in violation of the INA is only made when:

(a) the undocumented alien's unlawful presence is a finding of fact or conclusion of law that is made by HSD as part of a formal determination about the individual's eligibility; and

(b) HSD's finding is supported by a determination by DHS or the executive office of immigration review (EOIR) that the non-citizen is unlawfully residing in the US, such as a final order of deportation.

(2) A systematic alien verification for entitlements (SAVE) response showing no service record on an individual or an immigration status making the individual ineligible for a benefit is not a finding of fact or conclusion of law that the individual is not lawfully present.

(3) Undocumented immigrant status is considered reported when ISD enters the information about the non-citizen into the household's computer file.

(4) When a household indicates inability or unwillingness to provide documentation of immigrant status for any household member, HSD must classify that member as an ineligible immigrant. When a person indicates inability or unwillingness to provide documentation of immigrant status, HSD must classify that person as an ineligible immigrant. In such cases HSD must not continue efforts to obtain that documentation.

8.139.410.10 RESIDENCE:

A. Households may be an active member in only one SNAP household in any month, with the exception of residents of a domestic violence shelter.

B. Domestic violence shelter: Any individual who is a resident of a domestic violence shelter may participate as a member in more than one SNAP household simultaneously, provided that the shelter resident(s) left a household which contained the abusive individual.

C. Residence duration: No residence duration requirement will be imposed on any household.

D. Fixed residence or mailing address: An otherwise eligible household is not required to live in a permanent dwelling or have a fixed mailing address as a condition of eligibility.

E. Intent to reside: An intention to reside permanently in New Mexico is not required as a condition for participation in SNAP. However, a specific temporary purpose, such as vacationing in New Mexico, does not satisfy the residence requirement.

F. Verification of residency: Verification of residence should, whenever possible, be made in conjunction with the verification of other information. This can be done through such documents as rent receipts, mortgage bills, utility expenses, or identification papers which show the name and address of the applicant. Collateral contacts or other documentary evidence can be accepted to verify residence. Any document or collateral contact which reasonably establishes the household's residence must be accepted. No requirement for a specific type of verification may be imposed.

G. Lack of verification in unusual cases: The residence requirement will be verified, except in unusual circumstances, such as homeless households, some migrant farmworker households, where verification of residence cannot reasonably be accomplished.

8.139.410.11 NONCONCURRENT RECEIPT OF ASSISTANCE (DUAL PARTICIPATION):

A. In no event may an individual receive food stamp benefits in more than one household in the state of New Mexico in the same month, with the exception of women and children in battered women's shelters (Subsection B of 8.139.410.10 NMAC). In addition, an individual may not receive food stamp benefits in the state of New Mexico and any other state, or the territories of Guam, the Virgin Islands, or Puerto Rico, in the same month. An individual or household participating in a commodity distribution program administered by any Indian tribal organization (ITO) on an Indian reservation is not eligible to receive food stamp benefits in the same month that commodities are received. A household need not be living on the Indian reservation to participate in an Indian tribal commodities program. If an ISS determines that an individual or household has received food stamp benefits to which it was not entitled because of dual participation, a claim will be filed for any month in which there was an over-issuance of food stamp benefits.

B. Disqualification for receipt of multiple benefits: A finding that an individual has received multiple food stamp benefits simultaneously as a result of an administrative disqualification hearing and IPV, or a conviction in federal or state court, will result in a ten year disqualification period. The income and resources of the disqualified individual will continue to count in their entirety to the household while the individual remains in the home.

8.139.410.12 SUPPLEMENTAL NUTRITION ASSISTANCE PROGRAM (SNAP) GENERAL WORK REQUIREMENTS:

Any SNAP recipient may be subject to general work requirements. SNAP recipients who do not meet a federal exemption must meet the general work requirements in accordance with Subsection C of this section. Federal exemptions from general work requirements are found at 7 Code of Federal Regulation (CFR) 273.7(a)(6) and (b).

A. General Work requirements: ISD will administer the general work requirements in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7. As a condition of eligibility for participation in SNAP, every household member who does not qualify for a federal exemption, must meet general work requirements as outlined in Subsection C of this section.

B. General work requirement exemptions: Federal exemptions from general work requirements are found at 7 CFR 273.7(a)(6) and 273.7(b). Physical and mental unfitness for the federal exemption is defined as an individual who has a mental or physical illness or disability, temporary or permanent, which reduces their ability to financially support themselves. Unfitness can be:

(1) obvious to ISD and documented in the case file; or

(2) not obvious to ISD, but is documented by a physician, physician's assistant, nurse, nurse practitioner, a licensed or certified psychiatrist or a licensed or certified psychologist, or social worker as being unfit to work; the claim of physical or mental unfitness must be substantiated by written documentation identifying the physical or mental condition and certifying that the person is unfit for employment.

C. Compliance with general work requirements: An individual who is not temporarily waived or exempt in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7(a)(6) and (b) must:

(1) register for work at the time of application and every 12 months thereafter; all SNAP participants are considered registered for work with the head of household’s signature on an application or recertification form for SNAP participation;

(2) participate in an E&T program to the extent required by law;

(3) participate in a workfare program if assigned by the department;

(4) provide ISD or E&T program service provider with information regarding employment status, participation in E&T program status, or availability for work;

(5) report to an employer referred to by ISD or its designee if the potential employment meets the suitability requirements in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7(h);

(6) accept a bona fide offer of suitable employment at a site or plant not subject to a strike or lockout, at a wage equal to the higher of the federal or state minimum wage or eighty percent of the wage that would have governed had the minimum hourly rate of the Fair Labor Standards Act been applicable to the offer of employment; and

(7) not voluntarily and without good cause quit a job of 30 or more hours a week or reduce work effort to less than 30 hours a week within the 30 day period prior to the household's application date, or any time after filing an application, or any time during the household's certification period in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7(a)(vii).

D. Failure to comply with SNAP general work requirements: An individual who is not exempt who refuses or fails without good cause, to comply with the SNAP general work requirements is ineligible to participate in SNAP, and will be considered an ineligible household member, in accordance with 7 CFR 273.1(b)(7). Prior to placing a disqualification for noncompliance with the work requirements, good cause will be determined in accordance with 7 CFR 273.7(i). When determining whether or not good cause applies to voluntary quit, voluntary quit will be evaluated up to the 30 day period prior to applying for SNAP benefits and at any time thereafter. Within 10 calendar days of establishing that the noncompliance was without good cause, ISD must provide the individual with a notice of adverse action, as specified in 7 CFR 273.13. 8.139.420.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.139.420.8 CATEGORICAL ELIGIBILITY (CE):

All members of a food stamp household must maintain CE status for the household to be considered CE. Categorically eligible one and two person households are entitled to the minimum food stamp benefit amount, except in an initial month if the prorated benefit is less than ten dollars ($10).

A. Determining CE: Households may be CE by receiving financial assistance or by receiving a non-cash TANF/MOE funded benefit or service, known as broad-based CE.

(1) Financial assistance/SSI CE: A food stamp household is considered CE for the entire month when all of its members receive or has been determined eligible to receive any combination of the benefits or services from the following:

(a) financial assistance;

(b) financial, in-kind benefits, or services funded either under Title IV-A of the Social Security Act or by the state as part of the TANF maintenance of effort;

(c) SSI under Section 1619(a) or 1619(b) of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1382h(a) or (b)).

(2) Broad-based CE due to receiving a non-cash TANF/MOE funded benefit or service: A food stamp household is considered to be a broad-based CE household for the month of application and the entire certification period when the household's gross income is less than two hundred percent FPG and the household has received a non-cash TANF/MOE funded benefit or service.

(3) Households not entitled to CE: A household shall not be considered CE if:

(a) any member is disqualified for an IPV;

(b) any member is disqualified for failure to comply with work registration or E&T requirements, including voluntarily quitting a job or reducing employment hours without good cause;

(c) any member is disqualified because of fleeing felon status or parole/probation violations;

(d) the household is institutionalized; or

(e) the household refuses to cooperate in providing information that is necessary to determine eligibility;

(f) households that lose eligibility because an individual member received substantial lottery or gambling winnings will remain ineligible until they meet the income and resource limits detailed in 7 CFR 273.8 and 273.9. The next time such a household reapplies and is certified for SNAP after losing eligibility under this rule, the household would not be considered categorically eligible. This requirement is not permanent; it applies only to the first time a household is certified under regular SNAP rules following the loss of eligibility for substantial lottery and gambling winnings.

(4) Households may be CE if they contain non-household members such as ineligible students, ineligible non-citizens, ABAWDs who are ineligible due to time limits.

B. Eligibility factors for CE households: All CE households are subject to food stamp eligibility requirements, including, but not limited to, verification of household composition, if questionable; benefit determination (income and deductions); disqualification for any reason; claims recovery and restored benefits; notices and fair hearings; and all reporting requirements.

(1) Financial assistance/SSI households: Households entitled to CE because of receipt of financial assistance or SSI do not have to provide verification of the following eligibility factors:

(a) resources;

(b) social security number;

(c) sponsored non-citizen information; and

(d) residency.

(2) Broad-based households: Households entitled to CE because they received a non-cash TANF/MOE funded benefit or service do not have to verify resources.

C. Case management for all CE households:

(1) Applicant households: Caseworkers shall postpone denying a potentially CE household until the 30th day to allow financial assistance or SSI benefit approval. If within 30 days following the denial date, the caseworker becomes aware of, approval which makes the household CE benefits shall be paid using the original application and any other information which has become available since that time.

(2) Responsibility to report changes: CE households subject to simplified or regular reporting must report changes in accordance with 8.139.120 NMAC.

(3) Action on changes to CE status: When a household reports a change or the HCA becomes aware of a change, the caseworker shall take action to determine if the household is still entitled to continue CE.

(a) Financial assistance: When the household reports a loss or the HCA becomes aware of a loss of SSI or financial assistance, the household should be evaluated for broad-based CE.

(b) Broad-based CE: The caseworker shall take action to determine if the household still meets the criteria for broad-based CE status per Paragraph (2) of Subsection A above. Should the reported change result in a loss of broad-based CE the household will be notified in writing. Any household no longer entitled to broad-based CE status may still participate in the food stamp program and are subject to all eligibility requirements including resource and reduced income limits.

C. Sponsor: An individual who has executed an affidavit of support or similar agreement on behalf of a non-citizen, as a condition of the non-citizen's entry or admission into the United States as a permanent resident.

E. Sponsored non-citizen's responsibility: The HCA shall attribute the entire amount of income and resources to the applicant eligible sponsored non-citizen until the non-citizen provides the information specified below. The sponsored non-citizen is responsible for:

(1) obtaining the cooperation of the non-citizen's sponsor(s) to provide the caseworker, at the time of application or recertification, with the information or documentation necessary to determine the income and resources of a sponsor and a sponsor's spouse;

(2) providing the names and other identifying factors of other non-citizens for whom the non-citizen's sponsor has signed an affidavit of support;

non-citizen, until the non-citizen achieves US citizenship through naturalization or has worked 40 qualifying quarters of coverage as defined by the social security administration. If the sponsored non-citizen can demonstrate that the non-citizen's sponsor is the sponsor of other non-citizens, the HCA shall divide the income by the number of such sponsored non-citizens. The spouse's income shall be counted even if the sponsor and spouse were married after the sponsoring agreement was signed. The monthly income attributed to the sponsored non-citizen is the total gross earned and unearned income (less exclusions) of the sponsor and sponsor's spouse (if living with the sponsor) at the time the household containing the sponsored non-citizen member applies or is recertified for participation in the FSP, reduced by:

(a) a twenty percent earned income amount for the portion of the income determined as earned income of the sponsor and the sponsor's spouse; and

(b) an amount equal to the FSP's monthly gross income eligibility limit for a household equal in size to the sponsor, the sponsor's spouse, and any other person who is claimed or could be claimed by the sponsor or the sponsor's spouse as a dependent for federal income tax purposes.

(2) TANF-sponsored non-citizen income: If a non-citizen has already reported gross income information about the non-citizen's sponsor according to TANF sponsored non-citizen rules, that income amount shall be used for food stamp deeming purposes.

(3) Sponsor-paid money: Actual money paid to the non-citizen by the sponsor or the sponsor's spouse shall not be counted as income to the non-citizen unless the amount paid exceeds the amount deemed to the non-citizen. The amount paid that actually exceeds the amount deemed shall be counted as income to the non-citizen, in addition to the deemed amount.

H. Deemed resources:

(1) The full amount of the resources reduced by $1,500 of a sponsor and the sponsor's spouse (if living with the sponsor) shall be deemed to be the resources of the sponsored non-citizen until the non-citizen achieves US citizenship through naturalization or has worked 40 qualifying quarters of coverage as defined by the social security administration. The spouse's resources shall be counted even if the sponsor and spouse were married after the sponsoring agreement was signed. If the sponsored non-citizen can demonstrate that the non-citizen's sponsor is the sponsor of other non-citizens, the HCA shall divide the resources by the number of such sponsored non-citizens. Resources available to the sponsor shall be determined in accordance with the provisions found in 8.139.510 NMAC.

(2) TANF sponsored non-citizen resources: If a non-citizen has already reported all resource information on the non-citizen's sponsor according to TANF sponsored non-citizen rules, that resource amount shall be used for food stamp deeming purposes as the amount to be attributed to the non-citizen.

I. Determining eligibility and benefit amount: The amount of income and resources deemed to be that of the sponsored non-citizen is considered in determining the eligibility and benefit amount of the household of which the non-citizen is a member.

J. Sponsors:

(1) Sponsoring more than one non-citizen: If the sponsored non-citizen can demonstrate that the non-citizen's sponsor is the sponsor of other non-citizens, the HCA shall divide the income and resources by the number of such sponsored non-citizens.

If the non-citizen sponsor dies, the income and resources shall no longer be attributed to the non-citizen.

K. Awaiting verification: Until the non-citizen provides information or verification necessary to determine eligibility, the sponsored non-citizen is ineligible. The caseworker shall determine the eligibility of any remaining household members. The caseworker shall consider available to the remaining household members the income and resources of the ineligible non-citizen in determining the eligibility and benefit level of the remaining household members. If the sponsored non-citizen refuses to cooperate in providing information or verification, other adult members of the non-citizen's household are responsible for providing the information or verification required. If the caseworker subsequently receives information or verification, the caseworker shall act on the information as a reported change in household membership in accordance to timeliness standards. If the same sponsor is responsible for the entire household, the entire household is ineligible until such time as the household provides the needed sponsor information or verification. The caseworker shall assist the non-citizen in obtaining verification.

L. Over-issuance: A non-citizen's sponsor and the non-citizen shall be jointly liable for repayment of any over-issuance of food stamp benefits resulting from incorrect information provided by the sponsor. The sponsor of a non-citizen or the non-citizen shall also be independently responsible for the obligation to repay any over-issuance of food stamp benefits resulting from incorrect information provided by the sponsor.

(1) Good cause/sponsor: If a non-citizen's sponsor has good cause or is without fault for supplying the incorrect information, the non-citizen's household is solely liable for repayment of the over-issuance. The caseworker shall determine whether good cause exists in such situations, and shall consider the facts and circumstances, including information submitted by the non-citizen and by the sponsor. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, a misunderstanding by a sponsor of the responsibility to report information about the sponsor's resources and income or a lack of information provided at the time a sponsor executed the affidavit of support or similar agreement on behalf of the non-citizen. Problems caused by the inability of a sponsor or non-citizen to speak, read, or write English may constitute good cause.

(2) Establishing the claim: If a sponsor does not have good cause, the caseworker shall determine whether to establish a claim for the over-issuance against the sponsor or the non-citizen's household, or both. The HCA may choose to establish claims against both parties at the same time or to establish a claim against the party considered most likely to repay first. If a claim is established against the non-citizen's sponsor first, the caseworker shall ensure that a claim is established against the non-citizen's household if the sponsor fails to respond to a demand letter within 30 days of receipt. The HCA shall return to the non-citizen's sponsor or the non-citizen's household any amounts repaid in excess of the total amount of the claim.

(3) Claims collection against sponsor:

(a) The restitution bureau initiates a collection action by sending a non-citizen's sponsor a written demand letter which informs the sponsor of the amount owed, the reason for the claim, and how the sponsor may pay the claim. The sponsor shall be informed that they shall not be held responsible for repayment of the claim if the sponsor can demonstrate good cause or absence of personal fault for the incorrect information having been supplied to the HCA. In addition, the restitution bureau shall follow up the written demand letter with personal contact, if possible. The HCA may pursue other collection actions as appropriate to obtain payment of a claim against any sponsor who fails to respond to a written demand letter. The restitution bureau shall end a collection action against a sponsor at any time if it has documentation that the sponsor cannot be located, or if the cost of further collection efforts is likely to exceed the amount that can be recovered. If a non-citizen's sponsor responds to a written demand letter and is financially able to pay the claim at one time, the restitution bureau shall collect a lump sum cash payment. The restitution bureau shall negotiate a payment schedule with the sponsor for repayment of the claim, as long as payments are made in regular installments. For more information on handling claims, see 8.139.640.11 NMAC.

(b) Exception: A sponsor who is participating in the food stamp program as a household shall be excluded from any demand for repayment of the value of food stamp benefits issued to a sponsored non-citizen.

(4) Fair hearing: A sponsor is entitled to a fair hearing either to contest a determination that the sponsor was at fault for giving incorrect information, or to contest the amount of the claim.

(5) Claims collection against non-citizen households: Before initiating collection against a sponsored non-citizen's household for repayment of an over issuance caused by incorrect information having been supplied concerning the sponsor or sponsor's spouse, a caseworker shall determine whether the incorrect information supplied was due to an inadvertent household error or an intentional program violation (IPV) on the part of the non-citizen. Claims collection against a household shall be pursued regardless of the current eligibility status of sponsored non-citizen or non-citizen households.

(a) Intentional misrepresentation: If sufficient documentary evidence exists to substantiate that incorrect information was provided by an act of IPV on the part of the non-citizen, the case shall be referred as a request for IPV disqualification, in accordance with the procedures in 8.139.647.8 NMAC. A claim against an non-citizen's household shall be handled as an inadvertent error claim until there is a determination of an IPV by an administrative disqualification hearing official or a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

(b) Misunderstanding/unintended error. If it is determined that incorrect information was supplied because of a misunderstanding or unintended error on the part of the sponsored non-citizen, the claim shall be handled as an inadvertent household error claim.

M. Memorandum of agreement: An agreement has been entered into by the secretary of the United States department of agriculture (USDA), the U.S. secretary of state, and the U.S. attorney general regarding sponsored non-citizen and their sponsors. A sponsor and non-citizen, at the time the sponsor executes an affidavit of support or similar agreement on behalf of the non-citizen, will be informed of the requirements of Sec. 1308 of P.L. 97-98. Under the agreement, the bureau of consular affairs of the state department and local INS offices provide information to the HCA that is needed to carry out the provisions of the agreement. The agreement lists the specific information that must be released by all parties to facilitate identification of the non-citizen and sponsor and enable the HCA to verify required information supplied by the non-citizen which is essential for eligibility determinations.

8.139.420.10 HOMELESS HOUSEHOLDS:

Homeless households residing in public or private nonprofit shelters for homeless individuals will be exempt from the residents of an institution eligibility requirements (Subsection A of 8.139.400.13 NMAC). Such households may not be denied benefits for lack of a conventional or fixed residence, or be required to have a street address or post office box for mailing purposes. Homeless households may use their food stamp benefits to purchase meals from homeless meal providers that have been authorized by FCS to accept coupons for meal payments.

A. Homeless shelter standard: The HCA will use a standard estimate of shelter expenses for households in which all members are homeless and are not receiving free shelter throughout the calendar month. All homeless households that incur, or reasonably expect to incur, shelter expenses during a month will be eligible for the homeless shelter standard unless higher shelter expenses are verified. The homeless shelter standard, which includes both shelter and utility expenses, is adjusted annually, and is effective every October (Paragraph (3) of Subsection F of 8.139.500.8 NMAC).

B. Restrictions:

(1) Households: No special restrictions will be imposed on homeless households living in shelters.

(2) Homeless meal providers: Homeless meal providers may not act as authorized representatives for homeless households. If a homeless shelter is authorized by FNS as a homeless meal provider, the shelter may not require a homeless household to surrender its food stamp benefits to the shelter. The shelter can only request voluntary use of food stamp benefits from homeless food stamp recipients.

(3) Cost of food: A shelter for the homeless may not require households using food stamp benefits to pay more than the average cost of the food purchased by the homeless meal provider. For purposes of this section, "average cost" will be calculated by averaging food costs over a period of up to one calendar month. The value of donated foods from any source will not be used to calculate the average cost, nor to determine the amount requested from food stamp recipients. All indirect costs, such as those incurred in the acquisition, storage, or preparation of the food used in meals, will also be excluded. Homeless meal providers may only use uncancelled, unmarked $1 food stamp benefit amounts in making change for meal purchases by homeless households. Change in the form of cash or credit slips is prohibited. In addition, if other shelter residents have the option of eating free or making a monetary donation, food stamp recipients in the shelter must be given the option of eating free or making a voluntary donation in money or food stamp benefits.

C. Shelter authorization procedures:

(1) To be authorized to accept food stamp benefits from homeless recipients, a homeless meal provider must file an application with FNS and be determined eligible as a homeless meal provider. The conditions that a homeless meal provider must meet are:

(a) the homeless meal provider must be a public organization or a private, nonprofit organization defined by the IRS (I.R.C. 501(c)(3));

(b) the homeless meal provider must serve meals that include food purchased by the organization (providers serving meals consisting entirely of donated food are not authorized); and

(c) the homeless meal provider must obtain written approval from the HCA that the organization does in fact serve meals to homeless persons.

(2) FNS may limit the participation of any homeless meal provider in order to preserve the integrity of the food stamp program.

8.139.500.6 OBJECTIVE:

Issuance of the revised food stamp program policy manual is intended to be used in administration of the food stamp program in New Mexico. This revision incorporated the latest federal policy changes in the food stamp program not yet filed. In addition, current policy citations were rewritten for clarification purposes or were simply reformatted. Issuance of the revised policy manual incorporated a new format which is the same in all income support division policy manuals. A new numbering system was designated so that similar topics in different programs carry the same number. The revised format and numbering standards were designed to create continuity among ISD programs and to facilitate access to policy throughout the HCA.

8.139.500.8 BASIS OF ISSUANCE:

A. Income standards: Determination of need in SNAP is based on federal guidelines. Participation in the program is limited to households whose income is determined to be a substantial limiting factor in permitting them to obtain a nutritious diet. The net and gross income eligibility standards are based on the federal income poverty levels established in the Community Services Block Grant Act 42 USC 9902(2).

B. Gross income standards: The gross income eligibility standards for the 48 contiguous states, District of Columbia, Guam and the Virgin Islands is one hundred thirty percent of the federal income poverty levels for the 48 states and the District of Columbia. One hundred thirty percent of the annual income poverty guidelines is divided by 12 to determine monthly gross income standards, rounding the results upward as necessary. For households larger than eight, the increment in the federal income poverty guidelines is multiplied by one hundred thirty percent, divided by 12, and the results rounded upward if necessary.

C. Net income standards: The net income eligibility standards for the 48 contiguous states, District of Columbia, Guam and the Virgin Islands are the federal income poverty levels for the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia. The annual income poverty guidelines are divided by 12 to determine monthly net income eligibility standards, (results rounded upward if necessary). For households larger than eight, the increment in the federal income poverty guidelines is divided by 12, and the results rounded upward if necessary.

D. Yearly adjustment: Income eligibility limits are revised each October 1st to reflect the annual adjustment to the federal income poverty guidelines for the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia and can be found at https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information.

E. Deductions and standards:

(1) Determination: Expense and standard deduction amounts are determined by federal guidelines and may be adjusted each year. Households eligible based on income and resource guidelines, and other relevant eligibility factors, are allowed certain deductions to determine countable income.

(2) Yearly adjustment: The expense and standard deductions may change each year. If federal guidelines mandate a change, it is effective each October 1st, and can be found at https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information and http://www.HCA.state.nm.us/LookingForInformation/Federal_Poverty_Level_Guidelines.aspx

8.139.500.9 PROSPECTIVE BUDGETING:

A. Initial month procedures: "Initial month" means the first month for which a household is certified for participation in the food stamp program following any period during which the household was not certified for participation. Eligibility and food stamp benefit amount for households submitting an initial application will be based on circumstances for the entire calendar month in which a household files its application.

(1) Changing eligibility:

(a) Because of anticipated changes, a household may be eligible for the month of application, but ineligible in the next month. The household is entitled to benefits for the month of application, even if the application is processed and benefits issued in the subsequent month.

(b) A household may be ineligible for the month of application but eligible in the next month because of anticipated changes in circumstances.

(c) Even if denied for the month of application, a household does not need to reapply in the next month. The same application is used for the denial of the month of application and the determination of eligibility in subsequent months.

(2) Prorating initial month's food stamp benefit amount: A household's food stamp benefit amount for the initial month is based on the day of the month the household applies.

B. Varied benefit amount: As a result of anticipating changes, a household's food stamp benefit amount for the month of application may differ from the amount in later months.

(1) The income support specialist (ISS) will establish a certification period for the longest period over which changes in the household's circumstances can reasonably be anticipated.

(2) For changes discussed at the application interview, a household's food stamp benefit amount may vary from month to month during the certification period to reflect changes anticipated at the time of certification.

(3) Adverse action notices will not be required for any subsequent month in which the food stamp benefit amount decreases. Adequate notice will be required for each month in which the food stamp benefit amount changes.

C. Retroactive benefits: For households that have completed the application process by the 30th day after application, and have been determined eligible, the food stamp benefit amount will be provided retroactively to the date of application.

D. Recertification procedures: Eligibility and food stamp benefit amount for recertification will be determined prospectively based on circumstances anticipated for the certification period beginning the month following the expiration of the current certification period.

E. Mass change procedures: Adjustments to the maximum food stamp benefit amount, income standards, shelter and dependent care deduction limits, state utility standard adjustments, and overall adjustments to financial assistance payments and mass changes in federal benefits, such as social security and SSI benefits, are made by a mass change. The adjustment is made in the month before the change is effective to allow for adequate notice to affected households.

F. Determining resources: Available resources at the time the household is interviewed will be used to determine the household's eligibility.

(1) Nonrecurring lump sum payments are counted as resources in the month received and are not counted as income.

(2) Resources received or available in the month of application but expended before the day of the interview are not used to determine the household's eligibility, unless the resource was transferred for the purpose of qualifying for food stamp benefits.

8.139.500.10 DETERMINING INCOME:

A. Anticipating income: In determining a household's eligibility and SNAP benefit amount ISD shall use income already received by the household during the certification period and any income the household and ISD are reasonably certain shall be received during the remainder of the certification period.

(1) If the amount of income or date of receipt is uncertain, that portion of the household's income that is uncertain shall not be counted.

(2) If the exact amount of the income is not known, that portion of the income which can be anticipated with reasonable certainty shall be considered income.

(3) In cases where the receipt of income is reasonably certain but the monthly amount may fluctuate, a household may choose to average its income.

B. Income received during any past 30-day consecutive period that includes 30 days prior to the date of application through the date of timely disposition shall be used as an indicator of the income that is and shall be available to the household during the certification period.

(1) Past income is not used as an indicator of income anticipated for the certification period if changes in income have occurred or can be anticipated during the certification period.

(2) If income fluctuates to the extent that a single four-week period does not provide an accurate indication of anticipated income, a longer period of past time can be used if it gives a more accurate indication of anticipated fluctuations in income.

(3) Income already received is not used and verification is obtained from the income source, if the household and ISD decide that income already received by the household is not indicative of income expected to be received in future months.

C. Simplified reporting: A household filing an interim report form is subject to the income methodology specified at 8.139.500.9 NMAC.

D. Income anticipated during the certification period shall be counted only in the month it is expected to be received, unless the income is averaged.

E. Use of conversion factors: Whenever a full month's income is anticipated and is received on a weekly or biweekly basis, the income shall be converted to monthly amount as follows:

(1) income received on a weekly basis is averaged and multiplied by four;

(2) income received on a biweekly basis is averaged and multiplied by two;

(3) averaged income shall be rounded to the nearest whole dollar prior to application of the conversion factor; amounts resulting in $0.50 or more are rounded up; amounts resulting in $0.49 or lower are rounded down.

F. Held wages:

(1) Wages withheld at the request of an employee shall be considered income to a household in the month the wages would otherwise have been paid by the employer.

(2) Wages withheld by the employer as a general practice, even in violation of the law, shall not be counted as income to a household, unless the household anticipates that it will ask for and receive an advance.

(3) If a household anticipates asking for and receiving income from wages that were previously withheld by the employer as a general practice, the income shall be counted to determine eligibility.

G. Earned income:

(1) Earned income shall be anticipated based on income received when the following criteria are met:

(a) the applicant and ISD are reasonably certain the income amounts received are indicative of future income and expected to continue during the certification period; and

(b) the anticipated income is based on income received from any consecutive past 30-day period that includes 30 days prior to the date of application through the date of timely disposition of the application.

(2) When the applicant and ISD determine that the income received is not indicative of future income that will be received during the certification period, a longer period of time may be used if it will provide a more accurate indicator of anticipated income.

(3) Provided the applicant and ISD are reasonably certain the income amounts are indicative of future income, the anticipated income shall be used for the month of application and the remaining months of the certification period.

H. Unearned income:

(1) Unearned income shall be anticipated based on income received when the following criteria are met:

(a) the applicant and ISD are reasonably certain the income amounts received are indicative of future income and expected to continue during the certification; and

(b) the anticipated income is based on income received from any consecutive past 30-day period that includes 30 days prior to the date of application through the date of timely disposition of the application.

(2) When the applicant and ISD determine that the income received is not indicative of future income that will be received during the certification period, a longer period of time may be used if it will provide a more accurate indicator of anticipated income.

(3) Provided the applicant and ISD are reasonably certain the income amounts are indicative of future income, the anticipated income shall be used for the month of application and the remaining months of the certification period.

(4) Households receiving state or federal assistance payments, such as Title IV-A, GA, SSI or social security payments on a recurring monthly basis are not considered to have varied monthly income from these sources simply because mailing cycles may cause two payments to be received in one month.

I. Income received more frequently than weekly: The amount of monthly gross income paid more frequently than weekly (i.e., daily) is determined by adding all the income received during the past four weeks. The gross income amount is used to anticipate income in the application month and the remainder of the certification period. Conversion factors shall not be applied to this income.

J. Income received less frequently than monthly: The amount of monthly gross income paid less frequently than monthly is determined by dividing the total income by the number of months it is intended to cover. ISD shall carefully explain to the household how the monthly income was computed and what changes might result in a reportable change. Documentation shall be filed in the case record to establish clearly how the anticipated income was computed.

K. Use of conversion factors: Whenever a full month's income is anticipated but is received on a weekly or biweekly basis, the income shall be converted to monthly amount as follows:

(1) income received on a weekly basis is averaged and multiplied by four;

(2) income received on a biweekly basis is averaged and multiplied by two;

(3) averaged income shall be rounded to the nearest whole dollar prior to application of the conversion factor; amounts resulting in $0.50 or more are rounded up; amounts resulting in $0.49 or lower are rounded down.

L. Known changes in income for future months at application:

(1) At application or recertification, it shall be determined if any factors affecting income will change in future months. Such factors include a new income source, termination of income, or increases or decreases in income.

(2) Income is considered only when the amount of the income and the date it will be received are reasonably certain.

(3) In the event that a change is known for future months, benefits are computed by taking into account the change in income.

M. Averaging income over the certification period:

(1) All households may choose to have their income averaged. Income is usually not averaged for destitute households because averaging would result in assigning to the month of application income from future periods which is not available for its current food needs.

(2) To average income, ISD uses a household's anticipation of income fluctuations over the certification period. The number of months used to arrive at the average income need not be the same as the number of months in the certification period.

(3) Contract income: Households which, by contract, derive their annual income in a period of less than one year shall have that income averaged over a 12-month period, provided that the income is not received on an hourly or piecework basis.

(a) Contract income includes income for school employees, farmers, self-employed households, and individuals who receive annual payments from the sale of real estate.

(b) These procedures do not include migrant or seasonal farm worker households.

(4) Educational monies: Households receiving scholarships, deferred educational loans, or other educational grants shall have such income, after exclusions, averaged over the period for which it is provided. All months which the income is intended to cover shall be used to average income, even if the income is received during the certification period. If the period has elapsed completely, the educational monies shall not be considered income.

N. Using exact income: Exact income, rather than averaged income, shall be used if:

(1) the household has chosen not to average income;

(2) income is from a source terminated in the application month;

(3) employment has just begun in the application month and the income represents only a partial month;

(4) in the month of application, the household qualifies for expedited service or is considered a destitute, migrant or seasonal farm worker household; or

(5) income is received more frequently than weekly, (i.e., daily).

8.139.500.11 DETERMINING DEDUCTIBLE EXPENSES:

Household expenses which can be deducted from income include only certain costs of dependent care, child support, medical and shelter expenses.

A. Expenses not allowed as deductions:

(1) Vendor payments and reimbursements: An expense covered by an excluded reimbursement or vendor payment is not deductible. Vendor payments are those paid directly to a household's creditors by a non-household member, while reimbursements are paid to a household after it has paid creditors.

(2) Reimbursable medical expenses: That portion of an allowable medical expense which is reimbursable will not be included as a household's medical expense when calculating the medical expense deduction.

(3) Service provided by household member: Expenses will be deductible only for a service provided by someone outside a participating household, and for which the household makes a money payment. Only money received from an outside source is considered income to a household; money paid to a provider outside the household is counted as a deductible expense.

(4) Child care expenses: Child care expenses which are reimbursed or paid for by the Jobs Opportunities and Basic Skills Training Program (JOBS) under Title IV-F of the Social Security Act 42 USC 681 or the transitional child care (TCC) program will not be deductible when calculating the dependent care deduction allowed for a household.

(5) Child support expenses: A child support deduction will not be allowed if the household does not report or verify its monthly child support payment or a change in its legal obligation.

B. Billed expenses:

(1) Allowing a deduction: A deduction is allowed only in the month the expense is billed or otherwise becomes due, regardless of when the household intends to pay it.

(2) Arrears: Amounts carried forward from past billing periods (arrears) are not deductible, even if included in the most recent billing and actually paid by the household, unless these expenses are billed less often than monthly and are averaged. A particular expense may be deducted only once. Rent, mortgage payments or property taxes that are in arrears are not allowed, even if they were not previously allowed in any certification period.

(3) Expense not allowed: If a household receives a bill during the certification period but does not report it until it is past due, the expense may not be allowed as a deduction. Similarly, late charges assessed to a household on a past due bill are not allowed as a deductible expense.

(4) Billed medical expenses: If a household claims a deduction for billed medical expenses but does not know or cannot verify the portion of billed expenses that will be reimbursed, the expense is allowed after the reimbursement is received or can otherwise be verified, rather than in the month the bill is received. Only the unreimbursed amount of the bill is deductible. A deduction will be allowed when the household verifies that a billed medical expense will not be paid directly to the provider by a third party or will not be reimbursed to the household by an insurance company or government program.

(5) Child support deduction:

(a) Child support is not an allowable deduction when billed. Verification of payment must be received prior to allowance of the deduction.

(b) The child support deduction will include amounts paid toward arrearages, provided that the household has at least a three month record of payments.

C. Anticipating expenses: A household's expenses will be calculated based on the expenses the household expects to be billed during the certification period.

(1) Anticipation of expenses is based on the most recent month's bills, unless the household is reasonably certain a change will occur.

(2) If actual costs for a household's heating/cooling or other utility expenses are anticipated to be less than the appropriate mandatory utility standard, the appropriate mandatory utility standard shall be allowed.

(3) Income conversion procedures will apply to anticipated expenses billed on a weekly or biweekly basis.

(4) Child support will be anticipated based on actual payments during past months and reasonably certain changes expected in the future.

D. Averaging expenses: A household may choose to have fluctuating expenses averaged.

E. One-time expenses: A household may choose to have a one-time only expense averaged over the entire certification period, or allowed in the month the expense is billed or becomes due.

(1) If a household chooses the one-time expense deduction, the caseworker will document the expense in the case file. Such expenses include annual property taxes and insurance.

(2) A one-time expense may be averaged over the period the billing is intended to cover.

(3) A household may choose to have a one-time only expense reported at certification deducted in a lump sum or averaged over the certification period.

(4) A household reporting a one-time only medical expense during its certification period may choose to have a one-time expense deduction or to have the expense averaged over the remaining months of the certification period.

(a) If a household incurs a one-time only medical expense and makes arrangements with the provider to pay in monthly installments (beyond the current certification period), the expense may be allowed each month as arranged.

(b) A household reporting a one-time only medical expense during the certification period may choose to have a one-time deduction or to have the expense averaged over the remaining months of the certification period. Averaging would begin the month the change becomes effective.

(c) If a household is billed for and reports an expense during the last month of the certification period, the deduction may not be allowed unless it will be paid in installments during the following certification period. The deduction will be allowed during the appropriate number of months in the following certification period.

F. Expenses billed less often than monthly: Households may choose to have expenses which are billed less often than monthly averaged forward over the interval between scheduled billings or, if there is no scheduled interval, averaged forward over the period the expense is intended to cover. Averaging may be used even if the bill is received before the certification period. Averaging is governed by the scheduling of the bill or the period the expense is intended to cover.

G. Fluctuating medical expenses: Fluctuating medical expenses will be allowed as deductions if regularly recurring, reasonably anticipated, and verified. Medical expenses will not be calculated by averaging past months' medical expenses. Past expenses are used only as an indicator of what can reasonably be anticipated.

H. Dependent care: Dependent care expenses paid on a weekly or biweekly basis will be averaged if a household has chosen to average income. Conversion procedures will be used if a household is billed on a weekly or biweekly basis.

[8.139.500.11 NMAC - Rp 8.139.500.11 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.500.12 ESTABLISHING CERTIFICATION PERIODS:

A. The caseworker shall establish a definite period of time within which a household is eligible to receive benefits.

B. Entitlement to SNAP benefits ends at the expiration of the household's certification period. Continued eligibility is determined only when an application has been filed, an interview held, and all verification provided.

C. Under no circumstances shall benefits be continued beyond the end of a certification period without a redetermination of eligibility.

D. A household shall be provided with an expiration notice before or at the beginning of the last month of a certification period.

E. If a household is determined eligible for the initial month but ineligible the following month, it shall be certified for one month only. Conversely, a household may be ineligible for the month of application but eligible for the following month(s). If the household is denied for the month of application, it does not need to file a new application for the following month.

F. Conformity with calendar month: Certification periods shall conform to calendar months. At the initial application, the first month in the certification period is the month of application, even if the household's eligibility is not determined until a later month.

G. Length of certification period: All households will be assigned to simplified reporting and shall be assigned a certification period in accordance with Subsection A of 8.139.120.9 NMAC. Households shall be assigned the longest certification period possible based on the stability of the household's circumstances. A certification period cannot exceed 12 months, except for households in which all adult members in the household are elderly or disabled. Households in which all members are elderly or disabled will be assigned a 24-month certification period. At least one contact with each certified household shall be made every 12 months.

H. Shortening the certification period:

(1) The caseworker may not end a household's certification period earlier than its assigned termination date, unless the caseworker receives information that the household has become ineligible, or the household has not taken action to clarify or provide verification of a change in household circumstances for which the caseworker has requested verification.

(2) Loss of cash assistance or a change in employment status is not sufficient to meet the criteria necessary for shortening a certification period.

I. Lengthening the certification period: The caseworker may lengthen a household's current certification period once it is established, as long as the total months of the certification period do not exceed 24 months for households in which all adult members are elderly or disabled, or 12 months for other households. If the caseworker extends the household's certification period, the caseworker shall issue written notice advising the household of the new certification end date.

8.139.510.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.139.510.8 RESOURCE ELIGIBILITY STANDARDS:

A. The maximum allowable resources for a household, including both liquid and non-liquid assets are revised and adjusted each year in October and can be found at https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information.

B. The value of a nonexempt resource is its equity value. Equity value is the fair market value less encumbrances. The value of stocks and bonds, such as U.S. savings bonds, is their cash value, not their face value.

C. It is a household's responsibility to report all resources held at the time of application and any anticipated to be received, or that are later received during the certification period, that might place the household's resources above the maximum allowed.

D. Categorically eligible households: Households that are categorically eligible do not need to meet the resource limits or provisions of this section.

E. Sponsored non-citizens: For households containing sponsored non-citizens, a prorated amount of the countable resources of a non-citizen's sponsor and sponsor's spouse (if living with the sponsor) are deemed to be those of the sponsored non-citizen, in accordance with sponsored non-citizen provisions in 8.139.420.9 NMAC.

F. Non-household members: The resources of non-household members, defined in 8.139.400.10 NMAC shall not be considered available to the household.

G. Resources of ineligible or disqualified household members: The resources of ineligible or disqualified household members shall be counted as available to the household in their entirety. If a resource exclusion applies to a household member, the exclusion shall also apply to the resources of an ineligible or disqualified person whose resources are counted as available to the household.

[8.139.510.8 NMAC - Rp 8.139.510.8 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.510.9 STANDARDS:

A. Liquid resources: Liquid resources are readily negotiable resources such as, but not limited to:

(1) cash on hand;

(2) money in checking and saving accounts;

(3) savings certificates, stocks and bonds (even if they are producing income consistent with their fair market value), credit union shares, promissory notes, U.S. savings bonds (after they become accessible six months from the date of purchase);

(4) loans, including loans from private individuals as well as from commercial institutions, are considered in the month received.

B. Lump-sum payments: Money received in the form of a nonrecurring lump sum payment is counted as a resource in the month received, unless specifically excluded by other federal laws.

(1) Lump sum payments include, but are not limited to:

(a) income tax refunds, rebates, or credits, including earned income tax credit payments after two months;

(b) retroactive lump sum social security, SSI, cash assistance, railroad retirement benefits or similar payments;

(c) lump sum insurance settlements;

(d) refunds of security deposits on rental property or utilities;

(e) substantial lottery or gambling winnings.

(2) Lump sum payments are delayed payments owed to a household for past periods.

C. Other liquid resources: Liquid resources also include:

(1) funds held in individual retirement accounts (IRAs), and

(2) funds held in Keogh plans that do not involve a household member in a contractual relationship with individuals who are not household members; in determining the availability of IRAs or Keogh plans, the caseworker shall count the total cash value minus the amount of the penalty (if any) for early withdrawal of the entire amount.

D. Non-liquid resources: Non-liquid resources include personal property, boats, buildings, land, recreational property, and any other property, provided that the resource is not specifically excluded. Non-liquid resources shall be documented in sufficient detail to permit verification if the resource becomes questionable.

E. Vehicles: The entire value of any licensed or unlicensed vehicle shall be excluded in determining eligibility and benefit amount in the food stamp program.

[8.139.510.9 NMAC - Rp 8.139.510.9 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.510.10 EXCLUSIONS:

A. In determining the resources of a household, the following shall be excluded:

(1) home and surrounding property (Subsection C of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(2) household and personal goods (Subsection D of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(3) life insurance, deferred compensation and joint pension funds (Subsection D of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(4) all retirement accounts with federal tax-preferred status from the food stamp asset test as well as any tax-preferred retirement accounts that congress creates in the future;

(5) all tax-preferred education accounts, such as 529s;

(6) income-producing property (Subsection E of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(7) work-related equipment (Subsection F of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(8) inaccessible resources (Subsection G of 8.139.510.10 NMAC);

(9) resources excluded by federal law (8.139.527 NMAC);

(10) resources of non-household members (Subsection F of 8.139.510.8 NMAC);

(11) other exempt resources, such as those of an SSI or Title IV-A recipient;

(12) excluded monies kept in a separate account and not commingled with non-excluded funds; when commingled, the excluded monies retain their exclusion for a period of six months from the date they are commingled.

(13) vehicles: the entire value of a vehicle owned by a household member shall be excluded as a countable resource as set forth at Subsection E of 8.139.510.9 NMAC.

B. Exceptions:

(1) Educational loans and grants of students, commingled with non-excluded funds, retain the exemption for the period over which they are intended to be used.

(2) Operating funds of a self-employment enterprise commingled with non-excluded funds retain the exemption for the period over which they have been prorated as income.

C. Home and surrounding property: A household's home, and surrounding property which is not separated from the home by intervening property owned by others, shall be excluded. Public rights of way, such as roads that run through the surrounding property and separate it from the home, do not affect the exemption of the property. The home and surrounding property remain exempt when temporarily unoccupied for reasons of employment, training for future employment, illness, or uninhabitability caused by casualty or natural disaster, if the household intends to return. No specific time limit is imposed in determining that the absence is temporary. A household that currently does not own a home but owns or is purchasing a lot on which it intends to build, or is building a permanent home, receives an exclusion for the value of the lot, and, if partially completed, for the home.

If part of the land surrounding a home is rented, the land retains this exclusion and the income-producing test in Subsection E of 8.139.510.10 NMAC does not apply. Any income received from renting part of the surrounding property shall be counted in determining income eligibility and food stamp benefit amount.

D. Personal effects:

(1) Households goods, livestock, and personal effects, including one burial plot per household member, and the cash value of life insurance policies shall be excluded. Any amount that can be withdrawn from a prepaid burial plan shall be counted as a resource and cannot be excluded under this provision.

(2) The cash value of pension plans or pension funds shall be excluded.

(3) IRAs and Keogh plans involving no contractual relationship with individuals who are not household members are not excluded.

E. Income-producing property:

(1) Exclusions: The following income-producing property shall be excluded:

(a) Property which annually produces income consistent with its fair market value, even if used on a seasonal basis. Such property includes rental and vacation homes. If the property cannot produce income consistent with its fair market value because of circumstances beyond the household's control, the exclusion remains in effect.

(b) Property, such as farm land, which is essential to the employment or self-employment of a household member. Property essential to the self-employment of a household member engaged in farming continues to be excluded for one year from the date that the household member ends self-employment farming.

(c) An installment contract for the sale of land or a building that is producing income consistent with its fair market value. The value of the property sold under an installment contract or held as security in exchange for the purchase price consistent with the fair market value of that property is also excluded. The value of personal property sold on installment contracts such as boats, automobiles, etc. is also treated in this manner as long as the property sold on contract is not part of a self-employment enterprise.

(2) Determining fair market value: The following guidelines shall be used to determine fair market value:

(a) If it is questionable that property is producing income consistent with its fair market value, the caseworker shall contact local realtors, tax assessors, the small business administration, farmer's home administration or other similar sources to determine the prevailing rate of return. If it is determined that property is not producing income consistent with its fair market value, such property is counted as a resource. If property is leased for a return that is comparable to that on other property in the area leased for similar purposes, it is considered income producing consistent with its fair market value and is not counted as a resource.

(b) Property exempt as essential to employment need not be producing income consistent with its fair market value. For example, the land of a farmer is essential to the farmer's employment; therefore, a good or bad crop year does not affect the exemption of such property as a resource.

F. Work-related equipment exclusion: Work-related equipment, such as the tools of a trades-person or the machinery of a farmer, which are essential to the employment or self-employment of a household member are excluded. The tools of a trades-person are excluded, and remain exempt, if the trades-person becomes disabled. Farm machinery retains this exclusion for one year if the farmer ends self-employment.

G. Inaccessible resources: Resources shall be excluded if their cash value is not accessible to the household, such as, but not limited to:

(1) security deposits on rental property or utilities;

(2) property in probate: when a decision is rendered by the court explaining how the property is to be divided, the property is no longer in probate, whether or not the household signs papers;

(3) real property that the household is making a good faith effort to sell at a reasonable price and which has not been sold; and

(4) irrevocable trust funds: any funds in a trust, or transferred to a trust, and the income produced by that trust to the extent it is not available to the household, is considered inaccessible to the household if:

(a) the trust arrangement is not likely to cease during the certification period and no household member has the power to revoke the trust arrangement or change the name of the beneficiary during the certification period;

(b) the trustee administering the funds is:

(i) a court;

(ii) an institution, corporation, or organization not under the direction or ownership of any household member;

(iii) an individual appointed by the court with court-imposed limitations placed on the use of the funds;

(c) the trust investments made on behalf of the trust do not directly involve or assist any business or corporation under the control, direction, or influence of a household member; and

(d) the funds held in an irrevocable trust are either:

(i) established from the household's own funds, if the trustee uses the funds solely to make investments on behalf of the trust, or to pay the educational or medical expenses of any person named by the household creating the trust; or

(ii) established from non-household funds by a non-household-member.

(5) Insignificant return: Any resource, that as a practical matter, the household is unable to sell for any significant return because the household's interest is relatively slight or because the cost of selling the household's interest would be relatively great.

(a) A resource shall be so identified if its sale or other disposition is unlikely to produce any significant amount of funds for the support of the household.

(b) This provision does not apply to financial instruments such as stocks, bonds, and negotiable financial instruments, nor to vehicles.

(c) The caseworker may require verification of the value of a resource to be considered inaccessible if the information provided by the household is questionable.

(d) The following definitions shall be used in determining whether a resource may be excluded under this provision:

(i) "significant return" is any return, after estimated costs of sale or disposition, and taking into account the ownership interest of the household, that is estimated to be one half or more of the applicable resource limit for the household;

(ii) "any significant amount of funds" are funds amounting to one-half or more of the applicable resource limit for the household.

H. Joint property:

(1) Joint resources: Resources owned jointly by separate households shall be considered available in their entirety to each household, unless it can be demonstrated by an applicant household that such resources are inaccessible to it. The household must verify that:

(a) it does not have the use of the resource;

(b) it did not make the purchase or down payment;

(c) it does not make the continuing loan payments, and

(d) the title is transferred to or retained by the other household;

(e) if a household can demonstrate that it has access to only a part of the resource, the value of that part is counted toward the household's resource level; a resource shall be considered totally inaccessible, if it cannot be practically subdivided and the household's access to the value of the resource is dependent on the agreement of a joint owner who refuses to comply; for purposes of this provision, ineligible non-citizens or disqualified individuals residing with a household are considered household members.

(2) Joint bank accounts: If signatories to a joint bank account are separate households, the funds in the account are considered available to each household to the extent that it has contributed to the account. If the participating household has not contributed to the account, the funds are considered available only if there is clear and convincing evidence that the other household intends that the participating household actually own the funds.

I. Residents of shelters for battered women and children: Resources shall be considered inaccessible to individuals residing in shelters for battered women and children if:

(1) resources are jointly owned by shelter residents and members of their former household, and

(2) shelter resident's access to the value of the resource(s) is dependent on the agreement of a joint owner residing in the former household.

J. Other exempt resources:

(1) Earmarked resources: Government payments designated for the restoration of a home damaged in a disaster shall be excluded, if the household is subject to a legal sanction if the funds are not used as intended. However government payments designed to bring homes "up to code" are not exempt and are counted as a resource.

(2) Prorated income: Resources, such as those of students or self-employed individuals which have been prorated as income, shall be excluded.

(3) Indian lands: Indian land held jointly by a participating household and the tribe, or land that can be sold only with the approval of the department of interior's bureau of Indian affairs, shall be excluded.

(4) Business loan collateral: Non liquid assets against which a lien has been placed as a result of taking out a business loan, when the household is prohibited by the security or loan agreement with the lien holder (creditor) from selling the assets, shall be excluded.

(5) Property for vehicle maintenance and use: Property, real or personal, is excluded to the extent that it is directly related to the maintenance or use of a vehicle excluded under Paragraph (1) of Subsection E of 8.139.510.9 NMAC. Only that part of real property determined necessary for actual maintenance or use is excludable under this provision.

(6) Title IV-A/SSI recipients: The resource of any household member who receives:

(a) supplemental security income (SSI) benefits under Title XVI of the Social Security Act; or

(b) aid to the aged, blind, or disabled under Titles I, X, XIV, or XVI of the Social Security Act; or

(c) benefits under part A of Title IV of the Social Security Act shall be considered exempt for food stamp purposes provided resources are also considered exempt under the applicable titles or parts of the Social Security Act.

[8.139.510.10 NMAC - Rp 8.139.510.10 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.510.11 RESOURCE TRANSFERS:

A. Anyone whose resources are considered available, and who knowingly transfers resources, will be disqualified from participating in the program if the transfer meets all of the following criteria:

(1) the transfer was made within the three-month period immediately preceding the date of application or the household knowingly transferred the resource after approval;

(2) the resources transferred will affect eligibility; if the resources will not affect eligibility, such as furniture, the transfer will not disqualify the household;

(3) the resources were transferred for less than fair market value; if the compensation received in cash, property, services, or other reasonable form of payment is at or near fair market value, the transfer does not disqualify the household;

(4) the transfer was not between members of the same household or persons whose resources are considered available (disqualified members); and

(5) the transfer was made for the purpose of qualifying or attempting to qualify for benefits; if the resources were transferred for reasons other than qualifying or attempting to qualify for food stamp benefits, such as a parent placing funds into an educational trust fund, the transfer does not disqualify the household.

B. Disqualification:

(1) If it is determined that an applicant household knowingly transferred resources for the purpose of qualifying or attempting to qualify for food stamp benefits, the household will be disqualified from participating in the food stamp program for up to one year from the date of the discovery of the transfer.

(2) If the household is applying, the period of disqualification begins with and includes the month of application.

(3) If the household is participating at the time the transfer is discovered, an adverse action notice explaining the reason for and the length of the disqualification will be sent. The period of disqualification will begin the month following the month the notice of adverse action time limit expires, unless the household appeals the action and requests continued benefits.

(4) The fact that a household was certified, but did not receive any food stamp benefits, does not preclude the penalty for transferring resources.

C. Time period for disqualification:

(1) The length of the disqualification period is based on the amount by which the nonexempt transferred resource, when added to other countable resources, exceeds the allowable resource limit.

(2) The following chart will be used to determine the period of disqualification:

Amount in Excess the Resource Unit	Period of Disqualification
$0 to $249.99	1 month
$250 to $999.99	3 months

$1,000 to $2,999.99	6 months

8.139.520.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.139.520.8 INCOME:

The national income eligibility standards are based on the federal income poverty levels established in Section 673(2) of the Community Services Block Grant Act (42 U.S.C. 9902(2)). The net income standard is the federal income poverty guideline for the 48 contiguous states and the District of Columbia. The gross income standard is one hundred and thirty percent of that amount. The income standards are adjusted annually each October 1st. Activities described in this section relate to the calculation of a household's income to determine eligibility and food stamp benefit amount.

A. Elderly/disabled households: Households which contain an elderly or disabled member, as defined in 8.139.100 NMAC, definitions, must meet the net income eligibility standards listed in Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC.

B. Other households: Households which do not contain an elderly or disabled member, as defined, must meet the gross income eligibility standards for the food stamp program (FSP) (Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC). If a household is determined eligible based on gross income standards, deductions shall be allowed in calculating net monthly income to arrive at a final eligibility determination based on net income standards.

C. Categorically eligible: Households that are entitled to broad/based categorically eligibility must meet gross and net income eligibility. Households that are categorically eligible, due to receipt of financial assistance do not need to meet the gross or net income eligibility standard. The food stamp benefit amount for all CE households shall be based on net income limits. All categorically eligible one/ and two/person households are entitled to the minimum food stamp benefit amount, except in an initial month if the prorated benefit is less than ten dollars.

D. Income of ineligible or disqualified household members:

(1) The earned or unearned income of an individual disqualified for intentional program violation (IPV) or for noncompliance with the employment and training (E&T) work requirements shall be attributed in its entirety to the remaining members.

(2) The earned or unearned income of an individual disqualified for failing to provide or apply for a social security number or because the individual is an ineligible alien shall continue to be counted as income, minus a pro rata share for the disqualified or ineligible member(s).

E. Income of non/household members: The earned or unearned income of an individual listed below shall not be considered available to the household with which the individual lives:

(1) roomers;

(2) boarders;

(3) foster children, if the household chooses not to include them;

(4) live/in attendants; and

(5) ineligible students.

[8.139.520.8 NMAC - Rp, 8.139.520.8 NMAC, 11/21/2023]

8.139.520.9 INCOME STANDARDS:

A. Earned income: Earned income includes the following:

(1) Wages and salaries: All wages and salaries paid to an employee.

(2) Sick pay: Sick pay is counted as earned income if the person receiving sick pay will be returning to work after recovery and is still considered an employee by the employer.

(3) Military personnel: A household consisting of one or more military personnel receiving a basic allowance for quarters or basic allowance for subsistence instead of free housing or food shall have such funds counted as earned income.

(4) Self/employment: The gross income from a self/employment enterprise, including the total gain from the sale of any capital goods or equipment related to the business, minus the costs of doing business, is considered earned income. This is the gross income of the self/employed individual.

(5) Rental property: Income from rental property is considered earned only if a household member is actively engaged in the management of the property an average of at least 20 hours per week. The owner is allowed the cost of doing business.

(6) Roomer or boarder: Payments from a roomer or boarder are considered self/employment income. The 20 hours per week provision applied to rental property does not apply to roomer or boarder situations.

(7) Training allowances: A training allowance from a vocational and rehabilitative program recognized by federal, state or local governments, such as DVR, is considered earned income, to the extent the training allowance is not a reimbursement.

Lump sum insurance settlements and refunds of security deposits on rental property or utilities are counted as resources in the month received, unless specifically excluded from consideration as a resource by federal law.

The amount by which a reimbursement exceeds the actual incurred expense shall be counted as income.

(3) Failure to comply with another assistance program's requirements or fraud: A household's food stamp benefit amount shall not increase when benefits received from another program have been decreased (reduced, suspended or terminated) because of a determination by the other program of intentional failure to comply with a requirement of the other program or an act of fraud. This provision applies in cases where the other program is a means/tested, federal, state or local welfare or public assistance program, which is governed by welfare or public assistance laws or regulations and which distributes public funds.

(a) Conditions:

8.139.520.10 COUNTING INCOME:

A. Income averaging:

(1) Optional income averaging: Income received by a household may be averaged at the household's option (See 8.139.500.10 NMAC) except as specified below.

(2) Mandatory income averaging: Averaging is mandatory for income received under the following circumstances:

(a) contract or self/employment income;

(b) educational monies.

B. Rounding off: Calculations shall be rounded to the nearest dollar. Figures between one cent and forty/nine cents are rounded down; figures between 50 cents and 99 cents are rounded up. When adding gross amounts received weekly, biweekly or semi/monthly to arrive at the monthly income, cents are retained until the total monthly amount is determined; the total monthly amount is rounded as the final step. Cents resulting from the computation of the twenty percent earned income deduction are rounded before being subtracted from earned income. Cents are retained in the computation of shelter and medical expenses until the final step.

C. Ineligible or disqualified household members: An ineligible or disqualified household member shall not be included when:

(1) determining the maximum food stamp benefit amount for the household's size;

(2) comparing the household's monthly income with the income eligibility standards; or

(3) comparing the household's resources with the resource eligibility limits.

(4) Intentional program violation (IPV) or work disqualified:

(a) The income and resources of individuals disqualified for IPV or noncompliance with E&T work requirements shall be counted in their entirety.

(b) A household's allowable deductions for earned income, medical expenses, dependent care expenses, excess shelter expenses, and the standard deduction continue to apply to the remaining household members.

(c) HSD shall make sure that a household's food stamp benefit amount is not increased as a result of the disqualification of one or more members.

(5) Ineligible alien or SSN disqualified:

(a) Resources: Resources of ineligible aliens, or individuals disqualified for failure or refusal to apply for or provide a social security number, shall be counted in their entirety.

(b) Income and deductions of ineligible aliens:

(i) Income belonging to the ineligible alien shall be counted on a pro rata basis to remaining eligible household members. The prorated share is calculated by first subtracting any allowable exclusions from the ineligible alien's income, then dividing the income evenly by all household members, including the excluded member(s). The result is multiplied by the number of eligible household members to determine countable income.

(ii) The twenty percent earned income deduction is applied to the countable income attributed to the remaining eligible household members.

(iii) The allowable expense(s) either billed to or paid by the ineligible alien shall be allowed in its entirety as a household expense.

(c) Income and deductions for ABAWD or SSN disqualified individuals:

(i) Income belonging to an individual disqualified because of ABAWD status or failure or refusal to provide a social security number shall be counted on a pro rata basis to remaining eligible household members. The prorated share is calculated by first subtracting any allowable exclusions from the disqualified member's income, then dividing the income evenly by all household members, including the excluded member(s). The result is multiplied by the number of eligible household members to determine countable income.

(ii) The twenty percent earned income deduction is applied to the countable income attributed to the remaining household members.

(iii) The portion an allowable expense either paid by or billed to a disqualified individual(s) is divided evenly among all household members, including the disqualified individual(s). All but the disqualified individual's share is counted as a deductible expense for the remaining household members.

(6) Reduction/termination during certification period: When an individual is excluded or disqualified during the certification period, the caseworker shall determine the eligibility of the remaining household members based on information already in the case record.

(7) Excluded for IPV disqualification: If a household's benefits are reduced or terminated during the certification period because one of its members was disqualified for an IPV, the caseworker shall notify the remaining household members of changes in eligibility and food stamp benefit amount at the same time the excluded member is notified of the disqualification. The household is not entitled to an adverse action notice but may request a fair hearing to contest the reduction or termination of benefits, unless it has already had a fair hearing on the amount of the claim as a result of consolidation of the administrative disqualification hearing with the fair hearing.

(8) Excluded for other causes: If a household's benefits are reduced or terminated during the certification period because one or more of its members is an ineligible alien, is disqualified for failure to comply with E&T work requirements, disqualified for failing or refusing to apply for or provide a social security number, the caseworker shall issue an adverse action notice informing the household of the individual's ineligibility, the reason for the ineligibility, the eligibility and benefit amount of the remaining member(s), and the actions the household must take to end the disqualification.

D. Non-household members:

(1) Income and resources: The income and resources of non-household members, such as certain students, roomers, and boarders, are not considered available. Cash payments from a non-household member to the household shall be counted as income (Subsection E of 8.139.520.8 NMAC). Vendor payments (Subsection D of 8.139.520.9 NMAC) shall be excluded as income.

(2) Deductible expenses: If a household shares deductible expenses with a non-household member, only the amount actually paid or contributed by the household is deductible as an expense. If the payments or contributions cannot be differentiated, the expenses shall be divided evenly among individuals actually paying or contributing to the expense; only the household's pro rata share is deducted.

(3) Combined income of household/non-household members: When the earned income of one or more household members and the earned income of a non-household member are combined as one wage, the income for the household shall be determined as follows.

(a) If the household's share can be identified, it is counted as earned income.

(b) If the household's share cannot be identified, the caseworker shall divide the earned income among all those whom it was intended to cover and count a prorated share to the household.

E. Self/employed household: The following guidelines shall be used to determine eligibility and food stamp benefit amount for self/employed households, including those households that own or operate commercial boarding houses.

(1) Averaging self/employment income:

(a) Annualizing:

(i) Households which by contract or self/employment derive their annual income in a period of time shorter than one year shall have income averaged over a 12 month period, provided that the income from the contract is not received on an hourly or piecework basis.

(ii) Annualizing shall not apply to seasonal or migrant farm workers.

(iii) Self/employment income representing a household's annual income shall be averaged over a 12 month period, even if the income is received within only a short period of time.

(iv) The self/employment income shall be annualized even if the household receives income from other sources in addition to self/employment.

(v) Self/employed households include, but are not limited to, school employees, sharecroppers, and farmers. Tenured teachers who may not actually have a signed contract shall have their income considered on this basis.

(vi) For self/employed households that receive their annual income in a short period of time, an initial certification period is assigned to bring the household into the annual cycle.

(vii) Households which receive their annual income from self/employment and have no other source of income may be certified for up to 12 months.

(b) Anticipated income:

(i) If the average annualized amount or self/employment income received on a monthly basis does not accurately reflect a household's actual circumstances because it has experienced a substantial increase or decrease in business, self/employment income shall be calculated on anticipated earnings.

(ii) Income shall not be calculated based on previous income (e.g., income tax returns) if a self/employed household has experienced a substantial increase or decrease in business.

(c) Projected income: If a household's self/employment enterprise has been in existence for less than one year, the income from self/employment shall be averaged over the period of time the business has been in operation. The resulting monthly amount shall be projected for the coming year. If the business has been in operation for such a short time that there is insufficient information to make a reasonable projection, the household shall be certified for short periods of time until the business has been in operation long enough to make a longer projection.

(d) Seasonal income: Self/employment income which is intended to meet the household's needs for only part of the year shall be averaged over the period of time the income is intended to cover.

(2) Determining monthly self/employment income:

(a) For the period of time over which self/employment income is averaged, the caseworker shall add all self/employment income, including capital gains, exclude the cost of producing the self/employment income, and divide the self/employment income by the number of months over which the income shall be averaged.

(b) A capital gain is defined as proceeds from the sale of capital goods or equipment. Capital gains are counted in full as income to determine self/employment income.

(c) For households with self/employment income calculated on an anticipated basis, the caseworker shall add any capital gains the household anticipates receiving in the next 12 months, beginning with the date the application is filed. The resulting amount is counted in successive certification periods during the 12 months, except that a new average monthly amount is calculated if the anticipated amount of capital gains changes.

(3) Determining net self/employment income:

(a) A household's total self/employment income, minus the allowable costs of producing the income, shall be counted as gross income to the household. The gross self/employment income shall be added to any other earned income.

(b) The total monthly gross earned income, after allowing the twenty percent earned income deduction, is added to all monthly unearned income to determine income eligibility.

(c) For households anticipating income, the cost of producing income is calculated by anticipating allowable costs of producing the self/employment income.

(d) Expenses exceeding self/employment income shall not be deducted from other income.

(e) If a self/employment enterprise is a farming or ranching operation, expenses exceeding self/employment income may be offset against any other countable household income, provided that the farming or ranching operation grosses or is anticipated to gross at least $1,000 annually.

(4) Allowable costs: Allowable costs of producing self/employment income include, but are not limited to:

(a) identifiable costs of labor, stock, raw material, seed and fertilizer.

(b) payments on the principal of the purchase price of income/producing real estate and capital assets, equipment, machinery, and other durable goods;

(c) interest paid to purchase income/producing property;

(d) insurance premiums, and taxes paid on income/producing property;

(e) transportation costs necessary to produce self employment income, such as farmers carrying grain to elevators, or trips to obtain needed supplies, are allowable costs of doing business; costs are allowed at twenty-five cents per mile;

(f) payment of gross receipts taxes.

(5) Costs not allowed: In determining net self/employment income, the following shall not be allowed as a cost of doing business:

(a) net losses from previous periods;

(b) federal, state, and local personal income taxes, money set aside for retirement purposes, and other work/related personal expenses (such as transportation to and from work), since these expenses are accounted for by the twenty percent earned income deduction (Paragraph (3) of Subsection E of 8.139.520.10 NMAC);

(c) charitable contributions and entertainment; and

(d) depreciation.

F. Boarders:

(1) Individuals paying a reasonable amount for room and board shall be excluded from a household when determining the household's eligibility and food stamp benefit amount.

(2) Payments from a boarder shall be counted as self/employment income.

(3) Household income eligibility is determined as follows.

(a) Income from a boarder includes all direct payments to the household for room and meals, including contributions for shelter expenses.

(b) Shelter expenses paid by a boarder directly to someone outside the household shall not be counted as income. Such payments are considered vendor payments and are not used to determine reasonable compensation (Paragraph (4) of Subsection C of 8.139.400.11 NMAC), or as a shelter expense for the household.

(4) After determining the income received from a boarder, the caseworker shall exclude the portion of the boarder payment which is a cost of doing business. The cost of doing business is equal to either of the following, provided that the amount allowed as a cost of doing business does not exceed the payment the household receives from the boarder for lodging and meals:

(a) the amount of the maximum food stamp allotment for a household size that is equal to the number of boarders (Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC); or

(b) the actual documented cost of providing room and meals if the actual cost exceeds the appropriate maximum food stamp allotment; if actual costs are used, only separate and identifiable costs of providing room and meals to boarders are excluded.

8.139.520.11 GENERAL DEDUCTIONS:

A. Use of deductions: A household must qualify for deductions by first meeting a gross income test. A household is not eligible if gross income is more than the standard listed in Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC for a household size. If income falls below the gross income limit, a household shall be allowed deductions, where applicable, to make a final eligibility and benefit amount determination. Households that include elderly or disabled members, as defined, automatically qualify for deductions; eligibility is determined based on net rather than gross income.

B. Standard deduction: All households are allowed a standard deduction from income. The standard deduction is listed in Paragraph (3) of Subsection F of 8.139.500.8 NMAC, tables, and is adjusted effective every October 1st.

C. Earned income deduction: Twenty percent of gross earned income shall be deducted. Excluded income is not used for purposes of computing the earned income deduction.

(1) Computing an over issuance: The earned income deduction (EID) shall not be allowed when calculating the income to be used in determining an over issuance which is due to the failure of a household to report earned income in a timely manner.

(2) Work supplementation programs: The EID shall not be allowed for any amount of income which is earned under a work supplementation or support program and is attributable to public assistance.

D. Medical deductions: Allowable medical deductions include:

(1) Elderly/disabled: Medical expenses in excess of $35.00 per month, excluding special diets, incurred by any household member who is elderly or disabled.

(2) Emergency SSI: Individuals receiving emergency SSI benefits based on presumptive eligibility shall be eligible for the medical deduction.

(3) Death: A medical expense incurred by a household member who dies shall be allowed as a deduction if the member was eligible for the deduction at the time of death and if the remaining household members are legally responsible for payment.

(4) Hospital/outpatient/nursing home: Medical expenses, such as hospitalization or outpatient treatment, nursing care and nursing home care, including payments by a household for an individual who was an eligible household member immediately before entering a hospital or nursing home facility recognized by the state, are allowable deductions.

(5) Not eligible: Spouses, children or other individuals in the household who are not elderly or disabled, shall not be entitled to claim the medical deduction.

(6) Allowing medical expenses:

(a) One/time only expense:

(i) A household may choose to have a one/time only expense, reported at certification, deducted in a lump sum or averaged over the certification period.

(ii) If a household incurs a one/time medical expense and has made arrangements with the provider to make monthly installments (beyond the current certification period), the expense may be allowed each month as arranged.

(iii) A household reporting a one/time only medical expense during its certification period may choose to have a one/time deduction or to have the expense averaged over the remaining months of the certification period.

(b) Households certified for 24 months: A household certified for 24 months cannot have a one/time medical expense averaged over the 24/month certification period.

(i) A one/time medical expense may be deducted in the first month of the 24/month certification period; or the one/time medical expense may be deducted and averaged over the first 12 months of the 24/month certification period.

(ii) One/time medical expenses reported after the first 12 months of the certification period shall be averaged over the remaining months.

(c) Expense in last month of certification: If a household is billed for and reports an expense during the last month of its certification period, the deduction shall not be allowed. If the expense will be paid in installments during the following certification period, the deduction shall be allowed during the appropriate number of months in the subsequent certification period.

(d) Fluctuating expenses: Fluctuating medical expenses shall be allowed as deductions if regularly recurring, reasonably anticipated, and verified. Once determined, the household is not required to report changes of $25 or less or reverify expenses each month.

(e) Anticipated changes in expenses: At certification and recertification the household must report and verify all medical expenses. The household's monthly medical deduction for the certification period shall be based on:

(i) anticipated changes in the household's medical expenses that can reasonably be expected to occur during the certification period based on available information about the recipient’s medical condition, public or private insurance coverage, and current verified medical expenses; and

(ii) expenses that occurred during the certification period that will continue in the new certification period; and

(iii) consideration of unpaid and past due medical expenses that will continue in the certification period.

(f) If a household reports an allowable medical expense at the time of certification but cannot provide verification at that time, and if the amount of the expense cannot be reasonably anticipated based upon available information about the recipients' medical condition and public or private medical insurance coverage, the household shall have the non-reimbursable portion of the medical expense considered at the time the amount of the expense or reimbursement is reported and verified.

(g) A household shall not be required to file reports about its medical expenses during the certification period. If a household voluntarily reports a change in its medical expenses, the caseworker shall act on the change in accordance with regulations in Subparagraph (c) of Paragraph (1) of Subsection B of 8.139.120.10 NMAC.

(7) Past due and unpaid medical expenses: The medical expense deduction shall not be determined by averaging past due or unpaid monthly medical expenses. Such expenses shall be used only as an indicator of what can reasonably be anticipated. Medical expenses which the household might reasonably anticipate receiving include but are not limited to costs of medical services and treatment received regularly, but less often than monthly, and prescription drugs.

(8) Medical and dental care: Medical and dental care, psychotherapy, and rehabilitation services, provided by licensed practitioners authorized by state law, or other qualified health professional, shall be allowed as medical expense deductions. State licenses in New Mexico are authorized by occupational licensing boards. A state/licensed practitioner has such a license. Native American practitioners (medicine men) are not licensed, but are recognized as health practitioners for this purpose.

(9) Prescription drugs and medical supplies: Prescription drugs, when prescribed by a licensed practitioner authorized under state law, and over/the/counter medications (including insulin) when approved by a licensed practitioner or other qualified health professional, shall be allowed as deductions. In addition, costs for medical supplies, sick/room equipment (including rental), or other prescribed equipment are deductible.

(10) Health and hospitalization/medicare premiums: Health and hospitalization insurance premiums, and medicare premiums, as well as any cost sharing or spend/down expenses incurred by medicaid recipients, are allowable deductions. If a medical insurance policy includes benefits for household members not eligible for a deduction, only that portion of the premium assigned to the eligible member(s) may be considered a deduction. In the absence of specific information about how much of the premium is for the eligible member(s), a pro rata amount may be used. This system may be used even if the policy holder does not qualify for the deduction but the policy includes a person(s) who does qualify. The cost of life or health and accident policies, such as those payable in lump sum settlements for death or dismemberment, or income maintenance policies that continue mortgage or loan payments while the beneficiary is disabled, are not deductible.

(11) Transportation and lodging costs: Reasonable costs of transportation and lodging to obtain medical treatment or services are deductible. The allowance for mileage in privately owned vehicles is the same as the amount allowed state employees. Lodging costs may not exceed the daily expense amount allowed (per diem) for state employees.

(12) Maintaining an attendant: Costs of maintaining an attendant, homemaker or home health aide, child care services, or housekeeper that are necessary because of age, infirmity, or illness are deductible medical expenses. In addition, an amount equal to the food stamp benefit amount for one person is deductible if the household furnishes the majority of the attendant's meals. The food stamp benefit amount for the meal/related deduction is the one in effect at the time of initial certification. The caseworker shall update the food stamp benefit amount for meals at the next scheduled recertification. If a household incurs attendant care expenses that could qualify under both the medical deduction and the dependent care deduction, the caseworker shall treat the expense as a medical expense.

(13) Other expenses: Other deductible expenses include but are not limited to:

(a) dentures, hearing aids, prosthetics;

(b) securing and maintaining a seeing/eye or hearing dog, or other service animal, including the cost of dog food and veterinary bills; and

(c) eyeglasses or contact lenses prescribed by an ophthalmologist or an optometrist.

(14) Prescription drug card expense:

(a) An individual participating in the food stamp program who has enrolled for the medicare/approved drug discount card shall have $23.00 credited to the monthly medical expense allowed for that individual.

(b) An individual participating in the food stamp program who receives a $600.00 transitional assistance credit on the medicare/approved drug discount card for the calendar years 2004 and 2005 shall have $50.00 credited to the monthly medical expense allowed for that individual for each month after September 2004, through December 2005, and not beyond that month.

E. Dependent care expenses:

(1) Deductible amounts: Payments may be deducted for the actual cost of the care of children or other dependents when necessary for a household member to accept or continue employment, comply with E&T work requirements, or an equivalent effort by those not required to comply with E&T work requirements, or attend training or pursue education which is preparatory to employment or leads to a degree. Allowable costs include:

(a) the costs of care given by an individual care provider or care;

(b) transportation costs to and from the care facility; and

(c) activity or other fees associated with the care provided to the dependent that are necessary for the household to participate in the care.

(2) Household member provides care: If a household member provides dependent care, the payment is neither income to the payee nor a deduction for the payor (see Subsection A of 8.139.500.11 NMAC).

F. Household expenses:

(1) Shelter expenses:

(a) Definition: Continuing charges for the shelter occupied by a household include rent, mortgage payment, or other continuing charges leading to the ownership of the shelter, such as loan repayments for the purchase of a mobile home and interest on such payments. If payments are made on more than one mortgage on the home, each payment is counted for the period the payment is intended to cover. Security deposits on rental property and downpayments for the purchase of a home are not allowed as shelter expense deductions. Closing costs shall not be allowed as a shelter expense, unless the closing costs can be itemized to identify costs that are allowable deductions, such as insurance and property taxes.

(b) Excess shelter expense deduction: Monthly shelter expenses in excess of fifty percent of a household's income, after all other deductions have been allowed may be deducted, subject to the following restrictions:

(i) The shelter deduction may not exceed the maximum amount indicated in Paragraph (3) Subsection F of 8.139.500.8 NMAC, unless the household contains a member who is elderly or disabled, as defined.

(ii) Households may not claim shelter expenses if the expense shall be paid as a vendor payment by an individual or organization outside the household.

(iii) The household must be responsible for payment of the shelter expense; however, the household need not have paid the expense to claim the deduction. A current billing statement is used to establish the expense. The expense may not be allowed more than once.

(2) Taxes and insurance: Property taxes, state and local assessments, and insurance on the structure itself, but not separate costs for insuring furniture or personal belongings, are deductible expenses.

(3) Natural disasters: Expenses for the repair of a home that has been substantially damaged or destroyed by a natural disaster such as fire or flood may be deducted. Expenses shall not be allowed if the household has been or will be reimbursed by public or private relief agencies, insurance companies, or any other source. Expense deductions are limited to the repair of the home and not its furnishings.

(4) Costs of temporarily unoccupied home:

(a) If the home is temporarily unoccupied by a household because of employment or training away from home, illness, or abandonment caused by a natural disaster or casualty loss, the shelter costs for the home may be deducted. However, a household may claim only one SUA.

(b) For costs of a home vacated by the household to be included in its shelter costs:

(i) the household must intend to return to the home;

(ii) the current occupants of the home, if any, cannot be claiming shelter expenses for food stamp purposes;

(iii) the home cannot be leased or rented during the household's absence.

(c) Verification is required of households claiming this deduction if the cost is questionable or would result in a deduction.

(5) Maximum deduction limit adjustment: The maximum deduction limit for excess shelter expenses will be revised as required by the Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996, as follows: effective January 1, 1997 through September 30, 1998, the deduction will be $250; from October 1, 1998 through September 30, 2000 the deduction will be $275; and effective from October 1, 2000 the deduction will be $300; and will remain so indefinitely.

(6) Homeless shelter standard: A household in which all household members are defined as homeless, within the definition at Paragraph (40) of Subsection A of 8.139.100.7 NMAC, shall be allowed the homeless shelter standard if the household incurs any shelter expenses at any time during the month.

(a) The homeless household may claim actual shelter expenses if the expenses exceed the homeless shelter standard and the expenses are verified. Verification standards at Subsection A of 8.100.130.15 NMAC and 8.100.130.9 NMAC shall be used to verify shelter expenses, as well as other reasonable documentation determined to establish the homeless household’s actual expenses.

(b) The caseworker shall assist the homeless household in determining whether claiming the homeless shelter standard or actual expenses would be most beneficial to the household.

(c) The homeless shelter standard shall be deducted from the household's countable net income.

(7) Utility expenses:

(a) Allowable expenses for the mandatory utility standards: Allowable expenses that may be used to determine the mandatory utility standards include the cost of home heating or cooling; cooking fuel; electricity; water and sewerage; garbage and trash collection fees; the service fee for one telephone, including but not limited to, basic service fees, wire maintenance fees, subscriber line charges, relay center surcharges, 911 fees, taxes; and fees charged by the utility provider for initial installation of the utility.

(i) A one/time deposit is not allowed as a utility expense.

(ii) Expenses billed to a landlord or housing unit, but separately identifiable from the rent as an expense to the household, are allowable expenses.

(iii) A household shall not be allowed actual utility expenses, even if the expenses exceed the amount of the mandatory utility standard for which the household is eligible.

(iv) A household that is determined eligible for a mandatory utility standard deduction shall receive only one standard deduction during the household's food stamp certification period.

(b) Mandatory heating or cooling standard: A food stamp household shall be allowed the heating/cooling standard utility allowance (HCSUA) during the household's certification period. The HCSUA includes all utility expenses for heating or cooling the household's home. The household's heating or cooling expense must be billed separately from other shelter expenses. The HCSUA shall be allowed if the household:

(i) incurs a heating or cooling expense separate from other shelter expenses; or

(ii) receives or received a direct payment or a payment is made on behalf of the household under the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Act of 1981; or

(iii) receives or received a payment or a payment is made on behalf of the household under any other similar energy assistance program as long as the household still incurs out/of/pocket heating or cooling expenses in excess of the energy assistance provided; or

(iv) lives in a public housing unit that has central utility meters, incurs a heating or cooling expense, and the household is charged only for excess heating or cooling usage.

(c) Mandatory limited utility standard: A food stamp household shall be allowed a limited utility allowance (LUA) if the household does not incur a heating or cooling expense but does incur two or more of the following expenses:

(i) electricity or fuel, for purposes other than heating or cooling;

(ii) water;

(iii) sewerage;

(iv) well and septic tank installation or maintenance;

(v) garbage or trash collection; and

(vi) one telephone.

(d) Mandatory telephone standard: A food stamp household shall be allowed the telephone standard if the household incurs an expense only for the telephone used by the household. The telephone standard shall be allowed for only one telephone charge for the residence.

G. Child support deduction: A deduction shall be allowed for child support payments paid by a household member to or for a non/household member, provided that the household member has a legal obligation to pay child support and such payments are being made.

(1) Legal obligation and verification: The household's legal obligation to pay child support, the amount of the obligation, and the monthly amount of child support the household actually pays shall be verified. Any document that verifies the household's legal obligation to pay child support, such as a court or administrative order, or legally enforceable separation agreement shall be acceptable verification. Documents that are accepted as verification of the household's legal obligation to pay child support shall not be accepted as verification of the household's actual monthly child support payments. Actual payment of child support shall be verified by documentation including, but not limited to, cancelled checks, wage withholding statements, verification of withholding from unemployment compensation, and statements from the custodial parent regarding direct payments or third party payments the non/custodial parent pays or expects to pay on behalf of the custodial parent. The department shall be responsible for obtaining verification of the household's child support payments if the payments are made to the child support enforcement division.

(2) Determining the deduction amount:

(a) Household with at least three months of payment history: Average the last three month period, taking into account any anticipated changes in the legal obligation. This average is the child support deduction amount. In the event that the client has at least a three month payment history and the payment includes arrearages, the amount paid toward arrearages shall be used in the average.

(b) Household with less than three months of payment history: The department shall estimate the anticipated payments according to the obligation and discussion with the client. This anticipation shall not include payments toward arrearages.

H. Non-deductable expenses:

(1) Excluded reimbursement/vendor payments:

(a) That portion of any allowable expense that is reimbursed to the household or that is paid through a vendor payment to a third party is not allowable as a deduction.

(b) Actual utility expense deductions or the SUA, as appropriate, shall be allowed for households receiving payments from LIHEAP, or receiving energy assistance payments under a program other than LIHEAP, as long as the household continues to incur out/of/pocket expenses for home heating or cooling.

(c) A reimbursement paid by HUD or FHA to a household, or indirectly to a utility provider, is not allowed as a deductible expense.

(d) A household receiving HUD or FHA utility reimbursements shall be entitled to the SUA if it incurs heating or cooling costs exceeding the amount of excluded utility reimbursements.

(2) Household member provides service:

(a) When one household member pays another household member to provide a product or service, the money that is exchanged is neither an expense for one nor income for the other household member. Expenses are deductible only when a product or service is provided by someone outside the household and the household makes a money payment for the product or service.

(b) Similarly, income is not counted for one household member who is paid by another household member to obtain wood for home heating. The actual cost of the wood is allowed as a utility expense if an outside money payment is made. Money exchanged between household members is not considered income to the individual receiving the money and is not an expense to the member paying it.

(3) Past due shelter expenses: Payment on delinquent rent, mortgage, property taxes or utilities are not allowed as deductible expenses even if not previously billed.

8.139.520.12 CALCULATING INCOME:

To determine a household's income eligibility, the following guidelines will be followed:

A. The gross monthly income of all members, minus any income exclusions, is a household's gross income. Households which do not include elderly or disabled members must meet the gross income standard before other calculations are made.

B. Twenty percent of gross earned income is subtracted to determine net monthly earned income. or multiply the gross earned income by eight percent.

C. Total monthly earned income of all household members, minus income exclusions, if any, is added to net monthly unearned income.

D. The standard deduction is subtracted.

E. If a household member(s) is entitled to an excess medical deduction, the amount of medical expenses that exceeds $35 is deducted.

F. Allowable monthly dependent care expenses, if any, are subtracted, up to the maximum amount allowed per dependent.

G. Subtract allowable monthly child support payment.

H. Add allowable shelter expenses to determine total shelter costs.

I. Subtract from total shelter costs fifty percent of the household's monthly income after all of the above deductions have been subtracted. The remaining amount, if any, is the excess shelter cost.

(1) The excess shelter cost, up to the maximum amount allowed, is subtracted from monthly income determined after G above.

(2) Households with elderly or disabled members have the full shelter cost amount exceeding Fifty Percent of net income subtracted.

(3) The household's net monthly income has been determined.

J. The household's net monthly income is compared to the net income standard Subsection E of 8.139.500.8 NMAC to determine eligibility.

In addition, current policy citations were rewritten for clarification purposes or were simply reformatted.

Issuance of the revised policy manual incorporated a new format which is the same in all income support division policy manuals. A new numbering system was designated so that similar topics in different programs carry the same number. The revised format and numbering standards were designed to create continuity among ISD programs and to facilitate access to policy throughout the human services department.

8.139.527.9 GENERAL:

A. The value of assistance to children under P.L. 79/396, Section 12(e) of the National School Lunch Act, as amended by Section 9(d) of P.L. 94/105. This law authorizes the school lunch program, the summer food service program for children, the commodity distribution program, and the child and adult care food program. The exclusion applies to assistance provided to children rather than that paid to providers.

B. The value of assistance to children under P.L. 89/642, Section 11(b) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966 is not considered income or resources for any purpose. This law authorizes the special milk program, the school breakfast program, and the special supplemental food program for women, infants, and children (WIC).

C. Under WIC demonstration projects, coupons that may be exchanged for food at farmers' markets by P.L. 100/435, Section 501, 9/19/88, which amended Section 17(m)(7) of the Child Nutrition Act of 1966.

D. Reimbursements received under the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policy Act of 1970, P.L. 91/646, Section 216.

E. Any payment under Titles I and II of the Domestic Volunteer Services Act of 1973, P.L. 93/113.

(1) Payments under Title I of the Act, including payments from VISTA, university year for action and the urban crime prevention program, made to volunteers will be excluded for an individual receiving FS benefits or public assistance at the time the individual joined the Title I program, except that households which were receiving an income exclusion for a VISTA or other Title I subsistence allowance at the time of conversion to the Food Stamp Act of 1977 continue to receive an income exclusion for VISTA for the length of their volunteer contract in effect at the time of conversion.

(2) Temporary interruptions in food stamp participation do not alter the exclusion after an initial determination has been made.

(3) New applicants who were not receiving food stamps at the time they joined VISTA will have their volunteer payments counted as earned income.

(4) Payments to volunteers under Title II, including RSVP, foster grandparents program and senior companion program, are excluded as income.

F. Payments precipitated by an emergency or major disaster as defined in the Disaster Relief Act of 1974, P.L. 93/288, Section 312(d), as amended by the Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Amendments of 1988, P.L. 100/707, Section 105(i). This exclusion applies to federal assistance, including Federal Emergency Management Assistance (FEMA) funds, provided to directly affected individuals and to comparable disaster assistance provided by states, local governments, and disaster assistance organizations. Most, but not all FEMA funds are excluded. For example, some payments made to homeless people to pay for rent, mortgage, food, and utility assistance when there is no major disaster or emergency are not excluded under this provision. A major disaster is any natural catastrophe such as a hurricane, drought, or, regardless of cause, any fire, flood, or explosion, which the president determines causes damage of enough severity and magnitude to warrant major disaster assistance to supplement the efforts and available resources of states, local governments, and disaster relief organizations in alleviating the damage, loss, hardship, or suffering caused thereby. An emergency is any occasion or instance for which the president determines that federal assistance is needed to supplant state and local efforts and capabilities to save lives and to protect property and public health and safety, or to lessen or avert the threat of a catastrophe.

G. The amount of any home energy assistance payments or allowances provided directly to, or on behalf of, a household under the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Act, P.L. 99/425, Section (e), 9/30/86. In determining any excess shelter expense deduction, the full amount of such payments or allowances is deemed to be expended by such household for heating or cooling expenses.

H. Amounts made available for tuition and fees, and, for students attending an institution at least half time, for books, supplies, transportation and miscellaneous personal expenses (other than room, board, and dependent care) provided under Title IV of the Higher Education Act Amendments of 1986, P.L. 99/498, Section 479B, as amended by P.L. 100/50, June 3, 1987, and by the bureau of Indian affairs.

(1) The Higher Education Amendments of 1992, P.L. 102/325, 7/23/92, contain two separate provisions affecting the treatment of payments made under the Higher Education Act. In regard to Title IV, Student Assistance, Part F, Section 479B provides that: Notwithstanding any other provision of law, student financial assistance received under Title IV or under bureau of Indian affairs student assistance programs, will not be counted in determining the need or eligibility of any person for benefits or assistance, or the amount of such benefits or assistance, under any federal, state, or local program financed in whole or in part with federal funds. Educational assistance authorized under Title IV will be excluded with respect to determinations beginning on or after July 1, 1993.

(2) Excluded educational assistance authorized under Title IV includes the following:

(a) basic educational opportunity grants (BEOG or PELL);

(b) presidential access scholarships (super PELL grants);

(c) supplemental educational opportunity grants (SEOG);

(d) state student incentives grants (SSIG);

(e) federal direct student loan programs (FDSLP) (formerly GSL and FFELP):

(i) federal direct supplemental loan program (provides loans to students);

(ii) federal direct PLUS program (provides loans to parents);

(iii) federal direct Stafford loan program;

(iv) federal consolidated loan program;

(f) direct loans to students in institutions of higher education (Perkins loans, formerly NDSL);

(g) federal work study funds (not all federal work study funds come under Title IV of the Higher Education Act);

(h) TRIO grants (to organizations or institutions for students from disadvantaged backgrounds):

(i) upward bound (some stipends go to students);

(i) student support services;

(ii) Robert E. McNair post/baccalaureate achievement;

(iii) Robert C. Byrd honors scholarship program.

(j) college assistance migrant program (CAMP) for students whose families are engaged in migrant and seasonal farm work;

(k) high school equivalency program (HEP);

(l) national early intervention scholarship and partnership program.

(3) There is only one BIA student assistance program per se. It is the higher education grant program, which is sometimes called the scholarship grant program. Education or training assistance received under any BIA program must be excluded. There is an adult education program providing money to adults to get a GED, attend technical schools, and to receive job training. There is also an employment assistance program. In addition, education and training may be made available under separate programs like the Indian child and family programs. Each tribe has a BIA agency that may be contacted for more information about education and training assistance.

(4) Section 480(b) of Title IV provides that the changes made in part F of Title IV of the Act by the amendment made by this section shall apply with respect to determinations of need under such part F for award years beginning on or after July 1, 1993.

which a state or local agency has contracted for the preparation and delivery of meals at concessional prices to elderly individuals and their spouses, and to the physically or mentally handicapped and individuals otherwise disabled, and their spouses, such that they are unable to adequately prepare all of their meals.

(3) Addicts and alcoholics in treatment programs: Members of eligible households who are narcotics addicts or alcoholics who regularly participate in a drug or alcoholic treatment and rehabilitation program may use their SNAP benefits to purchase meals prepared for them during the course of such programs by a nonprofit organization or institution or a publicly operated community mental health center which is authorized by FNS to redeem SNAP benefits.

(4) Residents in group living arrangements: Eligible residents of a group living arrangement may use their SNAP benefits to purchase meals prepared especially for them at a group living arrangement authorized by FNS to redeem SNAP benefits.

(5) Residents of shelters for battered persons: Residents of shelters for battered persons may use their SNAP benefits to purchase meals prepared specifically for them at a shelter authorized by FNS to redeem SNAP benefits.

(6) Residents of shelters for the homeless: Homeless households may use their SNAP benefits to purchase prepared meals from homeless meal providers authorized by FNS.

C. SNAP benefits as income: SNAP benefits provided to an eligible household will not to be considered income or resources for any purpose under federal, state, or local laws, including but not limited to, laws on taxation, welfare, and public assistance programs. No participating state or political subdivision may decrease any other assistance provided to an individual or individuals because such individuals receive SNAP benefits.

8.139.610.12 GENERAL (BENEFIT AMOUNT):

A. The SNAP benefit amount to be issued depends on the number of eligible members in the household and the net monthly income used to determine eligibility.

(1) The HCA uses a 30-day calendar month to determine a household's SNAP benefit amount. A household applying on the 31st of the month will be treated as if it applied on the 30th.

(2) When a household is determined eligible, the SNAP benefit amount is calculated, issuance authorization is processed that night, and SNAP benefits are issued the following work day.

B. Maximum SNAP allotments:

(1) The maximum SNAP allotment shall be based on the thrifty food plan (TFP). TFP means the diet required to feed a family of four persons consisting of a man and a woman 20 through 50, a child six through eight, and a child nine through 11 years of age, determined in accordance with USDA calculations. The cost of such diet shall be the basis for uniform allotments for all households regardless of their actual composition. In order to develop maximum SNAP allotments, USDA shall make household size and other adjustments in the thrifty food plan taking into account economies of scale and other adjustments as required by law. The TFP amounts and maximum allotments are adjusted annually.

(2) Except when SNAP benefits are prorated and when reductions are made at the national level, a household's monthly SNAP benefit amount is equal to the maximum SNAP allotment for the household's size reduced by thirty percent of its net monthly income.

(3) The maximum SNAP allotment can be calculated by multiplying a household's net income by thirty percent, rounding the result up to the next whole dollar, and subtracting that amount from the TFP for the appropriate household size (https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information).

C. Initial month: A household's SNAP benefit amount for the initial month of certification will be based on the day of the month the household applies for SNAP benefits. The household receives SNAP benefits from the date of application to the end of the month, unless the applicant household consists of residents of a public institution.

(1) Applying from institutions: For households applying for SSI and SNAP benefits before release from an institution, the SNAP benefit amount for the initial month of certification will be based on the date of the month the household is released from the institution. The household will receive SNAP benefits from the date of the household's release from the institution to the end of the month.

(2) Benefits less than ten dollars ($10): If the initial month's calculations yield a SNAP benefit amount of less than ten dollars ($10), then no issuance will be made for the initial month. For households entitled to no SNAP benefits in the initial month, but eligible in subsequent months, ISD shall certify a household beginning with the month of application.

D. Minimum benefit amount:

(1) Except during an initial month, all eligible one- and two-person households, including categorically eligible households, will receive a minimum monthly SNAP benefit amount.

(2) Determination: Minimum amounts are determined by federal guidelines and may be adjusted each year. All eligible one and two person households, including categorically eligible households, will receive the minimum monthly SNAP benefit amount, which can be found at https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information.

(3) All eligible households with three or more members which are entitled to no benefits (except because of the proration requirements and the provision precluding issuances of less than ten dollars ($10) in an initial month as per Paragraph (2) of Subsection C of 8.139.610.12 NMAC), ISD shall deny the household's application on the grounds that its net income exceeds the level at which benefits are issued.

[8.139.610.12 NMAC - Rp 8.139.610.12 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.610.13 CALCULATING THE BENEFIT AMOUNT:

A household's net income is used to determine its SNAP benefit amount. The net income is the gross amount less allowable deductions. To determine the household's net income:

A. The gross monthly income earned by all household members is added to the total monthly unearned income of all household members, less income exclusions, to determine the household's total gross income. The household must qualify at the gross income calculation.

B. The total gross monthly earned income is multiplied by twenty percent; the result is subtracted from the total gross earned income; add the result to the total monthly unearned income; or multiply the total gross monthly earned income by eighty percent and add the result to the total monthly unearned income.

C. Subtract the standard deduction.

D. If the household is entitled to an excess medical deduction, determine if total medical expenses exceed $35. If so, subtract the amount which exceeds thirty five dollars ($35).

E. Subtract the child support deduction as determined by Paragraph (2) of Subsection G of 8.139.520.11 NMAC.

F. Subtract allowable monthly dependent care expenses, if any, up to the maximum amount per dependent; if the household has no shelter expenses, the net income has been determined at this point; go to step J.

G. If the household has shelter expenses, divide the result in Subsection F by two.

H. Determine if the household is entitled to an excess shelter expense deduction as follows:

(1) For households not entitled to uncapped shelter:

(a) total the allowable shelter expenses;

(b) subtract from the total shelter expenses fifty percent of the household’s monthly income after all other deductions have been subtracted, i.e., the result in Subsection G;

(c) the remaining amount is the excess shelter expense; compare this amount to the current excess shelter deduction limit as found at https://www.fns.usda.gov/snap/cost-living-adjustment-cola-information;

(d) subtract the current excess shelter deduction amount or the result in Subparagraph (c), whichever is less, from the household's monthly income determined in Subsection F; the household's net income has been determined; go to step I.

(2) For households entitled to uncapped shelter: Households containing an elderly or disabled member are entitled to an uncapped shelter expense deduction. Such households have the full amount of the shelter expense exceeding fifty percent of the households net income subtracted. To determine the net income for a household entitled to an uncapped shelter expense deduction, complete steps A through G as described above, and then:

(a) total the allowable shelter expenses;

(b) subtract from the total shelter expenses fifty percent of the household's monthly income after all other deductions have been have been subtracted (the result in Subsection G); the remaining amount is the excess shelter expense;

(c) subtract the amount in Subparagraph (b) from the monthly income amount determined in Subsection F; the household's net income has been determined; go to step I.

I. Round each income calculation to the nearest dollar ($0.01 through $0.49 round down; $0.50 through $0.99 round up).

J. Multiply the household's net income by thirty percent; round the cents up to the nearest dollar, and subtract that amount from the maximum SNAP benefit amount for the household's size. The SNAP benefit amount for the household is determined.

8.139.610.14 REPLACEMENT OF BENEFITS:

A. Conditions for replacement: Subject to certain restrictions, households may be authorized a replacement issuance when the household reports the food purchased with SNAP benefits was destroyed in a household misfortune or natural disaster. The loss must be reported within ten calendar days of the day the food purchased with SNAP benefits was destroyed. The loss is ineligible for replacement if the loss is not reported timely.

(1) Replacing benefits: Subject to certain restrictions, households may be authorized a replacement issuance of SNAP benefits when the household reports that food purchased with the SNAP benefits was destroyed in a household misfortune or natural disaster.

(2) Reporting the loss: The loss of food purchased with SNAP benefits must be reported in a timely manner by the household. The report will be considered timely if the loss is reported within 10 days of the date the food purchased with SNAP benefits is destroyed in household misfortune or natural disaster.

(3) Ineligible for replacement: Food purchased with SNAP benefits will not be replaced if:

(a) the household reports that the food purchased with SNAP benefits was destroyed after receipt in an event other than a household misfortune or natural disaster; or

(b) the loss was not timely reported by the household.

(4) Household responsibilities: To qualify for a replacement, the household must:

(a) report the loss in a timely manner, either orally or in writing; and

(b) sign an affidavit or statement attesting to the loss of the household's food purchased with SNAP benefits.

(5) HCA responsibilities: HCA shall issue the replacement SNAP benefit amount if warranted, within 10 days after the report of loss, or within two working days of the date that HCA receives the signed affidavit or statement, whichever is later. Replacement of SNAP benefits will be delayed until a determination of the value of the benefits can be made.

(6) Affidavits: If a signed affidavit is not received by ISD within 10 days of the date the loss is reported, there will be no replacement. If the 10th day falls on a weekend or holiday, the deadline is the day after the weekend or holiday. The affidavit is retained in the client electronic case record. It attests to the destruction of food purchased with the original issuance and specifies the reason for the replacement. It shall also state that the household is aware of the penalties for intentional misrepresentation of the facts, including but not limited to, a charge of perjury for a false claim.

(7) Authorization: There will be no limit on the number of replacements a household may be authorized for food purchased with SNAP benefits which was destroyed in a household misfortune or natural disaster.

(8) Verification of conditions for replacement: Before replacing destroyed food purchased with SNAP benefits, ISD shall determine that the destruction occurred in a household misfortune or natural disaster, such as a fire, as well as in natural disasters affecting more than one household. This is verified through one of the following:

(a) collateral contacts; or

(b) documentation from a community agency such as but not limited to, the fire department or the red cross; or

(c) a home visit; or

(d) FNS has issued a disaster declaration and a household is eligible for emergency SNAP benefits; a household cannot receive both the disaster SNAP benefit and a replacement benefit for a household misfortune or natural disaster.

B. Calculation of replacement: A replacement of the actual value of the loss not to exceed one month's SNAP benefit amount may be issued if food purchased with SNAP benefits is destroyed in a household misfortune or natural disaster affecting a participating household. HCA will provide a replacement issuance within 10 days of a reported loss.

C. Fair hearings: A household must be informed of its right to a fair hearing to contest denial of a replacement issuance. Replacements will not be authorized during the appeal process. A replacement is authorized if the appeal is decided in favor of the household.

8.139.610.15 NATIONAL REDUCTION OR SUSPENSION:

If funding for SNAP is depleted, Section 18 of the Food Stamp Act of 1977, as amended, provides for reduction, suspension or cancellation of SNAP benefits for one or more months, or a combination of these three actions.

A. Reduction:

(1) If a reduction in SNAP allotments is deemed necessary, the maximum SNAP allotments amounts for all household sizes is reduced by a percentage specified by FNS. The maximum SNAP allotments amounts for each household size are reduced by the same percentage. This results in all households of a given size having their benefits reduced by the same dollar amount. The dollar reduction is smallest for a one-person household and greatest for the largest households. Since the dollar amount is the same for all households of the same size, the rate of reduction is lowest for zero net income households and greatest for the highest net income households.

(2) All one- and two-person households affected by a reduction action are guaranteed a minimum monthly SNAP benefit, unless the action is a cancellation of SNAP benefits, suspension of SNAP benefits, or reduction in SNAP benefits of ninety percent or more of the total amount of benefits projected to be issued in the affected month. The benefit reduction notice issued by USDA specifies whether the minimum SNAP benefit amount will be provided.

(3) SNAP benefits shall also be able to be adjusted to provide for the rounding of benefit levels of one dollar ($1.00), three dollars ($3.00) and five dollars ($5.00) to two dollars ($2.00), four dollars ($4.00) and six dollars ($6.00), respectively.

B. Suspension or cancellation:

(1) If a decision is made to suspend or cancel the distribution of SNAP benefits in a given month, FNS shall notify HCA of the date the suspension or cancellation will take effect. If SNAP benefits are suspended or cancelled, the minimum benefit provision for one- and two-person households is disregarded and all households will have their benefits suspended or cancelled.

(2) Resumption of benefits: Upon notification by FNS that a benefit suspension has ended, HCA shall act immediately to resume benefit issuance to certified households.

C. Notices: SNAP benefit reductions, suspensions, and cancellations are considered a federal adjustment to SNAP benefits. HCA shall notify all households of benefit reductions, suspensions, or cancellations in accordance with adequate notice provisions in Subsection A of 8.139.120.13 NMAC. HCA shall not provide an adverse action notice to a household affected by a benefit reduction, suspension, or cancellation.

D. Effect of reduction on certification:

(1) Normal processing: Eligibility determination for applicant households under normal (non-expedited) processing will not be affected by a benefit reduction, suspension, or cancellation. HCA shall accept and process applications during a month(s) in which a reduction, suspension, or cancellation is in effect in accordance with 8.139.110.12 NMAC, application processing. The determination of eligibility will also be made according to these provisions. If an applicant household is determined eligible for SNAP benefits and a reduction is in effect, the benefit amount is calculated by reducing the maximum SNAP allotments amount by the appropriate percentage for the applicant's household size and then deducting thirty percent of the household's net SNAP income from the reduced maximum SNAP allotments amount. If an applicant household is determined eligible for SNAP benefits while a suspension or cancellation is in effect, no benefits will be issued to the household until issuance is again authorized by FNS.

(2) Expedited service: Expedited processing continues during the months in which reductions, suspensions or cancellations are in effect.

(a) `Reductions: Households receiving expedited service in months in which reductions are in effect and that are determined eligible will be issued reduced benefits. The reduced SNAP benefit amount will be made available within the time frame specified for expedited issuance.

(b) Suspension: Households receiving expedited service in months in which a suspension is in effect and that are determined eligible will have a benefit determination made within the time frames for expedited issuance. If a suspension remains in effect at the time issuance is authorized, the issuance will be suspended until FNS lifts the suspension.

(c) Cancellations: Households eligible for expedited processing which apply for SNAP benefits during months in which cancellations are in effect will receive expedited service. The deadline for completing the processing is five calendar days or the end of the month of application, whichever date is later. All other rules for providing expedited service are applicable.

(3) Certification periods: The reduction, suspension, or cancellation of SNAP benefits in a given month will have no effect on the certification period assigned to a household. Those households with certification period expiring during a month in which SNAP benefits have been reduced, suspended or cancelled will be recertified and have a new certification period assigned.

E. Fair hearings: Any household that has its SNAP benefit amount reduced, suspended or cancelled as a result of an order issued by FNS may request a fair hearing if the household disagrees with the action. The fair hearing process is subject to the following conditions:

(1) Basis for fair hearings: HCA is not required to hold fair hearings unless the request is based on a household's belief that the SNAP benefit amount was computed incorrectly under suspension, reduction, or cancellation rules or that such rules were applied or interpreted incorrectly. HCA shall deny a fair hearing to a household that is merely disputing the fact that a reduction, suspension, or cancellation was ordered.

(2) Continuation of benefits pending fair hearing: Since the reduction, suspension, or cancellation is necessary to avoid an expenditure of funds beyond those appropriated by congress, households do not have a right to continuation of SNAP benefits pending a fair hearing.

(3) Retroactive benefits: A household will receive retroactive SNAP benefits in an appropriate amount if it is found that its SNAP benefits were reduced by more than the amount by which HCA was directed to reduce SNAP benefits.

F. Restoration of benefits:

(1) HCA shall have issuance services available to serve households receiving restored or retroactive SNAP benefits for a previous, unaffected month if benefit reduction, suspension or cancellation has been ordered.

(2) Households whose SNAP benefits are reduced, suspended or cancelled as a result of these procedures will not be entitled to restoration of lost benefits at a future date. However, if there is a surplus of funds as a result of the reduction or cancellation, FNS will direct HCA to restore benefits to affected households, unless the secretary of agriculture determines that the amount of surplus funds is too small for this to be practical.

(3) HCA shall design procedures to implement the restoration of SNAP benefits promptly if FNS directs the restoration of benefits.

In addition, current policy citations were rewritten for clarification purposes or were simply reformatted. Issuance of the revised policy manual incorporated a new format which is the same in all income support division policy manuals. A new numbering system was designated so that similar topics in different programs carry the same number. The revised format and numbering standards were designed to create continuity among ISD programs and to facilitate access to policy throughout the HCA.

8.139.647.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.139.647.8 ADMINISTRATIVE DISQUALIFICATION PROCEDURES:

A. Administrative responsibility: The HCA will be responsible for investigating any case of alleged intentional program violation (IPV), and ensuring that appropriate cases are acted upon either through administrative disqualification hearings (ADH) or referral to a court of appropriate jurisdiction. Administrative disqualification procedures or referrals for prosecution should be initiated by the HCA in cases in which the HCA has sufficient documentary evidence to substantiate that an individual has committed one or more acts of intentional program violation. A recommendation to pursue administrative disqualification of an individual is made by the office of the inspector general (OIG) upon review of documentary evidence submitted by the county office. If the HCA does not initiate administrative disqualification procedures or refer for prosecution a case involving an over-issuance caused by a suspected act of IPV, the HCA will take action to collect the over-issuance by establishing an inadvertent household error claim against a household in accordance with the procedures in Subsection B of 8.139.640.9 NMAC and Subsection A of 8.139.640.10 NMAC.

(1) Initiating hearings: The HCA should conduct administrative disqualification hearings in the following situations:

(a) in cases in which the HCA believes the facts of the individual case do not warrant civil or criminal prosecution through the appropriate court system;

(b) in cases previously referred for prosecution that were declined by the appropriate legal authority, and

(c) in previously referred cases where no action was taken within a reasonable period of time and the referral was formally withdrawn by the HCA.

(2) When a hearing is not initiated: The HCA will not initiate an administrative disqualification hearing against an accused individual whose case is currently being referred for prosecution or subsequent to any action taken against the accused individual by the prosecutor or court of appropriate jurisdiction, if the factual issues of the case arise out of the same, or related circumstances.

(3) Household eligibility: The HCA may initiate administrative disqualification procedures or refer a case for prosecution regardless of the current eligibility of an individual.

(4) Determination of administrative disqualification:

(a) The HCA will base administrative disqualifications for IPV on the determinations of hearing authorities arrived at through administrative disqualification hearings, or on determinations reached by courts of appropriate jurisdiction.

(b) The HCA has the option of allowing accused individuals either to waive their rights to administrative disqualification hearings or to sign disqualification consent agreements for cases of deferred adjudication. If the HCA chooses either of these options, the administrative disqualification for IPV may be based on the waived right to an administrative disqualification hearing or on the signed disqualification consent agreement in cases of deferred adjudication.

B. Disqualification penalties:

(1) Individuals found to have committed an intentional program violation (IPV) either through an administrative disqualification hearing or by a federal, state, or local court, or who have signed either a waiver of right to an administrative disqualification hearing or a disqualification consent agreement in cases referred for prosecution, will be ineligible to participate in the food stamp program as follows:

(a) for a period of six months for the first IPV; or for a period of one year for the first IPV if the offense occurred after August 22, 1996;

(b) for a period of one year for the second IPV; or for a period of two years for the second IPV if the offense occurred after August 22, 1996;

(c) permanently for the third finding of an IPV.

(d) one or more intentional program violations which occurred prior to the implementation of the disqualification periods specified above will be considered as only one previous disqualification when determining the appropriate penalty to impose in a case under consideration.

(2) Sale of controlled substances: Individuals found by a federal, state or local court to have used or received food stamp benefits in a transaction involving the sale of a controlled substance (as defined in Sec. 102 of the Controlled Substances Act [21 USC 802]) will be ineligible to participate in the food stamp program:

(a) for a period of one year upon the first occasion of such violation; or for two years upon the first occasion of such violation if the offense occurred after August 22, 1996; and

(b) permanently upon the second occasion of such violation.

(3) Permanent disqualification from participation in FSP:

(a) Individuals found by a federal, state or local court to have used or received food stamp benefits in a transaction involving the sale of firearms, ammunition, or explosives will be permanently ineligible to participate in the FSP upon the first occasion of such violation.

(b) Individuals convicted in federal or state court of trafficking food stamp benefits with a value of $500 or more, for an offense which occurred after August 22, 1996.

(c) The penalties above will also apply in cases of deferred adjudication described in Subsection D of 8.139.647.11 NMAC, where the court makes a finding that the individual engaged in the conduct described above. Regardless of when an action taken by an individual which caused an IPV occurred, the disqualification periods above will apply to any case in which the court makes the requisite finding on or after September 1, 1994.

(4) Dual participation in the FSP: An individual will be ineligible to participate in the FSP as a member of any household for a period of 10 years upon a finding of IPV, or conviction in federal or state court, for having made a fraudulent statement or representation with respect to the identity or place of residence of the individual in order to receive multiple benefits simultaneously in the FSP. The provision applies only to an offense which occurred after August 22, 1996.

(5) Court failure to impose disqualification: If a court fails to impose a disqualification period for the IPV, HCA will impose the disqualification penalties specified above, unless it is contrary to the court order.

(6) Disqualifying the individual: HCA will disqualify only the individual found to have committed intentional program violation, or who has signed the waiver of right to an administrative disqualification hearing or disqualification consent agreement in cases referred for prosecution, and not the entire household.

(7) Restitution by remaining household members: The remaining household members must agree to make restitution within 30 days of the date the HCA's written demand letter is mailed, or the household’s monthly food stamp benefit amount will be reduced.

(a) If the remaining household members agree to make restitution but fail to do so, the HCA will impose a benefit reduction on the household's monthly benefit amount.

(b) The remaining household members, if any, will begin restitution during the period of disqualification imposed by the HCA or a court of law.

(c) All restitutions will be made in accordance with established procedures for cash repayment, benefit reduction, or coupons for repayment. See 8.139.640.11 NMAC for procedures on claims collection.

C. Notification to applicant households: The HCA will inform a household in writing of the disqualification penalties for intentional program violation each time a household applies for Program benefits.

D. Definition of IPV: For purposes of determining through administrative disqualification hearings whether or not an individual has committed an intentional program violation, an IPV will consist of having intentionally:

(1) made a false or misleading statement, or misrepresented, concealed or withheld facts; or

(2) committed any act that constitutes a violation of the Food Stamp Act, food stamp program regulations, or any state statute relating to the use, presentation, transfer, acquisition, receipt, or possession of food stamp benefits.

[8.139.647.8 NMAC - Rp 8.139.647.8 NMAC, 7/16/2024]

8.139.647.9 DISQUALIFICATION HEARINGS:

The HCA will publish clearly written rules of procedure for disqualification hearings, and will make these procedures available to any interested party.

A. HCA conducted hearings: When the HCA has sufficient documentary evidence indicating that an individual may have committed an intentional program violation (IPV), action will be taken to conduct an administrative disqualification hearing.

(1) Consolidation of ADH with fair hearing: An administrative disqualification hearing and a fair hearing may be combined into a single hearing if the factual issues arise out of the same or related, circumstances and the household receives prior notice that the hearing will be combined.

(a) Time frames: If a disqualification hearing and fair hearing are combined, the HCA will follow the time frames for conducting disqualification hearings.

(b) Claims and IPV determination: If the hearings are combined for the purpose of settling the amount of the claim at the same time as determining whether or not intentional program violation has occurred, the household will lose its right to a subsequent fair hearing on the amount of the claim.

(c) Waiving the 30-day advance notice: The HCA will allow, upon household request, a household to waive the required 30-day advance notice of hearing when the disqualification hearing and fair hearing are combined.

(2) Administrative disqualification hearing procedures:

(a) Hearing officers: The HCA may use the same hearing official for disqualification hearings and fair hearings or may designate hearing officials to conduct only disqualification hearings.

(b) Advising household or representative: At the disqualification hearing the hearing official will advise the household member or representative that they may refuse to answer questions during the hearing.

(c) Time limits for decision: Within 90 days of the date the household member is notified in writing that the hearing has been scheduled the HCA will conduct the hearing, arrive at a decision, and notify the household member and local agency of the decision.

(d) Postponing the scheduled hearing: The household member or representative is entitled to a postponement of the scheduled hearing provided that the request for postponement is made at least 10 days in advance of the date of the scheduled hearing. The hearing will not be postponed for more than a total of 30 days and the HCA may limit the number of postponements to one. If the hearing is postponed the time limits above may be extended for as many days as the hearing is postponed.

(3) Advance notice of hearing: The HCA will provide written notice to a household member suspected of intentional program violation at least 30 days in advance of the date a disqualification hearing which is initiated by HCA has been scheduled.

(a) If mailed, the notice will be sent either first class mail or certified mail-return receipt requested. The notice may also be provided by any other reliable method. If no proof of receipt is obtained, a showing of non-receipt by the household member will be considered good cause for not appearing at the hearing.

(b) The notice will contain, at a minimum:

(i) the date, time and place of the hearing;

(ii) the charge(s) against the household member;

(iii) a summary of the evidence, and how and where the evidence can be examined;

(iv) a warning that the decision will be based solely on information provided by the county office if the household member fails to appear at the hearing;

(v) a statement that the household member or representative will have 10 days from the date of the scheduled hearing to present good cause for failure to appear in order to receive a new hearing;

(vi) a warning that a determination of IPV will result in disqualification periods as determined by 8.139.647.8 NMAC; and a statement of which penalty HCA believes is applicable to the case scheduled for a hearing;

(vii) a listing of the household's member's rights;

(viii) a statement that the hearing does not preclude the state or federal government from prosecuting the household member for IPV in civil or criminal court action, or from collecting the over-issuance;

(ix) the name of an individual or organization, if any, that provides free legal representation;

(x) the date that the signed waiver must be received by the hearing official to avoid holding the hearing;

(xi) a statement of the accused individual's right to remain silent concerning the charge(s), and that anything said or signed by the individual concerning the charge(s) can be used against him/her in a court of law;

(xii) the telephone number and, if possible, the name of the person to contact for additional information; and

(xiii) the fact that the remaining household members, if any, will be held responsible for repayment of the resulting claim.

(4) Scheduling the hearing: The time and place of the hearing will be arranged so that the hearing is accessible to the household member suspected of IPV.

(5) Failure to appear: If the household member or representative cannot be located or fails to appear at a hearing initiated by the HCA without good cause, the hearing will be conducted without the household member being represented. Even if the household member is not represented, the hearing official is required to carefully consider the evidence and determine if intentional program violation was committed based on clear and convincing evidence. If the household member is found to have committed intentional program violation but a hearing official later determines that the household member or representative had good cause for not appearing, the previous decision shall no longer remain valid and the HCA will conduct an new hearing. The household member has 10 days from the date of the scheduled hearing to present reasons indicating a good cause for failure to appear. The good cause decision will be documented into the case record.

(6) Participation while awaiting a hearing: A pending disqualification hearing will not affect the individual's or household's right to be certified and participate the food stamp program. Since a household member cannot be disqualified for IPV until a hearing official finds that individual has committed IPV, the HCA will determine eligibility and benefit amount of the household in the same manner it would be determined for any other household. Household benefits will be terminated if the certification period has expired and the household, after receiving its notice of expiration, fails to reapply. The household benefits will be reduced or terminated if the HCA has documentation which substantiates that the household is ineligible or eligible for fewer benefits, even if these facts led to the suspicion of intentional program violation and resulting disqualification hearing, and the household fails to request a fair hearing and continuation of benefits pending the hearing. For example, the HCA may have documentation which substantiates that a household failed to report a change in circumstances even though the HCA has not yet demonstrated that the failure to report involved an act of intentional program violation.

(7) Criteria for determining IPV: The hearing officer will base the determination of IPV on clear and convincing evidence which demonstrates that the household member(s) committed, and intended to commit, intentional program violation as defined in Subsection D of 8.139.647.8 NMAC.

(8) Imposition of disqualification penalties:

(a) Beginning the disqualification: The period of disqualification will begin with the first month which follows the date the household member receives written notification of the disqualification. If the act of IPV which led to the disqualification occurred prior to the disqualification periods specified in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC, the household member will be disqualified in accordance with the disqualification periods in effect at the time of the offense.

(b) No further appeal: No further administrative appeal procedure exists after an ADH conducted by the HCA. The determination of IPV made by a hearing officer cannot be reversed by a subsequent fair hearing decision. The household member, however, is entitled to seek relief in a court having appropriate jurisdiction. The period of disqualification may be subject to stay by a court of appropriate jurisdiction or other injunctive remedy.

(c) Ineligibility at disqualification: If the individual is not certified to participate in the food stamp program at the time the disqualification period is to begin, the disqualification penalty will be imposed immediately upon a determination of IPV, as though the individual was a participant in the FSP.

(d) Disqualification period continues: Once a disqualification penalty has been imposed against a currently participating household member, the period of disqualification will continue uninterrupted until completed, regardless of the eligibility of the disqualified member's household. The disqualified member's household will continue to be responsible for repayment of the over-issuance which resulted from the disqualified member's intentional program violation, regardless of the household's eligibility for food stamp benefits.

(9) Notification of disqualification: If the hearing officer finds that the household member committed IPV, HCA will provide written notice to a household member prior to disqualification.

(a) The notice will inform the household member of the decision; the reason for the decision; and the date the disqualification penalty begins and ends.

(b) Written notice will also be provided to any remaining household members of the benefit amount they will receive during the period of disqualification or that they must reapply because the certification period has expired. A written demand letter for restitution will also be provided.

B. Waived hearings: The HCA will provide written notification to the household member suspected of intentional program violation that the member can waive their right to an administrative disqualification hearing. Prior to providing written notification to the household member, the evidence must be reviewed by the office of inspector general (OIG). OIG must have made a determination that such evidence warrants scheduling a disqualification hearing.

(1) Contents of written notice: The written notification provided to the household member will include, at a minimum:

(a) The date that the signed waiver must be received by the HCA to avoid the holding of a hearing and a signature block for the accused individual along with a statement that the head of household must also sign the waiver if the accused individual is not the head of household, with an appropriately designated signature block;

(b) A statement of the accused individual's right to remain silent concerning the charge(s), and that anything said or signed by the individual concerning the charge(s) can be used against him/her in a court of law;

(c) The fact that a waiver of the disqualification hearing will result in disqualification and a reduction in benefits for the period of disqualification, even if the accused individual does not admit to the facts as presented by the HCA;

(d) An opportunity for the accused individual to specify whether or not they admit to the facts as presented by the HCA. This opportunity will consist of the following statements:

(i) "I admit to the facts as presented, and understand that a disqualification penalty will be imposed if I sign this waiver;" and

(ii) "I do not admit that the facts as presented are correct; however, I have chosen to sign this waiver and understand that a disqualification penalty will result."

(e) The telephone number and if possible the name of the individual to contact for additional information;

(f) The fact that the remaining household members if any will be held responsible for repayment of the resulting claim.

(2) Imposition of disqualification penalties: If the household member suspected of IPV signs the waiver of right to an ADH and the signed waiver is received within the time frames specified by the HCA, the household member will be disqualified in accordance with the disqualification periods in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC above.

(a) Beginning the disqualification: The period of disqualification will begin with the first month following the date the household member receives written notification of the disqualification. If the act of IPV which led to the disqualification occurred prior to the written notification of the disqualifications specified in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC, the household member will be disqualified in accordance with the disqualification period in effect at the time of the offense. The same act of IPV repeated over a period of time will not be separated so that separate penalties can be imposed.

(b) No further appeal: No further administrative appeal procedure exists after an individual waives their right to an administrative disqualification hearing and a disqualification penalty has been imposed. The disqualification penalty cannot be changed by a subsequent fair hearing decision. The household member is entitled to seek relief in a court having appropriate jurisdiction. The period of disqualification may be subject to stay by a court of appropriate jurisdiction or other injunctive remedy.

(c) Ineligibility at disqualification: If the individual is not certified to participate in the program at the time the disqualification period is to begin, the disqualification penalty will be imposed immediately upon a determination of an IPV, as though the individual was a participant in the FSP.

(d) Disqualification continues: Once a disqualification penalty has been imposed against a currently participating household member, the period of disqualification will continue uninterrupted until completed regardless of the eligibility of the disqualified members household. The disqualified member's household will continue to be responsible for repayment of the over-issuance which resulted from the disqualified member's IPV regardless of the household's eligibility for program benefits.

(3) Written notification: Written notice will be provided to the household member prior to disqualification. Written notice will also be provided to any remaining household members of the allotment they will receive during the period of disqualification or that the household must reapply because the certification period has expired. A written demand letter for restitution, will also be provided.

C. Court referrals: The HCA will refer cases of alleged IPV for prosecution in accordance with an agreement with prosecutors or state law. The agreement will include the understanding that prosecution will be pursued in cases where appropriate. The agreement will also include information on how and under what circumstances cases will be accepted for possible prosecution and any other criteria set by the prosecutor for accepting cases for prosecution. The HCA is encouraged to refer for prosecution under state or local statutes those individuals suspected of committing IPV, particularly if large amounts of food stamp benefits are suspected of having been obtained by IPV, or the individual is suspected of committing more than one act of IPV.

(1) Imposition of disqualification penalties: The HCA will disqualify an individual found guilty of IPV for the length of time specified by the court. If the court fails to impose a disqualification period, the HCA will impose a disqualification period in accordance with the provisions in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC, unless contrary to the court order. If disqualification is ordered but a date for initiating the disqualification period is not specified, the HCA will initiate the disqualification period for currently eligible individuals within 45 days of the date the disqualification was ordered. Any other court-imposed disqualification will begin within 45 days of the date the court found a currently eligible individual guilty of civil or criminal misrepresentation or fraud.

(2) Beginning the disqualification: If the individual is not certified to participate in the program at the time the disqualification period is to begin, the disqualification penalty will be imposed immediately upon a determination of IPV, as though the individual was a participant in the FSP.

(3) Disqualification continues: Once a disqualification penalty has been imposed against a currently participating household member, the period of disqualification will continue uninterrupted until completed regardless of the eligibility of the disqualified member's household. The disqualified member's household will continue to be responsible for repayment of the over-issuance which resulted from the disqualified members IPV regardless of the household's eligibility for program benefits.

(4) Notification of disqualification: If the court finds that the household member committed IPV the HCA will provide written notice to the household member. The notice will be provided prior to disqualification, whenever possible. The notice will inform the household member of the disqualification and the date the disqualification will take effect. The HCA will provide written notice to the remaining household members, if any, of the benefit amount they will receive during the period of disqualification or that they must reapply because the certification period has expired. The HCA will provide a written demand letter for restitution.

D. Deferred adjudication: The HCA may allow individuals to sign disqualification consent agreements in cases referred for prosecution. The HCA may use this option for those cases in which a determination of guilt is not obtained from a court due to the accused individual having met the terms of a court order or which are not prosecuted due to the accused individual having met the terms of an agreement with the prosecutor.

(1) Advance notification:

(a) The HCA will enter into an agreement with the state's attorney general's office or where necessary, with county prosecutors which provides for advance written notification to the household member of the consequences of consenting to disqualification in cases of deferred adjudication.

(b) The written notification provided to the household member which informs him/her of the consequences of consenting to disqualification as a part of deferred adjudication will include, at a minimum:

(i) a statement for the accused individual to sign that the accused understands the consequences of consenting to disqualification, along with a statement that the head of household must also sign the consent agreement if the accused individual is not the head of household, with an appropriately designated signature block;

(ii) a statement that consenting to disqualification will result in disqualification and a reduction in benefits for the period of disqualification, even though the accused individual was not found guilty of civil or criminal misrepresentation or fraud;

(iii) a warning that the disqualification periods for IPV under the food stamp program are as specified in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC, and a statement of which penalty will be imposed as a result of the accused individual having consented to disqualification;

(iv) a statement of the fact that the remaining household members, if any will be held responsible for repayment of the resulting claim, unless the accused individual has already repaid the claim as a result of meeting the terms of the agreement with the prosecutor or the court order.

(2) Imposition of disqualification penalties: If the household member suspected of IPV signs the disqualification consent agreement, the household member will be disqualified in accordance with the disqualification periods specified in Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC, unless contrary to the court order. The disqualification period will begin within 45 days of the date the household member signed the disqualification consent agreement. However, if the court imposes a disqualification period or specifies the date for initiating the disqualification period, the HCA will disqualify the household member in accordance with the court order.

(3) Beginning the disqualification: If the individual is not certified to participate in the program at the time the disqualification period is to begin, the disqualification penalty will be imposed immediately upon a determination of IPV, as if the individual was a participant in the FSP.

(4) Disqualification continues: Once a disqualification penalty has been imposed against a currently participating household member, the disqualification period will continue uninterrupted until completed regardless of the eligibility of the disqualified member's household. The disqualified member's household will continue to be responsible for repayment of the over-issuance which resulted from the disqualified member IPV regardless of the household's eligibility for program benefits.

(5) Notification of disqualification: If the household member suspected of IPV signs the disqualification consent agreement, the HCA will provide written notice to the household member. The notice will be provided prior to disqualification whenever, possible. The notice will inform the household member of the disqualification and the date the disqualification will take effect. The HCA will also provide written notice to the remaining household members, if any, of the benefit amount the household will receive during the disqualification period or that the household must reapply because the certification period has expired. The HCA will provide a written demand letter for restitution.

E. Reporting requirements:

(1) The HCA will report to food and consumer services (FCS) information concerning individuals disqualified for IPV based on the determination of an administrative disqualification hearing official or a court of appropriate jurisdiction, and those individuals disqualified as a result of signing either a waiver of right to a disqualification hearing or a disqualification consent agreement in cases referred for prosecution. The information must be submitted so that it is received by FCS no later than 30 days after the effective date of the disqualification.

The HCA will submit required information on each individual disqualified for IPV through a reporting system in accordance with procedures specified by FCS. The following information concerning the individual will be reported to FSC:

(a) social security number, date of birth, full name;

(b) the type and number of the disqualification (1st, 2nd, 3rd);

(c) the state and county in which the disqualification took place;

(d) the date on which the disqualification took effect;

(e) the length of the disqualification period imposed.

(2) Availability to all state agencies: All data submitted will be available for use by any state welfare agency. The data will be used, at a minimum, for the following:

(a) to determine eligibility of individual program applicants prior to certification in cases where there is reason to believe a household member is subject to disqualification in another political jurisdiction and

(b) to ascertain the appropriate penalty to impose, based on past disqualifications in a case under consideration.

(c) Other uses: The HCA may also use the data in other ways, such as the following:

(i) to screen all program applicants prior to certification, and

(ii) to periodically match the entire list of disqualified individuals against their current caseloads.

(3) Disqualification valid in all political jurisdictions: The disqualification of an individual for IPV in one political jurisdiction will be valid in another. However, one or more intentional program violations which occurred prior to the implementation of the disqualification periods specified in Paragraph 1 of Subsection B of 8.139.647.8 NMAC will be considered as only one previous disqualification when determining the appropriate penalty to impose in a case under consideration, regardless of where the disqualification(s) took place. The HCA is required to identify any individuals disqualified for fraud prior to implementation of this rule and to submit the information required by this section on such individuals.

(4) Court reversal of the disqualification: In cases where the disqualification for IPV is reversed by a court of appropriate jurisdiction, the HCA will submit a report to purge the file of the information relating to the disqualification which was reversed. In cases where the determination of IPV is reversed by a court of appropriate jurisdiction, the HCA will reinstate the individual in the program if the household is eligible. Food stamp benefits that were lost as a result of the disqualification will be restored.

8.150.100.10 MISSION STATEMENT:

When a crisis situation is identified, the HCA is required to provide intervention to resolve the energy crisis. The processing of an application for households in a crisis situation includes, a completed application, all necessary verification required to determine eligibility and contacting the vendor to intercede on the household's behalf to resolve the crisis situation. Eligible households with insufficient funds to open an account with a utility vendor or meet the security deposit requirements of a utility vendor may also be eligible to receive a LIHEAP benefit. (4) Crisis timeliness: Households who apply for LIHEAP benefits and provide documentation that a crisis situation exists will have their application processed in a timely manner.

(a) Assistance to resolve a crisis situation will be provided by the HCA within 48 hours, excluding weekends and holidays, of the receipt of the completed application for LIHEAP.

(b) Assistance to resolve a life- threatening crisis situation will be provided by the HCA within 18 hours, excluding weekends and holidays, of the receipt of the completed application for LIHEAP.

(5) Utility/ vendor mediation: The LIHEAP benefit is intended to be a supplement to assist households with their energy bill. The ultimate responsibility for utility payments is the household's. The household will be notified that the LIHEAP benefit alone will not resolve their crisis situation. The household will be informed of other community resources.

(1) HCA responsibilities: HCA conducts outreach regarding the LIHEAP program to eligible households, and particularly elderly and disabled households, through the ISD field offices and all of the offices and suboffices of the state's community action agencies. Additional outreach efforts to elderly and disabled households are made through workshops and conferences held by the state's agency on aging.

(2) Community action agency responsibility: HCA coordinates with the community action agencies to provide information and outreach services regarding LIHEAP and other energy-related assistance programs.

C. Barrier free policy: It is HCA's policy to make the application process for these households as barrier-free as possible. This includes:

(1) paperwork reduction and not requiring reverification by the household of information already available to HCA, such as SSI status;

(2) ease of access to physical locations where application may be made;

(3) provide access to the HCA's online application; and

(4) provide additional assistance for any recipient/ applicant who requires it.

D. Annual benefit: Each eligible household will be issued one benefit each federal fiscal year. The benefit may be issued in one or multiple payments depending on the funding availability and the approval of the HCA secretary. Receipt of a LIHEAP benefit from any other LIHEAP administering entity (tribe, state or territory) funded by HHS during any federal fiscal year would prohibit the receipt of LIHEAP in New Mexico during that FFY.

E. Supplemental benefit: A supplemental benefit may be established under certain conditions at the direction of the HCA secretary. A supplemental benefit may occur when:

(1) funding levels are predicted to exceed allowable carryover of federal funds to the next federal fiscal year;

(2) emergency weather circumstances.

(1) in person at any local county income support division office;

(3) submitting an application via mail or fax to any local county income support division office.

B. Application process: In order for a determination of eligibility for regular benefits to be made for these applicant households, the household's signed application must be received by the deadline date of the application period of October 1st through September 30th for each federal fiscal year. Required verification must be received by the 30th day after the received date stamped on the LIHEAP application.

C. Application period: The period of application for benefits will be year round beginning after the application for the LIHEAP grant has been submitted to the U.S. department of health and human services, and ending September 30. The application period is October 1st through September 30th for each federal fiscal year.

8.150.110.10 DISPOSITION OF APPLICATION/NOTICE:

A. Income support division county office responsibilities: Households who complete the application process for LIHEAP benefits will be provided with a notice indicating whether they have been approved or denied. Upon acknowledgement of payment by the vendor, households will be provided with a notice indicating that they have been approved. Upon determination of ineligibility by HCA, households will be provided with a notice indicating that they have been denied. If the household fails to provide the verification required to determine eligibility, ISD may deny the application after 30 days from the date of the application.

B. LIHEAP central office responsibilities: LIHEAP central office staff will complete random reviews of LIHEAP approvals and denials. The review will verify whether LIHEAP policy was correctly applied. If an eligibility error is found or the application is incomplete, a determination will be made to identify any payment errors.

C. Notices: All households will be mailed a notice indicating whether they have been approved or denied for LIHEAP benefits. The notice indicating that an applicant has been approved will list the point calculation, point total, the benefit amount and the method of issuance. The notice indicating that an applicant has been denied will indicate the denial reason.

8.150.410.7 DEFINITIONS:

[RESERVED]

8.150.410.8 HOUSEHOLD UNIT:

For purposes of LIHEAP, a household is an individual, or group of individuals living together, who incurs a heating or cooling cost. The heating or cooling cost must be to meet residential, not business or industrial, heating or cooling needs.

[8.150.410.8 NMAC - Rp 8.150.410.8 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.150.410.9 ENERGY RESPONSIBILITY:

A. Energy cost: To be eligible for LIHEAP benefits, the household must incur an energy cost. The energy cost may be for a primary heat source, i.e., the energy source or fuel with which the household is predominantly heated, or for a secondary heat source. A secondary heat source is an energy source that is essential to the process of providing heat to the home. The energy cost may be for a cooling cost. The cooling cost may be for a primary source, i.e., evaporative cooling or refrigerated air, or secondary cooling. Secondary cooling is the use of energy to operate portable fans, ceiling fans, whole house fans, gable vent fans, or power attic vent fans.

B. Secondary heat source: Electricity to ignite a gas or steam furnace is the most common example of an allowable secondary heat source for LIHEAP purposes. Electricity used only for lighting purposes or to operate fans to distribute heat from a wood-burning stove is not considered an allowable secondary heat source for LIHEAP purposes.

C. Wood-gathering households: Households who use wood as a fuel to heat their home and gather the wood themselves are considered to have a heating responsibility. Regardless of whether a direct or indirect cost was incurred to obtain the wood the household meets this requirement.

D. Direct or indirect utility responsibility: The heating/ cooling cost may be direct in the form of a utility payment or fuel purchase, or indirect in the form of a non-subsidized rent payment which either designates or does not designate the included utility cost, or costs associated with obtaining wood for heating households.

E. Crisis intervention: To be eligible for LIHEAP regular or life-threatening crisis intervention, the household must meet the eligibility criteria for regular benefits as specified in 8.150.500.8 NMAC, must not have received a LIHEAP benefit in the current federal fiscal year and, in addition, be able to provide verification that proves the applicant household is facing a current or impending energy crisis, established with any one of the following:

(1) current notice of disconnect for the household from a utility vendor; or

(2) applicant written or verbal statement of insufficient funds for the household to open an account with a utility vendor or meet the security deposit requirements of a utility vendor; or

(3) statement from the household's fuel vendor that fuel will not be provided without payment.

(4) Life- threatening crisis intervention: The applicant must meet the above criteria for a regular crisis intervention and in addition provide a written or verbal statement advising that the household faces an emergency which poses a threat to the health or safety of one or more members of the household.

F. Community referrals: In circumstances where the household is not eligible for crisis intervention, or if a balance remains after the crisis/life threatening intervention has been provided, the household shall be informed of other resources in the community, which may be able to assist the household in meeting its energy expenses.

8.150.410.11 HOUSING TYPE:

A. Non-subsidized rent: Non-subsidized rent is defined as an obligation to pay for shelter which is entirely the responsibility of the household incurring the expense.

(1) Separate direct costs: Households paying non- subsidized rent who incur a separate heating/cooling cost are eligible for LIHEAP.

(2) Utilities included in rent: Households paying non-subsidized rent whose utility costs are included in their rent, even if no such cost is designated, are eligible for LIHEAP.

B. Subsidized rent: Subsidized rent assistance is defined as a payment for shelter, or shelter and utilities, the cost of which has been reduced due to a subsidy from a housing or other assistance program. University housing does not meet this definition and is therefore not considered subsidized housing.

(1) Separate direct costs: Households receiving subsidized rent assistance who incur a separate direct cost for heating/ cooling are eligible for LIHEAP benefits;

(2) Subsidized rent/utilities with additional separate utility cost: Households receiving subsidized rent assistance who receive a subsidy for utilities but who incur an additional out-of-pocket expense for utilities are eligible for LIHEAP;

(3) Subsidized rent with utilities included: Households receiving subsidized rent assistance whose heating/cooling cost is included in their subsidized rent and do not incur an additional out-of- pocket heating or cooling expense are not eligible for LIHEAP;

(4) Subsidized rent with rental cost: Households receiving subsidized rent assistance who pay rent but do not pay utilities are not eligible for LIHEAP; and,

(5) Subsidized rent with no cost: Households receiving subsidized rent assistance who pay no rent and no utilities are not eligible for LIHEAP;

8.150.520.8 EARNED GROSS INCOME:

A. Definitions: Earned gross income is defined as income received in the form of wages paid on a predetermined regular basis, pay received irregularly for work performed irregularly, or income resulting from self-employment activities. Income from rental property, if 20 hours or more per week are spent working as a landlord, is also countable as earned income.

B. Exclusions: The following are not counted as gross income:

(1) in-kind benefits: (i.e. good or services realized, provided or exchanged for non-monetary compensation);

(2) vendor payments: (i.e. payments made on behalf of a household to a third party);

(3) lump sum payments: see food stamp regulations on lump sum payments in 8.139.520.9 NMAC;

(4) loans;

(5) charitable contributions from nonprofit agencies to meet household expenses;

(6) earned income tax credits;

(7) value of food stamps;

(8) TANF annual clothing allowance;

(9) monies received for the care of a third party beneficiary who is not a household member; and

(10) monies excluded by federal statute, a listing of which can be found in food stamp policy citation 8.139 NMAC.

[8.150.520.8 NMAC - Rp 8.150.520.8 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.150.520.9 SELF EMPLOYMENT GROSS INCOME:

A. Definition: Ongoing self-employment income intended to support the household through the year, that is averaged over a 12 month period, even if the household earns the money in a concentrated period. Self-employment income intended to support the household only for a portion of the year must be averaged over the months it is intended to provide support.

B. Verification sources: Monthly business records detailing profits and expenses or the household’s federal income tax return are needed to annualize the household’s self-employment income.

C. Gross income calculation: For self-employment income, the net income of the business activity is considered the gross income of the household member. The net income of the business is derived by subtracting the allowable costs of doing business from the business's gross income.

D. Business expenses:

(1) Allowable costs are, generally, those required to produce the business's gross income. These include, but are not limited, to: raw materials, stock, labor, insurance premiums, interest paid on income producing property, taxes paid on income-producing property, transportation for business purposes.

(2) Costs specifically not allowed are payments on the principal of the purchase price of income-producing property, assets, equipment, or machinery, net losses from previous periods, personal income taxes, money set aside for personal expenses, transportation to and from work, charitable contributions, entertainment, and depreciation.

E. Annualizing income: From gross self-employment income, subtract allowable expenses to derive the net self-employment income. Divide the net self- employment income by 12 to produce a monthly (average) figure. This figure is the countable monthly gross income. To determine the household's total gross, this figure must be added to any other income the household receives.

[8.150.520.9 NMAC - Rp 8.150.520.9 NMAC, 7/1/2024]

8.150.520.10 GROSS INCOME OF INELIGIBLE ALIENS:

The gross income received by any ineligible non-citizen household member must be prorated and counted to establish the benefit amount.

A. Definition: If any member of the household providing income to the household is an ineligible non-citizen for TANF purposes, that member's income is not counted in its entirety but is prorated. Prorating results in excluding a portion of the ineligible non-citizen household member's income from consideration because the ineligible non-citizen is not a recipient of public assistance benefits.

B. Proration calculation: Calculate the gross income of the ineligible non-citizen and divide the total by the number of members, eligible and ineligible, in the household. The resulting figure is the pro-rata portion of the income for each member, eligible and ineligible. To determine the portion of the income to be counted, multiply the pro rata portion by the remaining number of eligible household members.
